4 MILLION 'CUT' ENDS PETRILLO RECORDING BAN

Companies Will Pay Union Royalties.

New York, Nov. 11 [Special].—James Caesar Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, scored a complete victory tonight in the "canned music" war with the signing of contracts whereby the big record companies will pay an estimated $4,000,000 annually into the union treasury.

James C. Petrillo.

Petrillo, who successfully defied both the war labor board and President Roosevelt in the course of his 28 month fight to force recording companies to pay royalties to his union, triumphantly proclaimed the new contracts as "the greatest victory for a labor organization in the history of the labor movement."

Sign—Or Quit Business.

The big record makers who capitulated tonight were RCA-Victor, Columbia Recording corporation, and the transcription division of the National Broadcasting company. They announced it was a question of signing or getting out of business, and Edward Wallerstein, president of Columbia Recording, said "we are finally accepting because of the government's unwillingness or incapacity to enforce its orders."

The companies can resume making records "as of tonight," Petrillo said. Decca Records, Inc., and 112 smaller concerns signed contracts with the union a year ago.

Petrillo began his campaign in August, 1942, with an announcement that union members would henceforth refuse to make records unless royalties were paid to a special union unemployment fund. The government sought uncuccessfully to void the record ban by anti-trust proceedings and the war labor board issued an order to Petrillo to revoke it.

Ignores WLB Directive.

Petrillo ignored the WLB directive and last month President Roosevelt made a personal appeal to the labor leader to revoke the ban for patriotic reasons. When Petrillo turned down this request, the President asked Economic Stabilization Director Vinson to search for some means of enforcing the WLB order.

With many of their exclusive contracts with artists expiring or nearing expiration, the big record companies became desperate in the last few weeks. Recently Jascha Heifetz, heretofore an exclusive RCA artist, signed a nonexclusive contract with Decca, and other artists threatened to follow suit.

Exclusive Contracts Changed.

Petrillo received word Thursday in Chicago that the big record companies were ready to give up the fight. The telephone call, from Niles Trammel, president of NBC, invited Petrillo to New York for a conference. The conference, held today, lasted five hours and, by way of rubbing in his victory, Petrillo insisted successfully on a provision freeing artists from exclusive contracts in the event of strikes.

This provision, which was not contained in contracts signed with Decca and other companies last year, means that if the AFM should call a strike against RCA, Columbia, or NBC, artists with whom these firms have personal agreements shall be free to work for other concerns having amicable relations with the federation.

"They held up our artists for 28 months," Petrillo said. "They can't do that again."

Royalty on Each Record.

The contracts call for payment to the union of fees ranging from half a cent on a record selling for 35 cents to 2 cents for a $2 record. On

Badger Back Fatally Hurt in Iowa Game

Madison, Wis., Nov. 11 [Special].—Crushed at the bottom of a pile-up of players in the fourth quarter of today's Iowa - Wisconsin football game at Camp Randall, Allen Shafer, 17, Wisconsin's 190 pound quarter back, collapsed on the gridiron and died shortly afterward of internal injuries in Wisconsin General hospital.

Allen Shafer.

Iowa had the ball on the Badger 30 yard line with the score tied, 7 to 7, when Shafer, who was backing up the line, helped stop an Iowa back and was caught under a pile of players. Walter Bakke, Wisconsin trainer, went on the field and assisted Shafer to the sidelines, where he collapsed.

When efforts to revive him failed, Shafer was removed to the hospital. Dr. Llewelyn Cole, team physician, said he had been injured internally.

Suffered Nerve Injury.

Shafer, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Shafer of Madison, had directed his team's offense thruout the game. He had missed two games early in the season because of an injury to the nerves of his neck but apparently had recovered.

The boy's father had been introduced to the crowd as part of the Dad's day program between halves. His mother is an assistant to the director of physical education.

After the game, which Wisconsin won, 26 to 7, the parents asked Dr. Clarence A. Dykstra, president of the university, "not to let this interfere with the rest of the season."

A graduate of Madison West High school, Shafer was a student in the school of engineering.

Dies of Gun Wound.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 11 (AP).—A high school student who played the clarinet in his school band was shot fatally here today as the flag was raised to begin the Louisville Manual-Ashland football game. He was William Carver, 15, of Manual, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Carver of Louisville.

Police questioned Robert Litterell, 16, another clarinet player, and said they believed the shooting was an accident, but they placed a formal charge of manslaughter against him.

They said Littrell told them he had taken a .25 caliber automatic pistol to the stadium. He put it into his belt and took it out as the flag was being raised, the police said. It was then that Carver grabbed at the gun, they explained, and a cartridge was discharged, striking him in the abdomen.

HIT BY FOOTBALL, DIES.

George Cappy, 68, of 809 W. 51st st. died yesterday in County hospital of injuries suffered Oct. 11 when he was knocked down by a football at the O'Toole playground, 51st st. and Union av.

MAJ. BONG DOWNS 35TH AND 36TH JAP PLANES OVER ORMOC

AT A LEYTE AIRBASE, PHILIPPINES, Nov. 12 [Sunday].—Maj. Richard I. Bong of Poplar, Wis., American ace of aces, ran his string to 36 today, downing two more Japanese planes above Ormoc. He said the enemy fighters encountered were among the best he has met in the war.

Bong's victories were his seventh and eighth within 31 days. He has shot down six since he arrived at this base Oct. 27. In the same dogfight today, Maj. Gerald Johnson of Eugene, Ore., bagged his 18th and 19th.

Bong and Johnson attacked seven enemy fighters as the Nipponese prepared for runs on American torpedo bombers going after Japanese shipping in Ormoc harbor. Three other pilots helped boost the score of the 49th fighter group to 555 enemy planes. Capt. G. S. Weirt, 908 Argyle st., Chicago, bagged two planes.

Mass was celebrated on parade grounds in front of a barracks which had been occupied until recently by the German garrison.

Escapes Army Jail; Steals a Plane; Flees

Selma, Ala., Nov. 11 [Special].—A former flying officer, "busted" by a general court martial and awaiting transfer to the federal penitentiary, where he had been sentenced to serve 30 years on eight charges including attempted murder, escaped from the second floor of the Craig field guardhouse here last night, stole an airplane, and fled into the dark as several cadets in training planes were making night flights near-by.

The spectacular escape was disclosed today by Craig field officials as they attempted to confirm reports that an AT-6 advanced training plane similar to that which disappeared from the field about 10:15 last night had crashed about 10 miles from New Orleans, La., today.

Loses Commission.

The former officer, Robert G. Kaslow, 20, of Johnson City, N. Y., had been held in the guardhouse since June 26, when he was convicted of violating eight articles of war, including charges of forgery, larceny, and desertion.

He was deprived of his commission, which he had received at Craig field several months ago, when his sentence was confirmed Oct. 29 by "higher headquarters."

The plane which Kaslow piloted into the night was one of several that had been warmed up and placed on the "line" for use by cadets in their night flights. It had been wheeled to the side of the field a short time earlier, however, when a cadet reported that its radio apparatus was not working.

Second Escape.

It roared from the field, without lights and without radio clearance from the control tower, a few minutes after the officer of the guard discovered Kaslow's disappearance from the guardhouse.

Kaslow's escape was his second since coming to Craig field eight months ago. When money disappeared from the officers' club early this summer, Kaslow, then a second lieutenant, was confined to his bachelor quarters under suspicion. He fled his quarters a few days later,

THE NAVY TIES THIS SAILOR'S SOCIAL LIFE INTO TERRIBLE KNOT

An East Coast Port, Nov. 11 [Special].—Sinbad's eyes were misty as the captain announced that never again would he be allowed liberty in a foreign port.

But he stood at rigid attention, as befits a member of the crew of the coast guard combat cutter Campbell with a good conduct record stretching along 310,000 miles of sea lanes—with only one slip in Sicily, where Sinbad went "over the hill."

Notice of Sinbad's absence was left with the shore patrol in the Mediterranean area and the shore patrol picked him up a week after his ship had sailed. He was brought back on a destroyer.

Happy to be back aboard his ship, he almost danced up the gangway, certain that all was forgiven. But a quartermaster logged him AWOL and Sinbad went before the mast. The sentence was:

"Under no conditions shall Sinbad be permitted liberty in any foreign port in the future."

The sentence might not mean much to any other ship's mascot, but it isn't every ship's mascot who is a dog like Sinbad, a sailor who boasts a girl friend in almost every port.

Barber Won't Cut Hair of Jap-U. S. Hero

Poston, Ariz., Nov. 11 (AP).—The war relocation authority today reported a crippled Japanese-American army private, wearing many service ribbons, had been ejected from a civilian barber shop near this WRA center because of the owner's objection to his ancestry.

Andy Hale, the barber, acknowledged he had ordered the soldier Thursday not to come in his shop but denied shoving or forcing the infantryman. The WRA said the veteran, walking with a crutch, had been shoved from the establishment.

Hale, father of three sons in military service, said a sign on the front of his Parker, Ariz., shop reads: "Japs keep out, you rat."

"I don't want none of their business," Hale asserted. "They might close me up but I sure as hell won't work on a Jap."

Hale, in answer to a question, said it made no difference to him whether the Japanese-Americans were civilians or soldiers. "They look just alike to me," he said.

Mrs. Pauline Brown, reports officer for the WRA center, said the soldier was Pvt. Raymond Matsuda, 29, former resident of Hawaii, who was shot in the knee on the Italian front July 22.

Mrs. Brown said Matsuda was wearing seven army ribbons and badges, including the combat infantryman's badge and the Purple Heart.

He served two years overseas, she reported, with the 442d regimental combat team, an outstanding unit on the Italian front.

PATTON DRAWS NOOSE TIGHTER AROUND METZ

Yank Armies Less Than 10 Mi. Apart.

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, Nov. 11 (AP).—American infantry and armor drew the arc of steel threatening to envelop Metz, one of Europe's mightiest bastions, to fully two-thirds of the way around that Nazi-held French fortress today, with less than 10 miles separating the two flanking forces.

The United States 3d army smashed ahead five miles, crossing rivers, rail lines, and highways, to tighten the noose around Metz. Lt. Gen. Patton has sent elements of at least eight divisions into the line since the drive started four days ago.

Fighter Bombers Blast Tanks.

Prongs of the two assaults swinging around Metz from both sides were driven to within five miles of the citadel on the south and to within four and one-half miles on the north. The forces in the southern drive southeast of Metz—including all or part of six divisions—continued to smash ahead, swinging far to the east and increasing the threat of complete encirclement of Metz.

In the north the 95th division captured Brieux-Chateau, one mile southeast of Maizieres-les-Metz.

American fighter bombers flew 700 sorties despite varying weather. At one point they caught more than 25 German tanks moving toward the American lines and reported the destruction of 10 and the damaging of 15.

[A German high command spokesman said, according to a Berlin broadcast, that Patton "has now engaged about two-thirds of his tank forces on the right wing" and that "here his progress is notable."]

Push on Three Miles.

At the same time, the 4th armored division pushed on three miles northeast along a rail route from captured Haboudange to the area of Conthil, only four miles from the Benestroff rail junction and nine miles northeast of Chateau-Salins.

The Americans were engaging the German 110th and 111th Panzer Grenadier regiments in the area of Gerbecourt on the eastern edge of Chateau-Salins forest. Planes combined with ground forces to inflict severe losses on the enemy.

Third army headquarters reported 57 pieces of field artillery and anti-aircraft guns were knocked out or captured in the forest and on a

B-29s Attack Kyushu, Jap Home Island

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11 (AP).—Using secret instruments to locate their targets thru clouds, B-29s today bombed a Japanese homeland aircraft manufacturing center and transportation and storage facilities in two enemy held Chinese cities.

One Super-Fortress was reported in a bulletin to be missing. At least two enemy planes were shot down, seven others probably destroyed, and 11 damaged.

The bulletin said a large task force of Super-Fortresses, operating from bases in China, participated in the three prong aerial blow. The principal target was the Omura aircraft factory at Omura on the Japanese home island of Kyushu.

Hit Nanking Docks.

The extensive dock and loading facilities at Nanking, a ferry point for rail traffic between Shanghai, Tientsin and Manchuria, were also bombed. Nanking also is the seat of the Japanese controled puppet government in China.

[Tokyo Domei agency said in a broadcast that "some 20-odd" B-29s raided Nanking, "indiscriminately bombed" the port vicinity, and one of the bombers was shot down by anti-aircraft fire.]

Enemy military storage and transhipment facilities at the great port of Shanghai were blasted.

The 20th air force said these were "targets of vital importance to the Japanese war machine."

The air force reported that "overcast skies caused a diversion of the effort," but did not make clear the originally intended target. It was possible that Omura, the most distant of the three targets, may have been first choice.

Use Precision Instruments.

Omura is about 1,800 miles from the China bases. Nanking and Shanghai are about 1,000.

The attack on the Omura aircraft plant, hit previously on Oct. 25, was "accomplished thru clouds by precision instruments," the bulletin said. Instruments also were used in the attack on Nanking. Because of the clouds, results at both targets could not be observed. Returning crews reported good results at Shanghai.

Today's bulletin was the first official report that the high flying Super Fortresses have instruments for bombing thru overcast.

Most of the returning B-29 crews said fighter plane opposition was weak and anti-aircraft fire meager on today's raids.

Japs Report Attack.

A report of a Super Fortress attack on the island of Saishu, west of Kyushu, was broadcast by the Tokyo radio. It also said that planes flew over Honshu, the main island of Japan, in what apparently was a reconnaissance flight.

The Tokyo radio said "10 enemy planes, including B-29s" raided Pagan Island in the Marianas Friday.

WIPE OUT 8,000 TROOPS HEADED FOR LEYTE PORT

Yanks Make Gains in Battle for Isle.

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HDQ., Philippines, Nov. 12 [Sunday]—(AP).—Carrier planes of the United States 3d fleet destroyed an entire Japanese convoy of four transports and six destroyers in Ormoc bay Saturday, smashing the second Nipponese attempt in three days to reinforce their Leyte Island army.

Only remnants of an estimated 8,000 fresh enemy troops reached shore.

[Reporting the same action from Pearl Harbor, Adm. Nimitz disclosed that the attacking navy planes shot down 13 Nipponese planes covering the ships and perhaps bagged five more. Seven navy planes were lost, but most of the pilots and crewmen were believed to have been rescued. Nimitz' computation of Jap losses gave a total of nine ships sunk and one damaged.]

20 Ships in 3 Days.

The Japanese lost 13 destroyers and seven transports, plus thousands of men, in their attempts yesterday and last Thursday and Friday to land reinforcements.

The landing of perhaps 10,000 more soldiers Thursday was successful in that the added troops made their Ormoc garrison as strong or stronger than it was when MacArthur's forces landed on Leyte Oct. 20, but the Japanese may wonder if it was worth the cost.

The naval airmen, attacking in force, caught the Japanese convoy as it slipped into Ormoc bay under cover of early morning darkness.

Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, the new Japanese commander, has "chosen western Leyte as a main battleground for his supreme effort to crush our liberating forces," Gen. MacArthur said in today's bulletin.

"Gen. Yamashita is using every endeavor to build up a prepared line of defense in the Ormoc corridor," the bulletin said.

"It is his evident purpose to assemble sufficient forces to attempt to break out from this Yamashita line which is now enveloped by our troops on ground fronts. He has chosen western Leyte as a main battleground for his supreme effort to crush our liberating forces."

Bag 19 Jap Planes.

American forces made new gains across the rugged terrain south of Carigara bay as the Yank airmen smashed the latest reinforcement effort 20 miles southward.

Elements of the 1st cavalry division, pushing over rough terrain, were fighting eight miles south of Carigara, while the 24th division was maintaining steady pressure against the Japanese on the Ormoc road.

Army fighter planes assaulted enemy installations in the Ormoc sector, shooting down 19 Japanese aircraft with "only minor loss," the statement said.

Fight for Mountains.

The 24th division was fighting south of Pinamopoan along the Ormoc road. The Japanese are "resisting stubbornly" in this sector, the bulletin said.

Spearheads of the 1st cavalry have punched thru ridge country east of Ormoc road and south of Carigara bay to surround Mount Pina and Mount Badian. Fighting also was in progress near Mount Cabungangan, eight miles southwest of Carigara.

The 96th division, battling westward from central Leyte valley near the east coast, overran a series of strong Japanese defensive positions skirting Patok, northwest of Dagami. Elements of the 96th are driving enemy remnants into adjacent foothills, but "heavy rains are impeding operations," the bulletin said.

Yesterday's account of the Thursday-Friday attacks on the earlier convoy underlined the fact that MacArthur's land based air arm

Execute 2 Spies Caught by Chicagoans

WITH THE U. S. 3D ARMY IN FRANCE, Nov. 11 (AP).—Two confessed German spies who were convicted by a military commission Oct. 18 were executed by a firing squad this afternoon. The execution was the first announced in the 3d army's sector.

Sgt. Sbarboro (left) and Corp. Glowczynski.

The pair was captured while posing as Polish refugees by three American soldiers, Sgt. Robert T. Sbarboro, 2858 Madison st., Chicago, Ill.; Corp. Christopher W. Wolf, Hortonville, Wis., and Corp. Frank A. Glowczynski, 8930 Houston av., Chicago.

Yank Speaks Polish.

The doughboy trio was on outpost duty in a village west of the Moselle river when they saw the two civilians, one a youth and the other a bald, middle aged man. The sergeant asked where they were going and they mumbled, "Polack, Polack."

Sbarboro called Glowczynski, who speaks Polish, to question them. The older man said they were "just poor Polish workers" who were on their way to a near-by farm to seek jobs.

Glowczynski was puzzled by their accent. He searched them and could find no identification papers. The spokesmen explained that their papers had been taken by the Germans.

Catch Pair Again.

Since there are many Polish workers in that sector, their story seemed plausible and the doughboys let them proceed. Later they became worried about the incident. The two men had claimed to be farmers, but their hands didn't look like farmers' hands. Their clothes were ragged but not dirty.

They got in Wolf's jeep, caught the pair, and took them to a platoon command post for further questioning. The strange accent still bothered Glowczynski. He never had heard any Poles talk like that.

The next day he understood why. Officials sent word back that both men had confessed they were German spies who had been sent thru the lines disguised as civilians and ordered to get information on American troop dispositions.

-till is somewhat limited on Leyte. le had to call on bombers from ar bases to help in the assault.

It was third and seventh fleet rpower which covered MacArthur n his landings on Leyte Oct. 20 and later dealt some of the big blows which crushed the Japanese fleet in the second naval battle of the Philippines sea.

The enemy is throwing replacements into the defense of Ormoc without regard to cost, cutting into the 45,000 men which American headquarter's spokesmen have estimated as the strength of the Japanese on the island.

American planes have destroyed 180 Japanese planes on the ground and in the air since Nov. 1, against an announced loss of 15 Yank planes. In addition, American anti-aircraft gunners destroyed or probably destroyed 144 enemy planes from Oct. 20, to Nov. 8.

A mystery is the whereabouts of th 7th infantry division of Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold. Several days ago it was disclosed to be 12 miles south of Ormoc after emerging on the west coast at Baybay. Nothing has been reported about it since.

Used Every Weapon.

A LEYTE AIR BASE, P. I., Nov. 10 [Delayed] — (AP). — Warships escorting the Japanese transports in Ormoc bay today used every weapon on board, including their big guns, small arms, and phosphorous shells, but they could not stop the Mitchell bombers from making the landing of Japanese reinforcements at Ormoc a costly affair.

Lt. Dean M. Clark of Leechburg, Pa., said "row after row of our bombers slipped their eggs into the transport despite some of the heaviest ack ack we've ever seen."

SEEK AIR SUPREMACY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Lt. Gen. Masharu Homma was quoted by the Nazi radio yesterday as saying that Japanese air supremacy over the Philippines is "more important than to annihilate the five enemy divisions which have landed on Leyte."

Homma, commander of the Japanese forces that invaded the Philippines in December, 1941, was said to have told the Tokyo newspaper Yomiuri-Hochi that "Japan desires the expulsion of the Americans from Leyte, but it is more important to prevent further reinforcements from reaching the Americans now fighting on Leyte. To achieve this the securing of air supremacy is imperative."

30,000 YANKS LAND ON LEYTE IN THREE WEEKS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11 (AP).—American merchant ships delivered 600,000 tons of invasion supplies and 30,000 troops at Leyte Island in the three weeks following its invasion, the war shipping administration announced today.

Crews of the cargo craft unloaded the invasion supplies themselves, in some cases working around the clock, Lt. John Macauley of the United States maritime service reported. He quoted an officer of the army services of supply as stating: "The merchant marine has done its best Pacific job here."

Every merchantman in the Philippine invasion was loaded to capacity and many carried soldiers altho not designated for that task.

AUSTRIANS DESERT, JOIN GUERRILLAS IN ALPS, SAYS ARCHDUKE

LONDON, Nov. 11 (AP).—Thousands of Austrians have deserted from the German army while on home leave and joined guerrilla forces in the Alps, Archduke Robert of Austria said today. In the last three months, he reported, 32 Gestapo battalions have been formed for punitive expeditions.

The Germans were reported to have ordered a state of alarm in Vienna for S. S. formations as from midnight tonight, apparently in an effort to cope with possible disturbances tomorrow on the anniversary of the founding of the Austrian republic.

The exact number of Austrian desertions is not known, but Robert said they had been "considerable—probably 10,000 to 20,000."

GARY MEDICAL CORPSMAN IS HERO ON LEYTE

WITH 24TH DIVISION, Leyte, P. I., Nov. 11 (AP).—At every casualty clearing station where they collect the wounded for evacuation you hear the same story. Every man has his hero and to the infantryman the medical corpsman is his hero. For instance, today:

Pvt. William Lessard.

Corpsman Pvt. William Lessard of Gary, Ind., moved among a field of wounded men while the men were fighting to get out of a Japanese trap. He ministered to 10 men and got them out. The fact he was unscathed was nothing short of a miracle.

SURPRISED G. I.s FIND FILIPINOS SPEAK ENGLISH!

BY WALTER SIMMONS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LEYTE ISLANDS, Philippines, Nov. 11.—Down the line a way at Jaro an American soldier picked some fruit the other day. It looked delicious, but the soldier wanted to be sure. He strolled over to a Filipino youngster, pointed to his mouth and then to the fruit, then looked inquiringly at the boy.

He went thru this routine several times without result and turned in despair as another doughboy came up.

"I was trying to find out if this was good to eat," he explained.

The young Filipino's face brightened. "Heil, yes," he said. "It's got vitamin B."

Philippines a Surprise.

The Philippines have been a surprise and a pleasant one to the American soldier. He was warned beforehand of all kinds of strange and deadly snakes, scorpions, and insects, but so far has encountered none. The unusual things lean to the amusing side like the carabao, a ridiculous looking mudcolored beast, and the tiny, green lizards that run about on the ceiling at night catching insects attracted by the electric light.

The Filipinos have welcomed their deliverers with gratitude, which shows no signs of wearing thin. At many barrios [districts] native women do the G. I.s laundry for them, asking only soap, which they totally lack.

One young Filipino told an American officer: "You are our saviors. All we have is yours."

Family Takes in Eight.

In the large Filipino home where this is being written, the family has made room for eight soldiers and correspondents and now sleeps on the floor in the dining room. All the beds are in use by the guests. Coffee is served in each bedroom every morning and the Filipino mother makes the beds. She arranges for laundry service, sews on buttons, and performs a thousand other little services.

In return for these courtesies the family asks nothing. It is a happy home, with two daughters who look on the G. I.s with undisguised adoration. At night the house resounds with song and piano music. The girls are now so adept they play favorites and such pieces as "I'll Be Seeing You," even in the darkness of blackouts.

For their part the guests contribute rations, soap, clothing, and such items as razor blades, which were unobtainable during the Jap occupation.

Ditches Are Cluttered.

Every gift is met with protest and profound thanks. Nearly every youngster is wearing an overseas cap. Entire families are outfitted in khaki clothing. The average family seems to consist of two adults and eight children.

Vehicle traffic moves on the left hand side of the road as it did in Australia and New Guinea. Churned up by thousands of wheels, the dust is terrific.

Burned out Jap trucks still clutter the ditches. At almost every bridge there are fox holes, where a small battle was fought and the war moved on.

"Two Filipino Classes."

A Filipino saying is, "There are two classes of people in the rural area, poor people and poor people with carabao." These impassive beasts with horns turned back like the ears of angry wolf are everywhere. Little boys ride them using a single line attached to a ring in the carabao's nose.

The landscape is like a movie patched together from thousands of unconnected scenes. There is a file of barefoot natives walking along the road and borrowing food. A dead Jap lies in a ditch. In a little trail is the wreckage of a navy Hell Cat diver, and a bit farther lie two smashed Cubs stripped of fabric by natives.

Here is a house which has burned to the ground, the family patiently scatching in the ruins. A child is standing in what was the front yard pounding grain in a primitive mortar.

Then there is the front, which has all of the confusion and noise of a circus day morning back in one's childhood.

SEIZED BY FOUR MEN; LOSES $7.

James Hale, 1101 E. 65th st., reported to police yesterday that four men who seized him near his home took $7 from his pocket.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 11 (AP). — Lt. Gen. Kamakicki Harada, commander of Japanese military forces in Java, was reported today by the Netherlands news agency Aneta to have said in a broadcast over the Batavia radio that the allies "might invade Java to turn the tide of war."

YANK FINDS AN AMERICAN FLAG IN SAIPAN HOUSE

SOMEWHERE IN THE PACIFIC [Delayed]—(AP).—This is the story of an American flag, a strange and incomplete story. Some one on Saipan, long closed to anything American, had the courage and the hope to take red, white, and blue cloth and mold it into an American flag.

July 4, 1944, the 2d marine regiment pushed to Mutcho point and secured the city of Garapan to break the back of the Jap defenders of Saipan. Corp. David Brown of Ashland, Ky., entered a rubble strewn house to dodge sniper fire.

"It was a little house," he said, "and badly battered by artillery. Among the litter was the American flag."

THEATER OF AIR BEGINS ITS 5TH OPERATIC YEAR

Marion Claire Returns to Starring Role.

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

With a solid phalanx of people extending completely around a square block waiting for the doors to open, W-G-N's Chicago Theater of the Air began its fifth season with "The Great Waltz" before a capacity audience of 4,800 in Medinah temple last night.

The occasion was a festive one in many respects. It marked the return of Marion Claire—radiant in a blue, deep ruffled hoop skirt—to the stellar position which she had been obliged to forsake six months ago because of an eye ailment. It marked the 20th anniversary to the day of Henry Weber's American debut as a conductor with the Chicago Opera company.

Starring Partner Present.

And in commemoration of the first performance of "The Great Waltz" in New York 10 years ago, Miss Claire's starring partner in that famous operetta, Guy Robertson, now a chief specialist on active duty with the navy, was present and spoke to the audience concerning the more than 1,000 performances he sang with the popular soprano.

As Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, pointed out in his opening remarks, the Theater of the Air is the largest weekly broadcast scheduled for regular performance on the air. Of particular interest in the announcements for the coming season, is the unusually large number of grand operas to be presented in addition to the condensations of popular operettas.

In Role She Made Famous.

Last night was the first time that Miss Claire's famous starring vehicle had been presented in the series. It was not, therefore, surprising that there should be something doubly joyous in the singer's return to health and work and to a role she made famous the length and breadth of the country.

All traces of Miss Claire's illness happily have disappeared, and her voice appears to have profited from the enforced rest, for it has never seemed fresher or more buoyant than last night. She had splendid vocal coöperation, too, from Morton Bowe, in the tenor role of the junior Johann Strauss, and from Bruce Foote of the velvety baritone, who sang the part of Poldi.

Melodies of Carefree Grace.

The delightful lyrics which have been fashioned from the immortal waltz melodies of the two Strauss' thus were projected with that carefree grace which spells expertness in music and theater. Backing up the singers was the outstanding group of instrumentalists which Henry Weber has welded into the W-G-N Symphony orchestra, and the leader's Viennese background and training were obvious in the manner in which the orchestral rhythms were blended with the efforts of the singers. To the large and full throated W-G-N chorus also must go credit for an important share in the proceedings.

Jack LaFrandre was responsible for the writing and production, and the leading dramatic parts were read by Laurette Fillbrandt, Steven Hill, Norman Gottschalk, and John Barclay.

Col. McCormick Speaks.

In commenting on the opening of the new season Col. McCormick said:

"Tonight, as I look at the capacity audience before me—more than 4,700 Americans—and think of the thousands more listening across the country, I am convinced that radio is here to stay. Four years ago, we at W-G-N tried to find the one type of entertainment that would appeal to the greatest number of Americans of all age groups and all descents.

"Our choice of operetta and grand opera in English seems to have been a happy one for the Chicago Theater of the Air has played before capacity audiences ever since its conception. In fact, the demand for tickets and listener response have practically forced us out of our auditorium in the W-G-N building.

From an audience of 600 our attendance has grown to 4,700 weekly here at the Medinah Temple and an average of 30,000 weekly during the summer months when our program originates from the outdoor stage at Chicago's Grant park.

Listening Audience Grows.

"These figures include our visual audiences only and mail response tells us that our listening audience has increased in about the same proportion. And with this increasing response we have increased our own facilities and have plans for increasing them still further. Our Chicago Theater of the Air orchestra and chorus, dramatic cast, technical staff, musical arrangers, and production personnel represent more than 150 people and constitute the largest regularly scheduled weekly broadcast in the country.

"So it is that the opening of our fifth operetta and grand opera season tonight inaugurates the greatest year in the history of the Chicago Theater of the Air and station W-G-N and a future that promises to be even greater.

Henry Weber's Anniversary.

"The people of America are under pressure today that takes a greater toll in nerves and hearts than at any time in our history. If, thru the medium of music and make-believe of this program, we can relieve that pressure once each week our efforts are more than repaid.

"In speaking of anniversaries tonight, we are reminded of one more anniversary—one that means a great deal to the millions who have heard and appreciated the musical talents of our distinguished conductor and one that means a great deal to all of us: Today marks the 20th anniversary in Chicago music of our musical director—Henry Weber."

KWEILIN FALLS; U. S. BASE HOLDS, SAYS CHUNGKING

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 11 (AP).—The Japanese have flung 350,000 men into the battle for Kwangsi province, the Chinese high command announced tonight, admitting that the enemy has broken into Kweilin, the province's capital.

Liuchow, site of hte last remaining American air base in southeast China, 95 miles below Kweilin, still is in Chinese hands, the high command said, altho Japan claims it has also fallen.

The enemy smashed into Kweilin, Thursday night, the Chinese said, but added that resistance continued within the city. South of Liuchow a Japanese column knifing westward was within 7½ miles of Chienkiang on the highway to Yungning, which is 55 miles from Liuchow.

TWO MIDWEST CAPTAINS WIN SILVER STARS

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

WITH THE AMERICAN 3D ARMY, Beyond the Moselle river, Nov. 11.—Two midwesterners have been awarded silver stars for gallantry in action during the recent fighting on this front. The decorations were given by Maj. Gen. John S. Wood, commander of the 4th armored division.

Capt. John H. Merriam, son of Albert Merriam, route 2, Luverne, Ia., won his on Sept. 30 near Arracourt when he volunteered as advanced artillery observer. He was wounded twice but refused to be evacuated and remained at his post until relieved.

Capt. Charles W. Hendrix, 25, of Champaign, Ill., was in command of mechanized cavalry troops which attacked the dug-in enemp positions on a hill in Benamon woods near Arracourt, Sept. 29. Hendrix and his men killed 25 Nazis, captured 10, and the remainder fled, leaving three tanks behind. No Americans were lost.

Yank Forces Less than Ten Miles Apart.

nearby ridge. Ninth air force fighter bomber pilots claimed destruction of 75 trucks, 35 horse drawn artillery pieces and 11 gun positions.

Meanwhile, the 90th division strengthened its three by six mile bridgehead over the Moselle river in the Koenigsmacher area 19 miles north of Metz by eliminating the German salient jutting into it at the middle.

Nazis Falling Back.

German forces cut off from their comrades south of Metz were falling back on the city before the 5th infantry.

The 5th was about 10 miles from the 95th division, which edged forward slightly four miles north of Metz despite heavy shelling of their positions west of the Moselle river.

The 6th armored division sent tank vanguards across the Nied thru Han-sur-Nied, 14 miles southeast of Metz. Another column reached the river at Lemud, nine miles east of Metz after overrunning the near-by village of Aube—12 miles beyond the jump-off positions of four days ago. The Lemud thrust was the deepest penetration yet.

Thirty-fifth division infantrymen, fighting on almost the same spot as their fathers fought on Armistice day 26 years ago, drove substantial forces from the forest of Chateau-Salins on the right flank of the 3d army's assault lines. The 19th air force attacked the Nazi columns moving to the northeast.

Capturing 225 square miles in three days, the 3d army up to last midnight had taken 2,440 prisoners and the momentum of its attack was rising.

The biggest advance of the day was the capture of Haboudange, seven miles north of Chateau-Salins, which fell yesterday. Here the Americans were 18 miles from the border of the industrial Saar basin. [The only other major activity reported was on the United States 1st army sector, where infantry men still were slugging it out with the Germans southeast of Aachen in Hurtgen forest.]

At the southern end of the western front, allied forces closing on St. Die in the Meurthe river valley captured the villages of Le Menil and Biarville, northwest of the town. A local counter-attack was beaten off farther southeast of Bruyeres.

2,000 PLANES HIT NAZIS FROM BRITAIN, ITALY

LONDON, Nov. 11 (AP).—German anti-aircraft gunners offered only meager to moderate resistance today when 2,000 American planes attacked the reich in bad weather from west and south, hitting targets in Italy, Austria, and western Germany.

Lt. Gen. Spaatz's strategic air forces coördinated strikes with the 15th air force in Italy, sending out 700 heavy bombers, which hit synthetic oil plants in Czechoslovakia, a steel plant at Linz, Austria, and bridges in northern Italy. The Liberators and Fortresses from Italy were escorted by 450 fighters.

Suggesting other bombers were on their way back to Germany tonight, Berlin radio warned of the approach of "enemy bomber formations over Heligoland bay approaching northwestern Germany."

Only one German plane offered attack when the 450 Liberators and Fortresses, with an escort of 370 Mustangs and Thunderbolts, from British bases, attacked Gelsenkirchen and Coblenz. A jet-propelled Messerschmitt 163 was driven off. Four bombers and one fighter failed to return.

R. A. F. Mosquitos bombed Hanover twice last night. About 30 giant 4,000 pounders were planted in the target areas.

NAZI BIG GUNS MAKE TOWN BELOW METZ A HOT SPOT FOR YANKS

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE AMERICAN 3D ARMY, Nov. 11.—The little town of Fonteny, southeast of Metz, was one of the hottest spots in today's fighting, with German guns in the Chateau-Salins forest supporting artillery on high ground nearby. Altho the town contained both American and German wounded, it was not possible to get them out because of the heavy German shelling of the roads leading in.

One German tank was knocked out by an infantry bazooka team and a score of German prisoners, most of them very young, were taken. The weather turned bitter cold tonight.

In one town near the front lines I met Lt. Col. N. L. Head of Washington, D. C., whose wife, Elizabeth, is the daughter of Arthur Sears Henning, chief of the CHICAGO TRIBUNE's Washington bureau.

NAVY REPLACES ALL AIR LOSSES OF TWO MONTHS

Carrier Force Doubled in Half Year.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 11 (AP).—The American Pacific fleet fast carrier task force is becoming increasingly stronger, and in a very few months will have twice as many carriers operating in the Western Pacific as it had six months ago, Rear Adm. George D. Murray said today.

As of six months ago this fleet could put at least 1,000 planes in the air.

Adm. Murray, naval air commander in the Pacific, also reported that all United States naval aircraft and pilot losses of the last two months had been replaced. This included losses in the great naval battles of the Philippines Oct. 24 and 25.

One Carrier Lost.

American losses in those battles included the light carrier Princeton, two escort carriers and damage to an unnamed number of carriers. The Japanese claimed they shot down about 500 United States planes there.

"Im glad to be able to report," Murray said, "that our losses of the last two months, since the Marianas, are well within what we can stand. All our aircraft losses have been replaced. Our pilot losses have been replaced."

Pilots Highly Trained.

Murray had just returned from the Western Pacific, where he conferred with virtually every naval task force commander.

He said Yank pilots had been trained to the highest possible efficiency and that they had greatly increased the ratio of Japanese losses in air combat.

"Japanese losses, which we estimate conservatively, are increasing steadily in our favor," he added. "In one instance it was as high as 120 Japanese downed to only three or four Americans. And that's no fairly tale!"

Adm. Murray said he looked forward with confidence to the navy exerting increasing pressure against the Japanese empire.

No Breathing Space.

"Our policy," he added, "is never to give the enemy a breathing space to reorganize and rearrange his forces."

The officer said the quality of Japanese pilots varied with the theater and the situation.

"Japan still has hundreds of very good pilots," he said, "but her losses are so tremendous we wonder how long the supply can last.

"They run the scale from excellent to large numbers of poor, inexperienced pilots. One American fighter squadron leader told me that before he could close in for a shot one Jap pilot bailed out of his undamaged plane."

Half Our Pilots Rescued.

Murray estimated that more than 50 per cent of all American airmen downed are rescued. He called this "a great morale factor." He said one carrier squadron had a rescue record of 90 per cent.

The admiral emphasized that success in the western Pacific depends primarily on logistics and production. He paid tribute to mainland civilians for war production and the crews of tankers and cargo ships for keeping supplies flowing into the Pacific area. Army engineers and the Seabees also came in for praise.

Murray commended the carrier Enterprise which provided security patrols for the carrier Hornet, which carried Lt. Gen. Doolittle's B-25 bombers for their raid on Tokyo April 18, 1942.

Verboten Area

Shaded area declared dangerous for all shipping by Germans.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 11 (AP).—The Swedish government lodged a sharp protest with the German legation today against the official Berlin declaration proclaiming the Baltic sea and Bothnian gulf an operational area in which all shipping would be subject to attack without warning.

The Swedish reply to the German advisory note declared all consequences which may result from the German measure would be held against the German government.

"The Swedish government is of the opinion the planned German measure is dangerous to legitimate Swedish interests," the protest said.

Report Hungary's Gold Reserve Sent to Germany

ZURICH, Switzerland, Nov. 11 [Reuter].—Hungary's gold reserve, estimated at 80 million pengoes [about $12,800,000] has arrived in Germany from Budapest, according to reports received here.

CANADIAN VETS INSIST 'ZOMBIES' SERVE OVERSEAS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 11.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King last night was given three choices in a resolution unanimously passed by the Ontario command of the Canadian Corps association on a motion by Maj. G. F. Davies, dominion president of the veterans' corps.

The choices are that he "cause to be enacted immediately an order in council whereby the zombie army will be made available for service anywhere," or, failing that, "to resign and permit his government to appoint a new prime minister who will carry out the wishes of the people," or, failing that, to "dissolve parliament forthwith and permit a newly elected government to assume office which will enact and put into effect the clearly expressed desires of the people."

[The "zombie" army comprises the men drafted by Canada for home defense only.]

The preamble of the resolution sets forth that Canadians have emphasized their strong desire to devote the full resources of the nation—men, money, and materials—in the present war, but that "an army of 60,000 trained home defense troops, commonly known as zombies, are being deliberately withheld by governmental regulation from active service in a theater of war."

The corps stressed that Col. J. J. Ralston, recently resigned minister of defense, "gave a specific pledge with respect to reënforcements which has not been fulfilled, and for which the government cannot escape responsibility."

RUSSIANS GAIN IN NEW SMASH AT BUDAPEST

Strike from Southeast; Move on Miskolc, Too.

LONDON, Nov. 12 [Sunday]—(AP).—Russian troops, resuming a drive southeast of besieged Budapest, capital of Hungary, moved yesterday to within 43 miles of the city, Moscow announced last night.

Other forces to the northeast drove within 11 miles of Miskol, Hungary's fifth city, as the Russians expanded a wedge they have driven between that town and Budapest.

Soviet columns hitting from the southeast captured Ujszasz rail junction on the northern arm of the line between Budapest and Szolnok. Ujszasz is 43 miles from the capital, whose southern outskirts are being fiercely defended by reënforced German troops. Jasziadany, seven miles northeast of Ujszasz, also was seized.

Berlin's radio commentators termed this an all-out offensive aimed at encircling Budapest.

A Hungarian bulletin said that Russian troops who had reached Csepel, a 30 mile island in the Danube just south of Budapest, had been hurled back to the eastern banks. The Hungarians spoke, however, of Russian attacks against "the Budapest bridgehead," an indication that Red army troops were fighting inside the city.

[A Budapest broadcast said heavy fighting had broken out at Vesces, five miles southeast of the city.]

Grip on Railway Widened.

In the northeast, the 2d Ukraine army widened its grip on the Budapest-Miskolc railway to a section 25 miles wide, cut the highway between the two cities with the seizure of Szihalom, 64 miles from Budapest.

At the top end of the middle Tisza front the Russians rolled thru Hejosalonta, 11 miles southeast of Miskolc, and also took Sajoszoged.

In lower Yugoslavia, the Russians announced, Bulgarians captured Veles, 26 miles southeast of Skopije, and Stip. The Bulgarians were attacking Germans at Kumanovo.

GERMAN WAR BULLETIN.

Berlin's broadcast military summary said yesterday:

"In Hungary the weather is impeding fighting operations. In the Budapest area our troops improved their positions. North of the middle Tisza, attacking soviets were repulsed.

"In East Prussia, border district fighting activity flared up again. Soviet reconnaissance thrusts on both sides of the Rominer heath miscarried."

WATCH, RING, AND COATS STOLEN.

Carl M. Swanson, 8732 Carpenter st., yesterday reported the theft of a watch, ring, muskrat coat, a cloth coat, and three suit cases, all valued at $400, in a burglary of his home.

Paasikivi, Reds' Friend, New Premier of Finland

LONDON, Nov. 11 (AP).—The Finnish radio announced today that Juho Passikivi, veteran peace envoy and friendly to soviet Russia, had accepted the premiership in a new Finnish government. He succeeds Erhu Castren, whose government has been criticized for its handling of the Russo-Finnish armistice problems.

CHICAGOANS IN GULLY ON LEYTE HELP ROUT JAPS

2 Companies Clean Out 50 of Enemy.

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 24TH DIVISION, Leyte Island, Nov. 11.—Here are more brief notes from the Philippine front.

Among the men in two companies that cleaned up a gully in which 50 Japs were hiding were these Chicagoans: Frank Abbatemarmo, 5141 S. Wentworth av.; Alec Busta, 2242 Cicero av.; William Forrest, 5300 W. 26th st.; Joe Data, 5061 W. 31st st.; Carney Feminella, 5647 Cottage Grove av.; Edwin Michalak, 2645 N. Sacramento blvd., and William Green, 2700 N. Drayton. Dan Moody, 7759 Lake st., River Forest, was with them.

Other Chicagoans one meets on Leyte are Milton Katzman, 4025 W. Grenshaw st., a military policeman whose brother, Irving, also here, is a radio operator; Fred Piahutnik, 2248 W. 21st pl., who works in a motor pool; Michael Sarich of Clybourn av., who is assigned to a portable hospital that follows the troops; Capt. David Porte, 3839 Ainslie st., a doctor with the anti-aircraft batteries.

Cavalryman Supplies Gas.

Eugene Small, 2227 Emerson st., Evanston, helps unload ships. Cliff Lebert, 5132 W. Warwick av., Chicago, is another MP. Bob Condon, 4868 Concord pl., Chicago, a cavalryman, provided a can of gas when our auto's supply ran out.

Two Chicagolanders, Roger Clark, 407 Hull ct., Waukegan, and Peter Dunn, 4020 N. Pulaski rd., Chicago, were the heroes of a fire that broke out on their Liberty ship when a Jap plane crashed near it off Leyte.

Clark helped fight the fire in the holds adjoining the ammunition storage place. Dunn remained at his post in the engine room even after the temperature there reached 180 degrees.

Ensign Loren Taylor of Mill Shoals, Ill., a former basket ball player for the University of Illinois, and the Phillips Oilers [professional], and a gunner, George Dockweiler of Lansing, Ill., brought down a plane attacking their ship. Donald MacArthur, 2053 Fremont st., Chicago, was manning the winches.

Illinoisan Silences Gun.

William Downey of Vernon, Ill., is credited with capturing a machine gun after the sergeant leading his squad had been killed. Another machine gun hidden under a shack was holding up the advance. Alone, Sgt. William Byess got it.

Bob McPhail is a first aid man. The number of lives he has saved runs beyond a dozen. On the second day of the invasion of this island, he pulled five wounded men out from under Jap guns. His home is in Long Island City, N. Y.

TIRE EXPLOSION FATAL.

Virgil Geiger, 34, Negro, of 3332 Calumet av., died yesterday in South Chicago hospital of an injury resulting when a tire exploded in the State Line Sales and Service garage, 10645 Indianapolis av., Roby, Ind., and hurled the rim against his knee, police said.

Packing Plant Strike Vote Set for Nov. 22 by NLRB

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 11 [Special].—The national labor relations board made plans today to take a strike vote Nov. 22 among 1,200 union employes at Cudahy Brothers' packing plant in Cudahy. Local 40 of the CIO United Packinghouse Workers filed notice of intention to take a strike vote when the company refused to institute a maintenance of membership and a union dues check-off system ordered by the war labor board.

RIVER CLEARED, PARIS WILL GET MORE FOOD, COAL

BY ROBERT SAGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 11.—Prospects of an early arrival in the French capital of greatly increased shipments of coal, building materials, wine, wheat, and grain brightened today with the announcement that the Seine now is navigable between Rouen and Paris. The canal system leading to Paris from the rich coal fields in the north will be ready for resumption of barge traffic before the end of the month.

Paris, with the almost completed clearing of the Oise canal, will have an uninterrupted waterway from the northern coal mines by way of the Canal du Nord and Canal de Saint Quentin, making it possible for the 2,600 barges now available to bring 9,000 tons of coal daily to the capital, provided the mine output permits it.

Nazi Material to Be Freed.

Furthermore, some 500 barges, many loaded with coal and building materials which the Germans had shipped in for their own use, will thus be freed from points along the canals where they are now blocked.

The forthcoming arrival of 9,000 tons daily will be in addition to 18,000 tons presently reaching Paris each day by rail. The estimated completion of present repair work on large sluice gates at Creiz will permit a three-fold increase in canal traffic. Present use of small sluice gates allows passage of only 30 barges a day instead of the 80 that passed before the war.

Wheat already is arriving by canal from the Seine et Marne department while the recent opening of the Canal du Nivernais and Canal du Loing is resulting in increased shipments of much needed wood for the city's bake ovens.

Wine Traffic to Resume.

The resumption of navigation in the Seine not only will make possible shipments of coal, building material, and grain from England but eventually will allow a renewal of the great wine traffic which Normandy carried on by water from the south of France as far as Rouen, thus relieving the present thorny wine situation which has resulted in an excess of wine thruout the south due to a lack of barrels and transport facilities. Paris has been deprived of ordinary wine since June.

Some idea of the difficulties overcome in restoring waterways was given by Rene Mayer, minister of public works. He released figures today showing that of a total of 900 bridges, 369 had been destroyed, and 62 of 130 dams partially wrecked. He said 30 of 34 bridges over the Seine were destroyed and that seven of eight sluice gates could not be used.

British Quiz Businessmen on Need for Air Transport

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 11.—As a contribution to the British bid for foreign markets, British Overseas Airways has sent questionnaires to thousands of exporting firms here asking for information as to their air transport requirements after the war. The government, it was reported, will lift the prohibition on exports to South Africa and Iceland as the shipping situation eases.

Chinese Cross River in Drive Thru North Burma

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, Nov. 11 (AP).—Chinese troops, one of three allied columns moving southward to clear a land route thru Burma to China, have crossed the Taping river in the Myothit area, an allied bulletin said today. Another Chinese column in a flanking movement has captured Momauk, eight miles east of Bhamo, objective of the present offensive.

NAZI PEOPLE'S ARMY WIELDING PICKS, NOT GUNS

Americans Rate Volksturm Only a Nuisance.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 1ST ARMY IN GERMANY, Nov. 11.—Germany's Volkssturm, or so-called people's army, which is being organized with the avowed purpose of turning the tide of war away from the threshold of the fatherland, is wielding picks and shovels, rather than guns, according to reliable information received here. It is constructing fortifications, some of them in cities, not far from the American line.

American military leaders do not discount the nuisance value of this type of Nazi home guard but observers do not believe such roughly trained citizens are capable of waging a significant campaign.

The Volkssturm recruits are supposed not to get much army training beyond the rudiments of the use of the rifle, machine gun, mines, and demolition work, all useful in guerrilla warfare. Their instructors and leaders are party men instead of trained soldiers.

Few Able Men in Line.

It has been noted that mobilization of the men from 16 to 60 does little to broaden the existing base of conscription. The groups primarily affected apparently are those heretofore deferred for physical disability or occupations.

Organization is effected by battalions with gauleiters as heads of the Volkssturm in their respective localities. Deputy organizers in each district are taken from party branches, including the Hitler Youth.

The men destined to lead the Volkssturm in battle against the Americans are of various ages and stations, mostly front line soldiers of the last war, along with a scattering of rehabilitated veterans of the present conflict.

Train for Few Days.

Their training, it was reported, consists of a few days' refresher course, after which they spend a few days training the men assigned to them.

The Germans apparently intend to employ citizen forces behind the line for maintenance and communications work as long as the regular army is able to hold its position in the field. The Nazis are trying to qualify the recruits as part of the army, however, in order that men captured or wounded may have advantage of the rules of war under the Geneva convention.

MAJ. RICHARD MAYER TO BECOME CIVILIAN; IN ARMY SINCE 1940

Maj. Mayer.

Maj. Richard Mayer will return to civilian life after four years in the army, Col. Nelson S. Talbot of the air force technical service command announced yesterday. Maj. Mayer, who is a member of the law firm of Mayer, Meyer, Austrian, and Platt, enlisted in May, 1940, as a private in the 132d field artillery and became a major in 1942.

After special training in the troop carrier intelligence service, Maj. Mayer was assigned to the Southwest Pacific. He remained there until last February, when he contracted malaria and was returned to the United States. Subsequent to his recovery he joined the materiel command at Wright field, doing legal work for the command there and in Chicago.

Maj. Mayer's wife and three children live at 2440 Lakeview av. He is 45 years old.

HITLER'S NAME OMITTED FROM NEW NAZI HYMN

LONDON, Nov. 11 [Reuter].—Germany has a new patriotic hymn which contains no reference to Hitler.

The German radio tonight gave the words of the refrain and invited the German people to learn it.

The refrain runs: "'Tis darkest before the dawn, but our cause is right. Germany, thy sons will lead thee out of the bitter night; tho thou be stricken by wounds under a rain of blows, yet shall we win the last battle against our foes."

GLENCOE FATHER WOUNDS SON, 10, WHILE HUNTING

Scott B. Fraser of 435 Skokie rd., Glencoe, took his son, Scott Jr., 10, pheasant hunting near Richmond, McHenry county, yesterday with several other men and their sons.

The men saw a bird in some brush and told the boys to stand to one side while they flushed it. As the pheasant took wing several shots were fired. Fraser's son was struck in the face by No. 5 shot and his left eye was lost. Fraser, who is in charge of the marine department of the Hartford Fire Insurance company in Cook county, told Deputy Sheriff John De Smidt of Lake county that he feared it was his shot that ricocheted from a rock and wounded his son.

In another accident yesterday George Kraft of 563 Fulton av., Waukegan, was shot near the left eye by an unidentified hunter in McHenry county.

Jerry Meres, 30, of 3141 S. Pulaski rd., shot himself accidentally in the left leg with a .22 caliber rifle while he was getting out of his car in front of his home, after hunting rabbits yesterday.

ACCUSED IN 7 SLAYINGS, HINTS IT'S JAP PLOT

LIMA, Peru, Nov. 11 (AP).—Counsel for Mamoru Shimizu, who has been accused of the slaying of seven Japanese, including the family of his brother, told newspaper men today that "it would not be strange if the crime were schemed abroad." The seven Japanese were slain in their beds a week ago after being drugged.

Asserting that the case had two aspects—"criminal and international"—Shimizu's lawyer seemingly confirmed suspicions that the slayings were the results of a Japanese political vendetta.

ZURICH, Nov. 11 [Reuter].—A report from Germany today said that Hitler underwent a throat operation a few days ago by Prof. Eicke, a Viennese surgeon. The story, it is said here, may have been spread deliberately by the Germans as an explanation of Hitler's silence on Nov. 9, anniversary of the Nazi beer hall putsch.

AIR TRANSPORT WRITES 'FINIS' TO ATLANTIC TERROR

100 Craft a Day Fly the Wintry Seas.

BY FRANK CIPRIANI.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AT A NORTH ATLANTIC AIR TRANSPORT COMMAND BASE, Nov. 11.—This is one of the spots that is helping to whip Hitler. From here, or thru here, day and night fly cargo and combat ships carrying fighting men and supplies to the battle fronts. Only weather stops them, but not often, nor for long.

Yet today, says Brig. Gen. Lawrence C. Fritz, commanding the North Atlantic division of the air transport command, "the North Atlantic route to Europe and Africa can be flown on regular schedule east and west in winter and in summer."

The hundreds of planes now flying in an almost continuous stream across one of the most difficult winter routes in the world seem proof of Gen. Fritz's claim. For an impersonal study, however, a group of newspaper, magazine, and radio reporters is making a winter flight. It will cover more than 5,000 miles and touch ATC bases in New Foundland, Labrador, Baffin Land, Green land, and Iceland.

Base Is World Crossroads.

This base, commanded by Lt. Col. Howard Maxwell, Indianapolis, Ind., is a crossroads of the world.

Foreign dignitaries come and go, pausing briefly at its hotel, called officially El Paso del Norte but commonly known as the Hotel de Gink. Generals, too, including Gen. Arnold, commander in chief of the United States army air forces, are frequent visitors. Indeed, any official of importance, Europe bound, passes thru.

Then there are countless pilots, blase at 21, who speak as casually of their visits to distant places as a Chicagoan might of Park Ridge or Evanston. Such a one was Lt. Walter Sage of New York, who arrived in Paris six days ago and already was back. Sage is more amazed by newspapermen than by trans-Atlantic hops. Once he met Seymour Korman, Chicago Tribune correspondent now with the 7th army in France.

"It was months ago," he recalled, "and he was trying to bum a ride back to Europe. He talked and he talked and he out-argued everybody. He bummed his way, all right. How that guy could talk."

20 Bases in on Division.

The north Atlantic division of ATC includes almost 20 bases in the United States, Newfoundland, Greenland, Canada, Labrador, Baffin Land, Iceland, and, farther south, Bermuda. The northernmost route follows the great circle, the southernmost the Bermuda line, both embracing some 4,000,000 square miles of almost landless ocean. Thus the division's ships fly over semi-tropical areas or over tundras and virgin wilderness near, or even within, the Arctic circle.

Most of the ATC service is of an emergency nature. It is called upon to deliver the most essential materials the most rapidly. Once, after the June invasion, Gen. Eisenhower ordered 8,900 pounds of penicillin, fast. It was on its way six hours later, delivered in less than 24. The list of ATC cargoes is limitless, ranging from items weighing an ounce to some weighing 4,400 pounds.

Millions of Pounds of Mail.

Then, of course, ATC carries something more precious than money to both the boys in the battle lines and the folk at home—mail. During the first nine months this year more than 4 million, 250 thousand pounds of mail was flown to Europe, each pound averaging 5,500 V-mail and 45 regular letters. In the same period more than 32 million pounds of high priority cargo was carried. In the first eight months several hundred thousand passengers were transported, and since D-day more than 15,000 wounded and sick veterans have been brought back from Europe.

All this, and it is only a small part of the entire picture, may illustrate the Herculean work of the mighty air transport command. The record is all the more amazing because the command is only three and a half years old.

Month by month its service improves and today not even winter can halt it. Behind this record lie many factors, including planning, persistency, and courage. Behind it also is the talent of the pre-war commercial air lines. All the way thru ATC as pilots, engineers, or operational officers will be found experts on leave from the big air lines. Gen. Fritz, for instance, formerly was vice president of TWA.

Fritz played a leading role in pushing thru winter flying in the north Atlantic. In the fall of 1942 he made test flights in B-24s, deliberately seeking, and finding, the worst storms, gales, blizzards, and sleet. He suffered in the effort but gained needed information and is credited with having "beaten the hex" on winter flights by way of the northern route.

A most important factor in this job is the weather watch stations. More than 50 are scattered in the near Arctic and Arctic regions, some so inaccessible they have been isolated up to two years. They radio hourly local weather conditions. The meteorological staff numbers more than 800, many of whom were trained at the University of Chicago and at Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill. In addition, most of the bases near water daily send out planes 700 miles at 500 foot altitudes to search for bad weather.

Thus ships ordinarily are not allowed to take off if severe weather lies ahead, and if they are caught suddenly en route by the frequent spontaneous storms they turn back.

This is about the time of year in the North Atlantic when gales and near hurricane winds come out from nowhere, when blizzards strike, and when fog and sleet and ice form a mist to bedevil the flyer, but the ATC gets thru.

100 Daily Flights Common.

The record of the ATC's flights is impressive. One hundred flights a day on this division are not uncommon. Year round weather delays do not average more than 5 per cent, says Maj. Cameron Robertson, the man who test piloted the navy's Mars, giant flying cargo ship. "The bugaboo of winter flying here is being dispelled," he said. "We know more about it."

His confidence was reassuring to this reportorial party, numbering 11 men and a woman. In charge is Maj. Lynn C. Mahan of New York City, special assistant to Fritz. With him are 1st Lt. Bruce Henderson of Warren, O., and Lt. George Mason, Washington, D. C., of the war department bureau of public relations. The pilot is Fred P. Koupal, a veteran air line man. The co-pilot is Lt. Andrew M. Bostock of Little Rock, Ark., and Lt. Adam J. Wasileski of New York City is navigator.

Sgt. Ervin F. Van Dyke of Wrightstown, Wis., is radio operator, and Staff Sgt. Joseph E. Libertz of Philadelphia, Pa., flight engineer. The tour started from Washington, D. C., excitingly, it must be admitted. The huge C-46 rose gracefully, then became temperamental about 1,000 feet up. The left engine caught fire and then and there the coolness and efficiency of our American air men was demonstrated.

Safe Landing Is Perfect.

Without fuss, Capt. Koupal cut off the gas flow to that engine, an emergency procedure, and feathered the propeller. This quickly doused the flame, which had been caused by a faulty manifold and exhaust. The crew instructed the passengers to strap themselves to their chairs. Then the descent, on the right engine, was begun.

Koupal radioed he was making an emergency landing, and as the ship, flying beautifully, with Lt. Bostock at the controls, lowered slowly to the airport, a mean looking crash truck and a couple of ambulances raced out. They were not needed, the landing being perfect, altho about 90 feet short of the end of the airport. The crash truck chief seemed disappointed but nobody in the plane was.

INVASION OF FRANCE SAVED LONDON FROM RUIN, SAYS BYRNES

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 11 (AP).—If allied forces had not landed on the continent June 6, "little would have been left of London" because of the flying bomb menace, War Mobilization Director Byrnes said today. In an Armistice day speech, Byrnes said inspection of a flying bomb launching site near Cherbourg convinced him "that only by invasion could we have curbed those flying bombs."

Demand for artillery ammunition is so great that hot shells are being loaded into the freight cars for overseas shipment as soon as the TNT inside them harden, he asserted.

"We must not let pride in our accomplishments blind us to the magnitude of our needs," Byrnes cautioned, explaining that "our present military shortages are not a product of our failure. They are a product of our successes. We are running months ahead of our military timetable. As a result we must obtain from our war factories material that was not scheduled for production until next March."

MAGICIAN DRUMS UP CUTE LITTLE TRICK FOR YANKS

Prof. Paz Makes Pass and There's 'Leyte Lou.'

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

WITH AMERICAN FORCES AT TACOBLAN, Leyte Island, Nov. 11.—The war having moved from Tacoblan and the afternoon being free of bombs, Prof. Paz decided to do something for the hundreds of G. I.'s wandering the streets.

Incidentally, Prof. Paz, who modestly calls himself the "great world's most famous magician," decided to do something for himself. By charging admission of 1 peso a head to the town's only theater, the Mercedes, he could, in a single afternoon, become one of Tacoblan's richest citizens.

So he hung out his sign and in a few minutes a line stretched around the corner. Ben, the theater manager, and his ticket seller had trouble because the G. I.'s carried only 10 and 20 peso notes. The show was held up half an hour while Ben hunted change. He finally turned into an international money mart, handling Filipino, American, Dutch, and Australian money.

Professor Does Tricks.

Prof. Paz, a Filipino who says he finished a world tour just in time to return to his native Tacoblan before the Japs arrived, and was forced to take up farming, did some tricks with ping pong balls and cards.

Then he jumped from the stage took up two twigs and began beating what remained of a pre-war drum. That was when the Mercedes' roof almost fell in. Out of the dusty wings came a cutie wearing a grass skirt. With every swing of a hip the G. I.'s made more noise than all the bombardments in history rolled into one. Such cheering you never did hear.

Never did President Roosevelt or "Wrong Way" Corrigan or Shirley Temple get such an ovation. When "Leyte Lou" finally retired into the wings the G. I.'s threatened to tear the place apart, so Prof. Paz took up his sticks some more and "Leyte Lou" made the grass skirt swish all over again.

Appreciation—Wow!

Prof. Paz tried to satisfy the audience by sticking swords thru a basket in which a girl crouched, by ventriloquism, by making a couple of ducks vanish and by running in three little girls to sing Filipino songs.

The G. I.'s showed proper appreciation but when "Leyte Lou" came back as an Egyptian dancer the shouts could be heard clear to Palo, 11 kilometers away.

First candidate for the title, whose entry was received yesterday, is Miss Ethel Capp, 4901 N. Sawyer st.

WITNESS TELLS HOW ROCKET HIT BELGIAN FIELD

BY WILLIAM F. BONI.

SOMEWHERE IN NORTH BELGIUM, Nov. 11 (AP). — A formation of rocket carrying planes had just taken off from a nearby air field and I was watching them when across my line of vision something streaked, heading straight down at a tremendous speed.

It was a dark object, trailing a plume of yellowish brown smoke. We stopped our jeep. There was a rocking blast. Overhead we saw a cloud of white smoke thousands of feet up, presumably where the descent began. Seconds later there was a billowing cloud of dark brown smoke rising above the houses. When he reached the scene of the explosion, we found the main blast had occurred in the middle of a freshly plowed field. Parts of the projectile were strewn over hundreds of yards, pieces of thin metal, whisps and chunks of what appeared to be spun glass and odd bits of what must have been the propulsion mechanism.

The big explosion and the succeeding smaller blasts caused relatively little damage and no serious casualties. That was my first encounter with a Nazi V-weapon.

Sweden Arrests Nazi Tourist Chief in Spy Case

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 11 (AP).—The Swedish police announced today that Baron Gossler, head of the German tourist bureau, was arrested a week ago on a charge of attempting to engage a Baltic refugee for intelligence work against a foreign country.

GERMANS USE NEW V-2 BOMB ON WEST FRONT

LONDON, Nov. 11 (AP).—The German V-2 rocket bomb, described as a 13½ ton wingless projectile which cuts thru the stratosphere at a maximum speed of 3,500 miles an hour, has been falling in allied sectors in Belgium and France as well as in Britain, front dispatches permitted thru army censorship said tonight.

A number of these new vengeance weapons, which cannot be heard coming because they are faster than sound, fell in one United States army sector alone in less than two days, and the rate has increased at various intervals, said a dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Austin Bealmear. The censor deleted the origin of the dispatch.

In another dispatch from which the censor also had deleted the dateline, Canadian Press Correspondent Ross Munro, in describing this "eeriest weapon yet produced in the war," said the Germans had been bombarding an allied sector in Belgium.

Accuracy Called Poor.

Just where the bombs have fallen, Munro was not allowed to say, but the missile was termed poor in accuracy.

Today's German war summary said the V-2 still was being fired at Antwerp in Belgium and at London.

The new German reprisal weapon was described by the correspondents as being about 46 feet long and 5 feet wide, and less effective than V-1, the robot bomb used against England.

The warhead contains almost a ton of explosives, and the fuel used to propel it weighs nine tons. It is shot from concrete ramps almost vertically, reaches a great height before beginning a great arc toward its intended target. At the height of the arc it is traveling at a speed of 55 miles a second.

Prime Minister Churchill said yesterday that the rocket travelled up to 70 miles high at a speed faster than sound, which would be something above 700 miles an hour at ground level.

Like Ball of Fire.

Altho you can't hear the projectile until after it has struck the earth and set off its ton of explosives, Bealmear said its descent from the heavens at night resembles a ball of fire.

Allied experts were quoted as saying that V-2 was not as effective in destructive power as the V-1 because of the huge crater it makes, reducing the blast. The robot bomb digs hardly any crater, going off on contact, with maximum blasting effect.

The V-2 also is a much more complicated and expensive weapon than the robot bomb, a product which takes an immense amount of machining. The warhead is not encased in heavy metal and there is no shrapnel effect, Munro's dispatch said.

Field dispatches have reported the use of V-2 rockets in the battle zone, but correspondents indicated they were too inaccurate to have military value. V-1 robots have also been used at the front against several captured cities in Belgium, France, and Holland. Rockets fired at troops were reported to have been slightly smaller than those used against England.

Report 36 Casualties.

At least 36 persons have been killed or badly injured by the V-2 bombardment of Britain, a check of casualties in reported incidents showed.

In one case a rocket plummeted into a shopping crowd and "a number" of persons were killed. One of the most tragic incidents was the killing of nine children at a birthday party.

One rocket exploded in an open area, and several ducks were the only victims. Another rocket killed only a pig.

Nazis Tell of Robot Tank.

New York, Nov. 11.—The Berlin radio said tonight that a new German wireless controled tank, the V-4, has gone into action. The broadcast was recorded by CBS.

Radio Laments Only 1,500 Seek Labor Service.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

ROME, Nov. 11.—The latest move by the Nazi high command in northern Italy to force Italian men into the fighting line apparently has proved a dud.

The puppet government headed by Mussolini issued a decree threatening merciless punishment to Italians of military age who failed to report for service by midnight last night. The text made it clear that it was aimed at thousands of Italian army deserters who had evaded conscription.

Other provisions of the decree called for men of older age groups to report for labor service. But tonight Fascist broadcasts indicated that not more than 1,500 of the expected thousands of laborers had reported.

Nazi Prodding Indicated.

The decree had come into existence by devious means. Apparently, Mussolini had received orders from the Nazi high command that able bodied Italians in northern Italy be rounded up and made available for service.

Mussolini chose to act Oct. 28, the anniversary of his 1922 march on Rome. That day one of his cabinet ministers suggested a plan to grant amnesty to all Italian deserters and evaders who reported to military authorities by midnight last night.

The Fascist radio's peaens for the new law indicated that the amnesty would cover deserters and evaders already in prison for such crimes, provided their sentence was for not more than three years, others who escaped prison in the turmoil following Italy's surrender, and even deserters and evaders sentenced in absentia.

Bid to Political Captives.

Amnesty also was offered to Italians sentenced for political crimes, obviously anti-Fascists, if their sentences were for no longer than three years.

Not more than 100 men had reported a few hours before the deadline, the Fascist radio said.

In addition to employing such impressed troops against the American and British forces on the Etruscan and Apennine fronts, the Germans undoubtedly had expectations of using them against Italian Partisan bands now causing considerable damage in the rear of the actual front.

Another Fascist radio broadcast admitted that the town of Alba, in Piedmont, was one of the localities in Partisan hands.

GEN. CHEVES PUT IN COMMAND OF SUPPLY TO CHINA

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 11 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Gilbert Cheves, 49, of Washington, D. C., who has commanded the base section and port of Calcutta thru which flow supplies for China, today was appointed commanding general of services of supply for United States forces in China.

Col. R. R. Neyland Jr., 52, who has run the big advance supply section in China, succeeds Cheves in India. Cheves' assignment is a recognition of the importance of supply in this theater and the enlargement of operations which may follow the reopening of the Burma road, said the announcement from Gen. Wedemeyer's headquarters.

GERMANS HALT BRITISH ALONG ITALIAN CANAL

ROME, Nov. 11 (AP).—British 8th army troops grinding slowly forward from captured Forli in the eastern Po valley were halted today just outside the city at the Ravaldino canal, which they found the German tanks and infantry defending in considerable strength.

The canal runs from the northwest corner of Forli in a northeasterly direction. Southwest of Forli the Germans have taken up positions along the Montone river.

The Germans evacuated Castrocaro, about five miles southwest of Forli on highway 67, but they were still holding strongly in the hills to the west.

On the 5th army front below Bologna there was only aggressive patrolling and harassing German artillery fire, but troops of Indian divisions occupied Monte Budrialto.

THOUSANDS JOIN ARMISTICE DAY SALUTE TO DEAD

Solemn Observance in Contrast with 1918.

Under mournful skies that contrasted sharply with the sparkling weather of the first Armistice day, Chicago yesterday observed the 26th anniversary of the end of World War I.

The crowds, too, were radically different from those that turned the loop into one vast carnival ground on Nov. 11, 1918. One reason was that Armistice day has come to be a commemoration of the dead rather than a celebration of victory. Another—and one which was in nearly everybody's mind and on almost every speaker's lips—was that Americans were again facing and meeting death in war.

Thousands Fill Streets.

Thousands of sober faced people filled the intersection of State and Madison sts. where the principal ceremony took place. Civic leaders and veterans of both World wars briefly voiced their respect for the dead and their conviction that the living—on the home as well as the battle front—must continue the fight for the ideals for which those others had laid down their lives.

At 11 o'clock the speaking ceased, and as the throng faced east volley after volley of gunfire crashed out in salute to the dead. Into the silence which followed fell the grave music of taps. As the buglers finished and the silence surged back the sound of taps again was heard in the distance, this time from another loop observance of Armistice day.

The State st. ceremony was sponsored by the Allied War Veterans' council and the Carson Pirie Scott, Mandel Bros., and Marine posts of the American Legion. The Navy pier band and the band of the 740th military police battalion provided patriotic and martial music. The ceremony was preceded by a parade thru downtown streets in which army, navy, and marine units participated.

Other Observances Held.

A plea for generous public participation in the forthcoming sixth war loan was combined with the Armistice day observance. Francis M. Knight, Chicago and Cook county chairman of the drive, pointed out that service men have bought 719 million dollars' worth of bonds thru pay roll deductions and urged that civilians ask themselves whether they are doing their part.

Other observances were held at the Edison building, the Marshall Field & Co. store, at 35th st. and South Park way, the Museum of Science and Industry, the Oscar W. Hedstrom corporation, the Stewart-Warner corporation, and Union station. Evanston held its traditional Armistice day ceremony in Fountain square.

BUILDING READY TO HOUSE 1,500 PUPILS BY DEC. 1

The building at 41st st. and Michigan av. bought from the La Salle Extension university last summer, will be ready for use as a Chicago public elementary school by Dec. 1, John C. Christensen, board of education architect, said yesterday. It will accommodate 1,500 pupils. No date has been set for the opening of classes.

Christensen reported progress also on two other projects. One is the 20 room addition to Phillips elementary school, Pershing rd. and 39th st., which will be ready in the spring, and the other is the combined elementary and high school project at 132d st. and Corliss av., which will be ready about Feb. 1, Christensen said.

The federal government is paying approximately $300,000 of the $500,000 cost of the Corliss av. school, which is housed temporarily in a 12 unit building of the government housing project being erected in the locality.

But the federal works agency has been reluctant to approve funds for another south side elementary and high school project at 108th st. and Avenue H.

Sugar Stamp 34 Good for 5 Pounds Thursday

Sugar stamp 34 in war ration book 4 will be good for buying five pounds of sugar beginning Thursday, it was announced yesterday by Rae E. Walters, regional price administrator. The stamp, like other sugar stamps, will be good indefinitely for sugar. The other sugar stamps still valid are 30, 31, 32, and 33.

NEGRO FOUND SHOT TO DEATH.
Richard Carter, 21, a Negro, of 39 E. 60th st., was found shot to death yesterday at 42d st. and Indiana av., and police said they were endeavoring to learn whether he had been robbed.

TAVERN LOOTED OF $96, WHISKY.
Burglars who smashed their way thru a plate glass window to enter a tavern at 2638 Division st. yesterday stole $96 and whisky worth $45, Charles Spector, the owner, told police.

RITES IN TOWN OF LAFAYETTE AIR SQUADRON

Gen. Patch at Armistice Day Celebration.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LUXEUIL-LES-BAINS, France, Nov. 11.—In this little spa community where the Lafayette escadrille of American flyers was incorporated into the French army in the first World war, other Americans and French today observed Armistice day and the new bond of combat which this war has created between nations.

A plaque has stood on the wall of the town hall since April 20, 1916, commemorating the official reception of the escadrille into the French forces and today another marble rectangle was placed below it to mark the liberation of Luxeuil from the Germans Sept. 16, 1944, by the 3d, 36th, and 45th infantry divisions of the American army.

Gen. Patch Speaks.

At a later ceremony in the town hall square speakers included Lt. Gen. Patch, Maj. Gen. John W. Dahlquist, commanding the 36th division; Brig. Gen. Ned Schramm, deputy commander of the 1st tactical air force, and Jean Pattegay, mayor of Luxeuil.

Leading one American unit in a parade was 1st Lt. Warren E. Kieft, 911 State st., Lemont, Ill., and one of the 36th division flag bearers was Tech. Sgt. Earl O. Wascher of Champaign, Ill.

There was no Armistice day observance at the front. The doughboys fought on just west of the Meurthe river in the St. Die sector.

First Army Fights On.

WITH THE U. S. 1ST ARMY IN GERMANY, Nov. 11 (AP).—The big guns kept roaring in the battle of Germany today as the hands of watches reached the hour of 11 o'clock—when the guns were stilled in the last war.

Armistice day—cold, muddy, and gray—passed unheralded and hardly noticed in the 1st army area. Up in foxholes at the front the troops had no surcease from battle.

No Halt for 3d Army.

PARIS, Nov. 11 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Patton's tank-riding infantry swept on today toward Metz, already well beyond where Gen. John J. Pershing's foot-slogging doughboys were poised for a similar attack on the fortress city when armistice came in 1918.

For the new American 3d army forces, this was the first Armistice day on the western front.

"Cleansed of Hitler."

COMPIEGNE, France, Nov. 11 (AP).—Two hundred American soldiers participated in ceremonies today in the forest of Compiegne, where the armistice which ended the first World war was signed—and where Hitler, in June, 1940, imposed his armistice terms on France.

[The observance included a ceremony "to cleanse the place of the presence of Hitler," the American broadcasting station in Europe said. A torch lighted from the eternal flame of the unknown soldier's tomb under the Arc de Triomphe in Paris was carried here by relays of runners who set fire to 11 bonfires "to purify the site."]

Open Air Mass for Troops.

WITH THE NORTHERN GROUP OF ALLIED ARMIES, Nov. 11 (AP).—Observing Armistice day, allied troops held an open air high mass today, were reviewed by their commander, and then paraded thru the streets of the Dutch city they liberated.

Memorial at U. S. Cemetery.

ROMAGNE, France, Nov. 11 (AP).—Memorial services for 14,000 American dead who were buried in the Meuse-Argonne cemetery 26 years ago were resumed at 11 a. m. today for the first time since Armistice day of 1939.

Parade in Rome.

ROME, Nov. 11 (AP).—American, British, and French troops were reviewed in the Piazza Venezia in front of Mussolini's former headquarters today in observance of the 26th anniversary of the first World war armistice.

TAVERN'S WHISKY STOLEN.

Burglars entered the Jefferson Park lounge, a tavern, 5241 N. Cicero av., yesterday and stole eight cases of whisky worth $400, the owner, Al DiValerio, reported to police.

Tavern Killer

Ray Slechta, who killed tavern owner and wounded partner in robbery.

Sam Levine, wounded tavern man, at Mount Sinai hospital.

A coroner's jury yesterday recommended that Ray Slechta, 31, who shot and killed David Shetsky, 40, part owner of a tavern at 3408 W. 16th st., and wounded Shetsky's partner, Sam Levine, 38, during a robbery at the tavern early Saturday, be held to the grand jury on a murder charge.

Twenty-five patrons, including several women, were in the tavern when Slechta, an ex-convict of 1627 S. Kedvale av., entered. He wore a handkerchief mask and carried a revolver. Slechta took $80 from the cash register and backed from the room, followed by Levine, who threatened him with a bar stool.

The robber stepped outside and was met by Shetsky, who grappled with him. As they fell, Slechta fired twice, killing Shetsky. Levine then hurled the stool at Slechta, who shot Levine in the right hip. Tavern patrons disarmed Slechta and held him until police arrived. Levine, who lives at 3620 W. 16th st., was taken to Mount Sinai hospital where attendants say he will recover.

Shetsky is survived by his widow, Rose, and three children, of 1626 Millard av.

RESA, POINTING GLOBAL PERILS, SEES U. S. ALONE

Expressing doubt as to the success of any international organization, Alexander J. Resa, elected Tuesday as representative of the 9th Illinois district, asserted yesterday he favored the employment of every possible means of world coöperation so that "if they all fail we will then have a completely united America trusting in herself alone."

Resa, who defeated Rep. Charles S. Dewey, Republican, in last Tuesday's vote that swept Republicans out of office in every Chicago district they had held except the 10th, said he was not convinced that any kind of an international organization that might be set up could attain permanent peace.

"We have been told that our failure to join the league after the last war and our omissions to coöperate in later events brought on the present war," he said. "I want every possible device used, and I hope one of them succeeds.

"But if they all fail we will not have any group in America saying we should have done this or that. We will have a nation united completely, not as isolationists, not for America first, but for America alone."

WATCHES AND RAZOR STOLEN.

Three wristwatches and an electric shaver, all valued at $130, were stolen by burglars who entered his home yesterday, Secundo Peota, 2501 New England av., reported to police.

VETS' TRAINING IN SERVICE TO AID SCHOOL CREDITS

Military training will be evaluated by high school superintendents in Cook county in compiling educational credits for war veterans who return to school, Noble J. Puffer, county superintendent of schools, said yesterday.

High school credits will be given for completed courses in specialized military training. "A Guide to the Evaluation of Educational Experiences in the Armed Services."

The North Central association and the American Association of Secondary School Principals have indorsed the American council's handbook.

FRANCE INVITED TO HELP SHAPE PEACE TERMS

Allies Offer Full Voice on Advisory Commission.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11 (AP).—France will have a full voice in imposing justice upon a defeated Germany.

Even those points that the "big three" already had decided apparently have been reopened to incorporate French ideas.

Germany may be split four ways instead of three for occupation purposes.

These appeared tonight to be the main prospects raised by announcement that France had been invited to sit with the United States, Great Britain, and Russia on the European advisory commission. The invitation was extended at Paris and was announced here by Acting Secretary of State Stettinius.

[David Darrah, Paris correspondent for The Tribune, said the French ministry of information issued a statement last night that France would sit in the London conferences on a basis of complete equality.]

The main work of the commission is planning the occupation and control of Germany. Progress has been made recently on these problems but none of the work embraced French ideas. The French had refused to give their counsel unless they could share in the decisions and responsibilities.

Five Power Era Seen.

The announcement today, following allied recognition of the administration of Gen. De Gaulle as the provisional government of France, marked the end of exclusive "big three" domination in Europe.

Assuming that France accepts the invitation and that China is counted in, a "five power" era for the erection of world peace machinery appears to be opening. In preparation for this the United States, Britain, Russia, and China agreed at Dumbarton Oaks that "in due course" France should be counted as one of the powerful permanent five members of the proposed world security council.

Today's action presumably means that the qualification "in due course" has been met.

Some time ago the advisory commission asked all the smaller allied countries of Europe and also France to submit ideas for handling Germany. All did except France.

The commission already had worked out and Moscow, Washington, and London had approved a set of terms to be imposed after Germany's surrender. The commission also had obtained approval of a three-way-split plan for occupying Germany.

Peace Terms up Again.

Many diplomatic officials were surprised to read in the announcement of France's new position that "among the matters which are receiving close attention of the commission is the question of the surrender terms to be imposed on Germany and the treatment to be accorded that country."

This appeared to mean that every issue of German control, beginning with the surrender terms, will be brought up for review.

F. D. R. Honors Unknown Soldier

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Visits Arlington

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11 (AP).—President Roosevelt stood without topcoat in a chilly breeze at Arlington National cemetery today to pay the nation's annual homage at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Standing beside War Secretary Stimson and Navy Secretary Forrestal, he watched Maj. Gen. Edwin M. Watson, his chief military aid, lay a large oval wreath of chrysanthemums at the foot of the marble sarcophagus. A small guard of soldiers, sailors, and marines participated as several hundred spectators looked on.

Edward N. Scheiberling, national commander of the American Legion, said in his address that America had broken its promises to the Unknown Soldier and his comrades of the last war.

"This time," he declared, "we do not say it must not happen again. This time we say it shall not happen again.

"We cannot leave the making of peace to statesmen alone. This time we who have fought in the battles will help formulate the terms of an enduring peace."

DEWEYS LEAVE FOR VACATION AT SEA ISLAND

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 11 (AP).—Gov. Dewey left Albany today en route to Sea Island, Ga., for a two or three weeks' rest away from politics.

The governor was accompanied by Mrs. Dewey, their two sons, Thomas Jr., 12, and John Martin, 8, and Paul S. Lockwood, the governor's secretary.

WELDER WINNIE IN LOVE, WOMEN SAY, WITH PAY

Winnie the Welder and all her war working sisters have fallen in love with a regular pay check and they are not going to be shoved out of their jobs during peace time conversion without a struggle, according to members of the Illinois and Wisconsin Woman's Trade Union league, meeting in the Morrison hotel.

"A lot of today's working women do not have a strong preference as to the kind of job they have tomorrow," Miss Frieda Miller, director of the women's bureau, United States department of labor said. "They would just as soon be back in the beauty parlor or kitchen, but they are going to insist upon better pay, improved working conditions, and regular hours.

"The war has wised them up to better pay and regular hours and they won't forget it," she added.

The 200 delegates attending the convention have a four-point program designed to protect the labor gains of women: [1] the enforcement of the women's eight hour bill; [2] strict enforcement of equal pay for equal work bill; [3] greater representation of women in government agencies and bureaus, particularly the department of labor; [4] no post-war discrimination against women who hold equal seniority with men. Equal emphasis will be placed upon each point, said Mary White, chairman of the conference.

A national survey among women in war work indicates that three-fourths intend to keep working, Miss Miller announced.

Miss Miller, who was the industrial commissioner of New York state from 1938 to 1943, resigned to go to London as special assistant to Ambassador Winant.

THIEVES GET $25, RADIO, WHISKY.

CHURCHILL BIDS FOR ALLIANCE IN VISIT TO PARIS

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 11.— A fundamental principle of British policy is an alliance with France, Prime Minister Churchill of Britain told a dinner here tonight.

Churchill earlier on this Armistice day had opened conferences with the French provisional government that are expected to center in the restoration of France as a first rate power.

Gen. De Gaulle, head of the provisional government, was Churchill's host at the dinner.

"We are glad to see in the presence of our guests an occasion awaited for a long time in our capital," De Gaulle said, "but also a practical manifestation of an alliance which cruel vicissitudes make it more and more necessary to continue."

Two Nations "Indispensable."

Churchill said in reply:

"It's difficult for me to speak on a day charged with such great emotion. For 35 years I have defended the cause of friendship, comradeship, and alliance of France and Britain. Thruout my life I have never varied from that policy. Our two nations have shared for so many years the glory of western Europe that they have become indispensable to each other. One of the fundamental principles of British policy is that an alliance with France should be unshakable, constant, and effective."

Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden of Britain arrived here by plane early last night but the news was not disclosed until 11 this morning, when Paris stood silent a minute to honor the country's war dead.

Honor Unknown Soldier.

At official Armistice day ceremonies Churchill and De Gaulle together placed a wreath on the unknown soldier's tomb under the Arc de Triomphe.

The two rode up the Champs-Elysees amid the cheers of thousands who packed the sidewalks. They watched a 45 minute parade, including units of all France's armed forces, and later laid wreaths on the tombs of Georges Clemenceau, World War I. premier of France, and Marshal Ferdinand Foch, who directed the allied armies that defeated Germany.

STRAIGHT LINE DESIGN CLEANS TEETH BEST SAY DENTISTS 2 to 1

How Dentists Voted on Brushing Surface Designs
There are only these 3 basically different brushing surface designs among all leading tooth brushes sold today:

Straight Line Design — Tufts all set in a straight line
Concave Design — Tufted higher at ends, lower in middle
Convex Design — Tufted higher in middle, lower at ends

When 30,000 dentists were asked which of these designs cleaned teeth best—by overwhelming odds, by more than 2 to 1—the answers were: "Straight Line Design"!

Every PEPSODENT Brush has the Straight Line Design most dentists recommend for cleaning teeth best

In an impartial, nation-wide survey among 30,000 dentists . . . Straight Line Design won over the other widely used types. 2 out of 3 dentists declared it most effective for cleaning teeth!

You no longer have to guess which tooth brush to buy...which design cleans teeth best. Now, for the first time—you have the opinions of thousands of dentists to guide you!

In a nation-wide survey, just completed, an independent research organization asked 30,000 dentists: "Which tooth brushing surface design, in your opinion, is most efficient for routine home brushing of the teeth?" By overwhelming odds, the answers were: "Straight Line Design!" And that's the design you get in every Pepsodent Tooth Brush! 2 out of 3 dentists declared Straight Line Design cleaned teeth best! Dentists preferred it 2 to 1 over the other two designs combined!

Moreover—Pepsodent's brush head is small and compact, easy to use. Feels comfortable even far back in the mouth, where teeth are hardest to get at.

In choosing your next tooth brush—get the design most dentists recommend. Remember, 2 out of 3 dentists chose Straight Line Design as the design that cleans teeth best!

Why Pepsodent's Straight Line Design Cleans Teeth Best

Despite popular belief, it is a fact most teeth in the average mouth lie in a series of relatively straight lines.

These diagrams represent the two extreme types of dental arch. Even in these extremes, note that most teeth are in relatively straight lines. Pepsodent's Straight Line Design fits more teeth better than convex or concave designs. Actually, Pepsodent's Straight Line Design cleans up to 30% more tooth surface per stroke.

CONGRESS FACES EARLY ACTION ON KIMMEL, SHORT

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—Congress will resume work Tuesday, after the election recess, with many important legislative matters on its program.

One of major concern will be the court martial trials of the Pearl Harbor commanders, Rear. Adm. Husband E. Kimmel and Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short. Since the army and navy have given no indication of plans for immediate trials, it is expected congress will vote another extension of the time in which the trials may be held.

Such a vote must be taken before Dec. 7 unless action against the commanders is to be dropped, since the previous extension of the statute of limitations will expire Dec. 7. Unless another extension is authorized, the commanders would no longer be subject to trial.

May Await Reports.

It has been predicted congress will demand an immediate trial, but political leaders say that any action will probably await a report to congress on the recent investigations of the Pearl Harbor disaster that it ordered made by the army and navy.

The navy has indicated it will make public its report within two weeks, and some announcement from the army is expected soon.

Both commanders are understood to welcome a trial which their friends say will exonerate them and place the blame upon the Roosevelt administration.

Congressional leaders will also be working against time on the proposed extension of the President's war powers act, which expires Dec. 31. This is the legislation by which congress conferred sweeping powers upon President Roosevelt for direction of the war.

Move to Block Tax Raise.

Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] will present a bill to prevent the automatic doubling of the 1 per cent social security tax, scheduled to take effect Jan. 1. Sen. Vandenberg has twice previously prevented automatic increases to 2 per cent on the ground that the social security reserves are adequate at the present rate.

Flood control legislation will probably also be taken soon in the expectation that action may be taken before the 78th congress expires on Dec. 31.

Some members of congress were returning from their homes today, but it was expected many would be slow in getting back, and that there would be relatively little accomplished during the first week. The senate is expected to recess until Thursday, soon after convening, and then to take a second recess until the following week.

Police Asked to Search for Two Missing Girls, 14

Police have been asked to look for two 14 year old girls, Terry Wojtanowski, 8242 Marquette av., and Nancy Podlin, 8342 Saginaw av., who disappeared Nov. 3 after leaving home for school. Both girls formerly worked part time at the South Shore Country club and their parents believe they may have sought jobs as waitresses. Both girls are blonde. Terry is a freshman at Bowen High school, and Nancy was attending Coles school.

ADMITS FLEEING AFTER STOLEN CAR INJURES 2

HERE'S A WHO'S WHO OF NATION'S NEW GOVERNORS

16 to Take Over Posts as State Chiefs.

Sixteen new governors will take over in state mansions thruout the country within a few weeks as the result of the elections. The same number of incumbent chief executives were returned to office in other states by voters Tuesday. No gubernatorial elections were held this year in the remaining 16 states. The newcomers are 10 Democrats and six Republicans. "Get acquainted" sketches the new governors follow:

NORTH CAROLINA.

R. Gregg Cherry knows this time he has been elected to office—as governor of his home state—a circumstance differing from his first election to public office. He was in France, a captain in the AEF, when a friend he chanced to meet in the spring of 1919 informed him his friends back home in Gastonia had elected him mayor, which was news to Cherry.

That first election ended a long series of struggles for an orphan kid. His mother had died at childbirth and his father died when Cherry was 7. The boy was reared by his maternal grandparents on a farm. He worked his way thru Trinity college [now Duke university] with a variety of jobs and was a star basketball center.

He served several terms as mayor of Gastonia and served in either the state house or senate in every session between 1931 and 1943. At 52 he is a conscientious Democrat, churchman, and political leader.

MAINE.

Horace A. Hildreth climbed from political obscurity to the governorship in less than four years. In 1940 Hildreth, a Portland lawyer and businessman, was elected to fill an unexpired term as state representative. That same year he was elected to the state senate, was reelected in 1942, and this year took the top state job.

Hildreth has a twin brother, Charles. Their striking resemblance to each other has caused confusion for years, especially when they played opposite ends on the Bowdoin college football team four years. In the present campaign, people whom Charles passed without recognition later accused Horace of snubbing them. The twins finally had to remedy the situation by Charles growing a mustache.

Hildreth, 42, is tall, athletic, Republican, and the son of a former county prosecutor. He is married and the father of four children.

IDAHO.

Charles C. Gossett, who describes himself as "just plain dirt farmer," got his start in politics by mixing with rural folks and helping them form organizations to better themselves. He is a good listener and still bends a sympathetic ear to street corner advice.

Gossett, a Democrat, came west from Ohio as a young man, homesteaded in Oregon, then located in Idaho's Snake river valley near Nampa, where he takes pride in his sheep. He served two terms in the state assembly and two as lieutenant governor. In 1938 he campaigned unsuccessfully for his party's nomination for governor and in 1942 was a losing candidate for nomination to the United States senate.

He is 56, has a wife and three sons, one in the army. His favorite recreation is hunting and fishing—unless it interferes with a sheep auction.

WASHINGTON.

Mon C. Wallgren reversed the usual procedure by trading his job as United States senator for the governorship. He virtually was drafted by the Democrats to run against Arthur B. Langlie, strong Republican candidate who was given a 3 to 1 chance to win. Much support for the genial Scandinavian Wallgren came from the state's large representation of Scandinavians.

His wife predicts they'll have billiard tables in the governor's mansion in Olympia, because Wallgren is a cue expert. He won the national amateur balkline billiard championship in 1929 and previously had been state champion. He also took part in state golf tournaments.

Wallgren formerly was associated with his father, now 93, in a jewelry and optometrist business in Everett. He was born in Des Moines, Ia. He spent the last 12 years in congress, eight in the house and four in the senate.

ARKANSAS.

Ben T. Laney, quiet, short of stature, was born on a farm and had to work his way thru school, but is now one of the wealthiest men in the state. As a school teacher he invested his meager pay in Arkansas farm land on which oil later was discovered. He now has extensive business interests in addition to his oil and farm holdings.

Practically unknown in state politics last spring, Laney made a whirlwind entry and conducted a vigorous campaign. He served as mayor of Camden but when those who had learned not to expect social favors from him were ready for a change, they got it. Laney knows he faces the same prospect as chief executive, but has announced his determination to "be the governor" for two years, anyway.

Laney is of Scotch-Irish descent, was a champion speller in school, is married and has three sons, likes golf, fishing, and hunting.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Maurice J. Tobin, once a newspaper boy and helper for an old clothes man, has upset all predictions of those who scoffed at his aspirations and called him a presumptuous kid. In 17 years in politics he climbed to his state's highest office after having served several terms as mayor of Boston.

His popularity was so great he was able to come off the victor in turning against Rep. James M. Curley [D., Mass.] at the height of the latter's great power. Curley, who also served as governor and as mayor of Boston, refused to name him a delegate to the national Democratic convention in 1936 but Tobin won the post on a ballot and then defeated Curley to win his first terms as mayor.

Tobin was the eldest child of Irish immigrants who came to Boston more than 50 years ago. He is tall, handsome, is married and has two daughters and a son.

TENNESSEE.

Jim Nance McCord once was a traveling salesman selling soap and fertilizer, but later blossomed into a nationally known auctioneer of livestock. He claims he has sold "every imported Jersey animal sold at auction in the United States or Canada since 1925." His campaign for the governorship was interrupted by his invitation to Columbus, O., to conduct a "sale of stars" live stock auction.

Between other activities, McCord found time to be mayor of Lewisburg, Tenn., for 25 consecutive years and member of the County court there for an equal span. He still owns the Lewisburg Gazette, a weekly newspaper, in which he bought an interest in 1901 soon after marrying the publisher's daughter.

He was elected to congress in 1942 without opposition and had only nominal opposition in winning the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. For one of the few times in his 65 years McCord will be unemployed for a short period between swapping his seat as 5th district congressman and taking over as governor.

OHIO.

Frank J. Lausche, mayor of Cleveland who will be Ohio's next governor, was rated by his state's political experts as without a chance to win that post. Now he is being hailed as an outstanding Democratic vote getter. It was a battle of mayors in his victory over Republican James Garfield Stewart, mayor of Cincinnati.

The son of Slovenian immigrants, Lausche—whose name rhymes with "how she"—is a tousle haired man of 49. He is serving his second term as mayor and previously had been a municipal and common pleas judge, during which time he crusaded against Cleveland gambling interests.

In his successful bid to succeed Gov. John Bricker, the G. O. P. Vice Presidential nominee, Lausche received strong support from labor, especially the CIO-PAC. In 1928 he married Jane Sheal, a Cleveland lamp shade designer.

MISSOURI.

Phil M. Donnelly at 53 is a strapping 6 footer with a trim 200 pound figure, firm jaw, flashing gray eyes, and graying hair. Big and dignified, he seldom smiles and is known as a last ditch fighter for legislation he favors.

His election as governor climaxed a public career of 22 years as a state legislator, the last 20 as senator. He has held every major office in the senate and has sponsored some of Missouri's most important legislation.

A Democrat, Donnelly has the support also of the CIO political action committee in his election. His home town of Lebanon made national news by casting exactly the same number of votes—1,731—for him and for his opponent, Jean Paul Bradshaw, an attorney, also of Lebanon.

FLORIDA.

Millard Fillmore Caldwell toured Florida in a model "A" Ford, nailing up his own posters, during his campaign for governor. A Democrat, he has a record of never having been defeated in public office.

Stretching 6 feet 2¾ inches without his narrow size 12 shoes, Caldwell is probably the tallest man in Florida public life. He is rugged, lanky, unassuming, a forceful orator, and a hot debater. During an interview he asks as many questions as he answers. Born in Tennessee and raised in Virginia, he still has a touch of Tennessee twang in his easy going speech.

Like his father before him, he practices law and lives on a farm—700 acres near Tallahassee, the state capital, where he has a herd of 200 milk and beef cattle. His two daughters, 15 and 17, ride horseback with him thru his cattle range. He served as congressman for four consecutive terms, two terms in the state legislature, and as city, county, and school board attorney.

IOWA.

Robert D. Blue will know his way around the capital when he takes over as governor in January, for he will be moving up from lieutenant governor. His victory marked attainment of a goal he set at the outset of his political career many years ago; he said he never has had any aspirations to go to Washington.

At 46 Blue has graying hair, is slight of stature, and noted for his sartorial neatness. He is a Republican and has practiced law 22 years in his native city of Eagle Grove, Ia. He hung out his shingle there soon after being graduated from Drake university.

Blue's tightest squeeze in politics was in 1938, when he was returned to the state house of representatives by 21 votes in an election which was contested. He served four terms in the house, where he was Republican floor leader during two terms and speaker in 1941. Previously he had been a county attorney. He is a veteran of the World war, a Methodist, is married, and has two children. He operates a 150 acre farm near Eagle Grove.

VERMONT.

Mortimer R. Proctor is following the political footsteps of his father and grandfather, both of whom served as governors of Vermont. His rise to the state's highest public office has been as traditional as Vermont's rock-ribbed Republicanism.

The Proctor family came into political prominence when Grandpa Redfield Proctor was elected lieutenant governor in 1876. But even Mortimer's great-great-grandfather, Jabez, had a finger in politics as founder of the Vermont community of Proctorsville, member of its executive committee and with service twice as a Presidential elector. Redfield was governor in 1879 and Mortimer's father, Fletcher, was governor in 1906.

Mortimer served three terms in the state house of representatives and one in the state senate before becoming lieutenant governor from which—following Vermont custom—he has moved up to governor.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Charles M. Dale, 51, Republican lawyer and four times mayor of Portsmouth who will be New Hampshire's next governor, was born on a farm in Brown's Valley, Minn. As a hobby, he supervises operation of his 150 acre farm at Northampton and frequently arises at 5 a. m. to milk his herd of registered Jersey cows.

Short, fair complexioned and with gray, thinning hair, Dale enlisted in the Coast Guard shortly after graduation from the University of Minnesota law school in 1917. He was mustered out a first lieutenant in 1919 and opened a law office at Portsmouth.

In addition to his four terms as mayor, Dale was city solicitor, three times a state senator, and a member of the governor's council.

INDIANA.

Ralph F. Gates has spent his entire life in Columbia City, where he has practiced law since the World war. He is a former state commander of the American Legion and has served on the Legion's nationalism committee.

Gates has a record of more than 20 years' service with the Republican party in Indiana. He resigned the state chairmanship to campaign for election as governor and previously had served as chairman of state districts.

He is a graduate of the University of Michigan, from which he received a bachelor of law degree. He is married and has two children. A son is an army lieutenant serving in the Southwest Pacific.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Fred G. Aandahl still lives on the farm near Litchville, N. D., where he was born 47 years ago. However, he has added to the original homestead to bring the total landholding to 960 acres, on which he raises Black Angus cattle.

Aandahl was graduated from the University of North Dakota and taught school five years. Then he served six years in the state senate, following the footsteps of his politically minded father, Sam, a founder of North Dakota's Nonpartisan league. But Fred now is a member of the Republican organization as opposed to the league.

The governor elect doesn't drink liquor or use tobacco. He is married and has three daughters.

WEST VIRGINIA.

Clarence W. Meadows is a mild mannered small town judge and ardent golfer. He qualified for the national amateur golf tourney several years ago. He is married and has three daughters.

Meadows' election as governor climaxed a 14 year career in state politics that included terms as county prosecutor, legislator, and state attorney general. He is a judge of the Raleigh-Boone county Circuit court and an attorney of Beckley, W. Va.

Meadows, a Democrat, at 41 will be one of the youngest men to occupy the state's executive mansion. Both he and Mrs. Meadows are members of the Baptist church, where Meadows has conducted a Sunday school class for several years.

CANADIANS PUT PLANES ON SALE AT AIR PARLEY

Bargains in Flying Boats for Quick Delivery.

BY FRANK HUGHES.

Flying boats manufactured by Canadian Vickers Ltd. are being peddled, for immediate delivery, in the Stevens hotel where the international civil aviation conference is holding forth, it was learned yesterday. No priorities are required as is the case in purchases of planes in the United States.

The offer came in a telegram to the Cuban delegation from an American agent in New York City. The Cubans were requested to pass the information on to other Latin American delegations, which they have done. The telegram read:

"Twenty Canadian Vickers Ltd. flying boats Stranrear model useful load 7,750 pounds original purchase price 1940 to 1942 $217,000 each now available for ⅓ to ¼ original price. Condition guaranteed. Complete information on planes in Janes of 1940 and Aerosphere of 1942. If Mexican, Central American or South American governments or air lines interested please contact Mr. N. J. Davenport, 551 5th av., New York, N. Y.

"[Signed] Mr. N. J. Davenport."

Freezeout Hint Causes Chuckles.

Some Latin American delegates, who of course cannot be named, are chuckling over the report that Adolf A. Berle, assistant secretary of state and chairman of the United States delegation at the conference, has been attempting to force their countries into line by hinting that they won't get American aircraft, released by the government, unless they play ball with the New Deal on air policy.

Some of the delegates took this as a sly innuendo which meant "or else." They say that Berle also mentioned that all new air lines coming to the United States would have to be certified by the civil aeronautics board, whose decisions have to be approved by President Roosevelt.

Berle has been trying to force thru adoption of a "standard form" for air agreements between nations to last from the end of the war to whatever time a permanent global air pact is ratified, if ever it is. This document includes clauses pledging the nations which use it to "nondiscrimination, nonexclusivity, most favored nation treatment, and freedom of transit . . . necessary for the operation of the services agreed upon."

"Give Away" Called Dangerous.

This diplomatic talk, the delegates say, adds up to a give away of air rights that they think is unnecessary and dangerous. None of the pre-war commercial agreements negotiated by American companies with Latin America pledged this country to such concessions.

The Latin Americans wanted to insert a clause in Berle's "standard form" interim agreement providing that a nation may negotiate with a private company, an idea which was used in Latin America, with mutual profit, by Pan American Airways and its European competitors. This is contrary to state department policy, however. The state department wants to have control of all such proceedings.

The Canadian flying boats offered for sale are not war junk, but reconditioned if not new, and apparently Canadian war surplus, it was said.

They are suitable for use by many Latin American air lines because they land on water and do not require construction of costly new airports.

Informed persons say Canada sold 100 Beechcraft type advanced trainers capable of carrying four people in civil use, to Mexico a couple of weeks ago.

Chinese Reserve Air Rights.

Chang Kia-ngau, chairman of the Chinese delegation, said in a press conference yesterday that China does not favor opening the air wide to the planes of all nations, a policy put forward by the British and Canadians. China, he said, wants to reserve the right of transit thru her skies and make it contingent upon agreements regarding commercial entry.

American observers said that this sums up neatly the position that the more nationalistic minded think the United States ought to take. Berle, however, has written a "freedom of transit" provision into the stand presented as the official American position.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 11 (AP).—Counsel for John D. Spreckels III., sugar fortune heir, filed a cross-complaint for divorce against Mrs. Mary Lavinia Spreckels today, alleging infidelity. The action followed a court order yesterday awarding Mrs. Spreckels $475 monthly alimony pending trial of her separate maintenance suit. Spreckels' cross-complaint listed dates on which he "is informed and believes" that her alleged misconduct took place.

GIANT SEAPLANE DOFFS WAR HUE AND ADDS SPEED

War time camouflage has been removed from the Mars, largest flying boat in the world, now in navy transport service between San Francisco and Honolulu, representatives of the Glenn L. Martin company of Baltimore, Md., builders of the 70 ton craft, disclosed yesterday. Removal of its war paint lightens the craft 680 pounds and cuts 100 gallons off its fuel requirements for a flight to Hawaii. Decrease in weight also increases the ship's cruising speed 4.3 miles an hour. Payload is increased about 1,200 pounds, engineers said.

CANADA BREAKS HER OWN TRAIL ON AIR POLICIES

BY CARL WIEGMAN.

Canada, which once was content to let Great Britain do the talking for her, is speaking for herself at the international civil aviation conference at the Stevens hotel. As her spokesmen she has sent a brilliant delegation headed by a Yankee born engineer who, for the last five years, has been the biggest business man in the dominion.

C. D. Howe.

The chairman of the delegation is Clarence Decatur Howe, minister of reconstruction and also minister of munitions and supply. He is a stocky, broad shouldered man, whose hair has whitened since the beginning of the war while he has carried the burden of directing Canada's great war production program.

Unified Transport Agencies.

Howe was born 58 years ago in Waltham, Mass., was graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and went to Canada in 1908 to become professor of civil engineering at Dalhousie university, Halifax, N. S. Later he founded his own firm of consulting engineers. In 1935 he was elected to the federal parliament, and was made minister of railways and canals and minister of marine.

Under Howe, Trans-Canada Air Lines came into being. Two years ago he started to develop a Canadian plan for regulation of international civil aviation.

His right hand man in this task was H. J. Symington, president of Trans-Canada, who is known as one of the foremost lawyers in Canada.

Resent "Bloc" References.

Canadians resent references to an "empire bloc," and at the conference in the Stevens hotel they have consistently presented their views as an independent, sovereign nation.

What Canada wants is an international air authority like the civil aeronautics board in the United States, with power to deal with international air lines as public utilities.

If the plan for a strong central air board is rejected, Canada believes it has enough chips to hold its own in the post-war poker game for air traffic.

A. of C. to Hear Newton on Technology of Food

R. C. Newton, vice president of Swift & Co., will tell about "New Developments in Food Technology" at a meeting of the Chicago Association of Commerce at noon Wednesday in the La Salle hotel. It will be the first of a series of meetings devoted to the theme "What's New in Science for Business?"

20 Identify Ex-Convict as Passer of Bad Checks

Thomas McLaughlin, 39, of 6243 Woodlawn av., ex-convict who served 18 months in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas., was identified yesterday at the Woodlawn av. police station by 20 victims who had cashed his allegedly spurious checks. McLaughlin was arrested by Woodlawn police Friday night at the South Shore currency exchange, 2110 E. 71st st., where he tried to cash a $50 check.

ELECTRIC LINES' STRIKERS STAND PAT ON 9c RAISE

U. S. Operation Held Only Alternate Solution.

Operating trainmen on strike on the North Shore and Aurora-Elgin railroads, electric lines serving northern and western suburbs, said yesterday that the raise of 5 cents an hour recommended by the President's emergency panel would mean an average net increase of only 60 cents a week after deduction of income taxes.

They declared they will hold out for a raise of 9 cents an hour or until the government takes over the lines. An order for government operation would come from the White House, which has given no sign that it intends to intervene and to which no request for intervention has been made by either side.

The 500 strikers, members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, stopped work Friday, forcing 75,000 commuters to use automobiles, buses, steam railroads, and other means of transportation.

Political Domination Charged.

"The trouble is that these two roads have been dominated for more than 20 years by politicians who have operated the electric lines in a manner such as no private corporation would countenance," said Daniel B. Miller, vice president of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen.

"These politicians treat the North Shore and Aurora-Elgin trainmen as interurban men, not as regular railroad men. They get $8.60 a day for a job that would pay $17.20 at steam railroad rates."

A. A. Sprague is co-receiver of the Aurora-Elgin. He has been active in the Democratic party. He has been paid fees totaling $414,000 since 1932, when the two suburban lines and the Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated] went into receivership. Until March 30, 1943, he received $500 a month as receiver of the North Shore. He is paid $500 a month as co-receiver of the Aurora-Elgin and $2,000 a month as trustee of the elevated.

Bernard J. Fallon is the other co-receiver of the Aurora-Elgin. He receives no fee as receiver, but is paid $20,000 yearly as executive officer of all three lines. The North Shore is in process of reorganization.

Effect of Raise Computed.

Miller said the trainmen would pay back most of their 5 cent an hour raise to the government in income tax, if they accepted it.

"A motorman gets $95.68 every two weeks," he said. "If he has one child, his tax is $15.40, leaving him the take-home pay of $80.28. The 5 cent raise offered by the President's panel would boost his bi-monthly pay to $100.88, putting him in a new income tax bracket, and his net would be $81.48, after deducting $19.40. So his net increase would be 60 cents a week."

Miller said a raise of 9 cents an hour would give the men a net wage of $85.64 twice a month. Their gross checks would be $105.04, and tax would be $19.40.

Refunds for unused portions of multi-fare tickets invalidated by the strike will be made immediately at ticket offices, H. A. Lytle, a company official, announced.

Getting Up Nights
Nervousness and Kidney Strain

If you're feeling out o'sorts, Get Up Nights or suffer from Burning Passages, Backache, Swollen Ankles, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Dizziness, Circles Under Eyes and feel worn-out, the cause may be non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles.

Worry, Colds, working too hard, or overeating or drinking may create an excess of Acids and overload your Kidneys so that they need help to flush out poisonous wastes that might otherwise undermine your health.

Help Kidneys Remove Acids

Nature provides the Kidneys to clean and purify your blood and to remove excess Acids. The Kidneys contain about nine million tiny tubes or filters through which the heart pumps blood about 200 times an hour, night and day, so it's easy to see that they may get tired and slow down when overloaded.

Nearly 30 years ago a practicing physician's prescription called Cystex was made available to the public through drug stores, making it easy and inexpensive to help thousands suffering from non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles in these three simple ways: 1. Help the Kidneys remove excess acids which may become poisoning and irritating. 2. To palliate burning and smarting of the urinary passages, and bladder irritation. 3. Help the Kidneys flush out wastes which may become poisonous if allowed to accumulate, thus aiding nature in stimulating an increase of energy, which may easily make you feel years younger.

Liberal Trial Offer

To prove that Cystex may be the very medicine you need accept this fair-play trial offer: Get a supply of Cystex from your druggist today. Take it exactly as directed and watch for quick help, a rapid increase in pep, more youthful feeling and a new joy in living. You must be completely satisfied and highly delighted or you simply return the empty package and your money back is guaranteed.

Tear this out. Take it to your druggist. Be sure to get genuine, guaranteed Cystex which is scientifically produced under the direction of a licensed physician, and used by millions throughout the world. Three guaranteed Cystex sizes—35c, 75c, $1.55.

CIGARET INQUIRY TURNS TO PROFIT OF WHOLESALER

Investigation of the shortage of cigarets was directed into a new channel yesterday when complaints were made that wholesalers are favoring retail dealers who receive lower rates of discount and thus are increasing wholesalers' profits.

John M. Meyers, executive secretary of the Chicago Retail Druggists' association, asked officials of the Chicago metropolitan area office of price administration to look into this phase of the wholesalers' business. A conference was arranged for 2:30 p. m. tomorrow, when Meyers and R. F. Heyna, vice president of the association, which includes 1,500 druggists, will meet with area OPA officials.

Wholesalers have in effect different discount rates to retail customers, depending on the volume of their purchases, Meyers pointed out when he conferred with Sam L. Lane, tobacco price specialist in the metropolitan OPA offices.

The discount rate varies from 5 to 10 per cent. By reducing the amount of merchandise delivered to dealers allowed the higher rate and increasing it to those given the lower rate, wholesalers in effect are increasing their own income, Meyers said.

Traffic on North Avenue Bridge to Suspend Today

Traffic will be closed on the North Avenue bridge from 7 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. today for a painting job, W. W. DeBerard, city engineer, said yesterday.

NEW PRESIDENT TAKES HELM AT BELOIT COLLEGE

Beloit, Wis., Nov. 11 [Special].—Dr. Carey Croneis was inaugurated president of Beloit college today in the First Congregational church. Dr. Croneis, who is Beloit's fifth president, formerly was a professor of geology at the University of Chicago. He is 43.

Honorary degrees were conferred at the ceremonies on Dean Charles W. Gilkey of Rockefeller chapel, University of Chicago [doctor of humane letters]; Dr. Fay-Cooper Cole, department of anthropology, University of Chicago [doctor of laws], and President Virgil M. Hancher, University of Iowa [doctor of letters].

Others taking part in the inaugural ceremony were Miss Jean Hovorka of 1829 S. Clarence, Berwyn, Ill., a senior at Beloit; Leverett S. Lyon, chief executive of the Chicago Association of Commerce, a graduate of Beloit.

THE GREAT PEACE.

Despite all man's inhumanity to man, the thousand wars, and all the bad faith and betrayals of recorded time, the desire for lasting peace thru international organization will not down. The latest to follow the gleam are the stiff gentlemen who met in their starch and striped pants at Dumbarton Oaks and produced the tentative draft of a world security organization to be known as the united nations.

The forest glades somehow have always been congenial to the erection of these covenants. Dumbarton Oaks was a park as neatly kept as the diplomats who congregated there. Before that there had been the still more formal woods and parks of Versailles. And much before either of them there had been the assembly of the peacemakers in the forest primeval, among the murmuring pines and the hemlocks, on the shores of Onondaga lake in New York state.

It might come as something of a surprise to those who have given their labors a considerable acclaim that the gentlemen of Dumbarton Oaks, with their unbending protocol and their conscious dignity as the representatives of the great powers, had been anticipated almost 400 years by rude savages dressed in skins and wearing feathers in their hair. But in detail no less than general plan the Iroquois confederacy provides the blueprint for their work.

In its statement of purposes the "Great Immutable Law" of the Indian peacemakers differs from the proposed Dumbarton Oaks covenant only in possessing a more picturesque imagery. The preamble stated: "I, Dekanawida, and the confederate lords now uproot the tallest pine tree and into the cavity thereby made we cast all weapons of war. Into the depths of the earth, down into the deep underearth currents of water flowing into unknown regions we cast all weapons of strife. We bury them from sight forever and plant again the tree. Thus shall all great peace be established and hostilities shall no longer be known among the Five Nations, but only peace to a united people."

As in 1944, so in 1570 there were aggressor nations. The Algonquins and Hurons were the contemporary Germans and Japs who troubled the pence. The merits of a peace league to suppress them did not appeal to all the members of the Iroquois family. Some of them rejected the scheme. The sachems of the Eries, Attawendaronks, Andastes, and Cherokee probably were denounced in 1570 in the piny woods as "a little band of willful men."

In its organization "the Great Peace" of the Iroquois confederacy was strikingly similar to the provisions of Dumbarton Oaks. Its members were the Five Nations—the Mohawks, Oneidas, Onondagas, Cayugas, and Senecas. Now again five nations are to be the permanent dictators of the peace—the United States, Great Britain, Russia, China, and, "in due course," France.

The Dumbarton Oaks lower house, or general assembly, composed of all nations which accept the covenant, was paralleled by the council of 49 sachemships which governed the Confederation of the Five Nations. [In September, 1943, there were 43 members of the league of nations.] The real decisions under the Dumbarton Oaks proposals would be taken by an upper house, or security council, of 11 members—the permanent big five and six others elected for periods of two years. In the same way council action in the Iroquois league was by tribal vote. No matter how many Mohawk sachems there might be in the council, for example, the Mohawks had but one vote. The Onondagas, acting as moderators, cast the deciding ballot in the event of a tie among the other four tribes.

Rambunctious outside tribes were given three successive invitations to join the Great Peace. If they were obdurate the "peace" forces of the Five Nations went into action and the recalcitrants were brought to see the light by compulsion. They were not given a tribal vote afterward, but, then, Dumbarton Oaks does not waste time or sentiment on the prospective defeated nations, either.

The Confederation of the Iroquois had no peace palace like the great, untenanted marble mausoleum at Geneva. Their metaphorical name was People of the Long House because they lived in mutual peace, but the house was open to the four winds. Like peacemakers everywhere, they had a certain self-righteousness which led them to call themselves the True People. We shall hear the supporters of Dumbarton Oaks impute to themselves a similar monopoly of lofty motive.

There was one feature of the Iroquois confederacy which is far more sensible than any provision of Dumbarton Oaks. The matrons of the tribes were given the right to sit in the councils and there exercise the veto power on declarations of war. It was also their right to propose and demand a cessation of hostilities. The warriors had to obey. If the mothers of today's world, who are compelled to give the fighting men to the world's armies, possessed such powers there might be no wars and an organization to enforce peace would be superfluous.

The Iroquois league, however, was more successful in building a peace than any of its imitations in the civilized world. The league of nations cracked up in 20 years. The "Great Peace" lasted more than two centuries before the power of the Iroquois was broken and the tribes dispersed following the Revolutionary war. At the peak of its power the confederation had reduced the whole area from the Ottawa river to the Tennessee and from the Kennebec to the Illinois river and Lake Michigan to a state of peace. Had the Five Nations remained undiscovered by the Europeans for a century longer the confederacy might have embraced the whole continent.

The "Great Peace" organized at Lake Onondaga was brought into being in a setting far less artificial than Versailles and Dumbarton Oaks. The peacemakers had a true community of interest which inevitably left the mark of sincerity on their undertaking. Their declarations were not a disguise for distrust. They were content to dwell as one family in the Long House and they were determined not to permit the stronger tribes to crowd the borders of their weaker neighbors. They could reconcile their interests because the interests were not irreconcilable.

The Iroquois were making great strides toward transforming this into a continent of peace. The edifice of the forest people was first weakened by dissensions from the old world that infected their homeland. They were seized up and buffeted about by the disputing imperialisms of the British, the French, and the Dutch. When Britain, always with an avid eye for a useful ally, persuaded the majority of them to adopt its cause in the Revolution the long day of the Indian peace was done. Europe was too much for them. That is the usual history of any "great peace."

AUCTIONING OFF THE COUNTRY.

There would now seem to be no other way to a permanent Republican party revival than deliberately to outbid the Democrats for the middle and lower income groups. This is the inescapable lesson of 150 years of American party history. Such a feat as is here called for has never been performed except by the leadership of a great specialist in group diplomacy. This kind of leadership the Republican party has not had since that day when Theodore Roosevelt left the White House in 1909. The advent of such a new party messiah is unpredictable as to time. Luck and accident play their parts in the careers of parties no less than individuals.

This is not the pronouncement of a machine politician. It is the concluding passage in Prof. Wilfred E. Binkley's history of American political parties. It is a finding based upon contemplation of the success of the Roosevelt tactics for remaining in office.

It is true that these methods in the hands of the New Deal have so far accomplished their designed end of perpetuating a party in office. The philosophy was never expressed more succinctly than when Harry Hopkins described it as the intention to "tax and tax, spend and spend, elect and elect." There had been more honest and responsible Democrats in the White House or running for the Presidency in the past, but history shows that none of them ever installed himself for four terms.

Mr. Roosevelt has continued himself in office thru four terms by draining off the country's wealth and future. In time of war it is manifestly impossible to keep expenditures within the bounds of reason, but he never attempted it, even in peace. The debt is bounding toward 300 billion dollars. Everybody is working now and the wages granted by Mr. Roosevelt's labor board are satisfactory to huge voter groups, altho they are continually pressing for still higher pay.

Where only can it end? Inflation, with everything going smash, after the war is over and the controls come off? There has to be a limit somewhere. If the debt was dangerous, as Mr. Roosevelt said it was, when it stood at 20.8 billion dollars under Mr. Hoover in 1932, how much more dangerous must it be now. Yet Mr. Roosevelt waves the wand and promises 60 million jobs after the war. Where are they coming from? The nation is hocked to the hilt now. Economic law eventually, if not soon, must put an end even to the strategy of taxing, spending, and electing.

For that reason, Dr. Binkley's suggestions as to how the Republicans can come back do not seem well founded. The formula isn't going to work, even for Mr. Roosevelt, before we are thru.

HOW TO MEET THE GREAT CRISIS.

1. Stop smoking. Achilles didn't smoke. Aside from being the original heel he was good. Stop smoking and improve your infighting. Demosthenes didn't smoke. After the seaside pebble cure he had no trouble with his voice. Plato didn't smoke; neither did Caesar, Cicero, Catherine II., Shakespeare or Wat Tyler.

2. Switch to snuff. Our founding ancestors offered their snuff boxes instead of cigaret cases.

3. Roll your own. It is best done on a horse with one hand—with one hand on a horse—riding a horse in the chaparral with one hand free for the six shooter. It can be done with both hands, seated at a desk or on a tavern stool. In any attempt the tobacco pouch should dangle from the mouth. Try a machine.

4. Go back to eating tobacco. This requires studying the wind. Little Breeches used the plug to keep his milk teeth white.

5. Get a tweed cap and a pipe. This requires, or produces, that university look. A briar goes with the research phiz. It reveals the contemplative man. There is much to contemplate. Our aborigines passed the pipe when they made a peace. Several times we have thought of giving the country back to them, to their great alarm.

6. Make the ladies stop smoking; [a] by law; [b] by the force of male public opinion, by ostracism; no dates with gals who smoke. Aphrodite, with a cigaret dangling from her lips, would have looked better in a nightie. Helen with a cheroot would have started no ships for Troy. The size of Cleopatra's nose would have been of no consequence in world affairs if there had been a cigaret holder under it. Votes for wimmen, but no smokes; equality in the voting booth, but not in the smoking car, once liberty hall for men until the gals invaded it, kicking back the seat ahead to display their nylons, if any.

Are the men, facing their greatest crisis since an alarmed servitor threw a bucket of water on the smoking Walter Raleigh, men or mice? Probably the latter, scurrying around for a bootleg cigaret.

BRITAIN'S DEMOCRACY

The British and a goodly number of Americans have a habit of referring to the British government as a democracy. Well, let's see. The country has a king and an hereditary aristocracy. A kingdom is not a democracy and a democracy is not a kingdom. But dismiss anything as obvious as that and take a look at the house of commons, a representative assembly which could claim recognition as a democratic institution.

The Conservative party has been in control of the house since 1931, even longer than we have had Roosevelt. With 415 members the Conservatives have a clear majority without any help from the parties which have joined in a coalition during the war. There has been no general election in nine years. Even in the by-elections to fill vacancies no one can vote who wasn't a voter in 1939, because there has been no registration since then. Here any one caught voting more than once is thrown in the jug. Not so in England. Propertied people and university alumni by law are privileged to cast several votes.

In 1939 one of the leading London publishing houses put out a book entitled "England's Money Lords," by Simon Haxey, giving a detailed factual study of social origins, family connections, wealth, and political ideas of the members of the dominant party in his country. The book was widely discussed and in intellectual circles highly praised. Thus, the London Economist said of the volume: "The facts here presented will constitute a body of inestimably valuable material. For books like this are the stuff of political history."

Mr. Haxey shows that "the Conservative party is the party of the very wealthy." Almost half of the members of the house of commons—44 per cent—are directors of companies. Thus, 43 M. P.s are directors of insurance companies, 18 of railways and air line companies, 11 of breweries, 18 of public utilities, etc.

The members of the ruling party are wealthy. The majority of the Tory M. P.s have incomes of more than $40,000 a year. Thirty-three Conservative party M. P.s who died between 1931 and 1938 left estates totaling almost 30 million dollars. More than half of the probated estates of Conservative members contained more than $400,000.

Not only are the members of the dominant party in commons rich, but they are as like as not to be either members of the nobility or related to noblemen. One earl, two marquesses, three viscounts, and seven lords are among the M. P.s Any lingering thought that aristocracy plays little part in British politics will be dismissed when it is realized that in the cabinet which is responsible to the house of commons are more earls, viscounts, and barons. Other M. P.s are brother-in-law, cousins, and nephews of the nobility. The present duke of Devonshire has six of his immediate kinfolk in the house and the earl of Derby has about as many. One hundred and forty-five of the 415 Conservative members of commons are linked by Haxey to the hereditary nobility. No wonder a member of parliament, Sir Reginald Banks, could write in 1929 that "only in very recent times has England ever pretended to be a democratic state." The same families are running the government today as were running it for several centuries and under the same system, but "the great parliamentarians of the 18th and early 19th centuries repudiated in disgust the theory that Britain is a democracy."

What do all these wealthy people get for the time that they spend in politics? Haxey points out in his book that "the British parliament is . . . not only the sovereign power in Great Britain, but for the greater part of the British empire with a population of nearly 500,000,000 and an area of 12 million square miles, one-quarter of the earth's surface."

However, of the half billion only the people of Great Britain vote for the members of commons. Thus, Haxey says, "the British parliament is a democratic body for only a part of the population over which it rules." He continues: "The white minority of the empire's population numbers only 70 millions, of whom about 30 millions have their own parliaments in the dominions. Over 430 million people are ruled by the British parliament and have no representatives at Westminster, play no part in deciding the composition of this body which decides their destinies, and are unable by any legal or constitutional methods to change its policy."

Haxey distinguishes the position of the dominions [Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa] from that of the colonial empire and India. The dominion people are largely descendants of British settlers. The dominions have independent parliaments and the white people in them have the same rights as the folks back home. However, in the Union of South Africa the colored population is in the majority, but doesn't vote.

The tie of the dominions with the mother country is more economic than legal. As is pointed out in the 1938 edition of J. A. Hobson's "Imperialism," the dominions are "heavily mortgaged in their land and trade to British financial companies; their mines, banks, and other important commercial assets are chiefly held in Britain."

Since that was written the people of the dominions have acquired a larger measure of economic independence, but a few years ago nine government members of parliament were directors of Canadian companies, 14 were directors of Australian or New Zealand companies, 12 were directors of South African companies, and two of companies operating in Egypt.

The influence of the ruling classes in the dominions is indirect. But, says Haxey, in "India and the colonial empire they rule directly." The people of the colonies haven't any representation in the house of commons where the laws are passed which affect them. Twelve M. P.s are directors in corporations operating in India, five in Malay, six in the Gold Coast and Nigeria, three in Trinidad, three in Rhodesia, etc. "An employer of colonial labor need never fear that a representative of the people he employs should speak from the opposition benches," says Haxey.

The attitude of the British government toward the demands of the people of India is determined in part by the members of parliament, with directorship there, and also by the pressures upon commons from the outside. There are M. P.s who are not directors but have investments there; there are those with jobs in the profitable Indian companies; and there is the army. Hobson observed this when he wrote: "The services are, of course, imperialist by conviction and by professional interest, and every increase of the army, navy, and air force enhances the political power they exert. . . . This has been a most prolific source of expansion in India. The direct professional influence of the services carries with it a less organized but powerful and sympathetic support on the part of the aristocracy and the wealthy classes, who seek in the services careers for their sons. . . ." The Atlantic Charter says:

"Third, they respect the right of all peoples to choose the form of government under which they will live and they wish to see sovereign rights and self-government restored to those who have been forcibly deprived of them."

What does that mean so far as concerns the former British colonial areas in the Pacific, which the American forces are taking back from the Japs? And how does it apply to the disfranchised millions of colored people in South Africa? How does it affect India? Does this righteous proclamation have any meaning to the 430 million people of the British empire who never had the right of self-government?

THE SNORING NUISANCE.

FOR the most part, physicians have ignored the troublesome symptom, snoring. It does not jeopardize life and it presents no emergency. Nevertheless, it implies mouth breathing and, in consequence, numerous undesirable conditions may be brought about. The mucous lining of the oral cavity is called upon to supply the inspired air with moisture which leaves the areas numb, stiff, dry, and foul. In addition, loads of germs are collected.

Few of these noise makers will admit that they are bothered in the slightest degree. They don't remain awake and listen. If something is done about the situation, it must be at the request of other members of the family.

There are many types of performers. With some, the sound resembles a gentle purr. The majority, however, will imitate a ripsaw. They adopt a treble note and plunge steadily forward thru a hardwood log. Periodically a knot will be encountered which will result in an explosive "woof." After a few moments of silence work will be begun on a larger and tougher stick of timber.

Every now and then the patient will mutter and smack his lips. Soon thereafter, the steady grind will be resumed, ofttimes rising in crescendo. True musical scores are rarely observed. We will seldom become annoyed with the one who starts in the key of C and follows the chromatic scale to an octave above. Oldtimers at the game usually adhere to a rhythmic program, with no shading of tone.

It may be possible to find a physical cause. Various forms of obstructions may be blamed, such as distorted turbinate bones within the airways, polyps, or an extremely long uvula [soft palate]. As a rule, however, anatomical deformities will not be responsible. The whole matter, then, resolves itself into abysmal relaxation which permits the tongue to fall backwards while currents of air vibrate the soft tissues. These parts act like a reed and it is the fluttering which produces the reverberations. The episode may be likened to the flapping of a bit of canvas in the wind.

Attempts have been made to apply a local anesthetic to the entire region of the soft palate, including the pillars which guard the tonsils. While temporary relief has been reported, the remedy is a nuisance and may be dangerous. The employment of a hardening solution to reduce puffing and render the tissues firmer [less elastic] may prove successful. But, because of fear that the chemical may do damage, the suggestion has not been adopted widely. That it has a rational scientific basis, cannot be denied.

Sometimes a change in posture will abate the manifestation. With others, a chin strap may be fastened over the head. This device will hold the lower jaw in position and thus create a nose breather out of one who—contrary to nature—has been using the mouth. Any apparatus which will oblige the offender to sleep on his side and maintain that "stance," may be helpful. But the most important thing is to make certain that the natural avenues along which air enters the trachea are free from swelling and deforming obstacles.

Astringent gargles have also been recommended. The fluid consists of any mild alkaline antiseptic to which a small quantity of alum has been added. The proportion of alum in the preparation should not exceed two or three grains per ounce and even diluted solutions of the drug should not be swallowed. The use of this material one-half hour before bedtime may be valuable in shrinking the tuneful tissues.

TRAVELING BABY.

Mrs. L. S. writes: I am contemplating moving to California with my 2 month old baby. In your opinion, at what age would it be safe to make this journey of 3,000 miles?

REPLY.

Postpone the trip as long as possible. Under necessity, however, it may be made at any time. Anticipate some discomfort and a small amount of hazard. The chief problem is feeding.

ERADICATOR.

F. P. writes: What can I do to remove nicotine stains from the fingers?

REPLY.

A good scrubbing with soap and water, aided by powdered pumice. To prevent, hold the cigar or cigarrette so that the vapor will not strike the skin.

SLEEP WALKING.

Mrs. K. writes: My 9 year old son is normal and not a bit nervous, but he walks in his sleep. What can be done for him?

REPLY.

The family doctor may wish to prescribe a mild sedative. In the meantime, help the lad to spend quiet and restful evenings.

NOT A GRAIN.

S. E. writes: Is it possible for a person to omit wheat, corn, barley, rye, oats, and rice from the diet? I am allergic to all grains.

REPLY.

Yes. There are many other sources of vitamin B as well as calcium, phosphorus, protein, and starch.

NOT ALL.

M. C. writes: Should colitis patients avoid milk entirely?

REPLY.

If gas and distress result, yes. In some cases there is definite sensitivity to dairy products. If they are well borne, however, no objection. Each case is really an individual problem.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

QUEER TEAMWORK.

La Crosse, Wis., Nov. 2.—The following letter came from a lad I know very well, and who took his part in the D-day invasion, the drive across France, and is "somewhere in the combat area" still:

"Every time I pick up a paper there is something in it about this unit or that and tells in detail why they should be paid more than the present wage scale.

"I am in the infantry and have the extra ten bucks all the infantrymen draw in combat. But I see now that the other units are asking extra for their part—paratroopers get "jump pay"; air corps get "flying pay," and so on. Now here is a point—where would these "extra pay" men be without a medical corpsman or a chaplain and his assistant?

"Then there is something else we talk about up here on the front. Why are we fighting? We are fighting to make a safe and sane world of free thinking people. Who does the work? The men in the factories who work in medically approved conditions, or the men in the trenches who work in mud, slime, and unimaginable dirt? Which takes the best man—fitting the pieces of a machine together in an air-conditioned factory or putting it in place in pitch dark nights a hundred yards from the enemy, where the least sound would write your name and address on the next 88 shell?

"My own opinion is that one could not operate without the support of the other. That makes it one big team. Yet it seems that some of the members of this team who are paid better than $2 an hour can refuse to work on the grounds that they are underpaid. In the army this is called mutiny and is punishable by death.

"Do those striking factory workers and coal miners think we will support them when we come home? If so they better think again."

N. BLANCHE SHONAT.

DOESN'T WANT HIS UNION.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Will some one please advise me why we need labor unions now? The government has put a ceiling on wages, therefore, the unions are not needed except to collect dues from wages, to cause unrest, and, of course, to afford enough cash for labor leaders to maintain winter homes in Florida and summer homes in the north woods, and to contribute large sums of money to political parties that will agree to support their personal radical ideas, not the ideas of the rank and file.

C. I. O. MEMBER.

TRIBUNE MAPS.

Amarillo, Tex., Nov. 7.—We are using several Chicago Tribune maps in the war room of the commanding general here at Amarillo army air field. One of the maps which we have found very valuable is a map of the Island of Leyte which shows roads, towns, airports, and relief.

CARGO HANDLERS.

Expansion of the navy necessitates the procurement of a large number of men between 25 and 50 years of age as officers whose background and experience has been in the supervision of loading and unloading of general cargo ships or as licensed deck officers. Openings are also available for men with experience in coördinating the movement of ships and freight; arranging for berthing, fueling, and provisioning of ships. See Lt. Petrie, room 306, Board of Trade Building, Chicago, or apply at the nearest office of naval officer procurement.

S. J. R. writes: "I'm 32 years of age and a restaurant manager. My board sent me notice to report for a pre-induction physical. I consider my work in support of the war effort and if I interpret the news stories correctly men of my age are not to be called. What do you say?"

Your status is a matter for the determination of your local board but the notice may have been mailed before the board received Illinois state memorandum 811-C. Go back to your board and ask them if they have this memo and if so, ask if it doesn't change your status. Restaurant managers over 26 serving war workers or in similar areas may be considered as serving in "support of the war effort on national health safety or interest."

A COZY ROOM IN GLASGOW.

GLASGOW, Scotland, Oct. 4.—I have been asked by some members of the American army, who have been staying at my house while on leave, to send this little article to your paper. Most of them were Chicago boys.

We, in Scotland, were a wee bit chary at first as to how Americans would take to us and no less as to how we would take to them. We knew all about the modern American homes, central heating, etc., and generally accepted America as a go ahead country. We felt that there was little they would appreciate over here, certainly nothing that would make them stand and stare.

However, we found them very appreciative of small things, such as a cozy room, sitting round the fire with a glass of beer, or—if lucky—whisky.

We told them that with war time restrictions entertainment was not on a very lavish scale, so many things being hard to get, but they just said that this was O. K. and gave the fire another poke.

They adhere strictly to the rules laid down in their little book on behavior in this country. We had quite a job making them eat. As one of them admitted, he was thinking about the paragraph dealing with rations. This fellow was Eddy Hayduk, of North Ridgeway av., and is now in Iceland. He is probably thinking of that cozy fire now.

His brother, Maj. H. Hayduk, stationed in England at a bomber station, was here last week with Lt. Col. E. Watts of Texas. They also succumbed to the cozy room atmosphere.

I can now assure the world that it costs very little to entertain Americans here. As a Scot—I, of course, appreciate that. If Eddy reads this he would probably laugh, as there was quite a bit of leg pulling about Scottish thriftiness.

In spite of all the Scotch jokes, service men of all nationalities flock to Glasgow when on leave. Don't think I'm acting as publicity agent for Glasgow, but I feel it should be known that Glasgow gives the boys a hearty welcome even if there are few material things we can offer them.

One thing we like about them is that they don't tell us about the difference between their country and ours. We ask a lot of questions, of course, and as Ed Hayduk said to my wife, "I've found a Scotchman that'll listen to me."

THOMAS MACILRAINE.

BRITAIN WINS THE HEADLINES.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Some time ago I saw a dispatch in the American newspapers to the effect that several members of the English parliament were very much disturbed by the fear that British troops were not getting enough credit in the American press for their part in the battles of the war. That certainly tears my heart.

A short time ago my son returned from England, where he completed his tour of bombing missions over the continent. For my particular benefit he brought back copies of several English newspapers. I have before me a copy of The Daily Sketch, a London tabloid, for Aug. 26. I was utterly amazed at the smugness of this sheet.

An article on page two carries this headline, "British Grit Won Battle of Normandy." It is illustrated by a picture of Gen. Montgomery, under which appears this caption, "The plan was Montgomery's . . . it was his conception."

All the glory to the British and Canadians? Fine. What about the Americans? Maybe they weren't there, except, and I quote again, "Thus was produced the great victory. The British and Canadians pinioned the German flats while the Americans swung the rope around his body." No place in this edition is the American army mentioned as a unit, merely as one of the allies. Where were Eisenhower, Bradley, Patton, and all the others? Maybe they weren't there either.

So I wonder who is getting the most credit, the Americans in the English press or the British in the American press.

C. J. SWEENEY.

HONORING THE LEND-LEASE DEBT.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—I noted in THE TRIBUNE of Oct. 24 a statement made by Rep. Compton of Connecticut in which he "warned" the nation not to expect any repayment from Great Britain of the more than 10 billion dollars of American lend-lease goods supplied to the United Kingdom during the war.

It occurs to me that such a statement is entirely uncalled for and ill-advised. If Rep. Compton desired to play into the hands of Great Britain and to make a mockery of the term "lend-lease," he has succeeded in a big way. What could give Great Britain more encouragement to dodge her just debts again after the present war as she did after World War I?

ALVIN T. HURST.

UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER.

Bronxville, N. Y., Oct. 24.—We American fathers and mothers have sent our soldier sons out to the four corners of the earth to punish the Germans and Japanese for their sins, only a few of which were committed against us. The executive branch of our government now in power has announced a policy of unconditional surrender. Since the beginning of this war the politicians, propagandists, and newsmen have assured us that the defeat of our enemies would come soon, while our military leaders have consistently told us the reverse—that the road to unconditional surrender will be long and bloody. Already the bodies of a hundred thousand of our sons lie on the shores of the seven seas.

Barren women and sterile men may get some satisfaction out of the repeated reports; that our battle losses are less than expected; that the wounded seldom die; that we had "only" one thousand killed in this battle and in that battle we killed five Japs to one of ours; that we always win and that a glorious victory lies at the end of the rainbow just over the hill. But for many a mother the light of a whole life dies with her dying son, and what American father wants to swap his son for five dead Japs? It is a fact that our casualties have now reached a half million and we have not yet engaged the main forces of one of our two enemies.

We as people are noted, in our every day affairs, for our proclivity for always asking the price; it is worth it, shall we buy?

Unconditional surrender is the highest priced article on the war counter and those who buy must pay on the barrelhead in blood—it cannot be charged. It has seldom been exacted in history. Our present national administration has established a record for spending with a lavish hand and has never asked the price of anything it desired. We mothers and fathers as trustees for our sons in the armed forces—where they are not free agents—have a grave responsibility.

Is the unconditional surrender of our enemies vital to the existence of our country? Are we justified in killing our sons for any lesser cause?

J. C. MONTGOMERY.

SOLDIERS' INTEREST IN TRIBUNE VIEWS.

SOMEWHERE IN THE MIDDLE EAST, Oct. 3.—As per our requisition submitted some months ago, the war department has now begun to supply us via air mail with tear sheets of the editorial and other opinion pages of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

This will relieve you from the obligation which you so generously assumed last June and which you have so faithfully carried out ever since. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is absolutely invaluable to us in presenting to the troops the pros and cons of the important issues of the day.

My personal appreciation for your excellent coöperation is herewith warmly tendered. But this is puny, indeed, in comparison with the gratitude of the thousands of isolated troops who have been kept abreast of developing public opinion at home thru your public spirited generosity. Our weekly USA: Views of the Day publication is widely read by our personnel everywhere.

HAROLD C. HAND, Major, A. C., Theater Orientation Officer.

NEED A TWO-TERM LIMITATION.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Regardless of which candidate may win tomorrow, never again should the issue of a third or fourth or "n th" term arise here. Early in the next administration the unwritten law of "two terms only" should become a written one. Very few individuals, if any, can be trusted with unlimited tenure of office and broad powers and resist the temptation to prolong and increase that power, and no one is indispensable. Nor should any one party be allowed to remain in power long enough to build up a machine that perpetuates itself.

CO-SIGNER.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—In 1942 I was co-signer on a note. I thought the obligation had been paid in full but I have just received notice that a large part of the note has not been paid and that if I do not pay up immediately my wages will be garnisheed. Doesn't the holder of the note have to get a court order first?

S. B.

Yes, unless you signed a wage assignment. Another point is that if the note contained a confession clause, then he can take judgment without serving a summons.

BAX

THE *Complete VITAMIN CAPSULE

DON'T WONDER—know the facts. Many vitamin products have only a few vitamins. Many are low in potencies. Fully one-third of the products recently analyzed by a leading medical authority were below recognized daily requirements.

BAX, the Complete* Vitamin Capsule, supplies all the established vitamins, and provides them in full measure. Not only the important B-complex factors, but other vitamins just as essential and lacking in many brands. A, $B_1$, C, D, $B_2$(G), $B_6$, Niacin, Calcium Pantothenate.

Also, you take only one tiny BAX daily, not 2 or 3 tablets or capsules as with so many products. And BAX in the economy family-size bottle costs less than 2⅔¢ a day!

Government experts reveal most of us are vitamin deficient. Get BAX, the Complete* Vitamin Capsule, today. At all druggists. A product of McKesson & Robbins.

*Each BAX capsule supplies at least the full adult minimum daily requirement of the known important vitamins needed in human nutrition.

PETRILLO LIFTS RECORD BAN FOR $4,000,000 'CUT'

Union to Get Royalty on Each Disc Sold.

the basis of record production prior to the recording ban, the union will receive more than $4,000,000 annually, Petrillo estimated.

Petrillo said jubilantly that the AFM becomes the first labor organization to obtain agreements whereby employers pay money direct to the union over and above what they pay for the actual work done. He said the money will go into a special fund apart from the federation's other resources.

The union will wait until "a couple of million" has accumulated, he said, and then the national convention will decide what to do with it. The convention, he said, will determine how the money can best be used "to spread musical culture and to give employment to musicians who have been put out of work by the records we have been making."

Plans Own Orchestra.

For example, he said, the convention might decide to establish a symphony orchestra in a city where none now exists, and thereby give work to unemployed musicians. He added, however, that "we will never make a WPA out of this thing."

Altho happy over the signing of the contracts, Petrillo said the fight had left "a lot of scars" and bitterly assailed the big record companies, comparing them to "the owners of Civil war days."

Petrillo accused the companies of carrying on "a vile, indecent, and malicious campaign of libel, slander, and villification" of the union and its officers, adding "there is no labor organization that has been taken thru the mill like we have."

Wallerstein sent a telegram to Vinson stating that "the economic pressures on us are such that we can wait no longer and must now either sign or go out of business."

"We had no alternative but to meet the demands of Mr. Petrillo or to abandon our record business, which would have resulted in losses to the public, our employes and artists, our dealers, and stockholders," said James W. Murray, general manager of RCA-Victor record activities.

138,000 IN UNION.

James C. Petrillo's American Federation of Musicians has a membership of approximately 138,000, of whom 35,000 are in the army or navy.

In most local unions, the dues paid by both the employed and unemployed are small and regularly employed members pay into the local treasury in addition to their dues a tax based on the type of work they do. The funds thus raised go toward paying benefits to unemployed musicians.

In Chicago the tax ranges from 2 to 5 per cent of the wage scale. The lower the scale, the lower the tax. In Chicago, symphony orchestra musicians pay 2 per cent, radio musicians 5 per cent. In some cases the tax amounts to as much as $15 a week.

Well informed sources last night estimated that probably not more than 20,000 musicians are engaged in making recordings.

$210 Check Buys Furs; Police Hunt for Blonde

Police searched yesterday for a comely blonde who passed a worthless check for $210 Oct. 12 at the Brighton Fur shop, 4230 Archer av. Mrs. Lena Levin, the owner of the shop, said the woman, who was carrying a young baby, paid for two fur neckpieces with the check made payable to Lottie Lubovich of 5100 S. Troy st. Police said the address was false.

ROBBED OF $75 IN TAVERN.

Fred Frediani of 1520 N. Lorel av., notified police that he was held up early yesterday by two armed men and robbed of $75 in his tavern at 600 N. Kedzie av.

250 Employes Walk Out of Candy Plant Kitchens

A walkout in protest against a delay by the war labor board in approving an incentive pay plan approved by the company was conducted yesterday by 250 day employes in the kitchens of the Mars, Inc., candy plant, at 2019 N. Oak Park av. A similar incentive plan for more than 80 per cent of the company's 2,000 workers already has been approved. Proposals for both groups of workers were tendered to the WLB three weeks ago, a company spokesman said. An equal number of kitchen employes working the afternoon shift reported for duty, an official said.

Decompression Chamber Aids Sinus Patients in N. U. Test

Successful use of a decompression chamber in the treatment of sinus disease was reported yesterday by three doctors in the Northwestern university medical school. They found that low pressures, equivalent to an airplane flight two miles above ground, constitute a simple but effective treatment for the draining of infected sinus pockets.

Of 125 patients treated, 89.5 per cent experienced relief, reported Doctors D. B. Butler, G. J. Greenwood, and A. C. Ivy of the medical school in the current issue of the Archives of Otolaryngology.

Treat 10 to 12 at a Time.

In a sealed room, equipped with vacuum pumps, observation windows, and a two way speaking system, from 10 to 12 patients can be treated at a time. In two minutes, by lessening of air pressure, patients are given the equivalent of a 10,000 foot altitude. Then "descent" is slowly achieved, reversing the normal flight procedure of slow climbing and a quick return to ground level.

Recompression is at the rate of 700 feet a minute, carefully controled so that air passing thru the Eustachian tube into the middle ear causes no pain. Each session requires 60 minutes, during which four to six "ascents" are made in the decompression chamber. Because of changes in "altitude," conditions are created within the air passages which cause the pus pockets to discharge.

Given 18 Treatments.

The average patient received 18.1 treatments. Of the 125 patients, 10.5 per cent reported no improvement. Improvement was reported by 21 per cent to be fair, 34.6 good, and 33.9 excellent. All the sinus sufferers had utilized various forms of medical skill, including surgery, mechanical suction, and shrinking of the tissues. Persons with acute sinus trouble were not accepted for treatment.

"Whether decompression therapy can hold forth the hope of ultimate cure' [for sinusitis] is not yet settled, but the high degree of relief that may be afforded is gratifying," the doctors concluded.

Seek to Avoid Surgery.

They noted that the use of the decompression chamber is in line with the current belief that surgery should be avoided wherever possible in the treatment of sinus disease.

Decompression treatment originally was suggested to the Northwestern medical school by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, who gave funds for the purchase and installation of the first chamber used. The present research was carried on with the aid of the Col. Robert R. McCormick fund.

MERCHANTS ASK AID OF REALTORS IN LOOP GROWTH

Board President Pledges Full Co-operation.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Regardless of real estate developments in outlying Chicago localities the whole level of realty prices is bound to reflect in the long run those of the downtown area, Lawrence B. Sizer, sales promotion manager of Marshall Field & Co., told the Chicago Real Estate board at its monthly meeting. There can be no permanent growth in the greater Chicago area unless there is growth and aggressive development in the downtown area, he said.

Sizer asked for the coöperation of the realty board in bringing about needed developments and improvement in the loop area and President Joseph B. Ford pledged the board's aid.

Urges Super-Highways.

"For the last quarter of a century Chicago has been steadily increasing in size and its residential areas have been expanding outward from the loop," Sizer said. "This tendency seems certain to be accelerated in the post-war period, hence the merchants of State street are vitally interested in the maintenance and development of easy, high speed transportation to the loop district.

"State street is vitally interested in the expansion and development of the Chicago subway system, as well as all types of mass transportation. Likewise, State street is interested in the development of super-highways to provide for the easy flow of motor traffic into the downtown area.

"State street is seriously concerned over the existence of blighted areas just outside the loop district. It is tremendously concerned with its own physical appearance and plans aggressively to work on its own improvement and development of the street as a whole."

Seeks Aid of Realtors.

It is because of these facts that the merchants of State st. are seeking the aid of Chicago realtors in bringing about the developments and improvements vital to the whole community's welfare, Sizer said.

Ford expressed the hope that more detailed information can be developed to permit a closer cooperation between State st. merchants, property owners, and the realty board. He urged the formation of joint committees which might effectively attack their mutual problems.

Plans Post-War Building at Kedzie Av., 62d St.

The northwest corner of Kedzie av. and 62d st., 125 by 125 feet, partly improved with a building containing seven stores, has been sold to Harry Allan Phillips of Kedzie Motor Sales. Mark Levy Realty company, sole broker, said a new building will be erected after the war.

Tenant for 36 Years Buys Building at Ashland, 55th

William E. Cahill of Cahill Brothers, realtors, yesterday bought the business building at the southeast corner of Ashland av. and 55th st., where he has had offices since it was built in 1908, for $57,500 from Chicago City Bank and Trust company, trustee. The building contains 23 apartments and 7 stores.

At the Realty Boards

John W. Galbreath, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, will address two suburban realty groups Thursday. He will speak before the Evanston-North Shore Real Estate board in the Georgian hotel at a noon luncheon. In the evening he will be dinner guest of the Du Page Board of Realtors in the Spinning Wheel, Hinsdale.

Mayor Proclaims Realtors' Week

MORTGAGE FIRM ELECTS SON OF LATE PRESIDENT

The board of directors of Draper & Kramer, Inc., realty and mortgage firm, yesterday announced the election of Ferd Kramer as president to succeed his father, Adolph F. Kramer, who died recently. Ferd Kramer became associated with Draper & Kramer in 1923 after his graduation from the University of Chicago in 1922. He was at West Point during the World war.

Ferd Kramer.

He was program supervisor of the national housing agency in Washington during 1941 and 1942 in connection with the war housing program. He is president of Metropolitan Housing Council of Chicago, and was president of the Chicago Mortgage Bankers' association in 1940. He also has served as a member of the board of governors of the Chicago Real Estate board.

Philip F. Stein, vice president and assistant treasurer of Draper & Kramer, was elected to the board of directors.

BARTLETT BUYS 105 ACRE FARM NEAR LA GRANGE

The Robert Bartlett Realty Company yesterday bought the 105 acre farm of John and Louise Groh on the western side of Willow Springs rd., and on both sides of 55th st., extending south to the Plainfield rd. This is 1½ miles west of the Electro-Motive corporation's big plant, and a half mile south of La Grange and Western Springs. The property recently was re-zoned to provide 20,000 square feet per family. Joseph A. Thorsen of Thorsen & Fouch, Inc., La Grange realtor, represented the sellers, and Grover C. Elmore the buyer. Bartlett has no immediate plans for subdividing the property, it was said.

TENANT BUYS BUILDINGS.

Jacob Engel yesterday bought two 3-story buildings at 1462-64 Milwaukee av. from Henry C. Bartholomay, thru Mark Levy Realty company. Arthur Frietag & Co. was associate broker. The buyer has had a furniture store in one of the buildings for 20 years.

SUN LIFE OF CANADA TO PROVIDE CASH FOR BUILDING IN CHICAGO

New capital for construction on a large scale will be made available to the Chicago area in substantial amounts by the Sun Life Assurance company of Canada, the largest insurance organization in the dominion, it was announced yesterday by Dovenmuehle, Inc., which has been made loan correspondent for Sun Life in this area. Arthur B. Wood is president and managing director of the insurance company, which has its headquarters in Montreal.

Arthur B. Wood.

"Sun Life for several years has been the leading investor in Canada under the national housing act, which is the Canadian equivalent of our federal housing administration," said George Dovenmuehle, vice president of Dovenmuehle, Inc. "This company has made more than one-third of the NHA loans in the dominion.

"It has been observing the FHA program in the United States and has been so impressed with it that after passage of a special law enabling it to invest its funds in FHA loans, it has decided to enter this new field.

"Its lending program will include mortgages on large apartment properties and residences in both conventional and FHA insured loans. The company already has issued several commitments to us covering various types of Chicago properties."

More than half of Sun Life's assets of more than one billion dollars are invested in this country, Dovenmuehle said.

WITH ANTIQUE COLLECTORS IT'S AN OLD CUSTOM

BY KAY CLANCY.

An antique dealer is a collector with a big investment who started out, perhaps, with an interest in a few pieces of grandmother's glassware and ended up with a stock of rare furniture, Indian relics, stamps, coins, old prints, rare books, dolls, buttons, or paperweights.

At least that's the confession made by several of the 200 dealers and exhibitors at the 14th annual Chicago Antiques Exposition and Hobby Fair being held in the Stevens hotel from tomorrow thru Saturday.

Mrs. S. E. Bellows was a school teacher with a hobby—once. Now she has a business. Her specialty is old mechanical banks that cost $1 before and during the Civil war, when fathers were instilling their youngsters with the old American virtue of thrift. Now the banks sell for $50 and up.

Her Best Customers.

They are elaborate mechanical devices which coaxed pennies from children thru amusing actions. A bulldog reaches out for the penny with a red tongue and swallows it, a baseball player tosses the coin to home plate or a cow kicks over the milk pail when a penny is deposited. Bankers are her best customers, Mrs. Bellows says.

Dorothy Yeater is another collector turned dealer. She once collected a few paperweights and now she has them to sell from $15 to more than $500 each. Some of them are as rare as old masterpieces and as easily identified, she said.

But the miniature show is the thing that stops the traffic and holds spectators breathless. Miniature subjects cover everything from colorful dancing costumes for circus fleas [honestly, that's what the man said as he handed over the magnifying glass] to ivory carvings so small they can be passed thru the eye of an ordinary needle, and bells so infinitesimal the clapper is suspended by a human hair.

Cost Just as Much.

Miniatures cost collectors as much as other hobbies. A small silver service costs $75, approximately the same price asked for a regular service at your jewelry store and a tea set, wrapped in cotton and packaged in a box the size of a thimble, is worth as much to a collector as a breakfast set is to a bride.

"The desire for miniatures has been handed down from the kings and queens of olden times," O. C. Lightner, managing director, explained. "Besides, such collections are easily cared for in apartments and small homes."

The exposition is open to the public from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m. Lightner said the Chicago show excels any other in the world.

Doorstep Infant Dies in Hospital of Exposure

A new born infant girl who was abandoned two hours after birth on a doorstep at the Wayne Gibbons residence, 7436 Monroe st., Hammond, Ind., died early yesterday in St. Margaret's hospital. Physicians said death was due to exposure. The waif, wrapped in a copy of THE TRIBUNE of Oct. 4, was wailing loudly when found by Gibbons. A search by police for the mother was futile.

The best dog in the world can't be truly happy when he must continually scratch, dig, rub, and bite himself, seeking relief from an intense itching irritation that has centered in the nerve endings of his skin. He is in frenzied torment—can't help himself. But you may. Try giving him, as thousands are doing, Rex Hunters Dog Powders, once each week. Note the quick difference. Learn why a glad purchaser wrote: "I surely was pleased, as the 25c package helped my dog immediately. He has practically quit scratching, has more pep and his hair is glossy again." Rex Hunters Dog Powders cost only 25c at any good drug store, pet or sport shop. (Economy size box only $1.00).

Your Health Needs Greater Protection Now!

Complete Medical Facilities Are Available at United Medical Service

During the next four or five months individuals will encounter great hazards to health. These are the danger months . . . when colds, influenza and pneumonia hold sway. Healthy persons are less likely to be affected . . . but those with weak body resistance or disease conditions confront grave possibilities. It is no longer necessary to face these dangers unprepared. Modern medicine can now provide adequate protection, not only against these diseases, but against all other diseases which menace health. As a result it is far easier and less expensive to keep well than to get well. A physical check-up is the most valuable service medicine can render, providing it is thorough and complete. To be fully protective it must include the services of physicians with experience and knowledge in the different departments of medicine supported by X-ray studies and pictures of the heart, lungs and other important organs, electrocardiograms of the heart and special laboratory examinations.

The insidious approach of heart disease, cancer, tuberculosis, diabetes, Bright's disease and many other conditions makes these procedures necessary if serious damage to health is to be prevented. Every year thousands of persons come to a United Medical Service for these complete protective medical services . . . where the fees are within the reach of the most limited incomes . . . and the same to all. Here you can obtain, through competent, experienced physicians, extensive X-ray and laboratory equipment and other facilities . . . under one roof . . . all the preventive and curative services that new discoveries in medicine are making possible today. Centrally located within easy access by railroad trains, street cars, elevated and subway trains, buses and automobiles, these complete medical services are available to all. The fees are moderate and the same to all. Information upon request.

WARREN CLIMBS STARRY ROUTE IN 'RIGOLETTO'

Antoine and Peerce Also Sing Their Best.

"RIGOLETTO."

Opera by Giuseppe Verdi, book by Piave from Victor Hugo's play, "The King Amuses Himself." Presented in Italian by the Chicago Opera company at the Civic Opera house Saturday afternoon, Nov. 11, 1944.

THE CAST.

Gilda ..... Josephine Antoine
The Duke of Mantua ..... Jan Peerce
Rigoletto ..... Leonard Warren
Sparafucile ..... Virgilio Lazzari
Maddalena ..... Lucielle Browning
Giovanna ..... Ola Moser
Monterone ..... Wilfred Engelman
Conductor ..... Giuseppe Bamboschek

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

If the singing in yesterday afternoon's "Rigoletto" was of exceptionally high standard—and it was—the presence of Edward Johnson at the Civic Opera house may have had something to do with it. And if the boss of the Metropolitan was scouting for a "Rigoletto" cast among his actors, no one can say they didn't put their best throats forward. Josephine Antoine came close to the most persuasive singing of her Chicago career, and Jan Peerce was Caruso on a Lilliputian scale, but the news of the afternoon was Leonard Warren's Rigoletto, his first in Chicago.

This young American baritone has climbed so high so fast he gives the illusion of flying. A few seasons ago, he came on the scene with a big, rather unwieldy voice, hampered by its own bulk. But he had what it takes to learn. Last spring, he sang a beautiful performance in "The Masked Ball," with Bruno Walter, and yesterday he stepped out in the light of his own stardom.

Warren on Climb to Heights.

Here was a stalwart Rigoletto with nobility in his brow and cupidity in his eyes, a twist of cruelty in his mouth—a Rigoletto whose magnificent voice was completely in control, used always for dramatic effect, with a hauntingly expressive pianissimo that spoke the volumes of Verdi's score, always with that wealth of tone in reserve for the climax. It is not yet a complete performance—nothing so new could be—but it is a superb working sketch for a masterpiece, to be manipulated and enhanced as a brilliant career develops.

Miss Antoine's Gilda was radiant in new costumes and a new freshness of voice with a glint of gold in its timbre, which must have reassured managers confronted with a season without Lily Pons, who again will sing for those in service. Miss Antoine's way with the "Caro Nome" was the lyric rather than the coloratura, beautifully done without the beloved high note at the top of the stairs [and the range], which is rather like the ice cream without the cherry—wiser, if you suspect the cherry may be sour.

Peerce's Tenor Brilliant.

In physcial and vocal size, Mr. Peerce's Duke belongs to the Italian house of Victor Emanuel, but how he can sing in that house! His tenor has rapier brilliance and the flexibility of the winning duelist. He sang "La donna è mobile" with such scintillant ease he was forgiven for missing an entrance cue—at least by the audience. I'm not sure about the other singers or the conductor, who held the bag until he arrived.

Mr. Lazzari's Sparafucile remains the best of the picturesque assassins. Miss Browning has the touch of ripe insolence for Maddalena, but Monterone, while no social lion, is not quite the dull fellow Mr. Engelman seems to think. Giuseppe Bamboschek conducted in spurts of speed, like a driver not quit accustomed to traffic.

Election Winner Gives $7,000 Away

Craves Sleep Now

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 11 (AP).—That lucky Roosevelt backer who startled Atlantans by passing out some $7,000 of his winnings to strangers was back in town today, but too sleepy to talk about himself.

N. L. Phillips of nearby Hapeville, an elderly civil engineer, roused from his sleep long enough to confirm that he was the election bet winner who passed out bills ranging from $10 to $100 at the Terminal railway station Wednesday, but declined a further interview.

"I'm too sleepy," he said.

Phillips said he returned about 4 a. m. from Birmingham, Ala., where he visited a friend and posed for a picture after his impromptu Santa Claus act here. He had declined to permit use of his name previously.

The engineer is well known in Atlanta, where he was employed by a large hotel for many years.

IOWA SOLDIER KILLED BY TRAIN.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 11 (AP).—Pvt. Lloyd R. Waskow of La Porte City, Ia., was killed today when he fell beneath the wheels of a Pennsylvania railroad train after he stepped from the train just after it stopped at the Pennsylvania station here.

CHICAGO TO GET MUSICAL TRADE HEADQUARTERS

Headquarters of the National Association of Music Merchants will be transferred from New York to Chicago Dec. 1, the Chicago Convention bureau announced yesterday. William A. Mills of Columbus, O., has been named executive secretary of the association.

Dwight F. McCormack of San Francisco, president of the organization, said that the new office location would help make Chicago the music trade hub because of the growing importance of the midwest in musical instrument manufacture and distribution.

FAMILY JEWELS PAID CROMWELL DEBT, SAYS DORIS

Reno, Nev., Nov. 11 [Special].—The patrician Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia and Palm Beach had to sell more than 1 million dollars' worth of gems to pay bills run up by her son, James H. R. Cromwell, in his unsuccessful bid for the United States senate as a New Dealer in 1940, it was charged in depositions filed here today in behalf of Doris Duke Cromwell, the tobacco heiress, who is seeking validation of the Reno divorce she obtained from Cromwell last December.

Doris said in one deposition that Jimmy spent $300,000 on his New Jersey senatorial campaign and then demanded that she foot the bill. When she refused, she said, Jimmy and his mother threatened to blacken her name.

Heiress Accused.

Others of the many depositions filed in the case have stated that Doris stood pat on her refusal and that Jimmy and Mrs. Stotesbury made good their threats by accusing the heiress of receiving attentions from Capt. Alexander Cunningham-Reid, a member of the British parliament.

A sworn statement by Dr. Richard Hoffman, society psychiatrist, said he had been told that Mrs. Stotesbury eventually made good for her son by selling her jewelry.

[Dispatches from New Jersey said Doris' revelation that Jimmy shelled out $300,000 during his brief venture into New Deal politics was said to have come as a shocking surprise to politicians in New Jersey. They were reported as being of the opinion that political outsiders reaped the benefits of Jimmy's lavishness, for they said no such amount ever showered down on them.]

Charges Follow Threat.

William Lee Baldwin, one of Doris' counsel, said in a deposition that a 10 page statement given to the newspapers by Mrs. Stotesbury several months ago follwed a threat by her "to tell her story to the newspapers if her son's financial demands were not met."

Mrs. Stotesbury's statement said, among other things, that it was at Palm Beach in 1936 that Doris' name first was linked with that of Cunningham-Reid, who last month was married to Miss Angela Williams in London. Mrs. Stotesbury said the parliament member's attentions to Doris at a dinner were were so marked that the woman who was his wife at that time rebuked both her husband and the heiress.

Hearings in the divorce validation proceedings will be resumed Monday before Judge William McKnight. Attorneys for Doris are attempting to show that Cromwell was not a legal resident of New Jersey when he began his action, which is still pending, for a limited divorce in that state. Doris is in Cairo, Egypt, working for the united seamen's service.

Russian Group to Mark Soviets' Birthday Today

The 27th anniversary of the soviet union's formation will be celebrated by the United Russian American committee this afternoon and tonight in the Ashland auditorium, 1608 Van Buren st. Nicolai Popoff, conductor of the American Russian Chorus of Chicago, will direct a program by dancers and singers in Slavic costumes. Yascha Nickagosoff and Maxim Kostaluk will be featured.

PRIVATE AND TWO OFFICERS GIVEN VALOR AWARDS

Eleven times in one day Pvt. Bernard P. Westlake, 521 N. Leamington av., ran thru showers of fragments from burning ammunition dump in Italy to repair field artillery telephone wires, said the citation accompanying the bronze star medal which the war department announced yesterday has been awarded to him.

Similar awards were made to two artillery battalion commanders from the Chicago area: Lt. Col. Le Roy A. Davis, 4263 Grace st., cited for "untiring energy and outstanding devotion to duty;" Lt. Col. Arnold J. Pio, 738 Lee st., Des Plaines, commended for valor in the same area.

Westlake's citation stated that on May 20, 1944, he braved "each time a shower of fragments and whole shells that were falling on the area. Working in the face of these great hazards, by his heroic action he helped keep the loss of communication to a minimum."

$150 BOX OF TOOLS STOLEN.

Joseph Kipak complained to police Friday night that thieves entered his garage at 3707 N. Linder av. and stole a box of tools worth $150.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 11.—Michigan's alert and rugged football players scored against Illinois this afternoon in seven plays after receiving the kick-off. The Wolverines then used this touchdown advantage as a lever to direct the course of the game and finally added another score in the fourth period to give the Illini a 14 to 0 licking which probably removed them from the Western conference race.

This scoring outline leaves untouched the highlights of one of the hardest played games in any season, a battle fought entirely on the ground. Illinois, with Buddy Young and Eddie Bray always threatening to break loose, lost a chance on the first play of the second quarter to tie the contest wher a fumble at Michigan's goal line was recovered by Milan Lazetich and Harold Watts.

Turn Back Illini Threats.

Despite this disappointment, the Illini fought bitterly thruout the third period but Michigan's line turned back each assault. Then another fumble by Illinois sent the Wolverines into Illinois territory in the last quarter and Michigan immediately capitalized on the opportunity to clinch the decision. Michigan's bid for a third touchdown failed on Illinois' 2 yard line as time expired.

Gray skies and chill weather held down attendance to 42,000 but conditions were excellent for the players. By its victory Michigan's bid for the Big Nine championship depends on next week's game with Wisconsin and the concluding contest with the now undefeated Ohio State eleven.

The pattern of today's engagement was immediately apparent. Neither team depended on passes, Michigan trying only two and Illinois seven. All failed. Nor was this game a kicking duel since with one exception—Michigan's quick kick in the third quarter—each team held the ball until fourth down.

Butkovich Plays 60 Minutes.

Illinois consistently strove to break loose its half backs, alternating combinations of Young and Bray and Don Greenwood and Paul Patterson. Bill Butkovich took over the quarter back post where Greenwood has operated most of the campaign and played 60 minutes.

Michigan depended primarily on power as demonstrated by Full Back Don Lund, who was supported with off tackle smashes and sweeps by Gene Derricotte, Ralph Chubb, and in the last period by Jack Weisenburger. Lund's 22 plays were just short of one-third of all Michigan's rushes. In comparison, Illinois' four half backs carried on 39 of 41 scrimmage plays.

Thus, the comparison of the two offenses is accurately indicated in yards gained. Michigan marched for 231 yards and Illinois totaled 159, with Young getting 84 yards on 17 runs. Obviously, Michigan's victory resulted from a defense which kept Young and his mates under control—plus the major break in the game, Illinois' fumble at the Wolverine goal line in the second quarter.

Michigan Uses 4 Man Line.

Each team changed its defense repeatedly to complicate the other's blocking assignments. The Wolverines, however, came up with an unusual plan, a four man line supported by four men. Actually, this formation was a six man line with two backers-up, for the ends of the six man line were dropped back a yard. Incidentally, Michigan's ends, Bruce Hillkene and Art Renner, played without relief and their defense on wide runs and in covering quick opening plunges were the rock on which Illinois' attack foundered.

Lazetich, the Wolverines' defensive right tackle, was spectacular, and so were Joe Ponsetto and John Lintol in backing up the Michigan line. Lund, from his defensive left

Boilermakers Top N.U., 27-7; Still in Race

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

If ever Purdue's Boilermakers bore out their nickname, it was yesterday, when they stormed over the turf of Dyche stadium for a 27 to 7 triumph over Northwestern's courageous young Wildcats, their fourth victory in five conference games and one which maintains their status as a championship factor in the 1944 Big Nine race.

The crowd of 25,000 who came to watch Boris [Babe] Dimancheff, Purdue's high scoring leader, who had crossed eight conference opponents' goal lines, didnt' see the Babe go over once yesterday. But they did see him execute a superb job of signal calling from his full back position, contributing all sorts of yardage between the 10 yard lines, and then sending freshman Stormont Pfohl of Goshen, Ind., over for three of the four Boilermaker touchdowns. The second of the visitors' quartet, and, as it turned out, the decisive one, was contributed by another of the three yearling backs who supported Dimancheff—Bill Canfield of West Lafayette, Ind., who intercepted a second quarter Northwestern pass and returned same 55 yards for the score that broke a 7 to 7 tie.

They're Hard to Stop.

There was no gainsaying the power of the Boilermakers as they churned out 14 first downs, all of them via rushing. Dimancheff, Pfohl, and Angelo Carnaghi, the Purdue right half, accounted for 295 yards of Purdue's rushing aggregate of 311. Carnaghi delivered 85 yards in 13 thrusts, Dimancheff 97 in 29, and Pfohl 113 in 17. The Boilermakers essayed only two passes, and substitute Quarter Back Don Quinn, still another freshman, clicked on both of those for a profit of 23 yards.

For all of the decisive margin of the winners, Northwestern fans were regaled with one of the best exhibitions of spirit ever shown by a Wildcat eleven. Obviously outweighed in talent, they fought from start to finish. They held Dimancheff and company scoreless thru the first quarter, tied the count at 7 to 7 on a 59 yard drive in the second period, and were threatening to pick up another touchdown in the last seconds, which saw Hank Altepeter, Wildcat track star, take a pass from Johnny Yungwirth, and go to the Purdue one-foot line, whence he was carried unconscious from the field on a stretcher. He was revived in the locker room.

Wildcats Travel, Too.

The losers' determination was evidenced in all statistics except the actual score. They registered 11 first downs to the winners' 14, and rolled up 202 yards to Purdue's 311. They had 40 rushing opportunities against the Boilermakers' 62, and outdistanced their opponents in yardage of kicks returned, 77 to 47.

Purdue took the opening kick-off from its 32 yard line in a parade that threatened to produce a score. This was delayed, however, by Right Tackle John Kroeger's recovery of a Dimancheff fumble on the Wildcat 17 yard mark. Toward the end of the first period, after the Boilermakers had taken a Northwestern punt out of bounds on the Wildcat 37 yard line, the victors began to move. Carnaghi smashed the defensive right tackle for 9, Dimancheff hit the other side for 6, and Canfield added 2 at center. Dimancheff then swept his own right end for 5, and Pfohl hammered the Wildcat left guard to the Northwestern 9 yard line as the quarter ended. Dimancheff lost 1, Pfohl went to the 6, and after Dimancheff was run out of bounds at the 3 yard stripe, Pfohl shot over his right guard for a touchdown. Tackle Tom Hughes came in to kick the extra point.

Tied Up Quickly.

Northwestern then sent its folks delirious by tying the score a minute and 40 seconds later. Frank [Red] Clawson, making his debut as full back, fumbled the kick-off momentarily on his 25, then toted it back to the Northwestern 41 yard mark. Yungwirth got 2, failed on a pass, and then Altepeter, who made 73 yards in 15 rushing tries, dashed around his left end to the Purdue 36 yard stripe. Dick Conners, former Mount Carmel High star, followed with one of the best smashes of the afternoon, an off tackle drive which took him to the 10 yard mark. Clawson needed only two more shots at the line to score. Oral Congdon, substitute

SPORTSMAN'S PARK FANS WAGER RECORD $975,776 AS SEASON ENDS

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Chicago's 1944 racing season roared to its record breaking conclusion yesterday at Sportsman's Park. A crowd of 14,954 jammed the premises of the Cicero half miler for the final day of the Chicago Tribune Charities' week which added more than $200,000 to service and welfare funds.

The National Jockey club, headed by its president, John L. Keeshin, was agent for the meeting and thru the donation of the net proceeds of the six days of competition THE TRIBUNE'S fund for distribution to charity was increased to approximately $600,000.

The pari mutuel handle yesterday broke all records for Sportsman's Park as followers of thorobreds poured $975,776 thru the machines. The old record, set the first Saturday of the regular fall meeting, was $891,371. The wagering raised the total for the year for 168 racing days at the five Chicago tracks to $144,188,898.

In midseason, during the coördinated Arlington Park-Washington Park meeting, $400,800.04 was realized in five days of racing sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, in which each Chicago track gave up one of its dates. This contribution, together with the net proceeds of the week just closed and $346,091 accumulated on designated days by Lincoln Fields, Washington Park, Hawthorne, Sportsman's Park, and Fairmount at Collinsville, pushed Illinois' racing efforts for charity substantially over the million dollar mark.

Happy Pilot Triumphs.

Happy Hour farm's entry of Happy Pilot and Rosy Brand finished one-two in the first of three handicap races on the nine race program. The event, fifth on the card, drew a field of nine thorobreds of all ages competing for a purse of $2,500.

Happy Pilot, ridden by Willie Gillespie, beat his stablemate, with Bruno Pucci up, by two lengths. Rosy Brand finished the same distance in front of A. L. Jackson's Rose Canyon, which just beat out Margaret T. for the show. The entry paid $7.20 to place, $1 more than its win price, and returned $4.40 to show.

Overtakes St. Jock.

Mrs. L. B. Muschal's Cherry Trifle, 7 year old son of Questionnaire, gave Pucci the fall jockey championship and an award of $1,000 in war bonds, by capturing the sixth race, a $3,000 handicap, in which seven horses started.

St. Jock, owned by S. D. Sidell and ridden by Will Hawksworth, went postward an even money favorite but faltered in the stretch after leading most of the way and finished second as Hilltop farm's Bob's Dream took the show. Cherry Trifle, coupled with Reaping Gold, returned $11.80, $3.60, and $2.20.

Vanfigg, with Hawksworth aboard, took the third handicap a mile and five-eighths affair for a purse of $1,800. Pilatesun was second, and Passan third. The winner, owner by B. C. Kelley, paid $6.20, $4.40, and $3.20.

Two Riders Suspended.

The daily double, won by Super and Polaris, was worth $59.40. A refund of $14,421 from the second race pool and $7,472 from the double pool was made after Mrs. Monte Weil's Liberator ran away and was scratched from the race.

Jockeys Marcus Pena and Eddie Franklin received notice yesterday of lengthy suspensions from the Illinois racing board. Pena, set down recently for the remainder of the meeting at Sportsman's Park for unsatisfactory riding, was given an additional 60 days' suspension upon recommendation of the stewards.

Franklin, suspended Oct. 28 for the remainder of the meeting for deliberately sending his mount in front of another horse, received an additional 30 days suspension.

Badgers' Late Scoring Whips Iowa, 26 to 7

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Nov. 11.—Wisconsin's Badgers, who have suffered lean times since their early season one point margin over Nothwestern's Wildcats, rat in at a veritable football feast today and a hapless Iowa team did the serving. Altho slow to work up their appetites and slightly embarrassed by a pass interception that yanked them down into a tie, the cardinal clad performers let go in furious fashion toward the finish and wound up possessors of a 26 to 7 triumph before 15,000.

The Badgers, incidentally, superior at all times to an Iowa entry that hasn't tasted a Big Nine success since it knocked Wisconsin out of a title in 1942, couldn't warm up to the job at hand until the second period by which time the spectators were about resigned to the probabilities of one of those scoreless push and pull affairs. Then when Jack Kelso put on the 70 yard pass interception that led to the tie in the third period the Badgers began to

Great Lakes Beats 3d Air Force, 12 to 10

BY HARRY WARREN.

Great Lakes Bluejackets waited until the final 90 seconds of their football game with the 3d Army Air Force team of Morris field, Charlotte, N. C., in Ross field at the naval station yesterday to snatch victory from the maw of defeat and to score a hard earned 12 to 10 triumph.

The majority of the 25,000 sailors who were privileged to watch what proved to be one of the most thrilling games of the day were about ready to concede a victory to the 3d Army Force eleven, but luckily for the destinies of the Great Lakes team the players did not share in this defeatism.

Desperation Plays Win.

With the Third Army Force riding along the crest of a 10 to 6 margin, the Great Lakes team was forced to resort to desperation plays, but these plays paid off to the extent that the North Carolina team which had been leading only a few minutes before and had attempted to stall its way thru to victory saw its hard earned 10 points only good enough to finish second in a two horse race.

The Great Lakes scoring punch was packed with drama. The ball was on the Morris field 45 yard line. Jim Youel of Iowa took the ball on a direct pass from center, sidestepped two Gremlin linemen and passed to George Young of Georgia who took the ball on the southerners' 1 yard line. It took Jim

GOPHERS UPSET HOOSIERS, 19-14, ON RALLY LATE IN FOURTH PERIOD

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 11.—Minnesota's Gophers, undernourished too many months on football tradition of happier years, this afternoon sprinted, passed, and thumped out of 1944 gridiron mediocrity to a 19 to 14 upset victory over Indiana.

Minnesota partisans among the 30,254 spectators, who remembered that the Gophers had been whipped by Iowa Seahawks, Michigan, and Ohio State, and who had received meager comfort from last week's tie with Northwestern, hailed today's victory as a joyous, old time Gopher performance, in the season farewell to the home arena. And, indeed, the game had such elements, tho it did little more than afford the Minnesotans an escape from what had been a yawning Western conference cellar.

Even tho the Gophers ruled the statistics thruout the contest, they were trailing, 14 to 13 with less than 2½ minutes of the contest to be played.

Win on Deflected Pass.

The Gophers had led, 7 to 0 and 13 to 7, but going into the last three minutes they were losing, 14 to 13. Bob Hoernschemeyer had kicked out of bounds on the Minnesota 43 yard line as the clock showed five minutes remaining in the game. Wayne Williams then pitched a 45 yard pass. Hoernschemeyer got his hands on the ball, but it bounded into the arms of Dick Schmitz, who promptly was downed on Indiana's 12 yard line. Hudson Mealey took three whacks at the line which carried to the 1 yard line. Then Merlin Kispert sneaked over for the victory touchdown. Williams failed to add the point, but the final score had been effected.

The first scoring of the game was accomplished after the second quarter was in its last five minutes. At that juncture Williams shook off tacklers on a 25 yard run, after he, Vic Kulbitski, and Dick Braun had collaborated on a march which grouped four first downs. Three of these came on hard galloping by Kulbitski, back at Minnesota after a 1943 loan to Notre Dame. Bob Kasper kicked the point and Minnesota enjoyed the 7 to 0 advantage at the end of the half, tho Indiana did get to the Minnesota 8 yard line a minute before the half ended. Here the Hoosiers were thwarted by a 17 yard penalty and a pass interception by Kulbitski.

Gophers Watch Hoosier Score.

The Hoosiers caught the Gophers napping a bit to tie the score in the eighth minute of the third quarter. A penalty had set back the Gophers to the necessity of gaining 15 yards on fourth down. So there was a punt which Dick Deranek received on the 50 yard line. Running

Fenger Beats Lane, 8-7, to Enter Finals

Fenger High school's undefeated Titans yesterday staved off a fourth quarter Lane Tech rally in Soldiers' field to win, 8 to 7, and advance to the finals in the play-off for the City league football championship. The victory was the closest call Fenger has had this season, after averaging better than 30 points per game in eight straight.

A crowd of 10,000 watched Fenger go into the lead early in the second quarter when Tim Maddon took Pete Konyar's pass on the Lane 20 yard line and streaked goalward. Madden's attempted kick hit the goal post, and Fenger led, 6 to 0, with the half ending that way.

Fenger Scores Two More.

The third period was scoreless, but Fenger counted again, early in the fourth quarter, with an automatic safety that came when Frank Seyferlich's attempted punt from the Lane 10 yard line, was blocked by End Jack Gray, who recovered the ball outside the end zone.

Lane started its scoring march immediately thereafter, when Madden, Fenger left half, fumbled after returning a free kick to the Lane 43. The fumble was recovered by Bill Fischer, the right tackle and captain of the Lane squad.

A pass, Berger to Alec Cichanski and two line plunges by Berger and Chuck Koehler, gave Lane a first down on the Fenger 42. Berger passed to Koehler and then Koehler

BY ARCH WARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 11.—A courageous team from Notre Dame, made up substantially of 17 and 18 year old boys, today ran afoul of the powerhouse that masquerades as the Army football team and fortunately no one was maimed.

The score was 59 to 0, the most one-sided defeat Notre Dames has suffered since it began intercollegiate football in 1887. The worst previous setback was 58 to 0 by Wisconsin in 1904.

It was apparent from the beginning that West Point was bent on avenging the years of gridiron humiliations heaped upon it by the Irish. This was the Cadets' sixth victory in 31 years of rivalry with Notre Dame. The Irish have been the winners 22 times and three contests resulted in tie scores.

Surprised All 76,000.

Army's triumph was so impressive it seemed unbelievable, something like your first look at the Grand Canyon, the Empire State building, or an imperial coronation. None of the capacity crowd of 76,000 most of whom have been watching this annual show in Yankee stadium for many seasons, ever expected to see an opponent move against Notre Dame at a point a minute clip. The highest count West Point ever had run up on the Irish previous to this afternoon was 30 points in 1916.

Notre Dame never was in the ball game. Its line was impotent, its back field was hemmed in all the way and Army's ack-ack made its air attack ineffectual. The Cadets' alert secondary repeatedly picked off forward passes intended for Irish arms. Notre Dame on defense often was fooled by simple reverses. The Irish had neither the strength nor the speed to cope with the array of ball carriers and hard charging forwards they encountered this afternoon.

Notre Dame Takes It.

This was Army's seventh straight victory of the season and the score maintained the team's point a minute pace. It has rolled up 419 points. Two previous contests were cut short at the request of the vanquished teams. Notre Dame took it for the full 60 minutes.

The Cadets weren't satisfied with sweeping Notre Dame men out of the play. They injured Referee Dave Noble in the second quarter with as fine a block as you could see on any gridiron. Noble was taken to the Army bench and then was removed to the dressing room. A substitute official was called in from the sidelines.

We shall describe in detail the first few Army touchdowns, but will spare you the subsequent goings-on, because those first tallies decided the pattern of the day. The Cadets made three touchdowns in the first period and two in each of the following.

Kelly Forced to Punt.

Army won the toss and Felix Blanchard kicked off to Bill O'Connor, who was downed on his 13 yard line as he caught the ball. Nunzio Marino made two around his right end and Bob Kelly gained 5 around the other flank. Elmer Angsman was a yard short of a first down and Kelly punted to Notre Dame's 45 where the ball rolled dead.

The cadets marched from that point straight to the Irish goal without yielding possession of the ball. Doug Kenna hit center for 7, and Dale Hall got 2 at the same spot. Hall, Blanchard, and John Minor alternated in moving to the 25.

NOTRE DAME IS CRUSHED, 59-0, BY ARMY RIVALS

76,000 See Cadets Roll Up Record Score.

Three line plunges left Army short of a first down, so Kenna passed to Hall, who ran to the 5.

Minor gained 3 at center and Hall went thru right guard to the 1. Art Mergenthal, Notre Dame tackle, threw Minor for a 5 yard loss, but Kenna sped around right end for a touchdown, the first time it had scored on Notre Dame since 1938. Dick Walterhouse kicked goal.

Two minutes later Kenna intercepted Frank Dancewicz's pass on the Irish 42 and ran to the 26 before Frank Szymanski, playing his first game of the year for the Irish, brought him down. Minor, on a reverse play, ran 26 yards for a touchdown. Walterhouse again kicked goal to make the count 14 to 0.

Thus far the game had followed much the pattern of last week's Notre Dame debacle at Navy. The Irish running attack had bogged down and its line couldn't hold the Army backs, but the full extent of the beating didn't become apparent for another couple of minutes because the Irish still had what they thought was a strong aerial attack.

First Pass Is Intercepted.

Blanchard kicked off to Dancewicz who returned 14 yards to his 33. Kelly attempted a pass to Tom Guthrie, but Blanchard picked it out of the air on Notre Dame's 35. Kenna faded deep and tossed a pass to Ed Rafalko, who had maneuvered behind Bill Chandler, Irish left half back. Rafalko stepped over for a touchdown. Walterhouse missed the try for point and the score stood 20 to 0.

Army's next tally was due mainly to the individual brilliance of Glen Davis, who certainly earned all-America rating today. He ran 46 yards to Notre Dame's 6 after intercepting Dancewicz's pass to Kelly. On the next play he went thru his right tackle for a touchdown. Szymanski blocked Walterhouse's try for point. Davis scored again in the second quarter on a 4 yard dash around his right end and Walterhouse added the point hoist the score to 46 to 0.

The Score Piles Up.

Army's sixth touchdown came early in the third quarter on a 60 yard punt return. Kelly kicked to Kenna, who received on his 40 and started to his right. He handed the ball to Minor, who streaked down the left side of the field without opposition. Walterhouse failed to convert and the score was 39 to 0.

The Cadets were on their way again when Dick Pitzer recovered Kelly's fumble on Notre Dame's 16. Dean Sensanbaugher, former Ohio State star, was thrown for a 5 yard loss by Dancewicz, but a pass, Kenna to Rafalko, regained the lost ground. Kenna plunged over his left tackle for 7 yards and Hall made a first down on the 1. Army was penalized for backs in motion but Kenna's pass to Pitzer was completed for a touchdown. Walterhouse kicked the extra point to hoist the score o 46 to 0.

This Was a Long One.

Davis ran 56 yards for Army's next touchdown in the fourth quarter. Taking a direct pass from center, Davis hesitated a second, then found a hole outside his left tackle. He ignored two invitations from Notre Dame tacklers to sit down and kept going until he crossed the goal. Walterhouse missed the kick and the count was 52 to 0.

The game's final score resulted from a forward pass interception. Joe Gasparella attempted a screen pass from behind the Irish goal but Harold Tavzel, Army tackle, picked it off and stepped across the goal line. Walterhouse kicked the point.

roll. They put over three rapid fire touchdowns in the last quarter.

Win Without Girard.

The Badgers didn't have their Earl Girard to direct the serving of the touchdown feast but they uncovered a few able assistants, notably Jerry Thompson. The 158 pound streak of greased lightning kicked dirt into the eyes of the slow moving Iowans almost from start to finish. The little man moved around so quickly and so often that the Hawkeyes occasionally thought they saw him in two places at the same time. He was so busy, also so aggressive, that he was in 37 running plays for a total of 139 yards, the closest approach to this being 80 ripping yards in 15 plays by Full Back T. A. Cox.

Iowa's ground game—the item it had figured would wear the Badger defense into shreds—was shaved down into a negligible quantity. The best of the Iowa leg men was Bill Kersten with only 39 yards in 14 attempts, the next highest being Nelson Smith with 17 in nine jobs. Altogether the Iowans rushed themselves into a meager 54 yards against a total of 287 for the Badgers.

The first period was principally of the boys going this way or that way without becoming serious. After taking the kick-off the Badgers plowed up to midfield but bogged down so had to punt. With the help of a penalty and a poor punt by Cox, the Hawkeyes followed with a 20 yard march that carried them down to the Badgers' 25 yard line where a fourth down pass by Byers was knocked down, Wisconsin regaining possession of the ball and hanging on it thru the conclusion of the opening quarter.

Fumble Starts It.

By the time the second period opened the boys apparently were well enough acquainted to do a little gambling. The Badgers spurned punting on fourth down and Iowa took the ball on the Badgers' 46 yard line. The Hawkeyes gathered in 9 yards this time but couldn't get the needed yard on fourth down and the ball went back to the Badgers on their own 37. The latter couldn't make headway, so Cox punted to Iowa's 31. An offside penalty on the Badgers aided Iowa in a first down achievement on its 43 but a moment later brought the fumble on which Wisconsin clipped a coupon.

Smith fumbled and John Davey, who shortly before thought he had performed a similar achievement but in which the seemingly hazy officials disagreed, captured the loose oval on Iowa's 43. The first of five plays that whittled away the 57 yards was a 13 yard shot thru the middle by Thompson. On the next play he slipped the ball to Cox who peeled off 16 yards. In two drives into the line Thompson picked up only 3 yards but he tried it again and this time wasn't caught. Joe Campbell kicked the extra point.

Kelso Enjoys a Romp.

The Badgers had a high powered march under way in the third period when the Hawkeyes staged the pass theft that boosted them into a tie. Thompson and Cox had ripped from their 32 yard line to the Iowa 29, where after being thrown for a 3 yard loss, Thompson turned loose a long pass and it dropped gently into the arms of Kelso, who simply lit out after the catch and sailed down the field, nobody in a Badger suit being even close to him. He followed with a kick that made it 7 to 7.

Late in the third period Davey again recovered a Byers fumble on Iowa's 18, but the Badgers missed first down by inches. Iowa punted out to its 28 yard line, and by the time the quarter closed Wisconsin had worked ahead 11 yards. On the first play of the last period Thompson skipped ahead 5 yards, added 3, and then handed the ball to Cox, who charged to within a foot of the Iowa goal. Iowa braced and would have taken the ball, but was offside, and in the extra play Campbell ripped thru to a touchdown. He also kicked the extra point.

55 Yards to Touchdown.

The Badgers did a 55 yard march to capture their third touchdown. Thompson, Cox, and Gene Wagnon, a recently arrived naval trainee, lugged the ball down to the 24 yard line where the ground game was stopped, making an aerial thrust advisable. Nick Holmes heaved a long pass to Jack Mead but the catcher was in the wrong spot. The pitch was repeated and this time it dropped into Mead's hands in the end zone. Campbell's kick from placement missed connections.

Wisconsin's last touchdown drive began on its 42 yard line where the Hawkeyes were stopped when their passing game failed. Wagnon, after failing to gain, came back with a thrust to Iowa's 45 where the Badgers were temporarily stalled, John Fee breaking up the delay with a spectacular sprint to the 17 yard line. Then Fee passed to Holmes who toppled over the goal line altho his feet were locked in the embrace of an Iowa tackler. Holmes tried for the extra point but before his toe got to the ball the Iowans had smothered it.

MICHIGAN HANGS 14-0 DEFEAT ON ILLINOIS ELEVEN

half back position, tackled accurately and with power.

Illinois interchanged its tackles and guards on defense as it had done two weeks ago against Notre Dame. Ralph Serpico, defensive left tackle, led the Illini defenders with Center George Bujan playing equally well in support of the right side of his line.

Wolverines Score in a Hurry.

Michigan won the toss and chose to receive. This permitted the initial scoring attack which actually decided the game before the Illini had buckled to their task. Chubb came back 22 yards with Les Bingaman's kick-off to the Wolverine 46 yard line.

Derricotte slashed at right tackle for 8 yards and followed with a 12 yard run after taking the ball from Lund on the latter's spin. Against Illinois' seven man line, Derricotte faked a pass and ran to the Illini 15. Michigan then went into a T formation and Derricotte and Chubb each picked up two yards. On third down, Lund plunged over guard to Illinois' 4 yard and on the next play—seventh in the series—Lund hit defensive left tackle after a full spin to score. Ponsetto kicked the point and Michigan led, 7 to 0.

Young Runs for 24 and 28.

Illinois chose to receive and Young and Bray replaced Greenwood and Patterson. On the first scrimmage from his own 26, Young swept Michigan's right end for 24 yards, but the next series ended with Young's fourth down punt which went out on Michigan's 28.

When Illinois next took the ball, Young again broke away for a 28 yard run. This sortie also was checked when Young failed to make distance on fourth down and Michigan took over on its 32 yard line. Then came Michigan's bit of bad luck.

Chubb's lateral at the line of scrimmage on a fake plunge was grabbed by the Illini's Lou Agase, who was downed on Michigan's 35, and Illinois seized the opportunity. Greenwood picked up 11 yards and the next series of four downs moved the ball to the Wolverine 9 yard line. Bray shot inside tackle for 5 yards on a quick opening and repeated to the 1 foot line on the last play of the first quarter. Bray actually bounced into the end zone, but the official ruling grounded the ball just short of the last strip. The teams changed goals.

Fumble at the Goal Line.

It was third down. Butkovich took the ball from center and handed it toward Greenwood for a quick opening. Butkovich's handling was in error or Greenwood failed to hold the ball. In any event, the ball rolled free on the 2 yard line where both Watts and Lazetich fell on it. Lund successfully kicked out on fourth down.

This was the high tide of Illinois' attack since the Illini made first down only once in the second period and on three individual occasions in the third. Illinois did not make required distance in the last quarter.

The third period, however, belonged to Illinois as Michigan, defending in its own territory, was further handicapped by 15 yard penalties for holding. In this time, Bill Heiss, substituting for Full Back Jerry Cies, narrowly missed tying the score, but Butkovich's pass from Michigan's 35 fell from his hands in the Wolverine end zone.

Illini Fumble Costly.

On the next to last play of the third period, Michigan coaches sent in Weisenburger. Following apparent instructions, Weisenburger quick-kicked and the ball rolled dead on Illinois' 4 yard line. Thus began the series of events which led to Michigan's second touchdown.

The second step was another punt by Weisenburger which was fumbled by Greenwood and recovered by Watts on Illinois' 32 yard line. Lund immediately led the power parade to the goal.

The Michigan full back made a first down on Illinois' 21 in three smashes. He carried twice more and gained 6 yards. Then Weisenburger slammed outside defensive left tackle to the 3 yard line. Lund plunged for a yard, but Weisenburger was stopped without gain. Michigan's quick lineup, with an overshifted back field, then permitted Weisenburger to sprint outside Illinois' right end for the touchdown.

Wolverines Knock Again.

Ponsetto kicked the point and Michigan led, 14 to 0, with six minutes remaining to play. Illinois had the ball for only four plays in this time and the Wolverines finished with 11 consecutive plays which ended on Illinois' 2 yard line as the gun stopped play. Statistics:

Athletic Field at N. U. Named for Prof. Long

Prof. Omera F. Long, professor emeritus of classical languages at Northwestern university and chairman of the faculty athletic committee for 38 years until his retirement in 1940, was honored yesterday when the intramural athletic field on Sheridan rd. was named in his honor by the board of trustees.

Prof. Long played a prominent part in the development of athletics at Northwestern and in the Big Ten. As a pioneer member of the conference faculty athletic committee, he was instrumental in framing much of the legislation which has made the conference the outstanding organization of its kind in the country.

It was thru his proposal that the rule restricting athletic competition to undergraduates was adopted. He also introduced the rule prohibiting a player from lending his name to commercial enterprises and the one barring athletes after two previous ineligibilities.

Prof. Long played baseball in college and long has been a golf enthusiast. He recalls the pride with which the Northwestern student body witnessed the building in 1905 of wooden football stands seating 10,000 spectators. Prof. Long helped lay out the new baseball diamond at that time.

IOWA SEAHAWKS TOP BUNKER HILL ELEVEN BY 33-7

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 11 [Special].—Bunker Hill Naval Air station, whose football representatives never previously had lost a game during their two year existence, offered little opposition to Iowa Pre-Flight's drive to a third consecutive national service championship here today as the Seahawks dashed to a 33 to 7 victory.

Mertes Leads Seahawks.

Leading the way for the Sea hawks in his farewell exhibition was Bus Mertes, who opened the scoring late in the first quarter with a brilliant 80 yard sprint and added another touchdown at the start of the second half.

The final three Seahawk scores were the direct efforts of Ary, who grabbed a 31 yard touchdown pass delivered by Bob Sullivan, and left handed Louis King, rookie quarterback.

The Blockbusters' touchdown was scored in the fading minutes when Russell Harmon captured Lyle Downing's fumble and raced to his 25, where he lateraled to Herman Davenport, who covered the remaining distance. Chuck Pollard, former Illini, added the point with a drop kick.

Smith Sneaks Over.

Three and a half minutes after the fourth period opened, King climaxed a 35 yard drive, stemming from Charley Woodward's plunging and Smith's wide end sweeps, by aneaking over from the 1.

Coaches — Carroll Widdoes [Ohio State]; Clark Shaughnessy [Pittsburgh].

Columbus, O., Nov. 11 [Special].—Ohio State kept its perfect football record clean today by defeating the University of Pittsburgh, 54 to 19.

The Buckeyes showed too much speed and power for the Panthers and after scoring three times early in the first period, members of the second, third, and reserve teams took over.

So superior was the Ohio eleven that all of the 26,566 in attendance were confident that the score could have been in the three-figure bracket had the first or even the second team been left on the field.

The Buckeyes used 39 players, but took no chances with five regulars recovered from recent hurts who will be needed in the battles with Illinois and Michigan coming up in the next two weeks.

Pass Brings First Score.

Ohio scored eight times, three in the first period. After only four minutes of play Les Horvath, standing on the Pitt 45 yard line, tossed a long pass to Freshman Bob Brugge for a touchdown. Jack Dugger missed the point.

Two minutes later a fourth down kick by Paul Rickards was blocked by Russ Thomas and the ball went back to the Pitt 2 yard line, from where Dick Flanagan bucked it over. This time Dugger made good and Ohio led, 13 to 0.

Shortly afterward Horvath intercepted one of Rickards' passes and carried the ball to the Pitt 14. On the first play he rounded left end for the score. Dugger kicked the point and Ohio had the game clinched, 20 to 0.

Reserves Take Over.

Here the second team took over and scored three times in the second period.

From there on the game followed the same monotonous pattern.

Horvath averaged seven yards every time he carried the ball.

Mello of Notre Dame two tries to cross the line, but he did just that, and it didn't matter much if his try for the extra point was wide.

Trippi Paves Way.

Charles Trippi, former All-American from the University of Georgia who spearheaded the North Carolina attack and defense thruout the afternoon, paved the way for the first score of the game shortly after the third quarter started by returning Harold Mullins' kick to the 23 yard line. Ernest Bonelli of the University of Pittsburgh and Trippi, alternating as ball carriers, advanced to midfield. Then Bonelli lateralled to Trippi and the latter advanced to the Bluejackets' 10 yard line in a play that went so fast that few of the spectators were able to discern just where the ball was. Great Lakes held at this point and on fourth down the visitors elected to try a field goal.

John Saltenreich of Battle Creek, [Mich.] High school was called into the game to attempt the field goal and the choice of Capt. J. Queen Decker, Air Force coach, proved justified. Standing on the 17 yard line, Saltenreich's kick went true to its target and the North Carolina team held a 3 to 0 lead.

Break Helps Air Force.

One of the breaks that both teams had been trying for set up the 3d Air Force touchdown, Frank Gnup of Manhattan college, quarter back for the Gremlins, as the 3d Air Force eleven is known, recovered a fumble on the Great Lakes' 35 yard line. Bonnelli, who had spent 22 months overseas in the Italian campaign and who had been twice wounded, gave little evidence of those wounds as he sped to the sailors' 19 yard line. Trippi made one yard and then passed to Gnup on the 7 yard line. A pass from Trippi to Bob Kennedy of Washington State lost 14 yards and an aerial to Edward Ohare of Detroit university was good for only 3. Trippi then missed on a fourth down pitch to Henry Piro of Syracuse university, but the touchdown drive was only temporarily stymied.

Youell punted out to the Great Lakes' 27, and after two plays gained only 3 yards. Trippi passed to Ohare to the Bluejackets' 7. Kennedy picked up a yard and then Trippi went over for the Gremlins' only touchdown of the day. Seltenreich added the extra point for a 10 to 0 lead at the end of the third quarter.

Sailors Score on Pass.

Great Lakes had the ball on the Gremlins' 2 yard line as the final quarter opened, but in four tries could get no nearer the goal line and Trippi punted to the 44. Youell passed to Don Mangold of Indiana university to the 28, and then pitched the ball to George Young of Georgia in the end zone for a touchdown. Mello missed the try for the extra point and the score was 10 to 6.

Following an exchange of punts, Great Lakes took the ball on its own 38 and was promptly penalized to the 33 for too many times out. Then came the aerial march that resulted in a victory for the Bluejackets.

JIM MELLO OF GREAT LAKES MAKING ONE OF FOUR VAIN ATTEMPTS TO SCORE TOUCHDOWN FROM 2 YARD LINE.

MISSOURI TIES OKLAHOMA, 21-21 IN LAST PERIOD

Norman, Okla., Nov. 11 (AP).—A brilliant last-quarter offensive by Missouri, in which the Tigers scored 14 points to pull into a 21 to 21 draw with Oklahoma, marred the Sooners' Big Six conference championship today but left Oklahoma still monarch of the circuit. Only by losing their final two games, with Kansas and Nebraska, can the Sooners lose the title.

Missouri gained an early advantage, scoring early in the second period after a listless first quarter. Guard Bob Stone fell on an Oklahoma fumble on the Oklahoma 30 yard line and Quarter Back Paul Collins, who accounted for all three Missouri touchdowns, took over to march across the goal in seven plays. Tackle Jim Kekeris then booted the first of his three extra points.

Oklahoma tied the count at 7 to 7 just before the half ended, Half Back Johnny West passing and running to the one foot line and tailback Derald Lebow, under wraps with a cold, going in to plunge over. End Dub Wooten, kicked the first of his three goals.

The Sooners breezed into a 14-point lead by scoring twice early in the third quarter.

KANSAS UPSET, 18-14.

Manhattan, Kas., Nov. 11 (AP).—In a game thrilled-packed to the last second, Kansas State's Wildcats won an 18 to 14 upset victory over Kansas university before a homecoming crowd of 7,500 here today.

Not even when the umpire's gun had signaled the end of the game was the issue decided in the traditional battle between the two Big Six schools.

With Kansas State leading 18 to 14 and but 15 seconds to play, Charles Moffett of the Jayhawkers broke loose from his 18 to cross the Wildcat goal on an 82 yard sprint.

The timer's gun signaled the end of the game as Moffet crossed the goal line, but an official had detected a Jayhawker in a clipping foul on the Wildcat 32 yard line.

There was time for only one more play and even it was delayed five minutes when one of the officials, thinking the game was over, had gone to the dressing room.

BY OFFSIDE.

Four cup matches, each of which must be played to a decision, headline today's activities in Chicagoland soccer with the Spartas meeting the Hakoah-Centers in a replay of their tie game of two weeks ago in the top attraction.

The Sparta-Hakoah battle is scheduled in Sparta stadium and makes up the second half of a double header starting at 12:30 p. m. in the C division sixth round cup duel between Hansas and Necaxas. The second game is slated to begin at 2:30 o'clock.

Hansas Surprise League.

The Hansas, who moved into the city's top ranks after John Nugent took over the post as manager, stepped into the limelight two weeks ago with a surprise victory over the Swedes. Those instrumental in the success of the team are Goalie Vern Fekker, Full Back Arch Streader, and Center Half August Goeller. The remainder of the lineup includes three veteran performers in Arthur Benesch, Kurt Jotzart, and Henry Kroll.

The Necaxas, who dropped an overtime game to the Swedes a week ago, will be without the services of high scoring Henry Bellagamba, who underwent a knee operation earlier in the week. The team will be strengthened by the addition of Nello Menoni in the nets and also will have Lt. Goethe Rebello ready as a first string reserve.

The Hakoahs received some good news yesterday when Eric Klaber notified the team management that he will be on hand and won't leave for New York until later. The squad has held several workouts during the week in order to be in the best shape for the expected gruelling duel with the Spartas. Dr. Julius Brandt and Lt. Justine Rosenbusch will be in the team again.

Spartas Strengthened.

Strengthened by the return of Joe Silovsky to the lineup, the Spartas will use the same lineup as that which came from behind two weeks ago to knot the score. Jimmy Wolf, who scored two of the goals in the rally, indicated that he'll be available for the opening face off. Lineups:

| Hansas. | | Necaxas. |

YALE WINS SIXTH STRAIGHT; WHIPS BROWN, 13 TO 0

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 11 (AP).—William Penn, taking a tip from an old colonial by the same name, found Brown's touchdown territory early in the second half today and led Yale's unbeaten and untied football team to a 13 to 0 triumph—its sixth in a row—over the stubborn Bruins.

Billy used his 190 pounds to advantage two minutes after the third period kick-off by crashing thru the middle for 44 yards and a touchdown for what turned out to be the ball game.

Loh Crosses Goal Line.

Just before the finale, George Loh plunged across from the 1 foot line, but that only added injury to insult in this 49th meeting between these old Ivy league foes.

The Bruins had Yale in the hole most of the first half, but were unable to capitalize in the clutch, despite the gallant efforts of Charley Tiedemann, star back who returned to action after an injury-enforced lay-off.

Penn's pay-off dash was a beautiful combination of running and blocking, the latter by Acting Capt. Tommy Smith, and was the outstanding play in the battle.

DARTMOUTH LOSES, 19-0.

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 11 (AP).—Stan Weiner, formerly of Yale, and Tommy Dorsey, former Brown half back, led the Coast Guard academy to a decisive 19 to 0 victory over Dartmouth. Both teams dissipated scoring chances in the first period, and it was not until the last minute of the half that a Weiner-to-Reed pass brought the cadets their first score.

LAFAYETTE TRIUMPHS, 39-0.

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 11 (AP).—Lafayette trounced Rutgers by a 39 to 0 score here this afternoon to win the mythical Middle Three title. The visitors scored three touchdowns during the first half, were held in the third period, but came back with a vengeance in the final stanza to score three more. The dazzling open field running of Frank Raba sparked the Leopards' attack. He ran 25, 88, and 66 yards for three of the scores.

NAVY ROUTS CORNELL.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 11 (AP).—Navy's duo of Bob Jenkins and Clyde Scott hit Cornell with a furious battering attack in the opening minutes today to score a pair of touchdowns, leaving the Big Red eleven helpless before a stream of substitutes who gave the midshipmen a 48 to 0 triumph over the Ithaca team.

CRUSADERS BEAT COLGATE.

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 11 (AP).—After getting off on the wrong foot by losing the opening kickoff, Colgate's Red Raiders waged an uphill battle before bowing to the Holy Cross Crusaders 19 to 13 today.

Ball Signed by RockneSpeeds Up BondDrive

A football autographed by the late Knute Rockne and members of his 1930 national championship Notre Dame football team, will be awarded at a war bond rally between halves of the Notre Dame-Northwestern game in Notre Dame stadium next Saturday, the treasury department announced yesterday.

The football will be presented to the purchaser of the largest amount of war bonds between now and the day of the game. The treasury received the football from a Chicago banker whose son, a co-pilot on a Flying Fortress, was killed over Germany.

Has Rockne's Signature.

The football was autographed by Rockne and his squad while the team was en route to California in 1930, when Notre Dame won the national title by routing Southern California, 27 to 0. Included among the names on the ball are those of Marchie Schwartz, Nick Lukats, Larry [Moon] Mullins, Bucky O'Connor, and Mike Koken.

The treasury department said 50 bench seats for the Notre Dame-Northwestern game, 25 on each side of the field, will be awarded to the first 50 purchasers of bonds worth $10,000 or more. The seats are presented thru a special arrangement with the University of Notre Dame. A football bearing the autographs of the winning team in Saturday's game will be presented as a consolation prize.

Mail Checks to Tribune.

Order forms with certified checks, bank drafts, cashier checks, or money orders attached, letters from banks confirming purchases, or bona fide orders for 2½ or 2 per cent treasury bonds to be purchased Nov. 20, should be mailed to The Chicago Tribune sports department.

Cashiers checks or drafts should be made payable to the treasurer of the United States; personal checks to the bank upon which they are drawn, or all forms of remittances to The Chicago Tribune. All remittances must be received by midnight Friday.

DRAKE SCORES, 31 TO 0, TO KEEP RECORD CLEAN

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 11 (AP).—The Drake Bulldogs kept their football record clean today with a 31 to 0 victory over Missouri Valley college of Marshall, Mo.

A newcomer to the Drake team, Half Back Elmer Patterson, Negro, who enrolled at Drake after playing a full schedule with Washburn college of Topeka, Kas., led the scoring with three touchdowns. Del Cockayne, the Bulldogs' leading scorer for the season, brought his total for seven games to 78 points by tallying two touchdowns.

U.C.L.A. DEFEATS CALIFORNIA IN A DOWNPOUR 7 TO 0

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 11 (AP).—Two successive pass interference penalties against California in the second quarter enabled U. C. L. A. to whip the Golden Bears in the rain today, 7 to 0.

Most of the ball game was played in a heavy downpour and the crowd, under 3,000, was the smallest that ever watched a Pacific Coast conference contest in the 103,000 capacity Memorial colesium.

When Waterfield fired a long pass to California's 20, the officials called interference against the Bears and U. C. L. A. had a first down. Three plays later pass interference was called again on the 8, and on the next play Waterfield threw one into the end zone to Nelson King, substitute right end.

Hunters Open Bombardment on Pheasants

BY BOB BECKER.

The rabbits and the pheasants in northern Illinois were given a noisy and lively bombardment yesterday, when hundreds of hunters invaded corn fields and sloughs to open the 1944 upland game season. A combination of mild weather, dry sloughs, and ample cover provided a setting for the opening day hunt that was almost ideal, for the lack of water in many acres of low ground opened up new territory to the gunners and also gave the birds a wider range.

About 7:50 to 10:30 a. m. in the country that we hunted, not far from Lake Villa, the number of shooters in the field was so large that there was hardly a 10 minute period when we could not hear either a single shot or a rolling barrage from a party of hunters as they flushed ringnecks or rabbits. The rabbit population seems to have increased over 1943 altho the area which we hunted did not have quite as many pheasant as in former years. Our party numbered between 15 and 20 cottontails within a couple of hours.

Pheasants Change Tactics.

We found that the ringnecks yesterday changed their usual evasion tactics. Instead of laying well to a dog early in the morning, before they are hunted much, they were very mild, whereas around noon they never moved while our setter, Hint Stone Felicia, came to a point. Around 8 a. m., two birds in very heavy cover sprinted out of it, before the dog could pin them down but our hunting partners, Howard A. Emig of Lake Forest and Lyman Barr of Highland Park, took care of them with long shots.

Both were crippled and never would have been recovered with an ordinary dog but the setter found and retrieved them. Then three cocks flushed out of range before the setter could get to them. The next bird elected to sit tight in very heavy cover. Barr's 20 gauge knocked it down and our Labrador retriever, Dawn of Kezar, recovered it from a tangle of rushes and weeds more than five feet high.

Birds Take to Cover.

Around noon the pheasants quit running and decided to burrow into thick grass and cattails which made them easy for the setter. In a corner of a small slough not more than 150 feet wide and 200 feet long on the W. W. Haerther farm, the setter made four finds, all of them pheasant cocks, in less than 15 minutes. When three of these had been dropped and retrieved by the dogs, the first hunt of the season was over, for all of us had our two birds each.

BEARS BOW OUT TODAY AGAINST BOSTON YANKS

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Chicago fans this afternoon will be seeing the last of the Bears until another season rolls around. They are meeting the Boston Yanks, the National Football league's freshman team, to end a five Sunday stand in Wrigley field. On successive Sundays the Bears will play the Lions in Detroit, the Eagles in Philadelphia, and the Card-Pitts in Pittsburgh to complete their 10 game schedule.

Only a tie with Green Bay for the western championship could bring the Bears back to Chicago. But for this to happen the Bears must win today and keep it up in the three games on the road, while the Packers' part would be to win, lose, and tie in their remaining three contests, which is distinctly improbable.

Packers Meet Rams.

Today the Packers meet the Rams in Cleveland, a team they whipped recently in Green Bay, 30 to 21. This so shocked the Rams, who had won three in a row, that they were beaten on successive Sundays by the Bears and Lions. A week from today the Packers play the Giants in New York and then wind up their campaign Nov. 26 in Comiskey park against the Card-Pitts.

If the Bears and Packers do finish in a tie, as they did in 1941, this would mean a play-off and Wrigley field doubtless would be the site, as it was in '41. This year the league championship game will be played in the east.

Sid Will Be Ready.

Sid Luckman will be at quarter back for the Bears for the third successive game. Under his leadership the Chicagoans whipped the Rams, 28 to 21, and the Packers, 21 to 0. The fact that the Yanks excel in pass defense shouldn't bother Sid too much. The Yanks likewise have the best league record on yardage yielded from scrimmage. But they came into the National league the hard way. To date they've played two games each with the Eagles and the Giants, and one with the Redskins. They lost all five, but managed to beat the Brooklyn Tigers in the other engagement.

The Tigers have a collection of veterans who have played all around the league and a flock of youngsters. Their main threat is George Cafego, who runs and passes. He has been with Brooklyn and Washington. Another potent Yank is Bob Davis of Kentucky who is the league's top man in punt returns.

Try McEnulty at Guard.

The Bears will experiment today with big Doug McEnulty at left guard. The Kansan started the season as a full back and later was moved to right half. He'll be sitting in today for Ed Sprinkle, rookie guard, who has an injured arm. Jake Sweeney, starting left tackle, also may be rested to give his knee a chance to escape any bumps. The coaches want to be sure that Sprinkle and Sweeney will be ready for next week's game against the Lions, which figures to be a tougher assignment than today's.

The Chicago Cardinal-Pittsburgh Steeler combine, which will play games in Comiskey park on Nov. 19 and Nov. 26, today meet the Lions in Detroit. The Card-Pitts will be trying to avoid their seventh straight league defeat.

Most important eastern division game is between the unbeaten Philadelphia Eagles and the once defeated New York Giants in Philadelphia. The Giants must win or suffer virtual elimination. Washington, deadlocked with the Eagles with four victories and a tie, will play the Tigers in Brooklyn.

Cards to Build Million Dollar Baseball Park

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 11 (AP).—Sam Breadon, president of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, today announced plans for the post-war construction of a $1,000,000 baseball park in St. Louis.

The park, on a 13 acre tract, will be known as Cardinal field, and will have a seating capacity of not less than 40,000, Breadon said. It will include double deck V-shaped stands with the latest in lighting equipment.

The facade of the park will be of light colored brick and equivalent in height to a five story building. The site is about two and a half miles straight south of Sportsman's park, two miles west of the downtown district, and is served by four street cars and three bus lines.

Start of actual construction will hinge upon war priorities and restrictions, Breadon said. The Cardinals' lease on Sportsman's park expires in 1950.

KIPKE RELEASED AFTER 3 YEARS OF NAVY SERVICE

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 11 (AP).—Harry G. Kipke, University of Michigan regent and a lieutenant in the United States naval reserve for the last three years, has been discharged from the navy at his own request.

Kipke, an All-America half back in 1922, coached Michigan teams from 1929 thru 1937, being succeeded in 1934 by Fritz Crisler.

Kipke, who was eligible for release from the naval reserve because he is more than 38 years old, has joined the sales staff of a nationally known beverage company and will have his headquarters in Chicago.

MELBOURNE, Nov. 11 (AP).—The Melbourne cup, Australia's big race, was won today by Sirius, with Peter second and Cellini third.

THAT FACE IS HERE AGAIN!

SCHICK INJECTOR BLADES ARE BACK!
(Sorry—No New Razors Yet Except for the Armed Forces!)

Schick Injector owners are all smiles these days . . . now that their blades are back again in force. Real shaving comfort and ease are theirs once more.

Although we are now able to supply civilian as well as military demands for keen-edged Schick Blades, we still can't get the material for new razors except for the Armed Forces. If you have more than one, pass it along to a friend so that he, too, may enjoy the revolutionary Schick Injector features: : : the only basic improvements in safety razor shaving in over 40 years.

SCHICK INJECTOR RAZOR BLADES
Magazine Repeating Razor Co., Bridgeport 1, Conn.

AUTOMATIC BLADE CHANGE
. . . an exclusive Schick Injector feature. A pull and push on the injector shoots out the old blade, slides in a fresh one instantly. Nothing to take apart or re-assemble. No fumbling with sharp blade edges or messy paper wrappers.

SOLID GUIDE BAR
. . . has a sure-grip surface that stretches and flattens the skin just ahead of the blade. Pops up whiskers for closer, more comfortable shave. Corner guards protect against nicking and scraping.

DOUBLE-THICK BLADES
. . . just as long but twice as thick as ordinary blades. 3 times as thick as paper-thin ones. So they take and hold a really keen edge. Oil packed in special cartridge, their cutting edges are suspended in space.

PURDUE'S POWER WINS, 27-7, OVER NORTHWESTERN

Boilermakers Retain Title Hopes.

...ckle, dropped by to add the extra ...oint.

Purdue then returned to the busi...ess of grinding out yards, traveling from its own 49 to the Northwestern 20, after a spectacular pass interception by Dimancheff, before the Wildcats took over on downs. Conners and Clawson made it a first down for the home lads on their own 36, and Yungwirth added still another at the Purdue left tackle. The latter then tried a pass, but Canfield, the 165 pound Boilermaker freshman, rushed up to detain it and proceed with benefit of little or no interference over the Wildcat goal in the top individual performance of the day. Hughes returned to kick the point.

Go 69 Yards to Score.

The third Purdue touchdown was engineered in the third period after a 69 yard parade. Carnaghi and Pfohl collaborated in making a first down on their own 42, and the hard running Dimancheff proved why he's one of the best backs in the land by going to the Wildcat 49. Pfohl pursued this with a 16 yard smash at the Wildcat left tackle, then added another of 15 yards. Dimancheff and Carnaghi teamed to bring it to the Northwestern 11, and on the first play Pfohl found a hole at the defensive left guard, bursting thru it for a touchdown. Hughes' kick wandered to the left.

Northwestern failed to make a first down on its own 27 yard line the fourth down attempt being an end sweep with only a yard to go, and Purdue was quick to take advantage. Dimancheff hit the line for 12 and 5 yards, and then sent Pfohl over his right guard for the touchdown. Hughes added the point to make the score 27 to 7.

The Wildcats brought off their last minute heroics with a march of 64 yards. Taking the Purdue kickoff to their own 36 yard mark, Altepeter and Jack Doyle, Milwaukee freshman full back, picked up a first down. Yungwirth added another, then passed to Joe Seigal for 20 yards, good on the Purdue 30 yard line. He got 5 in a line smash, then Altepeter made it first down with a left tackle thrust which brought the ball to the Boilermaker 18. The hard working Hank then tacked on another 8 yards, and Doyle went to the 3 yard line. Yungwirth's short pass was taken by Altepeter, who was injured as he fell at the one foot line, just as the final gun sounded.

Without a victory in their last two starts, the Blackhawks will attempt to show another capacity crowd of 16,000 that they are a better team than the records show when they clash with those high-powered Canadiens from Montreal tonight in the Stadium. The festivities are scheduled to start at 8:30 p. m.

It will be the first appearance of the Stanley Cup winners in Chicago since they whipped the Hawks in the title playoffs last winter and judging from the ease with which they put across a 9 to 2 victory over the Hawks Thursday in Montreal, they're still the club to beat out for the league crown this season.

Manager Paul Thompson made two changes in the lineup for Thursday's game, switching Lude Check to the line with Johnny Harms and Bill Thoms and placing Russ Brayshaw in the same team with Harvey Fraser and Fido Purpur. The latter move produced the two goals with Brayshaw doing the scoring. Thompson plans other changes tonight but didn't commit himself as to what he had in mind to stopping the Canadiens from skating in unhindered to score.

SPOTTING THE PINS

BY ROBERT BEACH.

BUDDY BOMAR'S 4th annual Diamond Medal Individual tournament will be written into the books tonight when the last squad, which starts at 11 o'clock, has finished its work on the Marigold Arcade lanes. The tourney, like most others of its kind, has produced quite a few thrills for the spectators, not to mention the competitors, including the record-breaking 1772 series of Chet Bukowski of the Detroit E. & B. Beer team Tuesday night.

The event likewise has also offered some highlights and interesting items for attention, among which is the relative low count of Dan Gullickson, despite the fact that he had but one blow in the entire eight games, so accurate was his spare shooting.

Gullickson totaled 1523, an average of slightly more than 190, but nine splits proved his undoing. He converted three of them, however, turning in the 5-10 in the first frame of his opening game. He also negotiated the 9-10 and the baby 3-10. The other six came at vital moments, between strike clusters. All told he had 46 spares and 32 strikes in the eight contests. His blow was the 10 pin in the seventh frame of the fifth game.

Remais Lead Marigold League With 2,706 Series.

CHATTER—A note from A. C. Rawski, SK3/C, a Chicagoan on naval duty in the Pacific, wrote for the correct dope on Allie Brandt's all-time high three game series in sanctioned league competition. "We agreed that the total was 889," he writes, "but our bet is on the date." The boys are too agreeable because the score was 886. It was bowled in Lockport, N. Y., Nov. 25, 1939, Seaman Rawski lost. . . . The 2706 series which the Remias team shot and the 960 single game of Lukko Radios, both bowled last week, are season records for the Marigold Ladies Classic. . . . Larry Dunn, former state singles champion, working as an instructor at Dearborn-Jackson, is doing quite well in his exhibition bowling. Two straight weeks now he's taken Eli Maricich and Benny Dudeck. . . . In the Mills Industries Ladies league at Congress Arcade the Five Aces are in last place and the Five Deuces on top. . . . Team No. 13 is leading the Holy Name circuit in the same house. . . . Ed Mannah's 662 set the pace in the Samuelson Major as his Mee & Ramme team took three from Conners Tavern. Other high series included Chuck Wagner's 660 and John Podmer's 651. Edelweiss Beer is leading the league, a game in advance of Mee & Ramme and Monarch Encore.

Marios Have Lost One Game In Congress Classic.

Henrietta Wilman, wife of the famous Joe, and her mates of the Mario Restaurant five, are setting a dizzy pace in the 20-team Congress Classic with a 23-1 record. The team also cashed in the Whittier tourney in Detroit, a singles event, with Cecelia Winandy topping the list with 1083 for six games. Mrs. Wilman and Lee Garrity each had 1060. . . . Secretaries of women's leagues are urged to make reports on their Miss Chicago Bowler plane funds immediately. Send them to Betty Ramsey. The present aim is to reach the goal by Christmas. . . . Vic Tocwish is leading the averages in the S. E. Traveling with a 197 average, followed by Ted Svoma with 195 and John Strand with 193. . . . Irene Engel's 597 led the Bowling Lanes Ladies Major with Carolyn Lueder's 589 second, Kay Freitag's 581 third and Lee Liepe's 580 fourth. . . . Sara Hannblom again topped the performances in Bruck's Monday Ladies with a 624 which included a 210 effort. . . . Isabelle Crane's 566, with a 212 game, led the Marzano's Thursday Ladies. . . . Gold Crowns and Marigold Arcade are tied for the lead in the N. E. Traveling with 20-10 records. Tomorrow night the Gold Crowns meet Edelweiss at Samuelson's and Marigold entertains the Meister Braus. Lee Hoerstman's 210 average leads the pack with Pete Petersen's 208 second. . . . Muriel Brent walked into a bowling alley in Cheyenne, Wyo., and challenged a group of men. She beat 'em. They didn't know she's doubles co-champion of San Diego, Cal.

Grand Rapids Team Tops Women Bowlers With 2851.

Alberta Crowe's press release for the W. I. B. C. says the Fanatorium Majors of Grand Rapids have the highest team series for women in the country to date, a 2851. Chicago's Mario Restaurants have high single with 1026 and Chicagoan Nina Van Camp's 712 tops the series standings. Chicagoan Lillian Koehler's 267 high single is tied by Mary Fittipaldi of Syracuse and by Nonie Gallacher of Salt Lake City. . . . After two girls finished one-two in a recent sweeper, a New Jersey house barred women from future competition in men's events. The girls were Ann Sabolowski and Tillie Taylor. . . . Five of the eight teams in the C. & E. I. R. R. league are tied for first place. . . . The Detroit Times is conducting a $6,500 singles tournament in Vogue Recreation in that city. Top prize is $1,500 and all the big boys, including Ned Day, Walter Ward, Buddy Bomar, Bill Flesch, are entered. Dates are Dec. 9-10, 16-17. Entries to Louie Burr, Vogue Recreation, 9115 Cadieux rd., Detroit.

Ray Schalk Announces Dates For 9th Holiday Sweeper.

Rose Fritz's 524 series topped the feminine portion of the Schalk Evergreen Mixed with Fred Lewis' 586 leading the men. Charley Kreml's 224 was high single. . . . Myrtle Piper had a 594 to set the pace in the same house's Wednesday Ladies Major. . . . Ray Schalk announces the dates of Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 6 and 7 for his 9th annual holiday sweeper. The John Eppings of Louisville won it last year with 3975. . . . Lillian Koehler's 567, Beatrice Dawson's 559 with a 216 game, and Myrtle Long's 547 were best in the Pla-Mor Ladies Major. . . . Members of the Los Angeles men's and women's bowling associations have joined hands to raise funds with which to purchase bowling alleys for the Birmingham General hospital in the San Fernando valley.

Leafs Defeat Canadiens, 3-1; Increase Lead

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 11 (AP). — The Toronto Maple Leafs strengthened their hold on first place in the National Hockey league tonight by defeating the second place Montreal Canadiens, 3 to 1, for their sixth successive victory.

Toronto's classy Bodnar-Schriner-Carr line provided all the Toronto goals and got all the Leaf scoring points but one—an assist to Ross Johnstone. Gus Bodnar had two goals, Sweeney Schriner a goal and an assist, and Lorne Carr an assist.

Buddy O'Connor scored for the Canadiens, assisted by Dutch Hiller.

KRUMSKE, DAY WILL START PIN DUEL SATURDAY

Ned Day, the 34 year old national singles match game bowling champion from Milwaukee, will place his title on the block beginning Saturday night when he opens the first half of his 60 game home-and-home series against his challenger, Chicago's popular Paul Krumske, at Bowling Lanes, 5221 Broadway.

Krumske won the right to challenge Day by finishing in the runner-up spot in the national elimination tournament, sponsored by the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, last December in the Auditorium Service Men's center.

Bowl Over Two Week-ends.

According to schedule, Day and Krumske will bowl 10 games at Bowling Lanes Saturday night, 10 more Sunday afternoon, and the final 10 of the Chicago block Sunday night. The following week-end they will compete on Day's home alleys in West Allis, Milwaukee suburb, where the same 10-Saturday, 20-Sunday arrangement will be followed.

It is necessary for Day to win this match, which will be based on total pins only, in order to compete in this year's tournament as the defending champion. That event will open Saturday, Dec. 2. Neither Day nor Krumske will have to take part in the early trials, however, both being seeded to the round robin match game portion of the tourney, scored on the Petersen point system.

Because of the fact that Krumske is enjoying one of his best years, any speculation as to the probable outcome of the match remains strictly that!— speculation. Krumske's average of 212 in the Windy City Major league attests to his present form and none has ever contested his competitive spirit. Day, on the other hand, having participated in many tourneys in recent weeks has, in addition, been conducting THE TRIBUNE'S bowling school, a three week proposition which may or may not have taken the vital spark from his game.

Lost Title to Schwoegler.

Should Krumske emerge the winner, he'll be the second man to wrest Day's laurels from him. Day became the champion in 1939 when, after winning an elimination tournament for the right to meet the then champion, Hank Marino of Milwaukee for the title, Marino retired undefeated, leaving the field and the crown to Ned. Having inherited it, Ned was put to several severe tests to hold it but only against Connie Schwoegler of Madison, Wis., was the challenger successful.

In 1940, Day defeated Lowell Jackson, Memphis, Tenn., then from St. Louis, in the title match, and the year following did the same to Detroit's Johnny Crimmins. But in 1942 Schwoegler won the championship series. After serving a year in the navy and receiving his honorable discharge, Day returned last year to reclaim his title.

1,575 by Ryan Paces Tenth Bomar Squad

Play was resumed last night in the fourth annual Diamond Medal Individual Classic of Buddy Bomar when three squads performed on the lanes of Marigold Arcade in an effort to overtake the huge 1,772 score of Chet Bukowski of Detroit, which leads the standings. None on the first squad overtook it.

Johnny Ryan, Waukegan, who tops the all-time winners in competition in the Petersen Classics with a total earning of $7,500, led the first of three shifts with a 1,575 total.

The Home Front

BY WILLIAM BAYLISS.

ONE of the chief purposes of the Purdue university industrial recreation clinic in Lafayette, Ind., last week was to foster discussion of problems, past, present, and future and one of the sessions certainly fulfilled that goal. It was the one at which the proposal to organize a national industrial sports conference was brought up. In fact, Dr. Floyd R. Eastwood, professor of industrial recreation at Purdue and presiding officer at that particular session, needed all of his diplomacy to keep the arguments from getting too hot.

The suggestion that there was a need for a national organization to control intercompany competition was brought up by W. H. Edmund, director of education and recreation for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, Akron, O., aided by Thomas C. Kanary of the Dow Chemical company, Midland, Mich. Both of these companies are interested in the so-called "varsity" team idea, notably in basketball and they advocated the organization of a conference, national in scope, to help keep competition on a wholesome amateur level.

Feel That Tramp Athlete Teams Should Be Curbed.

Even the most stanch supporters of the "big" team idea feel that such evils as the tramp athlete and undercover professionalism on plant teams should be curbed and in this they appeared to have the support of the majority of the recreation men present. However, there were a number there who took the stand that there is no place on a well balanced industrial recreation program for a single team which takes the play away from intraplant athletics in any way.

These were the boys who kept Dr. Eastwood busy trying to keep a semblance of order. Among them were veterans in the field who remembered the extremes to which some industries went a few years ago in order to secure championship teams. They cited specific instances where companies hired college teams intact to compete in industrial tournaments, giving them insignificant jobs — but very significant wages — and even paying them for their practice time.

There Is a Need for Control of Star Industrial Teams.

Of course, it is to avoid such things as this that the national conference idea was brought up, but Edmund had a hard time getting that idea across to some of those who wanted nothing to do with his plan. However, the matter certainly was brought out into the open and thoroly aired. It seems likely that a start will be made along this line in basketball, possibly next year. Any Chicagoland plants which are interested but did not have a representative at Purdue should get in touch with Edmund at Akron.

From the sidelines it appears that there is a place for such an organization of topnotch industrial teams, just as there is a need for control over intercollegiate varsity athletics. Even tho intraplant leagues [the equivalent of the college intramural setup] are the backbone of industrial recreation, there always will be some athletes whose talents are such that they seek competition on a higher level. If there is to be this topflight competition, it goes without saying that it needs some directing and restraining influence.

Smaller Industries Could Join as Associate Members.

Representatives of some of the smaller industries, tho saying that the teams which their concerns support would have no business trying to play major league industrial basketball, baseball, or softball in the proposed conference, suggested that it might be possible to work out some plan whereby associate memberships would be available to industries or entire industrial leagues which would be willing to follow the rules of the conference in so far as eligibility is concerned.

RECREATION roundups are the thing these days, the next one on the list being the 10th Chicago recreational conference in the Sherman hotel Wednesday, Nov. 22. The theme of this one-day gathering will be "New Obligations and New Approaches in Recreation."

The industrial angle of recreation will have an important part on the program. There will be a morning session given over to workshops and demonstrations, a noon luncheon, an afternoon with the delegates taking their pick of 14 discussion groups dealing with that number of topics, and a general evening session in the grand ballroom. Dr. Harry A. Overstreet and Dr. Howard Y. McClusky will speak at the noon and evening meetings, respectively.

Thordarson Flashtrons Move Back Into Lead of Division St. League.

The Thordarson Flashtrons proved last week that they merely were having a little fun with the rest of the teams in the Division Street Y. M. C. A. Industrial Bowling league when they took a nose dive out of first place a couple of weeks earlier. At least, that is the explanation they offered after climbing back into the top spot by sweeping their series with Milwaukee Avenue National bank. Chicago Rawhide, the leaders pro tem, dropped two to Eicor, Inc., and slid back to second position. At the other extreme in the league, Redmer Sons company made a gallant and successful attempt to climb out of the cellar, beating Guyer Metal Products three straight and leaving Aetna Plywood alone in the basement.

The North Town Table Tennis club at 804 Wilson av. is the headquarters for a number of groups of industrial enthusiasts of that popular indoor sport. The best established group in this class is the Illinois Bell Telephone Company league of four teams, with six players on a team. The Bells meet each Tuesday and now are ready for the fourth weekly round of their season. A group from Douglas Aircraft met with Marlin Tucker, manager of the club, Thursday and may take over that night each week. In open round robin competition Barney Kingston of Sears Roebuck is the No. 1 man in a war bond table tennis derby which has been running 11 months. Emil Calvan, former champion of the Philippines, is the runner-up.

Latin Beats Wheaton and Takes Title

Chicago Latin school won the Private School league football title yesterday by beating Wheaton, 34 to 12, in Wheaton, to remain undefeated. Johnny Groth, Latin's high scoring back, made five touchdowns and gained 250 yards from scrimmage.

In other Private School league games, Harvard school closed its season by defeating North Park, 30 to 13, while Francis Parker defeated North Shore, 19 to 7.

Oak Park and Proviso, playing at Oak Park, tied, 6 to 6, in a Suburban league encounter, with John De Ano going off tackle for 87 yards in the second quarter for Proviso's touchdown, and Tom Kelly running 30 yards in the final period for the Oak Park touchdown.

In the other Suburban league contest Morton defeated Waukegan, 13 to 6, in Cicero yesterday, with Ferd Nadherny scoring both touchdowns.

New Trier routed Lake View, 67 to 0, and Evanston routed Amundsen, 45 to 6, in other games involving Suburban league teams.

In a Midwest Prep league contest, St. John's Military Academy defeated Morgan Park Military Academy, 38 to 13. Pullman Tech defeated Lake Forest, 26 to 7.

Wake Forest Streak Ended by Duke, 34-0

Durham, N. C., Nov. 11 (AP).—Little Wake Forest college, defending an unbeaten and untied record and shooting for a possible bowl bid, ran into the powerful Duke Blue Devils today and were crushed, 34 to 0, in a game filled with brilliant running by the fleet Duke backs.

The Devils took the heart out of the Deacons in the first period when their running star, George Clark, took Russ Perry's punt on his own 6 yard line and ran up midfield for 94 yards and a touchdown.

GEORGIA WHIPS FLORIDA.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 11 (AP).—Recovering rapidly from an early attack by Florida, the fleet University of Georgia football team unleashed a spectacular passing attack to defeat the 'Gators, 37 to 12, here today in the resumption of their old football rivalry.

TECH ROUTS TULANE, 34-7.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 11 (AP).—Combining the brilliant running of Allen Bowen and the accurate passing of Frank Broyles, Georgia Tech made another bid for its third straight bowl invitation by overwhelming a versatile Tulane eleven today, 34 to 7.

CLEMSON WINS, 57 TO 12.

Clemson, S. C., Nov. 11 (AP).—Clemson's Tigers unleashed the pent up fury of two lean football seasons today to overpower Virginia Military institute, 57 to 12, in a Southern conference game.

CATHOLIC PREPS' SIX GAMES END SEASON TODAY

Games Today

CATHOLIC LEAGUE.
South Section.
De La Salle vs. Leo in Shewbridge field, 2 p. m.; St. Rita vs. Mount Carmel in Yates Avenue stadium, 2 p. m.; Joliet Catholic vs. Loyola in Loyola stadium, 2 p. m.

North Section.
De Paul academy vs. Fenwick in Hanson park, 2 p. m.; St. Patrick vs. St. George in Evanston, 2 p. m.; St. Ignatius vs. St. Mel in Key Branch stadium, 2 p. m.

The Catholic prep league, with the north and south section championships already settled, concludes its football season today with six games.

Weber High school's Red Horde, limited to one tie in winning the south section title, draws a bye today while Fenwick's Friars, undefeated in league play and north section winners, round out their schedule against De Paul in Hanson park. Weber and Fenwick will meet in Soldiers' field next Sunday to determine the 1944 championship and the right to meet the City league champion in the 1944 Kelly bowl game, scheduled in Soldiers' field Dec. 2.

Mount Carmel vs. St. Rita.

Today's final schedule is highlighted by the St. Rita-Mount Carmel south section meeting in Yates avenue stadium. At the start of the season, the Caravan was favored to win the title but slipped before Weber's Red Horde. St. Rita gave Weber its lone scare of the campaign, a 6 to 6 tie.

De La Salle meets Leo's Lions in Shewbridge field, and Catholic High of Joliet and Loyola engage in Loyola stadium.

In the north section play, with the Friars tuning up for the championship game, St. Patrick meets last year's Kelly bowl winners, St. George's Dragons, in Evanston. The third game has St. Ignatius clashing with St. Mel in Key Branch stadium.

Coaches Turn Scouts.

Yesterday Coaches Ralph La Cognata of Weber and Tony Lawless of Fenwick watched the Fenger-Lane semi-final City league game in Soldiers' field while their understudies attended the Austin-Tilden meeting in Shewbridge field. Both Lawless and La Cognata were scouting with an eye toward their own teams meeting one of public league semi-finalists.

Spartans Beat Maryland in Final, 33 to 0

East Lansing, Mich., Nov. 11 [Special]. — Michigan State celebrated Armistice day and homecoming as a joint affair this afternoon and brought a successful season to a climax with a 33 to 0 victory over the University of Maryland before 8,160.

After going scoreless in the first 20 minutes the Spartans came to life in the second quarter and pushed over two touchdowns. In the opening minutes of the second quarter Michigan State gained possession on the Maryland 40. Jack Breslin smashed thru tackle for 25 yards and Herb Speerstra followed up by going to the 2 yard line, Breslin then crashed over for the first touchdown.

FENGER DEFEATS LANE, 8 TO 7; TO PLAY IN FINALS

Tilden-Austin Duel Ends in 7-All Tie.

hit the line to give Lane a first down on the Titans' 27 yard line.

Berger Scores for Lane.

A 15 yard penalty on Fenger for unnecessary roughness moved Lane to the 12 yard line. Berger hit tackle for 4 yards, and after Koehler failed to gain, Cichanski went to the 3. Koehler made it first down on the 2, and on the next play Berger plunged thru center to score standing up. Koehler's plunge for the extra point left Lane one point behind with three minutes to play.

Fenger took the kick-off and concentrated on short line plunges after Konyar had returned the kick-off to the Fenger 33.

Two drives fell a yard short of a first down with a minute remaining, and Konyar, attempting to hit center for the first down, fumbled, with big Milt Weinberg, Lane left guard, rushing in to recover the ball.

Carlson Intercepts Pass.

Bizzotto's hurried pass fell short, and the game ended as Bob Carlson, Fenger right half, intercepted Bizzotto's long pass on the Fenger 20.

A back field combination of Konyar, Madden, and Bob Biolchini, sparked a Fenger offense that played most of the game in Lane territory. Konyar and Madden were particularly effective as a passing combination as Fenger, outcharged by the heavier Lane line, elected to go over instead of thru the line. Koehler, along with Berger, paced the line attack.

TILDEN, AUSTIN TIE

Tilden and Austin High schools played to a 7 to 7 tie on a muddy gridiron in Shewbridge field yesterday in a semi-final game in the City league play-off series. Austin came from behind after trailing, 7 to 0, at the half.

The tie makes it necessary for the two teams to flip a coin to determine who will play Fenger High school for the league championship in Soldiers' field next Saturday, with the winner of that contest representing the public schools in the annual Kelly bowl game, Dec. 2, against the Catholic circuit champions.

Representatives of Tilden and Austin will meet tomorrow morning in the office of August Pritzlaff, director of physical education in the public schools, to decide which team will meet Fenger.

Mud Handicaps Both.

With both teams depending upon fast backs, yesterday's game was slowed by the muddy field. Midway in the second period when Tilden scored after a 60 yard march, with End Bob Hornisch taking a 4 yard pass from Ed Kriwiel in the end zone. Bud Jaderholm kicked the extra point to give Tilden a 7 to 0 half time lead.

Austin lost a scoring opportunity in the third quarter when Ralph McGhee of Tilden recovered an Austin fumble on the Tilden 22 yard line.

With time running out in the final period, Austin reached the Tilden 43 yard line on an interference ruling, and, after a lateral had gained 6 yards, another interference ruling as Bob Schneider attempted to catch a pass, gave Austin the ball on the Tilden 15. Jim Baer plunged to the 8, and then, after Joe La Petina had tried two incomplete passes, Phil Tolomeo outjumped four men in the end zone to take La Petina's third offering. Jim Baer kicked the extra point to tie the score at 7 to 7.

GOPHERS SCORE 19 TO 14 VICTORY OVER HOOSIERS

to his left, Deranek handed the ball to Hoernschemeyer, who ran almost directly to his right side line. The Gophers seemed to think he had run across said sideline. They just stood and watched Hoernschemeyer run 50 yards for a touchdown. Jack Tavener's toe supplied the point which tied the score at 7 to 7.

The character of the Hoernschemeyer solo sprint vexed but did not wilt the Gophers. With Kulbitski and Williams again supplying the powder and a 21 yard pass, Williams to John Lundquist, helping out the parade, they scored after taking the next kick-off. The touchdown was from the 1 yard line on a plunge by Kulbitski. The try for point was wide.

This gave the Gophers the 13 to 7 lead which prevailed until the fourth period was four minutes old.

Indiana Makes Victory Bid.

The Hoosiers' lead grabbing enterprise got started when George Sundheim intercepted Kasper's pass on the Indiana 45 and ran to the Gophers' 31. A 5 yard penalty helped the Hoosiers along to the 26 yard line. The touchdown was achieved on a pass, Hoernschemeyer to Ted Kluzewski, Ted running around several Gopher defenders for the last 15 yards. Tavener again kicked the point and the Hoosiers were ahead, 14 to 13.

Then came the 45 yard Gopher pass and the subsequent victory touchdown about which you were told early in this piece.

The Hoosiers found little to comfort them in the statistics, which showed the Gophers to have made 16 first downs to nine. Twelve were from rushing to the Hoosiers' five. The Gophers made four first downs on passing to three for the losers.

Gophers Rush for 240 Yards.

The winners made 240 net yards from rushing to 97 for the lads from Bloomington. Hoernschemeyer didn't make his first toss for Indiana until four minutes before the end of the first half. Statistics:

PRICES OF FARM LAND HELD NEAR 'DANGER LEVEL'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—Farm real estate values have increased 36 per cent in four years and, in the opinion of the department of agriculture, may be approaching a danger point in some areas, the office of war information said today in a report on the financial position of farmers. The survey also disclosed that:

1. Farm debt was declining, particularly mortgage debt which decreased nearly a billion dollars in four years to 5 billion 600 million on Jan. 1, 1944. During and after the World war, such debts rose sharply.

2. Operating farmers' reserves of about 12 billion dollars in cash and other liquid resources were the largest in history. Included is approximately 2 billion 400 million in United States savings bonds.

Inventories Double in 4 Years.

3. Inventories of crops and live stock last Jan. 1 were larger than 25 years ago, totaling 15 billion 100 million, or more than double the figure four years earlier. Both quantity and price increases were responsible for the gain.

4. Principally as the result of price increases, but also thru reduced debts, more cash and bonds, and increased quantities of live stock and other assets, the equities of owners in agriculture rose about 30 billion dollars in the four years.

5. Cash farm income increased 119 per cent from 9 billion 100 million to 19 billion 900 million.

Considering farming as a single, huge enterprise, the OWI said the bureau of agricultural economics reported that from Jan. 1, 1940, to Jan. 1, 1944, agriculture expanded from a 49 billion dollar industry to one worth 70 billion dollars.

Crop Value up 139 Per Cent.

In addition to the rise in farm real estate value, live stock value increased 86 per cent, crops 139 per cent, farm machinery and vehicles 34 per cent, and household equipment 10 per cent.

Farm land and buildings rose in value from 33 billion 600 million to 45 billion 600 million dollars. Surveys indicated that approximately two-thirds of all farm purchases during the last few years have were by operating farmers. Nonfarmers also were reported active in the land market.

The bureau of agricultural economics warned that forces which could lead to a runaway boom like that of the last war," are numerous and strong." Factors listed in the OWI report included [1] "exceptionally high" annual returns from farming and an expectation by many persons that "good times" will last at least a year or two after the war, [2] low interest rates and annual payments on mortgages, [3] small down payments, and [4] large amounts of cash on hand.

Land "Unduly Depressed."

The department of agriculture said farm land values were depressed unduly in the mid-1930s and in some areas still were below their pre-depression levels.. A reasonable recovery from these low levels was termed desirable, but the sharp rise in sales prices in other areas was regarded as a definite warning to prospective buyers.

One-fourth of all farm income in 1943 was earned in the five midwest states of Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Ohio, and Missouri. The Illinois income was placed at 1 billion 147 million dollars and Iowa's at 1 billion 574 million.

BREEZING ALONG

NEW YORK race fans wagered almost as much money in 180 days of racing this season as was bet in the entire country four years ago. . . . The total mutuel handle this year, exclusive of the nine day Victory meeting now in progress at Belmont Park, was $388,995,250, for an amazing daily average of $2,161,084. . . . In 1940 the total handle for 1,710 racing days in 16 states thruout the nation was $408,528,711. . . . From their share of the betting the states received a total revenue of $15,962,137. . . . This year the state of New York alone received $25,183,990 as its share of revenue from racing. . . . William A. Hamilton, state steward representing the Illinois racing commission at all of the metropolitan Chicago tracks, will leave for Florida next week. . . . Hamilton will serve as presiding steward at Gulfstream Park which opens the Florida racing season on Dec. 1.

Expect Record Entry List in Arlington-Washington Park Stakes.

Benjamin F. Lindheimer, executive director of the Arlington Park and Washington Park Jockey clubs, has announced that Pavot, the sensational 2 year old colt, is among the early nominees for the Classic and American Derby in 1945. . . . Pavot is the unbeaten colt which has won eight races and has earned more than $179,000 in purses. . . . A record number of entries are expected to be named for the two $50,000 added races on the Arlington-Washington program by the deadline for filing nominations on Nov. 15. . . . Four events for juveniles close simultaneously with the rich stakes for 3 year olds. . . . These are the $30,000 added Washington Park and Arlington Park Futurities and the $20,000 added Princess Pat and Lassie Stakes. . . . There will be no supplementary entries.

Tribune Turf Expert Picks Five Winners

Five winners and one second in seven races. That's the record of the Tribune race handicapper's selections at Belmont Park yesterday. The winners included the longest priced winner of the day at the New York track, Bunk, which scored in the first race at odds of $31.70.

The other winners were Big Push, $4.10; Grant Rice, $5.50; Bankrupt, the best bet, $7, and Flaught, $4.70. Yodeler, the first choice in the second race, finished second and paid $2.90.

FAILURES AT NEW LOW.

Paralleling the experience during World War I., the number of commercial failures in the United States and the liabilities involved have declined progressively during most of the present war. The record so far in 1944 has been considerably more favorable than that of 1943, when new low records for the present century and longer were set both for number of failures and liabilities.

The favorable experience of 25 years ago, however, ended a few months after the armistice, with insolvencies and accompanying liabilities rising sharply. The 23,676 failures and $623,900,000 liabilities of 1922 compared with 6,451 and $113,300,000 in 1919.

During the first eight months of 1944, commercial failures, as reported by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., numbered 905, against 2,628 a year earlier, and liabilities aggregated $18,964,000, compared with $35,609,000.

The shrinkage in failures of small and small to medium firms has been particularly marked. This trend in 1943 was attributed by the credit rating company in large measure to an unprecedented falling off in the number of new business concerns opening since Pearl Harbor, as the infant mortality rate among small businesses is relatively high. Active business in both production and distribution was reflected in the drop in large failures.

Also to be considered in this connection is the decrease in "business population," from causes other than insolvency. From Sept. 30, 1941, to June 30, 1943, the reduction in number of firms was about 530,000, or 15.5 per cent, the department of commerce has reported. The decline was heaviest among small establishments, particularly in retail trade. The causes included: Scarcity of merchandise, shortage of help, the draft, and more attractive employment opportunities elsewhere.

Last March the failures, totaling 96, had dropped below a monthly figure of 100 for the first time on record. By August the tally had fallen to only 77. Dun's insolvency index [apparent annual number of failures per 10,000 enterprises] set a new low record of 4.8 in that month. For the first eight months this year the average was 6.2, which compares with 16.4 in 1943 and 69.6 in 1939.

REPORT BROWN MAY BE CHOSEN TREASURY HEAD

Chicagoan Is 'One of Few Available.'

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

In discussions of the expected reshuffle of President Roosevelt's official family, the name of Edward Eagle Brown, Chicago banker, gets prominent mention. Brown is considered a likely choice as secretary of the treasury should Henry Morgenthau, whose retirement has been rumored many times, decide to step out of the cabinet. Should Morgenthau remain, Brown may get some other appointment in the fourth term administration, it is believed.

Edward Eagle Brown.

The treasury post is likely to be one of the most important in the government in the next four years. Morgenthau, a man of limited experience in finance prior to his cabinet appointment, has been secretary since Jan. 1, 1934. The period has been one of steadily mounting government debt.

Big Fiscal Problem Created.

The billions obtained to finance the pre-war experiments of the New Deal and the even larger amounts borrowed during the war have created a fiscal problem for the government that will require the enlistment of new experience in the treasury post, it is believed. The debt has grown haphazardly, a large part of it consisting of short term obligations and demand securities that will require large refundings after the war.

Brown is one of the few men in the banking field who is considered "available" for the post. He is a Democrat and one of the few top men in banking who supported a fourth term for the President. By Presidential appointment he served as a member of the American delegation to the Bretton Woods monetary conference last July. In accepting the appointment he parted company with the preponderent majority of banking leaders who opposed the international financial arrangements agreed on at the conference.

Would Shatter Precedent.

Selection of a banker for the treasury post would shatter all precedent of the New Deal. No man of reputation in the financial field has served in the post under President Roosevelt. His first secretary was a railroad car manufacturer, succeeded in turn by the present incumbent, a gentleman farmer before the advent of the New Deal.

Brown, 59, has been president of the First National Bank of Chicago since the death of Melvin A. Traylor in 1934. He was graduated from Harvard university in 1908 and took his law degree there three years later. He then practiced law in Chicago with the firm serving as counsel for the First National, and became a vice president of the bank in 1934.

Strike Cases in Hands of Conciliators

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11 (AP).—The United States conciliation service today listed 20 strikes in progress which it was handling as of 6 p. m. yesterday. Incomplete tabulation showed 4,603 workers involved. Other strikes, some handled solely by the war labor board, were not included. None was listed in Indiana or Iowa. The 10 shown for the midwest, unions involved and the number of workers affected were:

ILLINOIS—International Harvester company, Chicago, CIO United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers, 23; Dayton Dowd company, Quincy, AFL Machinists, number of workers not reported; Swift & Co., National City, AFL Dealers and Butcher Workers, 34.

WISCONSIN—G. A. Whiting Paper company, Menasha, AFL Paper and Sulphate Workers, 60.

Analyze Large National Debt Near Maturity

The gross national debt, which is approximately 212 billion dollars, is subject to close attention in financial quarters, not only because of its gigantic size, but because of the concentration of maturities over the next few years.

As of Aug. 31, federal debt and guaranteed obligations maturing in five years amounted to about 101 billions, or almost half the total.

Under present conditions, this state of the finances presents no great difficulty for the treasury department.

Ninety day treasury bills are readily salable to the banks on a ⅜ per cent discount basis, and more than 16 billions of such obligations are outstanding. The federal reserve banks stand ready to take any such holdings that member banks may wish to sell, on a similar discount basis.

Maximum Rate 2½ Per Cent.

Treasury notes with a maturity of more than four years are sold at 1½ per cent, and the maximum coupon rate on recent issues of long term treasury bonds running to 1972, has been 2½ per cent.

In a period of financial stringency, however, if there should be such a development, bond experts warn that the large proportion of short term paper might mean a large increase in debt cost thru higher interest rates on refunding issues. The general bond market at present, however, indicates no change in money conditions.

The treasury bulletin for October listed maturities of marketable government obligations as of Aug. 31 at 73 billion 838 million dollars at various dates thru June, 1949. The 1944-'45 maturities alone totaled 53 billion 605 million.

Specials Are Minor Matter.

In addition, 15 billion 461 million of special issues were to fall due between Aug. 31, 1944, and June 30, 1949, but these all were held by various government agencies and trust funds, such as social security and government life insurance. Thus, their refinancing is not expected to present any unusual problems.

Nonmarketable issues include 37 billion 644 million of United States savings bonds, of which about 2 billion are of series A to D, maturing in 10 years from 1935-'39. All savings bonds are subject to redemption on demand, except for series E issues not yet held 60 days, and F and G bonds purchased less than six months ago. Savings stamps subject to cashing on demand aggregate 175 million dollars.

Other nonmarketable issues are 216 million of adjusted service bonds, payable in 1945, and 494 million of depositary bonds, due 12 years from various dates of issue beginning in 1941.

Debt Classification Shown.

By classes, the debt as of Oct. 31 follows:

[Last six ciphers omitted.]

|---|---|
| Bonds maturing from 1944 [called issue] to 1972 | $119,821 |
| Treasury notes, due 1944-'48 | 27,012 |
| Certificates of indebtedness, 1944-'45 | 29,546 |
| Treasury bills, Nov., 1944, to Jan., 1945 | 16,060 |
| Special issues, 1945-'49 | 16,169 |
| Total interest bearing debt | $208,608 |
| Matured debt [interest ceased] | 199 |
| Debt bearing no interest | 1,437 |
| Guaranteed obligations not owned by treasury | 1,563 |
| Total | $211,807 |

Tax and savings notes due in the next three years exceed 9 billions. There also are 359 million of excess profits tax refund bonds of indefinite maturities, depending on when the war ends.

In addition to special issues held by various government trust funds and agencies, the treasury holds directly 11 billion 311 million dollars of its guaranteed obligations issued by various government agencies.

PERMIT FOR NEW SOUTH CHICAGO BANK IS ISSUED

State Auditor Lueder has issued a permit to organize a new bank to be known as the Steel City Bank of South Chicago, Atty. J. F. Smietanka, 7 S. Dearborn st., announced yesterday. It will be located in the former quarters of the defunct Union State Bank of South Chicago, 3026 E. 92d st.

Smietanka, one of the organizers, said capital already was assured and that capital, surplus, and contingent reserves would total $270,000 thru sale of 20,000 shares at $13.50 each. Officers will be elected at the first stockholders meeting later this month.

Market Holiday

Banks and principal securities and commodities exchanges, with the exception of the live stock market, were closed yesterday for the Armistice day holiday. They will open as usual tomorrow.

U.S. WINS RANK IN DESIGNING OF WOMEN'S WEAR

Influences of War Are Important.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The war has had an important influence on the women's wearing apparel business, with Americans taking a major part in designing and exploiting women's clothes, leaders in the industry in Chicago said yesterday. War developments have stimulated the expansion of style centers in cities thruout the country. The increased activity is opening new work opportunities for women.

Before the war women's apparel stores were not heavy importers of the actual garments, but America was a heavy importer of fashion ideas. Sample garments and rights to reproduce were commodities dealt in by the apparel business.

Paris Closed to Buyers.

The war soon closed the renowned Parisian dressmaking shops to American buyers and other style centers were adversely affected. American designers had to get busy to stimulate the fashion interest that would induce women to buy.

An official of a leading Chicago apparel company said he expects Paris to recapture its dominating position because of the centuries of fashion tradition back of it, but at the same time he believes American designing centers will retain a substantial part of their war time gains.

"American designers have done a wonderful job in maintaining and developing interest in fashions," he said. "This is particularly true when consideration is given to the restrictions under which they had to work. They have had to be sparing in use of materials, many items such as a wide range of decorative buttons have not been available and they had to produce styles that would not be in bad taste with so serious a matter as war."

Chicago Specialties Told.

Women, important in the apparel world, told how leading designing and producing centers have been scattered thruout the country and not concentrated in New York or Hollywood as might have been expected. Chicago is one of the most important centers, specializing in costume suits, suits, coats, dresses, juniors' and misses' dresses.

New York embraces the entire range in women's wear and Hollywood specializes in sports wear, some evening dresses, and other items.

Other centers include St. Louis, rated as one of the best markets for junior misses' garments in the country; Dallas, noted for sports wear for both women and children; San Francisco, suits and sports wear; Minneapolis, dresses, and Kansas City, cotton goods designs.

In the development of styling centers manufacturers have worked with schools of design in the various communities and with schools and colleges. They have sought to create styles that would be expressive of American life—that would be American, it was explained. Newspapers have been helpful by engaging in such activities as The Chicago Tribune's style competition, leaders said.

New Materials Are Problem.

The increased interest in American styles is opening work opportunities as style creators for manufacturers, for artists, for better trained sales and buyer organizations, and related occupations. American designers must know how to use the new American synthetic materials. New fabrics being developed by chemists are expected to appear after the war to supplement rayon which already has largely pushed natural silk out of the picture.

One difference between design in Paris and in America is that the Parisians are individualists who create glamor styles for people much in the news, whereas the Americans create for large scale production to supply the needs of the average woman.

Winnipeg Rye Futures Strong in Light Trade

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 11 (AP).—Rye futures were strong today on the Winnipeg Grain exchange, but with Chicago observing Armistice day, there was little activity. Commission houses offered support during the short session. All three futures closed ½ cent a bushel higher with December at $1.11⅝, May $1.09⅝, and July $1.07⅛.

People and Events

Abbott Laboratories' plant in North Chicago has received a third service star for its army-navy "E" flag in recognition of its continued high production standards, the company announced yesterday. Adm. C. C. Bloch, chairman of the navy board for production awards, commended the company in a letter to S. De Witt Clough, president.

Walter J. Murphy, editor of the American Chemical society's magazine, will address members of the Investment Analysts club Tuesday in the La Salle hotel on the post-war future of chemistry and the chemical industry.

James F. Blair of the Burlington railroad, and Carrol H. Blanchar, United Airlines, will speak on internal auditing as an appraisal agency of management at the monthly dinner of the Office Management Association of Chicago Thursday night in the Chicago Real Estate board rooms.

Eugene W. Stetson, chairman of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, announced that Col. Robert T. Stevens was elected a director. Stevens immediately was granted a leave of absence to continue as deputy director for purchases in the quartermaster general's office in Washington, D. C.

James Edwin Chapman, former assistant advertising manager of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., has become a copy writer and contact man for Earle Ludgin & Co., advertising agency.

The appointment of James I. D. Straus as manager of the market research department of Spiegel, Inc., was announced by Thornton S. Adams, sales manager.

American Airlines announced that Mae Leslie had been named manager of the Stevens hotel ticket office.

A. A. Hadden has been elected president of McClure, Hadden & Ottman, management engineers.

OFFER SUBSIDIES ON EXPORTS OF COTTON, WHEAT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11 (AP).—The war food administration announced today that it will subsidize exports of American cotton, wheat, and wheat flour, commodities of which the United States has surpluses, it said.

Insofar as the export programs move excess supplies abroad, they will have a price supporting effect on domestic prices by preventing accumulation of unmarketable supplies, it was explained. Wheat and the cotton to be disposed of, will be taken from government owned stocks or purchased in the open market. Foreign sales will be handled thru private exporters.

The cotton, wheat, and flour will be made available to foreign buyers at prices competitive with producers in other countries and the government will make up the difference between the higher domestic price and the lower foreign. The amounts of the initial export subsidies will be announced Nov. 15.

WLB PENALIZES CARPENTERS FOR MIDWEST STRIKE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11 (AP).—The war labor board today penalized striking locals of the AFL carpenters union in cases involving seven millwork companies in Wisconsin, Illinois, and Iowa by withholding for a probationary period the usual membership safeguards.

For the first time, the board acted in this manner toward a union which had voted to strike in time of war under the provisions of the Smith-Connally war labor disputes act. WLB refused to approve the customary dues check-off and maintenance of membership provision in these locals' contracts. In an eighth case, where the employer had agreed to continue a maintenance of membership provision in the contract, the board withheld the check-off from the union.

Labor members dissented to the opinion, written by Edwin E. Witte, a public member.

PREDICTS 8 PCT. DROP IN MEAT OUTPUT IN 1945

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11 (AP).—The department of agriculture predicted today 1945 meat production will be 2 billion pounds, or about 8 per cent, less than 1944, because of live stock liquidation. It forecast a further production reduction in 1946.

Prices of meats are expected to hold close to ceilings because of prospective continued heavy demand. Meat production this year is expected to be 24½ billion pounds, dressed meat basis.

The bulk of the predicted reduction in meat supplies will be pork, the department said, estimating hog slaughter in 1945 may be 25 per cent less than this year's record level. Slaughter of sheep and lambs next year may be 10 to 20 per cent smaller than this year, the department said.

PENN-CENTRAL'S PROFIT FOR NINE MONTHS HIGHER

An expanded fleet made possible by the government's return of additional aircraft and the rapid reconversion and intensive utilization of such equipment boosted Pennsylvania-Central Airlines' profits in the first nine months of 1944, C. Bedell Monro, president, said yesterday.

Aircraft returned to the line have been converted to common carrier service and have increased its fleet to 14 DC-3s from seven a year earlier. Four DC-3s were returned in the September quarter, Monro said, and three more to be returned soon should be in service before Dec. 31.

Profit in the nine months was $354,296 compared with $260,013 a year earlier. Net income in the September quarter was $292,806 against $140,493.

URGES FOREIGN INVESTMENT BE PLACED DIRECT

Avoid Bond Issues, Johnston Asks.

BY CHARLES GOTTHART.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rye, N. Y., Nov. 11.—The United States can safely provide the capital for post-war industrial expansion abroad, but it should be in the form of "partnership capital" and not large bond issues, Eric A. Johnston, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, said today.

Direct, private investments in steel mills and other industrial projects are preferable to investments by government sponsored financing institutions such as the Export-Import bank, he said at a press conference on the second day of the international business conference at Westchester Country club.

Warns of Federal Rivalry.

He cautioned that unless private investment funds are made available for sound industrial projects abroad, government funds will be used in competition. Terming the question of post-war credits the most important subject before the 52 nations' delegates, Johnston said:

"All of the nations have come here to learn how they may obtain necessary post-war funds. All have post-war plans, but need money to carry them out.

"The only way we can be sure of our money abroad is to invest it in specific projects such as textile mills, chemical plants, steel facilities, and similar industrial projects. I do not favor supplying capital thru bond issues and don't want to see our money spent for swimming pools or parks or come into the hands of politicians."

Welcomes American Investments.

Leopoldo H. Palazuelos, chairman of the Mexican delegation, told reporters his country would welcome American investments, and said foreign investors could be assured there would be no further expropriation of Mexican properties owned by nationals of other countries. Of his government's expropriation of foreign owned oil and other properties several years ago, he said, "That period is in the past."

The first break in friendly relations between the 350 conference participants developed today when M. M. Gousev, chairman of the Russian delegation, refused to pose for a picture with Dr. Joao Daudt Oliveira, chairman of the Brazilian group. "I have no business with Brazil," said Gousev, head of the soviet trading agency, Amtorg, and an observer at the meeting.

Russia refused to attend the world aviation conference in Chicago because of the presence of "fascist" countries, and is not represented officially at this meeting.

Midwest Area Needs 125,000 War Workers

Local labor supplies estimated as available in the Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin region are falling far short of man power demands of essential industries, William H. Spencer, regional man power director, said yesterday. After local labor supplies were exhausted, approximately 125,000 workers were needed on Nov. 1, he said.

Demands of nonseasonal establishments for workers have continued to expand, but at a diminished rate, Spencer said. As of Sept. 1, essential labor demands were 4 per cent higher than on July 1, when the demand was 14 per cent higher than on May 1. Translated into numbers of workers, the nonseasonal demand of the 64 labor market areas in the region was nearly 140,000 on Sept. 1, compared with 135,000 on July 1 and 110,000 on May 1.

Heavier Schedules Are Factor.

Spencer explained that to some extent the increased man power requirements represent higher war production schedules, true of several ordnance plants in the region that are producing heavy artillery ammunition and dry cell batteries.

To a larger extent the increased demand is a reflection of a decreasing labor force, cut by the loss of summer workers, against constant employment needs, he said. He predicted that the situation would be eased slightly after November unless additional war production contracts placed within stringent areas carry substantial labor requirements.

Farm Workers to Return.

"Seasonal activities will be over and the completion of harvesting will permit agricultural workers to accept factory employment for the winter months," he said. "Also some relief will be obtained thru the employment of foreign labor. However, selective service withdrawals continue a heavy drain on local labor supplies.

"Therefore, the shortages will not be greatly diminished during the winter unless sizable cutbacks in war productiong are forthcoming." Because of the strategic importance of the Chicago tri-state region, he doubted this would occur.

KNUDSEN BACKS SCRAPPING OF MUCH SURPLUS

Storing Worthless Goods Held Waste.

Dayton, O., Nov. 11 [Special].—Lt. Gen. William S. Knudsen, director of the air technical service command and former president of General Motors corporation, contended today that a large percentage of surplus war equipment must be scrapped. He urged speedy settlement of canceled and completed war contracts.

"The people may be assured that nothing will be scrapped if it can be used, but as far as the air forces are concerned we do not intend to keep material lying around for the next 25 years and pay for its storage and maintenance when it will never be used," Knudsen said.

Dies Become Worthless.

"For instance, one might have $100,000 worth of dies used in forming some small part for an airplane engine. That engine is succeeded by a better engine and the dies are worthless altho they have done their share in winning the war. What good will it do to keep them around for the next 50 years?"

Such costs are expensive to the taxpayer, but he will "just have to get used to the idea that wars, especially modern, highly technical wars, are wasteful," Knudsen added.

Fail to Present Bills.

Discussing the desirability of expediting the termination of war contracts, he said:

"Management must realize the necessity for the prompt presentation of bills to the government. It is a curious fact that we have thousands of contractors and subcontractors who are not asking for their money. We have got to know their inventories of excess property, raw materials, tools, gauges, dies, and fixtures, charges on work done and claims of suppliers."

PACIFIC THEATER TO SHOW NAVY'S INVASION MIGHT

War Loan Exhibit to Open Saturday on Pier.

The greatest exhibition of navy ships, planes, guns, communications equipment, and miscellaneous gear ever assembled in Chicago will be opened to the public on Navy pier at noon next Saturday.

The show, which the navy calls "Pacific Theater," is being conducted in conjunction with the treasury department in the interest of the 6th war loan.

Exhibits will fill the block long gymnasium, the aviation school airplane parking space, and waterfront docks. Most of the equipment—guns, radios, searchlights, and airplanes—will be operated to show Chicagoans what the navy has in use in the fighting zones and how it is used.

In addition to the navy exhibits a national radio show will originate, each night for the 16 days of the exhibition, in a 1,200 seat theater to which admittance may be gained by buying war bonds.

Feature Landing Craft.

Because various types of landing craft have played such an important part in all recent invasions from the South Pacific to the channel coast of France, the navy is going to display three types of these ships.

The largest is an LST [landing ship, tank]. The others are an LCM [landing craft, medium] and an LCI [landing craft, infantry]. The LST, only a few feet shorter than a destroyer, will land a large number of tanks on an invasion beach, the LCM will handle a few tanks and supporting troops, and the LCI carries troops only.

Moored to Navy pier docks, the three invasion ships will be open to show visitors, who may go aboard and see the enormous amount of gear necessary to effect a successful operation.

Included in a large list of captured Japanese equipment which will be on display is a two man submarine, captured intact after the attack on Pearl Harbor. Windows have been cut in the hull of the submarine and visitors may see how these suicide ships are operated by the two man crew.

The ordnance display will contain all types of bombs, shells, and torpedoes, many of which are manufactured in Chicago war plants. Many types of radio receivers and transmitters are included in another indoor display. This display is so complete that only a few detection devices will be omitted.

Planes from Glenview.

The Glenview naval air station's contribution to the show includes fighter planes, dive bombers, and torpedo planes. Safely parked behind a wire fence, the planes will be operated periodically to demonstrate how the wings are folded for storage below the flight decks of aircraft carriers.

Coast Guardsmen, who in time of war operate under navy command, will demonstrate a major part of the work they perform in support of the navy and army. Coast Guard crews man invasion craft, operate patrol boats, and at the same time keep up their regular peace time safety and rescue work on inland waters.

More than 200 marines are in training at the pier for their part in the show.

During the run of the show the marine corps will conduct a huge beach landing operation at Foster beach in conjunction with the Coast Guard.

"PROCLAIM TITO 'HERO.'"

LONDON, Nov. 11 (AP).—Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito was proclaimed a "national hero" by a resolution adopted by the anti-Fascist national liberation assembly of Serbia, the Yugoslav radio said tonight.

WARN LAGGARDS TO JOIN EARLY SHOPPING DRIVE

Laggards were advised to join the shop-early-for-Christmas campaign or face last minute disappointments in an announcement yesterday from the Chicago Retail Merchants' association.

People are coöperating with the "Mail in November" campaign urged by the office of defense transportation, a merchants' association spokesman said, and indications are that reduced gift selections will be the penalty of procrastination.

Trains and Planes Loaded.

The ODT drive to get Christmas parcels in the mails by Dec. 1 to assure delivery by Christmas derives from a combination of factors—the railroads are handling troop movements, carrying wounded, and hauling more high priority freight and express than at any time in two years, it was stated.

Air lines are also loaded, the ODT explains, and truck lines, which are being partially forced off the road for lack of tires, are at the same time making strenuous efforts to cope with army, navy, and civilian demands with reduced equipment.

Tips to the shopper are led by the advice to prepare a shopping list before going to the stores, with substitute items listed with first choices. This practice saves the time of both shoppers and clerks, stores report.

Morning Shopping Urged.

Further advice is to shop early in the day to avoid crowds, to get better service, and to make way for those workers whose hours force them to do their buying in the afternoons.

Of goods available some, such as toys, are more plentiful than a year ago. Wrappings are scarce, however. There is little ribbon and little string. Thus the early shopper will get not only the best of gift selections but also the best of available tinsel, tassels, and tissue with which to wrap them.

COUNCIL TO CONSIDER WARD REDISTRICTING AND EXTRA ELECTION

Redistricting of the city's 50 wards and a special election to fill the three aldermanic vacancies in the city council will be among the subjects to be taken up by the council committee on rules, which will meet shortly after Thanksgiving, Ald. Quinn [50th], the committee chairman, said yesterday.

For the last 18 months, the committee has held in abeyance resolution offered by Ald. Keenan [49th], calling for redistricting the wards on the basis of the 1940 census. Several of the wards are nearly twice as large in population as they should be, while others are far below par in population.

The special election to fill vacancies in the 6th, 10th, and 26th wards, where Aldermen Smith, Pieczynski, and Sobota have died since the last aldermanic election in the spring of 1943, it is expected, will be called in February if a proposal by Quinn passes the committee and is approved by the council.

Of the three deceased councilmen only Smith was a Republican.

A dashing red coat of rough-surfaced wool material. The collar is rich and glowing, a perfect foil for the inky black of Persian lamb which forms the upstanding collar and wide cuffs of the unusual double sleeves. Heavy silver buttons lend a slightly military air. A cleverly draped turban combines the fabric and fur. Designed by Celeste Byrne, New York.

A deceptively simple one-piece day time dress combining two effective colors—royal blue and black. Where the two colors meet there is a decorative appliqued motif, royal blue on the black and black on the blue. Very short sleeves make it an ideal cocktail dress. A twisted turban of blue satin, long black gloves, and a black fox muff are dramatic touches. Designed by Dorothy Hawkins, Dallas, Tex.

A stunning outfit of the year's most fascinating color combination—gingerbread brown and black. The very straight street-length skirt is of black wool, the fitted jacket of warm, spicy brown. A plain but striking hat of black felt and a double scarf of magnificent fisher skins add a touch of simple but studied chic. Designed by Patricia Spaulding, New York.

Artful simplicity of silhouette, combined with rich fall colors of brown and russet, marks this smart walking suit. The slot seams are accentuated by saddle stitching in russet wool which repeats the insets of russet material. A scarf of red fox and a wide hat of russet felt carry out the color scheme. Designed by Rita Hansen, Oak Park.

LOOKING AT HOLLYWOOD with HEDDA HOPPER

"THE hardest thing about making a movie is landing the job to make it." This disarming statement comes from Edmund Goulding, who, if he doesn't know all there is to know about directing pictures, can at least give lessons to nine out of ten of his contemporaries.

Years ago Goulding lectured on motion pictures at Columbia university. His opening statement was: "I suppose I am better fitted to lecture on how to make motion pictures than any one else in the industry, because I don't know myself how to make them."

Goulding directed them all, and many more.

Who is your favorite star? Garbo? Joan Crawford? Bette Davis? Geraldine Fitzgerald? The late Doug Fairbanks?

Tell you what I'll do. You name your favorite star, whoever it is, and I'll lay a small bet that Eddie had something to do with making him or her famous.

Goulding is like no one else here. His technique is his and his alone. He welcomes temperament. The tougher they come the better he likes 'em. He cuts them down to size in practically nothing flat, and they don't even know they're being whittled.

During the filming of "Love," Garbo started being Garbo, if you know what I mean, and I think you do. Goulding cornered her in her dressing room.

Her complaint was that nobody could do her hair properly; her hair just wouldn't do.

This was no time for words. Within a few minutes Goulding was at work on her hair, with his mouth full of hairpins.

That did it. By that simple device Garbo, momentarily stunned, got off her perch somewhere on cloud eight and became one of the people. But Goulding thereby snagged himself a chore, because Garbo allowed no one but him to do her hair during the whole picture. His first chore every morning, while hundreds of actors stood by, was to cook up a new hair-do for the dame.

There is so much to write about Goulding that in this article you can get only a glimpse of the man. When I say that he is fabulous I'm pulling my punches. When I hint that he's a genius I'm not too far wrong.

If this sounds like hoopla, I'm sorry. The best way I could prove it isn't would be to have you sit down with me at Eddie's house and get to know the man. Inasmuch as that can't be (altho you'd be welcome so far as Eddie's concerned), I'll try to bring him to you. From now on I'll let Eddie talk. I quote:

"Most of the people who have interested me are those who are in some kind of spot. They were either beginning or desperately anxious—Bing Crosby, a natural . . . Bankhead, beautiful, vital . . . Constance Bennett, so positive . . . Alexis Smith, so nervous . . . Dolores Moran, so green . . . Joyce Reynolds, so young . . . Gig Young, so anxious . . . Geraldine Fitzgerald, so Irishly indifferent . . . Louise Hayward, Noel Coward's tip and mine . . . David Niven, so refreshing . . . Fay Bainter, so scared of the movies . . . Helen Hayes [for whom he wrote 'Dancing Mothers'] . . . Paul Lukas, so bothered about our language . . . Richard Barthelmess, so ambitious. . . . I usually catch them on the 'cusp.' Some weird fate brings me into other people's lives when they need me.

"The complacence of most successful players fails to interest me. I travel along with 'em, interested only in the fact that they are going to add something to the picture. But show me some one trembling, perspiring, fearing they're not good, hoping they will get by—some one to whom the enterprise means life or death—and I become their soldier.

"I want to know all about them. I want to enter their lives, know all their problems; their aches, pains, fears, apprehensions, and hopes. I'm paid well for my trouble, because there is great strength to be given by some one who digs and understands more than surface problems.

"Every one is an embryonic actor. Most people never get to the stage or the screen, because they conform to other people's ways of doing things. The trick would be for some one to find out how they would bring about the effect—receive the news of a death, the news of a legacy or a catastrophe.

"One of the first tricks a director learns is to imitate an actor himself. After several pictures I could imitate Bette Davis back to herself. I knew the way she turned, what her instinctive movements were. I didn't direct her. It's the ability to take on another person's habits and thoughts and thinking and movements in ways characteristic of them that distinguishes a director. In other words, not 'do as I say' or 'do as I do,' but 'get my effect your way.'"

As this is being written Edmund Goulding is doing what he considers the most important picture of his career. It's "Of Human Bondage," the Somerset Maugham story that catapulted Bette Davis to stardom. Her part of Mildred, the cockney girl who wrecks the life of Philip Carey (played originally by the late Leslie Howard), is being taken in the present version by Eleanor Parker.

Goulding's method of conditioning Eleanor, an almost unknown, for the important role is typical of his thoroness.

When Eddie checked in at Warners', Jack Warner said, "Have you seen our girls under contract?"

Goulding replied: "No. Only Alexis Smith and Joyce Reynolds."

Warner said: "Well, after what you did for those two in 'The Constant Nymph,' I'm going to throw another one at you."

"Who?" asked Goulding.

"Her name's Parker," said Warner. "Eleanor Parker. I want you to see her."

Goulding ran a reel of film of her. She seemed very unlike Mildred, and the matter was temporarily dropped.

A little later Warner said, "I still think Parker is your girl for Mildred."

Goulding said: "You're the boss. I'll make a test."

Then he went down on the set of "Between Two Worlds" to see her. She was very beautiful, quiet, more unlike Mildred than any one he'd ever seen.

She said, "I don't think I could do it, do you?"

"No," he said.

She said, "Well, that's that."

"I said, 'So long,'" Eddie told me, "and was at the door. Why I went back I'll never know. I said, 'What makes you so cocksure you couldn't do it?'

"She said, 'Well, it takes an actress, and you've got to be English.'

"I said: 'Anybody can be both—or anything—if they really want to. Do you want to?'

"She said, 'Of course I want to, but I'm sure I can't.'

"Well—something happened then. I don't know what it was. It was instinctive, it was a challenge. It was my ego, I guess.

"I said, 'What do you want to bet you couldn't do it?' I asked her to sneak away when she could, talk cockney with me. I got the English actress Doris Lloyd to help her. I saw her for about an hour a day. At the end of a week I knew she could do it. In the meantime every one else was telling her she could never do it and warning her how impossible it was to follow Bette Davis. She broke down and said she couldn't do it after all.

"I worked on her like a psychiatrist. We went from deadly serious to an attitude of 'who cares whether you do it or not?' I kept this up until she reached the putty stage. She liked the clothes Mildred wore and spent most of the day in them. She came and talked cockney to me. We ran thru the scenes together, then she'd go home and work. Actually, I rehearsed with her on the telephone at night.

"We made the test, and I will stake my reputation in the theater and films on the statement that Eleanor Parker is as great and exciting, as thrilling and promising an actress as I've ever directed, and that goes for all of the great ladies it has been my privilege to direct."

Writer, composer ("Love, Thy Magic Spell Is Everywhere"), artist, world traveler, student, Eddie Goulding is above all things a human being whose entire time and effort are spent on knowing and understanding people. He loves people.

He hasn't seen a motion picture in four years and rarely sees one of his own.

"Something to do with my eyes," he smiles. "But I hear pictures are better since sound came in."

Here in Hollywood we call him a card, but most females would rather be directed by him than almost any guy in town, because he makes them believe they have a touch of greatness in them. And if they have, boy, O, boy! how he can find it and bring it out!

VOICE OF THE MOVIE FAN

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Mae Tinee: A soldier friend of mine who is stationed on Guadalcanal is quite a movie fan. Recently he wrote and said that he had seen June Allyson in "Two Girls and a Sailor." He was quite impressed with June Allyson—not only with her acting ability but also with her beauty. In other words, she's his number one swoon girl. So will you kindly print in your Sunday column an extra special picture for Phil that I may send to him? Thank you, and continued success to you and your column.

MARGE.

June Allyson

Dear Marge: Phil and I see eye to eye regarding June. It's a great pleasure to decorate our column with her picture this morning. Thanks for the boost.

Dear Mae: This fan mail writing is just a little bit out of my line. One thing for sure, tho, I like your column, and altho I'm the only Chicago boy in my outfit, there are many fellows from Illinois, and they all like a shot at reading the Overseas edition of the Trib.

Do you really want to know what gripes us fellows about these war pictures? We get a ha-ha at these movie heroes coming home from battle full of decorations and only three or four months' foreign service—but in all theaters of war.

I'd like to throw a compliment at army special service and the motion picture industry for the swell job they are doing in getting for us the first run pictures.

I'm in one of those in-between outfits, one where the war has passed us by, leaving us to clean up after it. The army says I'm an electrician in the air force. The need for sleep is much greater than the will to write, so this is it.

Sincerely,

ROY T. SCHWERDTMAN.

Dear Private S.: Here's hoping you soon get thru cleaning up over at the neighbors' and come home to keep house! Thanks for your letter. How does it look in print? But good, I think!

TESTS PROVE DUZ IS TOPS FOR YOUR BIGGEST WASHDAY NEED—
White Washes+Suds +Safety!

"Yep! DUZ beat 25 soaps —including all the most popular ones!"

Are you saying, "Did DUZ beat my soap?" Here's the answer. Not one of the 25 soaps tested, not even the most popular, beat DUZ on any of the 3 big washday problems: Whiteness, Suds and Safety!

Some soaps lost to DUZ on safety. Some lost on suds. Only DUZ rated tops for whitest washes, most suds for cleaning and greatest safety for colors—combined!

Laundry Experts washed grimy work clothes, grubby towels, even dainty rayon undies to make absolutely sure that DUZ does EVERYTHING—BEST!

Don't waste DUZ—Like all soap it uses vital war materials!

GOODBYE ATTRACTIVE SMILE IF YOU KEEP ON GRINDING CAVITIES INTO YOUR TEETH LIKE THIS!

...and 8 in 10 you run this risk right now, dental studies show!

See that cavity in tooth at right? Popular dentifrices grind in cavities like this!

A nation-wide study—conducted by dentists—among their own patients—shows that over half of all adults—MEN AND WOMEN—had these cavities . . . and 8 in 10 risked getting them.

The reason is simple. As we grow older, gums recede—exposing parts of our teeth 25 times softer than tooth enamel.

The polishing agent (abrasive in dentifrices) although relatively harmless to enamel, cuts grooves in these softer parts.

But you can clean your teeth—and do it safely—if you follow the sensible advice given below.

NEW SAFE TEEL WAY TAKES ONLY One Extra Minute a Week!

Teel Brightens Teeth SAFELY —Does What No Other Leading Dentifrice Can Do!

Here's a strange thing. You yourself are probably grinding cavities into your own teeth! What you put on your toothbrush does the damage.

What's more—it's the teeth in the front of your mouth that get damaged most. Cavities right where they detract most from your looks.

But luckily there's a way to avoid all this trouble. The new TEEL Way!

TEEL cleans teeth gently. Cleans without abrasives . . . contains none of any kind . . . and so protects teeth. You'll like the way TEEL leaves your mouth tingling and refreshed—your breath sweetened.

Simply brush daily with TEEL—and once a week, for an extra minute, brush with TEEL and plain baking soda.

For the sake of your teeth—and your looks—start the new TEEL way now. Get a bottle—today!

HERE'S ALL YOU DO

1. Brush your teeth every day — thoroughly with TEEL. A few drops on dry or moistened brush. Feel it clean!
2. Once a week brush teeth with plain baking soda on brush moistened with TEEL. Brush at least an extra minute.

THIS CLEANS AND BRIGHTENS TEETH—SAFELY

When Food Flies!

By MARY MEADE

FOOD SERVICE aboard a transport plane is a complicated business, but if you've done much traveling by air you know that the meals you get at no extra cost compare favorably with the finest of restaurant meals.

Now the air lines are preparing for bigger and better meals in a post-war age of flight. Out in one of United Air Lines' Chicago hangars there's a big wooden "mockup" of a plane in which the company's engineers, stewardesses, and dining service experts can experiment. The mockup has the same cabin dimensions as the big four-engined Douglas DC-4 and DC-6 planes which United has on order for immediate service after the war. It serves as a laboratory for trying out new ideas in the big business of serving meals high in the sky.

How big that business already is may be indicated by the fact that United Air Lines alone is serving approximately 1,350,000 sky meals this year; that it owns and operates nine flight kitchens—in Chicago, New York, Omaha, Denver, Cheyenne, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Portland. An average of 2½ meals a minute are served day and night.

The new, big post-war planes (United will have 15 four-mile-a-minute DC-4s and 35 five-mile-a-minute DC-6s) will make food service easier in some ways because of the extra roominess and the increased weight which can be allowed. But it will take speedy service to get hot food to more passengers in a greater area. D. F. Magarrell, director of passenger service for United, says that the first move will be to provide two cabin attendants in place of the one stewardess who now serves meals to the 21 "mainliner" passengers. There will be far more complete food preparation in the ground flight kitchens than at present, and there'll be more of a kitchen aboard the plane itself. One of the attendants will make up the meals as the other delivers them to passengers.

In the DC-6 fairly elaborate meal service is contemplated, with china and glassware taking the place of plastics and the paper containers now used. There'll be tables for parties of four as well as seat service of meals. And the food on your coast-to-coast trip will be complimentary, as now.

Stewardess Jean MacDonald of United Air Lines prepares a meal in her practice kitchen, a mockup of a post-war plane cabin.

Here's how you'll dine aloft on future plane trips—at a table as in a restaurant. This is an experimental dinner.

TODAY'S $5 PRIZE RECIPE

BANANA OATMEAL COOKIES
(About three to four dozen)

|---|---|
| ½ cup shortening | ½ teaspoon soda |
| 1 cup sugar | 1 teaspoon salt |
| 1 egg | ½ teaspoon nutmeg (optional) |
| 1 cup mashed bananas | 1½ cups rolled oats |
| 1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour | ½ cup chopped nut meats |

Cream shortening and sugar together thoroly; beat in egg. Add bananas. Stir in dry ingredients which have been sifted together. Stir in rolled oats and nut meats. Drop by teaspoonfuls on ungreased cookie sheet, about 1½ inches apart. Bake in hot (400 degrees) oven until done, about 15 minutes—MRS. TIM R. PHALEN, 121 N. Washington, Mason City, Ia.

YAKIMA SPECIAL BAKED BEANS

|---|---|
| 1 lb. (2 cups) dried navy beans | ½ cup dark molasses |
| 1 tart apple, chopped | 2 tbsps. sugar |
| 2 small onions, quartered | 2 tsps. salt |
| ¼ lb. salt pork, diced | 1 tsp. dry mustard |

Wash beans; cover with water; soak overnight. Simmer—do not boil—until tender, about 30 to 45 min. Drain, saving cooking water. Put half the beans in 2-quart bean pot or casserole; add apple, onions, and half the salt pork. Add remaining beans. Combine molasses, sugar, salt, mustard, and 2¼ cups of the cooking water; pour over beans. Top with remaining salt pork; cover. Bake in slow oven (300°) 5 to 6 hours. Add more of the bean liquor or boiling water, if necessary. During last ½ hour, uncover to brown. Serves 6 to 8. Serve with brown bread slices.

from Woman's Home Companion

|---|---|
| 6 lamb shanks (about 1 lb. each) | 1½ cups tomato juice |
| 4 or 5 celery tops | 1½ cups water |
| 2 tsps. salt | ½ cup dry white wine |
| 1 tsp. paprika | 6 potatoes, medium |

Wash lamb shanks and let soak in water at least 15 min. Drain, place in shallow roasting pan, add celery tops, salt, paprika, tomato juice, water and wine. Bake uncovered in moderate oven (375°F.) for 45 min. Add pared potatoes and bake 1 hour longer or until tender. Turn shanks and potatoes frequently. Serve with juice in pan. Makes 6 servings.

For sure success with every recipe . . . have an electric range in your postwar kitchen

Gone are the days of "guesswork cooking." In your postwar kitchen your electric range will scientifically do your cooking for you. Put pastries in the oven, turn a dial—and your minute minder will sound when cakes or pies are golden brown. There'll be no need to open oven doors for "testing." You'll be able to try brand new recipes—sure they'll turn out picture-pretty, win high praise from your family and friends.

You won't have to "stand guard" at the range. Automatic oven controls will cook meats at even temperatures. You can enjoy a "before dinner" hour with the children.

With an electric range you'll not only cook better-than-ever dinners, but thanks to Chicago's low electricity rate, it's economical, too. So be ready after Victory to own the truly modern range—an electric range.

"BE AMERICAN . . . !"

The words of George Washington quoted in this article appear today for the first time in the upper right corner of page one of the main news section. They will appear there daily for some time as a keynote for Americana.

By DELOS AVERY

BE AMERICAN . . . ! When did George Washington say that? Where did he say it, and to whom?

The offhand answer might very well be the counter-question:

When didn't he say it?

For surely the brief phrase, charged as it is with the wisdom and the spirit of Washington, is the very kernel of the counsel he offered always to his fellow countrymen in their most trying hours of danger, deprivation, and the shadow of despair.

Be American . . . !

It is a two word summation of the Farewell Address itself. It is a thumbnail epitome of the legacy that he in the evening of life gave to the nation in its morning. Its value is eternal.

But the date? The place? The occasion?

Recently the research staff of the Chicago public library devoted hours to the quest. The result was almost completely negative. They did find the phrase, but not its background.

On page 42 of a book called "Patriotism in Prose and Verse," published in 1852 by the Educational Publishing company of Boston, edited by Jane Gordon, they found these captions:

LIBERTY AND ORDER

From an Address of George Washington's

Under the captions was a one paragraph quotation, including these sentences:

Be American in thought and deed. Thus will you give immortality to that Union which was the constant object of my terrestrial labors.

Washington died in 1799 at the age of 67. In the period covering his life the reporting of speeches was not what it is today—when microphones and electrical recording machines preserve not only every word but every accent and intonation. Reporters depended upon memories which were not always reliable. Speeches were spoken first and written afterward, often with changes.

George Washington

Indeed, many years later, when Abraham Lincoln delivered his Gettysburg Address, the text that appeared in the newspapers took various forms, almost as many forms as there were reporters trying to write it down; for they did not receive neat typewritten copies in advance. And Lincoln himself, altho he had written a rough draft, did not make use of his notes as he spoke. The speech as every school boy now knows it, having read it in books and on the bronze tablets of monuments, was not immediately available. Lincoln wrote it out by hand for several friends. One copy went to David Wills, whose guest the President had been at Gettysburg. Another was for facsimile reproduction in "Autographed Leaves of Our Country's Authors." And Carl Sandburg says Lincoln's original rough draft, instead of starting with the rhythmic and resounding "Fourscore and seven years ago," began with the limping words, "Eighty-odd years since."

And so with Washington. Having failed to learn from libraries the time, the place, and the occasion of his "Be American," I have sought the opinion of historians. The best answer, I think, was:

"When did he say it? He is probably saying it now, if we could but hear him."

From PINUP to STAR!

YVONNE DE CARLO

IN 1942 A HOLLYWOOD studio noticed a beautiful young night club dancer and put her under contract. She was Yvonne De Carlo, a Canadian girl from Vancouver, B. C. Yvonne once almost got Dorothy Lamour's sarong roles. Dorothy decided to continue the parts, however, and Yvonne continued her voice and dancing studies. It was a pinup picture sent to a group of Royal Canadian air force bombardier students that brought her success. Twenty-one of the students started a campaign to get her the title role in Universal's "Salome—Where She Danced." They did get her a test, along with thousands of other girls, and she got the job. # DRESSED TO YOUR FINGER TIPS?

By LOUISE DOOLEY

"DRESSED to her finger tips" is a phrase that's been batted around a lot to describe a woman who is all decked out in her best finery, but actually, since the advent of nail polish, it has a literal meaning. Most women today consider a coat of polish on the nails as essential to the beauty of their hands as lipstick is to their faces, and, as with lipstick, they've learned to key colors to complement their costumes—to make it an integral part of the finished picture.

Because lacquer draws attention to itself as well as to the hands, it is important to good grooming that it be kept in flawless condition at all times. Polish that is half on and half off is unsightly and the careless creatures who are haphazard about it would do better not to wear it at all.

There's no room in the fastidious woman's beauty picture for polish that is chipped, however slightly. She checks its state of perfection each day as automatically as she straightens the seams in her stockings, and if there is the faintest chip, or if the finish looks even a little worn, she removes it and applies a fresh coat. These quick changes in between weekly manicures become a matter of routine and in a little while are as simple as powdering the nose.

Keep polish remover and your bottles of lacquer in a handy place, and if when you're dressing to go out you find that the nails need repairing, take a few minutes to fix them. Get all dressed and then sit down at a steady table with a good light and go at the job. A piece of cotton soaked in polish remover and held against the nail for a few seconds will remove the old coat and ready it for a new one.

Paint the lacquer on carefully, brush on a clear protective coat, and then be cautious about using the hands for a little while until the lacquer dries.

The little effort it takes to keep polish looking bright and flawless is worth while, because when the nails are impeccably groomed you can flash your hands around with aplomb instead of feeling self-conscious about them.

If you'd make nail polish an aid to hand beauty, renew it in between regular manicures so that it is never chipped or worn looking.

YOUTH ON THE CAMPUS

By ELEANOR NANGLE

Wellesley, Mass.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE, hostess for the last year to several hundred young men, overflow of Harvard's branch of the navy supply corps school, has now regained its all-feminine campus status. Hazard quadrangle no longer resounds to the thud of marching feet, and drowsy collegiennes in Beebe and Shafer are no longer awakened at an early hour these mornings by the necessary noises of company formation. Casanove and Pomeroy, naval reservations since Oct. 1, 1943, are rapidly being reconverted to their original service as girls' dormitories.

The navy came and left quietly; the incongruity of men living and studying on the campus of one of our oldest and finest women's colleges created hardly a ripple on the campus concerned. For Wellesley it was just another war adjustment, one of many.

The girls have their residence halls back and can now spread out a bit—they had been crowded in dorms, utilizing double-deck bunks wherever possible to compensate for the loan of two good-sized halls to the navy. Next year they will have their original beloved "Well" back, too. For the last year they have been using a small building near the library as their snack and juke box haven, while the navy used their Well as a galley. And Alumnae hall, which has been the navy's mess, can, when the course of the war and the return of dancing partners permit, serve Wellesley girls once again as a scene for their proms.

Betty Bazner, Durham, N. C., a Wellesley student.

Wellesley's work plan continues for the present, however. Every student here gives seven hours a week of her time to the operation of the college; she cleans her own room and, on duty roster, takes on various chores, mostly domestic, such as "sitting on bell" in various reception rooms and waiting table. Here, as at most eastern colleges, the work plan is an accepted part of life, tho Wellesley girls make a greater time contribution weekly than most others.

Wellesley's freshman class was again a large one, as large as could possibly be accepted for its enrollment, which is set at 1,500. Like almost all women's colleges in this year of war, it was besieged with applicants. Increased family income and the fact that parents can apply the funds for daughters' education which ordinarily would be expended on sons undoubtedly has much to do with it—but the students themselves say that in war time they are happier at a woman's college than at a co-educational one. In an all-woman school those who are so inclined find it easier not to date; they all live for mail; they have common joys, sorrows, and interests, and they have good times together.

At Wellesley, for example, they report a common enjoyment in their work and in the tempo of campus life, together with a great appreciation of beautiful surroundings. They love the walks, the lake, the mellow buildings. And when their man gets leave, Boston is only a matter of minutes, New York a matter of hours.

"Frenchman's Creek"

1 Fleeing from London and her husband, the dissolute gamester Lord Harry St. Columb, Dona St. Columb and her two children arrive secretly at their mansion on the cliffs of remote Cornwall to start life anew.

2 Lady St. Columb (Joan Fontaine) at last is happy that her youngsters are wholly in her care. She is unaware that shortly will arrive on the scene the infamous Lord Rockingham, who in London has pursued her with unwelcome attentions.

3 Pompous Lord Godolphin (Nigel Bruce), her neighbor, warns her that a French pirate, Jean Benoit Aubery, has now and then sojourned at the St. Columb mansion during her absence in London. He may reappear any moment.

4 The pirate (Arturo De Cordova) does show up. Evil report of him only endows the Frenchman with a romantic attraction for her, and the adventures he relates make Navron House and its quietness all the more boring for her.

5 Lady St. Columb is shanghaied aboard the Sea Gull. In fact, she had decided to run away with the pirate. Suspecting this friendship, a neighbor sends word to Lord Harry in London.

6 After Lady St. Columb returns, Lord Harry stages a banquet. He then abducts the children secretly. The last guest to stay on is the evil Rockingham (Basil Rathbone), who, angry at being spurned, wrestles with Lady St. Columb. In the struggle he is fatally stabbed.

7 The neighborhood, aroused, blames the Frenchman. The lady and the pirate are in love, and she keeps him informed on the plans that do eventually result in his being thrown into jail.

8 It takes cleverness and a knowledge of the countryside to help the Frenchman escape jail, but she does. They reach ship and set sail. Meanwhile doubts seize the minds of both of them as to the rightness of eloping.

9 Lord Harry, sobered by the affair at the castle, gets word to his wife that he will spend the rest of his life trying to make up for the unhappiness he has caused her. She decides to give him the chance. After a farewell kiss she and the pirate part.

10 Reconciled, the St. Columbs (Ralph Forbes) are together again with their children at Navron House. They stand on the portico of their Cornish retreat, London forever behind them. They have let bygones be bygones and are overlooking the Cornish sea whence the Frenchmen has vanished with the Sea Gull. (THE END)

"I'm happy as a lark the way I zip through my wash these days. It's all due to Super Suds' extra suds!"

"I never worry a mite about Diane's nice colored dresses. The color stays bright and cheery. Guess it's 'cause Super Suds is so GENTLE."

"Little Andrew picks up dirt every time he turns around. But I don't mind. These HARD-WORKIN' SUDS loosen dirt easy!"

"Eddie's shirts look as though they stepped out of a bandbox. Sparklin' white clean through. Yet nothing strong added to Super Suds!"

"MORE SUDS and LONGER-LASTIN' SUDS from this grand new soap cut down on rubbin' time. As different as night and day compared to my old-time washin'!"

says Mrs. Edward Schleider

"MY TWO are a handful when they get going. But I just let them enjoy themselves, spite of dirt—and more wash for me. Super Suds' EXTRA SUDS lace right into dirt—and that means less extra rubbin' for yours truly. MORE SUDS and LONGER-LASTIN' SUDS sure make a heap of difference in the way I feel—and act—on wash-day. It's no surprise to me that Super Suds is so popular!"

Mrs. Schleider saw MORE SUDS with her own eyes

Make the milk-bottle suds test yourself. Just shake up a teaspoon of your old wash-day soap and a glass of water in a milk-bottle. Even hard or cool water will do. Do the same with Super Suds in another bottle. See if you don't get MORE SUDS from Super Suds.

Romantic Figures of American History

The illustration above, by Clara Fargo Thomas and Alexander Varsak, is another of the series appearing currently in this section with biographical sketches.

WHEN John Ericsson's little iron-clad "Yankee cheesebox on a raft," the Monitor, arrived at Hampton Roads on the night of March 8, 1862, there was considerable doubt in some quarters as to how it might perform against the reconstructed Confederate armored craft, the Virginia (better known by its old name, Merrimac), which had created havoc among Federal wooden ships that day.

When the two vessels met on March 9, however, the little Monitor proved to be the better ship. With its two powerful 11 inch guns it battered the Confederate vessel so badly that it did not come out to fight again.

The man who commanded the Monitor in that historic fight was John Lorimer Worden. As the action was nearing its end a shell, exploding against the sight hole of the pilot house, wounded and nearly blinded Worden. He recovered, however, and continued to serve his country as a naval officer until 1886.

Worden was born in Westchester county, N. Y., March 12, 1818, and was appointed a midshipman in 1834. After service in South American waters and at the Philadelphia naval school he was made a passed midshipman in 1840. From then on until 1860 he served at various times in the Pacific, at the naval observatory, and in the Mediterranean.

Just before the outbreak of the Civil war Worden was dispatched to the south with secret orders for the Union squadron at Pensacola, Fla. Near Montgomery, Ala., on his way back to the north, he was captured by the Confederates, but a few months later he was liberated in an exchange of prisoners.

Given command in January, 1862, of the Monitor, then under construction at Greenpoint, Long Island, he helped in the completion of the vessel and set sail with it for Hampton Roads. His rank at the time of the battle, according to a biographical sketch in the Encyclopaedia Britannica, was that of lieutenant, but the Dictionary of American Biography states that as a result of his famous victory he was given a special vote of thanks by congress on Feb. 3, 1863, and advanced from commander to captain.

From October, 1862, to April, 1863, he commanded the monitor Montauk of the South Atlantic blockading squadron, taking part with his ship in that period in the historic attack on Charleston. Shortly afterward he was detached from active service to engage in iron-clad construction in New York, work that occupied him until after the close of the war.

In 1868 he was elevated to commodore and in 1872 to rear admiral. He was superintendent of the naval academy from 1869 to 1874. From 1875 to 1877 he commanded the European squadron, thereafter serving, until his retirement, first as a member of the naval examining board and later as president of the retiring board. He died in Washington, D. C., Oct. 18, 1897.

It's a Landslide In Chicago!

Chicago women vote 2 to 1 for this amazing soap that cuts grease off dishes in a flash — yet helps hands stay soft and smooth

American Family Flakes Actually Preferred By Twice As Many Women As Any Other Package Soap, Independent Dishwashing Survey Shows

"My greasy dishes come clean in a flash," says Mrs. Frank Smith, 2156 W. Madison. . . . It's true. Actual tests prove no soap in the world cuts grease faster than American Family Flakes.

"It's thrilling—my hands seem so much smoother now that I'm using American Family Flakes," says Mrs. A. C. Utley, 6728 S. Cornell Ave. . . . Here's why. Today's American Family Flakes are milder than any strong granulated soap. And so, they are far kinder to hands.

"Oh boy, what suds—more suds, and faster, too," says Mrs. W. Baxley, 3327 N. Central Park. . . . Yes, American Family Flakes make more suds faster than any leading strong granulated soap—and they're suds that stand up 'til the last dish is done.

Don't Waste Soap! It's made of vital war materials. Make your American Family Flakes go as far as you can.

PREMIUMS — American Family Flakes and American Family Bar Soap both give you valuable coupons—which you can exchange for practical, useful articles for yourself or your home without a penny's extra cost . . . at the American Family Premium Store, 57 W. Wacker Drive.

THE GROANER'S OLDIES COME BACK IN ALBUM

Bing Crosby . . . in 1931.

GUS ARNHEIM was playing in the palm-filled, fabulous Coconut Grove of the Los Angeles Ambassador hotel . . . . it was one of the traditional Saturday afternoon tea dances . . . no one had heard of a depression, for it was still early in 1929.

Up to the mike came Arnheim's featured trio, the famous Paul Whiteman Rhythm Boys—Harry Barris, Bing Crosby, and (I think) Skin Rinker. Everybody knew Barris and his semi-scat singing. But the boy who made us all take notice was Bing. The Groaner was pitched higher then; his feel for timing was nothing like the miraculous precision of today. But he had the relaxed, whimsical quality that was to push him far, far above Barris and Rinker and Arnheim and all the rest.

COLUMBIA is responsible for this bit of nostalgia, for, as you may have discovered by now, it has put on the market 10 of the old Crosbys—10 songs, in an album called "Crosby Classics," that are collectors' items. Look: "Please," "Some of These Days," "My Honey's Lovin' Arms," "I've Got the World on a String," "Down the Old Ox Road."

If that isn't enough, they are backed by "How Deep Is the Ocean," "Home on the Range," "The Last Roundup," "Thanks," and "Shine." And better still, the Mills Brothers share both "Shine," which is strictly for fun, and "My Honey's Lovin' Arms."

Do you like your music hot, sweet, or swing? Who's your favorite bugle boy? What are the records you spend monthly clips on? This is your column. Let me know.—W. D.

Ivie Anderson made "I've Got It Bad" for VICTOR, and that unknown classic became a hit. Now she has what looks like a repeat in "I Don't Mind," and to make the song a practical cinch, Duke Ellington gives it his best semi-fast treatment. It is backed by an instrumental framing of "What Am I Here For?" Johnny Hodges, alto; Rex Stewart, trumpet, and the Duke are given good chances to star.

I have to give the Sinatra fans some news, and it's good. Frank is featured in "Whispering" and "Two in Love," a double pressing by Tommy Dorsey back in the halcyon days and just now released. That should be hint enough.

←STARTING A NEW FEATURE FOR YOU

Girls! Get a Load of This

By MAUREEN DALY
(Author of "Seventeenth Summer" and "Quarter and Quarter.")

AND THIS is what the fellows have to say about it. These smart Joes know exactly the kind of girl they are looking for, and they aren't going to go swinging on a star until they've found that gal, or at least a very reasonable facsimile.

She may be a cross between Betty Hutton, his old kindergarten teacher, and the small redhead who sits next to him in study hall, but essentially the ideal girl for any boy is just a good-natured, intelligent gal with neat, shiny hair, bright eyes, a pleasant smile, and the ability to be a real friend.

That's what the fellows are looking for—that and two or three minor charms thrown in for added interest. And some of the smoother Jacksons have put their ideals down in black and white, complete with perfect personalities and curly hair, so their dream gals can try to fit themselves into that picture.

This is inside information from high school fellows, Joes who know, and those V-males who found time out to put down on paper just the type of honey chile they would most like to come home to. And it gives out this way:

"Some time ago I decided that girls should be judged on the three point scale—a scale of beauty, brains, and personality. Ever since that time I have been looking for a girl who rates tops in all three categories, and I'm beginning to wonder if that type is being built these days. Let me break down these three qualities and you will see my Ideal Girl.

"Essentially the ideal girl for any boy is just a good-natured, intelligent gal with neat, shiny hair."

"BRAINS—Now, this doesn't mean that she has to be a straight A student, not a female Einstein with a theory of relativity all her own, but just a Jill that can find the Philippine Islands without groping all over the map; just a girl that can discuss MacArthur as well as Sinatra; just a frill that knows what it says on the front page as well as what goes with 'Terry and the Pirates.'

"BEAUTY—This topic could be long debated by various Jacksons with different views on the subject. I'll take a gal with a neat figure, a clean, nice looking face, and well kept hair, and she is plenty smooth. A honey chile doesn't have to look like Grable if she can choose and wear the right clothes, if she is clean and neat.

"PERSONALITY—This to me is perhaps the most important qualification. My ideal girl must have poise and be able to meet my friends and folks gracefully, and she must be at ease if we go to some place slightly super where the lights are low and the music soft—some place other than the high school hang-out.

"A very important part of personality is a girl's attitude toward boys. Indifference never improved any one. To be really solid she ought to be giving out with the smiles and be attentive to her own Joe, because if she doesn't like him she had no right to accept the date in the first place. And above all the little squab should be herself, not try to copy the mannerisms of her friends; she must also be feminine, for nothing gets a guy off the hook more quickly than a tomboy. Find me a gal with these qualities and I'll come a-running."

"I like a girl who is rather conservative, well groomed but not too flashy. My idea of a dream gal is one who makes me feel that she is a real companion, a person that you can relax with, and not the kind of chick who gives you the impression that she must be constantly entertained with a lot of fast talk and gag lines.

"But I don't like a girl who has the idea that she is along on a date strictly for the trip—companionship takes coöperation. I don't like high school girls in slinky clothes or with too much makeup, and I'd like a girl who doesn't smoke. Fellows like their girls fresh and pretty.

"The last and most important characteristic is that she be intelligent, have definite opinions of her own and logical reasons for believing what she does. This, of course, means that she will have depth of character and understanding and be able to catch my moods and I hers. This may sound well-nigh impossible, but it isn't—I have a girl back home who suits me to a hair!"

"I am a senior and have a swing band of my own in high school. I'm busy, but not too busy to put down my ideas of what I like in a girl. First of all, she must be neat and tidy; other than that personal appearance is not too important. I like a girl who is even-tempered and gay and who completely disregards all so-called class distinctions. I have no use for snobbishness myself and want no girl who bases her friendships on money, race, or social position. I would like her to be interested in sports, because I am myself, and that way we could have more fun together."

"In my opinion the ideal girl is any gal who is fairly good looking, is liked by her schoolmates, doesn't smoke, and has a pleasing personality. She is a good conversationalist and a good listener."

"The trouble with most girls is their lack of sincerity. Find me one who means what she says and you've got my girl. But besides this sincerity it would be good to have her attractive, intelligent, with a good sense of humor, a taste for music, and a yen for my company. I have my faults, and I expect any girl to have hers, too. After 18 years on this earth I haven't found the type of girl I want. I'm getting a little scared."

"I think I know what most fellows consider a good date. Guys don't like girls who wear a lot of makeup. It makes a girl look sloppy. The kind of girl we like is one with a good sense of humor and who likes to laugh. The best girls can join in the fun with the rest of the gang. When a fellow goes out with a girl it's for a good time and not just to look at her. And we want one who can talk about something besides the latest fashions. A girl's personal appearance, outside of first attraction, means very little to a fellow."

"Just pick out any good, clean girl with a pleasant personality and that's what fellows are looking for. I would prefer mine to be a good dancer and a lover of music, too. But the ideal girl should be interested in more than dates and going out at night; she should be interested in a home and be sincerely religious. I like best to date girls who are as interested in sports as I am."

Well, there it is! A brief cross section of what some of the Joe Blows are looking for in an ever-lovin' doll. These fellows want a girl who can talk, listen, laugh, ride horseback, keep her lipstick on, dance the Lindy hop, and recite poetry aloud at the same time. It may be difficult to fill the picture, but, after all, a good date these days is hard to find!

Physician's Wife: "I lost 15 pounds in 24 days."

Mrs. C. H., Ithaca, N. Y.: "My hips were 53 inches, now 43 inches. I feel like a new person. I like the taste also. MY DOCTOR SAYS IT WAS O.K."

MEN and women all over this country are reporting remarkable results in losing weight easily. Many lose 20 pounds and more. They are following the Easy Reducing Plan of Dr. Edward Parrish, well-known physician and editor, former chief of a U. S. military hospital and state public health officer.

Dr. Parrish's Easy Reducing Plan makes reducing a pleasure because it has NO STRICT DIETS, requires no exercises. HARMLESS, too, because it calls for no reducing drugs.

Here is Dr. Parrish's Easy Reducing Plan EXACTLY as given over the air to millions: For lunch take 2 teaspoonfuls of CAL-PAR in a glass of juice, water or any beverage. Take nothing else for lunch except a cup of coffee, if desired. For breakfast and dinner EAT AS YOU USUALLY DO, but eat sensibly. Don't cut out fatty, starchy foods — just cut down on them. By following Dr. Parrish's Easy Reducing Plan, you cut down your daily calorie intake, thus losing weight naturally. You needn't suffer a single hungry moment. CAL-PAR is not a harmful reducing drug. It is a special dietary product, fortifying your diet with certain essential minerals and vitamins. Most overweight people are helped by Dr. Parrish's Easy Reducing Plan. Try it and your friends will marvel at the vast improvement in your figure.

Absolutely Harmless!
No Exercise!
No Reducing Drugs!

Get a $1.25 can of CAL-PAR at department, health food, and drug stores. If your dealer hasn't CAL-PAR, a special introductory can containing 15 DAYS SUPPLY will be sent postpaid, for only $1.00. This $1.00 can is not sold in stores. Money back if not satisfied. Fill out coupon, pin a dollar bill to it and mail today. We will also send you FREE, Dr. Parrish's booklet on reducing, containing important facts you ought to know, including weight table and charts of food values.

ENGLAND'S OIL BOOM

By E. R. NODERER

London.

"CHILDREN and probably some grownups as well were genuinly surprised to find that the newcomers planted in their midst did not ride horses or fire revolvers about the place. The favorite dress of the strangers when they were not working, however, consisted of colorful suits, broad-brimmed hats, and high-heeled boots."

Thus does the venerable Father Gregory, prior of a monastery somewhere in the English Midlands, refer to what must have been the most unusual guests ever sheltered from the clammy English weather by his sacred mission.

The strangers were 50 oil well drillers from the United States who for 12 months toiled in daylight and in blackout to wrest oil from the English soil at a time when the savage raids by enemy submarines made every voyage by a tanker a hazardous adventure. The English people of the community called all the Americans Texans, altho some of them came from other states.

Now, a month after the Yankee oilmen have returned to the United States, the story can be told—the story of how they put down 238 wells in record time to bring in a yield of 26,000,000 gallons of oil annually. This is only about as much oil as a dozen trans-Atlantic tankers can transport in one voyage, but its flow was started at a time when every drop of the fluid counted and counted a-plenty.

Father Gregory confessed that it was not without trepidation that he received the news that the British government wished to billet the Texans and their companions on him in place of the theological students who had been called to the colors.

"We were a little alarmed," he said, adding that it was felt that the husky young visitors might disturb the seclusion of the monastery. But the brothers of the monastery, in their long ecclesiastical robes and skullcaps, discovered that the Americans worked too hard by day to make any noise at night and that those who labored on the 12 hour night shift were too tired to make any noise by day. Before long, in what spare time there was, the monks and the oil men were playing darts and having lively discussions upon events of the day.

Father Gregory confessed, however, that in their discussions the monks had an advantage over the Americans. The monks felt free to talk about anything, but the Americans, according to Father Gregory, obviously had been warned to steer clear of certain subjects, altho they would not admit it. Questions concerning the British empire, for example, always brought polite silence from the Americans.

Part of the monastery was redecorated to provide billets. Two rooms were converted into a kitchen and a larder, with others fitted up as a dining room, lounge, and recreation room. The American oilmen were able to put up with the weather and soon became used to what seemed to them quaint living conditions. The monastery facilities were all right, but they could not stand English food. In addition to being different from what they were accustomed to, the rations provided were insufficient to keep them going at top speed on their 12 hour shifts.

It finally became necessary for Eugene Rosser of Alvin, Tex., manager of the group, to make arrangements to draw American army rations.

Knowledge of the existence of oil in England goes back some hundreds of years. About 100 years ago it was actually found, flowing into a coal mine at Riddings Pit, Derbyshire. For more than a year about a ton was collected daily and sent to the refinery of the celebrated James "Paraffin" Young, where it was separated into lamp oil, lubricating oil, and paraffin.

The first serious attempt to produce oil in England on an appreciable scale was started in the spring of 1918, when as the result of the war it became evident that no source of supply should be ignored. Drilling operations began in Derbyshire, Staffordshire, and near Edinburgh. By 1922 15 wells had been drilled. Results, however, were disappointing, altho some oil was produced in Derbyshire.

Oil production in England made little progress until the passage of the petroleum act in 1934, which made exploration on an expanded scale possible. At the outbreak of the present war a total of 61 test wells had been drilled in 20 areas. Production was gotten under way by the D'Arcy Exploration company, a subsidiary wholly owned by the Anglo-Iranian Oil company, from shallow wells in Lancashire in May, 1939, and in Nottinghamshire in July of the same year. By September (1939) the Nottinghamshire field was producing 238 tons monthly and the Lancashire field 70 tons. The location of the field operated by the Texans and others from the United States still is a military secret.

It was in 1941 that Geoffrey Lloyd, secretary for petroleum, started a movement to increase British production to 100,000 tons yearly, production at that time being 25,000 tons. Until 1943 all work was undertaken by British skilled technicians who had returned from foreign oil fields, assisted by locally trained labor, but in that year the project was speeded up by the introduction of American drilling contractors. C. A. P. Southwell, manager of the Anglo-Iranian company's field department, went to the United States to obtain labor and equipment.

Southwell contacted Lloyd Noble

of the Noble Drilling corporation, Tulsa, Okla., and Frank Porter of the Fain-Porter Drilling company of Oklahoma City, who advised him on equipment purchases and the enrollment of drilling crews. Four No. 50 drilling outfits were bought from the National Supply company. Eugene Rosser, who headed the group, was assisted on the administrative side by Donald E. Walker, Bartlesville, Okla., and George Sands, from Kansas, was the assistant in charge of drilling.

Altho the British referred to all the Americans as Texans, some of them were from Kansas and Oklahoma and still others from Illinois, Louisiana, and the Dakotas. The American oil workers signed contracts to remain in England one year and were paid the same salaries as those prevailing in the United States. Part of their salaries was banked in the United States. Most of the men in the group ranged in age from 27 to 35, altho Walker is 48. When he met the prior at the monastery he was introduced jokingly as the mother superior of the group, and ever afterward he was known by the oil drillers by that name.

According to the figures of the ministry of fuel, the Americans set up new records in well drilling, at least for this part of the world. In one field they completed wells and had them in production seven days from the day drilling began. Time for moving heavy drilling machinery from one location to another was reduced to as little as 12 hours for production wells. In one instance an outfit was moved and had drilled 960 feet in 24 hours from the time it left its previous location.

In order to push work at night, arrangements were made with local air raid precaution authorities which permitted the use of lights. Each well site was connected by telephone to air raid warning posts. When enemy planes were detected approaching the lights were switched off. But work was resumed as soon as the all clear signal was given. A number of bombs were dropped upon the oil properties, but there were no casualties. On one occasion a crater made by an exploding bomb was used as a mud pit, saving the Americans considerable time and effort.

England's oil production was increased from approximately 300 tons a month at the outbreak of the war to 9,000 tons a month at the end of 1943. It has remained at about the latter figure. The oil fields are expected to continue to produce at a diminishing rate for 10 to 15 years at least. The English crude oil is said to be of excellent quality, suitable for the manufacture of high grade petroleum products, including aviation gasoline, lubricants, and paraffin. The area of the main English oil field is about two miles by one-half mile, with the oil-bearing strata at 2,000 to 2,500 feet. Test drilling, however, is being conducted at deeper levels, one test hole having been drilled to a depth of 7,000 feet, but without definite results.

MOSTLY ABOUT DOGS BY BOB BECKER

THOUSANDS of families each year discuss and ask for advice on the question of which breed of dog is the best for children. Many hundreds of them toss that problem in our lap. As a rule, fathers and mothers point out that they want a dog that makes the very best kind of guard and also one that likes children.

Which breed makes the best guard or watch dog we don't know. In fact, we doubt if there is any one breed that can be nominated as the 100 per cent, way-out-in-front, number one watchdog, because nearly all dogs (regardless of size or breed) have a genuine instinct for guarding the property of their owners. There are exceptions, of course, but taking dogs as they come, from crossbreds to toys, working breeds, and others, you'll rarely find one that doesn't take on the job of general manager and guard of the home and everything in it, including the children.

If it's a question of a guard dog to be given months of special training for an industrial plant, estate, or other place, the choice is usually one of the working breeds like the Doberman, boxer, great Dane, or German shepherd. But the average family usually wants a "natural" watch dog and most pet dogs develop that way.

The thing to keep in mind about dogs and their attitude toward children is this: with rare exceptions all dogs like children, so if a family is trying to decide which breed is best for children there isn't much chance to make a mistake in the choice of a pet. The surprising thing about the deep bond between dogs and children is that regardless of how much children tease them or frighten them, the pets almost invariably take it with infinite patience.

There must be some understanding between dogs and kids which we grownups do not know about. It's only reasonable to expect that any animal (large or small) would bite or otherwise defend itself when mauled or mistreated. Yet day after day dogs accept this treatment from youngsters and make no attempt at retaliation.

However, just because dogs are so patient is no reason why children should be allowed to tease their pets. Every child should be taught that it's only fair to respect a dog's rights and feelings. There may come a time when even the gentlest pet reaches its limit of patience and then will turn if aggravated too much.

Sometimes a family pet which has been the center of attention becomes very jealous of the first baby in the house. This is one of the few exceptions to the general rule that nearly all dogs like children of all ages.

There is no denying the fact that this situation is not only difficult but also can be dangerous. If the pet will not accept the challenge to its position in the home it may be necessary to get rid of that dog and buy a puppy later.

The English type of cocker spaniel, which has attracted a number of dog fanciers in recent years, weighs more than the American. This specimen is Ch. Giralda's Indigo, owned by Mrs. Marguerite McClements, Lake Orion, Mich.

Doctors Prove 2 out of 3 Women can have More Beautiful Skin in 14 Days!

14-Day Palmolive Plan tested on 1285 women with all types of skin!

"My complexion had lost its soft, smooth look," says Mrs. Louis S. Johnson of Philadelphia, Pa. "So I said 'yes' when I was invited to try the new 14-Day Palmolive Plan—along with 1284 other women of all ages—from fifteen to fifty! My group reported to a Philadelphia skin doctor. Some of us had dry skins; some oily; some average. After a careful examination, we were given the Palmolive Plan to use at home for 14 days.

"Here's the proved Palmolive Plan: I washed my face 3 times a day with Palmolive Soap. Then—each time—for a full 60 seconds—massaged onto my skin Palmolive's lovely soft lather, as you would a cream. Then rinsed. This cleansing massage brought my skin the full, beautifying effect of Palmolive's lather. After 14 days, my doctor confirmed what my mirror told me—my skin was smoother, brighter, finer-textured! You must try this wonderful plan."

YOU, TOO, may look for these skin improvements in only 14 days!

- ★ Brighter, clearer skin
- ★ Finer texture
- ★ Fewer blemishes
- ★ Less dryness
- ★ Less oiliness
- ★ Smoother skin
- ★ Better tone
- ★ Fresher, clearer color

All 36 doctors proved that 2 out of 3 of all the 1285 women who tested the Palmolive Plan for you got many of these improvements in 14 days. Now it's your turn! If you want a complexion the envy of every woman you know—the admiration of every man you meet—don't delay. Start this new proved way of using Palmolive Soap tonight. In 14 days, you, too, may look for fresher, brighter, lovelier skin.

NEWS! To Get More Good from Vitamins try this DELICIOUS WAY!

Take them in combination with other food elements which authorities agree are necessary for best results!

All the world knows today that many people need extra vitamins for better health and keen vitality. It is also known today that vitamins do not work alone. They work as a team with certain other food elements. Hence, more and more, authorities are insisting "Take your vitamins in food!"

One of the reasons vitamins are so effective in Ovaltine is that Ovaltine is a concentrated all-round building food. It contains other food elements that enable vitamins and minerals to work together effectively as a team.

For example, Vitamin D can't do its complete job unless you have plenty of calcium and phosphorus, as found in a glass of Ovaltine made with milk. Vitamin A can't function fully unless you also have plenty of high-quality protein, such as Ovaltine supplies. Vitamin $B_1$ can't spark food into energy unless it has fuel-food to work on. To get this important "teamwork", doctors urge "Take your vitamins in food!"

Ovaltine also is the most delicious way to take your vitamins! And it costs very little for all it gives you! So why not turn to Ovaltine, as thousands are doing, for an easy, more delicious way to get the extra vitamins and minerals you need, for better health and all-round vitality!

3 OUT OF EVERY 4 PEOPLE need extra vitamins or minerals—according to Government reports. Reasons for this include vitamin deficiencies of many modern foods—also loss of vitamin-mineral values due to shipping, storing and cooking.

HOW TO TAKE CARE OF A COLD

IT'S A PERFECTLY natural thing for most of us to underestimate common colds. But actually they often lead to serious consequences.

So, in the interest of your own good health, and for the protection of your family, your neighbors and your fellow workers, you'll find it well worth your while to follow these recommendations compiled from best medical opinion:

1. Don't overeat or follow a poorly balanced diet. Include plenty of fresh fruit with your meals.
2. Drink lots of water each day and get as much extra rest as you can.
3. Dress warmly, keep your feet dry and stay out of drafts.
4. Don't overwork or overplay. When you perspire, avoid getting chilled.
5. At the first sign of an oncoming cold, take 2 Bayer Aspirin with water to relieve accompanying discomforts. Then gargle with 3 Bayer Aspirin dissolved in 1/3 glass of water.

By all means, see your doctor if you do catch cold!

Guard against winter now—get the big, money-saving bottle of 100 Bayer Aspirin—for fast and dependable relief from the pain of sore throats due to colds and the painful discomfort of the cold itself.

Bayer Aspirin eases your discomfort quickly because it's ready to go to work the instant it dissolves in your stomach. And for proof that it begins to disintegrate in as little as 2 seconds, drop a Bayer Aspirin in a glass of water. Before it reaches the bottom of the glass, you'll see it begin its dissolving action. This amazing speed is a big reason why millions use Bayer Aspirin—one of the world's fastest relievers of pain!

What's more, Bayer Aspirin is dependable, too. Since 1898, it has given swift, sure relief in literally millions of normal cases, without the slightest trace of unpleasant reaction.

So always remember when you buy, to buy by name. Don't ask for "aspirin" alone. Ask for genuine Bayer Aspirin.

Brach's 40th Anniversary

A word of appreciation to you who like fine candy!

When my sons and I opened our first candy store 40 years ago, we didn't dream that our "Palace of Sweets" would grow into one of the largest candy-kitchens in the world.

We've grown because you liked our candies and wanted more and more each year. In return, E. J. Brach & Sons has remained a family business and through the years each Brach candy has been the personal creation of the Brach family of candy-makers.

Today, I would like to express our appreciation to you whose preference for Brach candies has made possible 40 years of continued growth.

MY ONE CREAM INSTANTLY BEAUTIFIES YOUR SKIN—AND THE "Patch Test" PROVES IT!

See and feel your skin become fresher, clearer, younger-textured!

I DON'T just SAY that Lady Esther 4-Purpose Face Cream does wonderful things for your skin. I PROVE it—prove it by means of the "Patch Test"!

Just choose a part of your face that is too oily, or too dry—or where you have a few blackheads or big pores. Rub Lady Esther Face Cream on that one part of your face, and wipe it off. Wipe it off completely.

Then see how that patch of skin gleams with new brightness and clarity! Touch it—feel how the dry little flakes are gone!

What happens to that small patch of skin will happen to your entire face when you use Lady Esther Face Cream. For it does the 4 things your skin needs most for beauty! (1) It thoroughly cleans your skin. (2) It softens your skin. (3) It helps nature refine the pores. (4) It leaves a smooth, perfect base for powder.

Make the "Patch Test" Tonight!

You'll never believe the difference a single application of Lady Esther Face Cream can make in the appearance of your skin—until you see it for yourself. So get a jar and make the "Patch Test" tonight. See living proof that this one cream is all you need for a softer, smoother skin—a dazzling-fresh skin!

TEENIE WEENIE LUCK

A CERTAIN woman dropped a salt shaker one morning while she was cooking in her kitchen. She picked up the cracked shaker and tossed it into a trash basket. She thought no more of the broken shaker but she would be a very much surprised woman if she knew just what happened to it afterward. The garbage man picked up the basket of trash, threw it into his truck and finally dumped it onto the town trash heap.

The Teenie Weenies were out of salt. There wasn't a single grain of salt in the little village and the Indian had just caught a huge fish nearly five inches long. The little folks could eat only a small piece of the fish before it would spoil unless they had plenty of salt to preserve it for future use.

Salt is not easy to find. Once they found a fine supply where an ice cream freezer had been dumped. They picked up several thimblefuls of the hard grains of rock salt. Another time they hacked off a piece as big as a walnut from a huge block of salt at a cattle lick and that lasted them a long time.

"We must get some salt and get it quick if we expect to keep that fish," the Cook said.

"I'll run over to the town dump and see if I can find some," announced the Dunce who was very fond of salted fish.

"Shucks!" laughed the Sailor, "You'll never find salt on the dump."

"Well, maybe I can find some. We often find lots of useful things there," said the Dunce and he hurried off.

The Teenie Weenies do find many useful things on the trash heap. Small pieces of glass no larger than a postage stamp will make a Teenie Weenie window. On the trash heap the Cook finds the metal tops from catsup and vinegar bottles which he uses for his cooking pans and kettles.

The Dunce soon came running to the village with the news that he had found salt. Several of the little men armed with a few tools and a number of acorn shell baskets followed the Dunce back to the dump where they found the salt shaker which the woman had thrown away. It took some hard work to chisel off the metal top from the glass shaker and then the Sailor filled the baskets full of salt with a Teenie Weenie shovel. The little men carried nineteen baskets full of salt to the Teenie Weenie village and there was a lot left over after the fish had been well salted. Now the Teenie Weenies will have salted fish for a long time and it all happened because that woman dropped her salt shaker and then threw it away.

"Next to more gas for the car I miss dreft most!"

...dreft works wonders no soap can do for silks, woolens, dishes!

"I miss dreft for dishes

IT MAKES EVEN GLASSES SHINE WITHOUT WIPING!"

IT'S TRUE! . . . No soap ever made can perform the dishwashing miracles that Dreft can! It makes dishes positively gleam without wiping. For Dreft leaves no streaks or cloudiness the way soaps do. Gets even glasses so clean they sparkle—without touching a towel to them!

"AND I miss dreft for lingerie

IT KEEPS COLORS SO MUCH FRESHER THAN SOAP!"

IT'S TRUE! . . . Dreft is as gentle to wash colors as pure drinking water. Keeps them fresh far longer than even the finest soap flakes. And Dreft leaves none of the deposits that all soaps leave. That's why stockings washed with Dreft look so much sheerer—and why precious new woolens wash softer and fluffier than with any soap you've ever used.

NO SOAP IN THE WORLD

gives you the qualities that make Dreft unique. These ingredients are now helping Uncle Sam and therefore there can be no Dreft for the time being. But soon we hope Dreft will be available. So watch for its return.

UNCLE SAM COMES FIRST

Special materials used in making Dreft are urgently needed right now by Uncle Sam. Of course we are glad to cooperate in this vital emergency—glad to lend every aid to today's big effort. That is why Dreft is not available—why it very likely is not on your grocer's shelves at present.

For Dreft is different from soap—made from different materials. It is these materials that are vitally needed today. We do not know how long these emergency needs will last, so please understand. Soon, we hope, Dreft will again be back. So keep looking for it—watch for Dreft.

TITTLE CHURCH TO MARK 90TH YEAR SUNDAY

Methodists Will Celebrate.

The First Methodist church—the first religious group to build an edifice in Evanston — will mark its 90th year with an anniversary sermon at 11 a. m. next Sunday, an evensong service at 4:30 p. m. the same day, and a dinner at 6:30 p. m. Nov. 21, which more than 650 persons are expected to attend.

Dr. Ernest F. Tittle.

Dr. Ernest Fremont Tittle, pastor for 25 years, will deliver the sermon, "Not Apart From Us." Special music will be sung by the combined choirs. Dr. James A. James, historian and dean emeritus of the Northwestern university graduate school, will speak at the banquet, discussing the history of the church. His subject will be "From Log Schoolhouse to Church Spire."

Bishop Magee to Speak.

Other speakers at the dinner will be Bishop Magee of the Chicago area of the Methodist church, and the Rev. Hugh Elmer Brown, pastor of the First Congregational church of Evanston.

At the evensong service Dr. Emory L. Gallup, minister of music, and Miss Elizabeth Hull, assistant organist, will present compositions by Dietrich Buxtehude, 17th century Scandanavian organist and composer, whose twilight programs in St. Mary's church, Lubeck, Germany, were famous thruout Europe.

Schedule Special Music.

The Scandanavian's cantata, "Rejoice Beloved Christians," will be sung by Catherine McCutcheon Baker, soprano; Margery Lagerquist Moulton, contralto, and David Glissman, baritone. Miss Hull will play selections by Buxtehude, and his choral prelude, "From God I Ne'er Will Turn Me." Porter Heaps and Le Roy Wetzel, former organists and music directors of the church, also will play selections.

James F. Oates is head of the anniversary committee. Other chairmen are Mrs. Arthur E. Swanson, dinner arrangements; Mrs. Harris Franklin Rall, decorations; Mrs. William H. McCoy, reservations; Edwin Lucado and H. E. Butcher, ushering, and H. L. Davis, corridor monitor.

Founded July 31, 1854, the church first met in a log schoolhouse near Ridge av. and Lee st. Later the group moved to a second floor storeroom at Orrington av. and Davis st. which seated about 40 persons. In 1856 a white frame building was erected at a cost of $2,800 on the present site of the Evanston library, and in 1870 the group moved to its present location at Church st. and Hinman av.

Augustana Hospital Cadet Nurses Start Careers While Aiding War

A tawny Persian cat and a red brown cocker Spaniel are important residents of the Augustana Nurses' home, 427 Dickens av. Here Cadet Nurse Helen Croffoot, 649 Oakdale av., pets Jerry until he purrs for joy. Miss Croffoot, who has a brother in the seabees and a sister in the WAC, is wearing the work uniform of cadet nurses—blue and white dress with a white cap, apron, and collar.

Twilbe, the cocker spaniel, is taken for a stroll by Cadets Wilma Dubs, 4945 Ainslie st., left, and Ruth Warmbier, 2427 Eastwood av., who are wearing washable summer uniforms of gray and white striped material. Twilbe is registered under the name of Twill Be Care, because some one remarked when the dog was bought five years ago that "'Twill be care to have a dog around." Margaret Saenger, director of the home, said Twilbe and Jerry are firm friends.

In addition to learning to care for patients, cadets receive careful instruction in preserving and cleaning equipment. Marilyn Smith, 4219 N. Francisco av., left, and Marian Swan, Highland Park, learn to mend rubber gloves by patching them in the same way that an automobile inner tube is mended. (Story on page 5.)

In addition to summer uniforms, cadets are provided with gray wool reefers and suits, berets, shoulder bags, and raincoats. The uniforms have touches of red on the shoulders and the corps insignia on the left sleeve. Carol Holm, 4211 N. Francisco av., left, models the reefer, while Mary Ellen Brecken, Spokane, Wash., wears the suit, and Arlene Carlson, 5908 N. Campbell av., right, is dressed for a rainy day.

SEEK 10 MILLION WAR BOND GOAL ON NORTH SIDE

Workers Open Sixth Drive Nov. 20.

More than 7,000 men and women are expected to serve as north side bond wardens in the house to house canvass to be conducted in 19 communities when the 6th war bond drive opens Nov. 20. This corps of workers is expected to call upon each of 200,000 families residing in the division before the drive ends Dec. 16.

The quota is $10,000,000 which represents $16 per capita, Lee Ross, division director, said. A special appeal has been made to all civic and service organizations for volunteer salesmen of E, F, and G bonds, so that complete coverage may be made.

Davis to Head Drive.

W. R. Davis, executive vice president of the North Shore National bank, who served as division chairman for the 5th war loan drive, will head the new drive.

Community bond chairmen include Clarence McCarthy, near north side; George Jengel, Lincoln-Fullerton; Mrs. Ruth Saterlee, Clark-Devon; Robert Himmel, east Lakeview; Francis McArthur, west Lakeview; Herman Nailburger, Sheridan-Center; Mordecai Rosenberg, north Center; Walt R. Randall, uptown, and Walter A. Grau, uptown-Clark.

Dominic Cronin has been appointed to Lincoln square; Clyde H. Bailey, Edgewater; Lawrence Jacobson, north town; A. L. Johnson, Devon-Sheridan; Appellate Judge Burke, Clark-Devon; Roy R. Fierst, Rogers Park-Clark; Harold Volkert, Indian Boundary, and George B. Deacon, Howard.

Thermometers Show Totals.

Block thermometers again will be used to record both the amount of the subscriptions obtained within the block as well as the number of families contacted. The red, white, and blue credit forms used in the 5th war loan drive have been discontinued. A new form, indicating where calls have been made but from which no subscriptions were obtained, has been substituted.

Identification for the block bond wardens will be an OCD red, white, and blue lapel button. A sales kit will bear the insigne of the organization. All purchasers of bonds will be given window stickers to prevent a second solicitation.

STUDENT GROUP SHOWS WORK AT ART INSTITUTE

An exhibit of oil paintings, drawings, water colors, and designs collected by members of the Art Students' league and approved by the student appointed jury of faculty members, is on display in the school gallery of the upper school of the Art institute.

Fourteen new members have been added to the league at the exhibit, 10 of whom reside on the north side. They are Gloria Hirsch, 3100 Sheridan rd.; Iola Rigacci, 1331 N. Dearborn pkwy.; Dote Schulz, 6253 Sheridan rd.; Joan Mitchell, 1530 N. State pkwy.; Natalie Berg, 1637 Touhy av.; Maxine Reum, 1001 N. Dearborn st.; Elizabeth Walker, 1444 Chase av.; Fay Coursey, 735 N. Wabash av.; Herbert Karzman, 5538 N. Kenmore av.; and Helen Pillin, 2027 Pierce st.

Also represented in the show are three self-portraits by members of the league: Ruth Goldenberg, 739 Irving Park rd.; Bernice Wilderson, 1711 Irving Park rd., and Hildemari Sato, 4449 N. Clinton av.

Offer Children Special Week at City's Libraries

The Chicago Public library and its branches will observe the 26th annual children's book week today thru Friday. Programs and exhibits of general interest have been arranged at the main library and in participating branches.

Activities at the downtown library, which include an exhibit of war time books for English children, loaned by the Books Across the Seas association, and American publications of the last year, will be climaxed with a program from 3 to 5 p. m. Thursday in G. A. R. hall on the second floor.

List Author Speakers.

Speakers will include Mrs. Beatrice Rossell, who will take her audience "Millions of Miles in an Easy Chair"; Walter Blair, author of "Native American Humor" and "Horse Sense in American Humor," and Maureen Daly, author of "Seventeenth Summer" and "Smarter and Smoother" and columnist of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

The program will honor authors and illustrators of children's books which have been published in 1944. Among those invited are Rowena Bennett, Marjorie Barrows, Flore Mastri, Frederick Nelson Litten, William Donahey, and Elizabeth Orton Jones.

Three programs have been planned by the children's department of the Northtown branch, 2502 Devon av. Evelyn Grumbine, author for children, will speak on careers at 3:45 p. m. Wednesday at Cine hall, 6403 Maplewood av.

Boys and girls from the 5th thru 8th grades are invited to hear a talk by Lt. Bruno Godlewski, 1138 N. Richmond av., a veteran of 96 combat missions over Europe, at 3:45 p. m. Friday at Cine hall. At 10:30 a. m. Saturday, a musical narration by Mrs. Bernice Kaplan will be given at Cine hall.

High school PTAs are giving a book review tea from 3 to 5 p. m. Friday at the Lakeview branch library, 644 Belmont av. Speakers will be Josephine van Dolzen Pease and Esther Friend. Book talks also have been arranged for 2 p. m. on Tuesday and Thursday.

The Lincoln Park branch has scheduled a "Battle of Books" in which school children of all ages will participate using book knowledge as weapons at 4 p. m. Friday in the main room of the library, 744 Fullerton st. A play, "Bookworms Don't Bite," will be presented in the Lincoln school auditorium at 10:30 a. m. Saturday.

With the 10th air force in India, he has been in the army 23 months, overseas five months, and has 53 combat hours to his credit. He attended the University of Wisconsin and De Paul university.

Stationed in the former China-Burma-India theater, Joseph A. Balak, 1816 Hood av., has been promoted to technical sergeant and is acting first sergeant for the K-9 corps of war dogs in that theater. Sgt. Balak participated in the Myitkyina campaign. He has been overseas since last April.

Many Thanks for the Alibi, Mr. Billyeald

BY RUTH LOGAN.

"It's just a name like Smith or Jones, only nobody seems to know how to spell it," said David C. Billyeald, whose mail usually is addressed to some one named "Billyfield," "Billycold," "Bellycald," or anything remotely similar.

Billyeald is in the stationery business at 223 W. Jackson blvd. "One good thing about this sort of work is that you can have plenty of writing paper with your name on it, spelled correctly," he reflected.

"I've been in Chicago 37 years and during that time I've collected 37 different ways of spelling my name," he declared. "The most common is Billyfield."

Buys Rubber Stamp.

"My wife wants to change the name because she has difficulty with it in telephone conversations," Billyeald chuckled, "but it's worse at a hotel desk. I finally bought a rubber stamp, which bears my name and business address, to use on hotel registers. But I still look for letters at hotels in the Y pigeonhole. Too many persons are under the impression that Bill is my first name and Yeald my last."

The stationer grew up near Nottingham, England, and came to this country 42 years ago as representative for his father, a lace curtain manufacturer. "I lived in New York then," Billyeald recalled, "with a chap named Billya. It was terrible: he got my letters and I got his bills." Billyeald changed to his present work about 1939 when war changed lace curtain manufacture into the production of mosquito bars and camouflage nets.

No Trouble in England.

The stationer's son, David, is a first lieutenant with the medical corps in England. "But he doesn't have any trouble with the name," Billyeald sighed. "They understand it over there. David wrote me that he looked for the name in a Nottingham telephone directory and found five Billyealds listed."

And his daughter, Jane, a dietician, in the army nurse corps with rank of second lieutenant in the South Pacific, manages fairly well, he said. "She sent us her picture recently taken with some koala bears. She said those animals understood her name the first time they heard it."

Billyeald pronounces the name in two syllables, bill-yeald, and says it's unique in the United States so far as he knows. Until recently, when they moved to Lake Geneva, Wis., the family lived at 601 Deming pl. Billyeald has four brothers and a sister in England.

KEEHN LANDIS GETS NAZI PLANE DURING AIR BORNE INVASION

Musical selections scheduled are a fantasie, "The Clock and the Dresden Figures," with Jay Harnick as marimba soloist; "The Three Blind Mice" with dancers Pearl Anderson, Lorraine Johnson, and Kay Tolle, and a symphonic arrangement of Chopsticks.

Capt. Claybourne Harvey is director of the bands, and James Kabrin directs the orchestra. Proceeds from the affair will be used to purchase new music and to repair instruments.

LEGENDS WOVEN AROUND NURSE VET CALLED MA

She'll Speak Thursday to Legion Group.

Ma—that is Lt. Col. Martha Jane Clement—will be among her own when she appears at the War Veterans' memorial, home of the North Shore Legion post, 5657 Broadway, at 8:30 p. m. Thursday.

Lt. Col. Clement.

Appointed as chief of the army nurses' corps of the 6th service command in July, Col. Clement is herself a veteran. Never to be forgotten are memories of 27 months as director of nurses of the entire Southwest Pacific theater. It was there the boys and girls dubbed her Ma.

Story Becomes Legend.

Since her recall to the United States, these same boys and girls—those who worked for her, those who knew or just saw her, and the wounded to whom she administered—have banded into a sort of society. She has become a legend to be recounted to the outsiders who don't know Ma.

The her duties were to direct the activities in all hospital installations thruout Australia and New Guinea, the colonel actually participated in them. During the bad days of December, 1942, when the battle of Buna was raging, thousands of wounded American boys were crowded into the hospital at Moresby. Sitting behind a desk was too much for the colonel.

How Nurse Staff Grew.

When first assigned to the Southwest Pacific theater, she had 30 nurses under her direction. As the pressure of the war increased, the unit expanded into the hundreds. She checked her flock at regular intervals, traveling in army airplanes, often stored away with foodstuffs or empty gas tanks in the fuselage.

Recalling those jaunts, the colonel remarked, "Maybe it was my nurse's insignia or maybe it was my age, but those boys I met treated me as they would their mothers. Some would even lay a hand on my arm—as tho it were good to touch my uniform." And, according to a letter from one of the same boys, they thought of her as a "grand old gal."

It took a new code of army regulations to bring Col. Clement back to this country to her present assignment with the 6th service command. Under the new army laws, 45 years of age was placed as the maximum age limit for nurses assigned to foreign service. At the time of her recall Ma was 56.

Col. Clement entered the army nurses' corps in 1918, and her first assignment was as ward chief at Camp McArthur, Tex. Then she served at Walter Reed hospital, Washington, D. C., for 12 years. In 1930 she went to the Philippine Islands, where she served in Manilla and Corregidor. When the hospital at Langley field, Va., was opened she was named chief nurse, and remained from 1938 to 1942, at which time she was appointed to the Southwest Pacific theater.

Col. Clement was born in Elizabethtown, Ill., and received her nurse's training at Southern Illinois hospital, Anna. Her home address is now 2322 Commonwealth av., Chicago.

CADET NURSING HELPS WIN WAR; STARTS CAREERS

Augustana Students Vow Love for Corps.

"Of course we like the cadet nurse corps. It has lots of advantages and no disadvantages," said Cadet Nurse Arlene Carlson, 5908 N. Campbell av. Other cadets of the nursing school at Augustana hospital, 409 Dickens av., nodded approval of her words.

"We feel that we're doing something to help win the war," added Ruth Warmbier, 2427 Eastwood av., who worked in an office five years before entering the corps eight months ago.

Seeks Nursing Career.

"But I've always wanted to be a nurse," declared Ruth Olson, 1549 Olive av., who has a brother, Pvt. Raymond, with the army air forces in Bangor, Me. "I'm not studying nursing just because of the war, and that's true of most of the girls," she added.

However, many of the students are spurred to do their best by the thought of brothers or sisters in service. For example, Marian Swan of Highland Park, who has been in the corps almost nine months, has three brothers in the navy: Charles, fireman 1st class; Chief Pettey Officer David, and Evans, aviation machinist's mate 1st class. And Helen Croffoot, 649 Oakdale av., has a sister, Pvt. Dorothy Croffoot, with the WAC in San Bernardino, Cal., and a brother, Homer, with the Seabees in the Marshall Islands.

183 Cadets in Class.

With 183 cadets, Augustana has one of the largest nurse corps in the city. The nursing school has a total of 249 students. Mabel E. Haggman, director of nursing, emphasized that the school makes small distinction between cadets and regular students. The chief difference, she said, is that a cadet must complete her theory and practice in 30 months and be ready for call to military service or some form of essential nursing, while regular students are allowed 36 months.

"But a cadet learns everything and serves in the same capacities that a regular student does," Miss Haggman declared. "We make the distinction as slight as possible since we want girls to study nursing because they really want to and not just because there's a war."

Expenses Paid, Salary, Too!

Established under the Bolton act in June, 1943, the cadet nurse corps pays all expenses, providing uniforms, tuition, books, and laboratory fees for its students. A monthly allowance of $15 is paid cadets during the first nine months, $20 for the next 15 to 21 months, and $30 monthly for any remaining period. They live in the nurses' home, 427 Dickens av., and are on duty or in class six days a week.

Cadets must be 18 years old, American citizens, and high school graduates, preferably with a good background in science and mathematics. New students are accepted in September and in May.

The student first undergoes a preclinical period of six months intensive classwork with bedside nursing practice under careful supervision. After approximately 10 weeks, the student is on ward duty a short time daily. Later instruction includes, in addition to lectures and recitations, demonstrations and practice work covering surgical and medical divisions, the operating room, obstetric department, diet kitchen, and laboratory.

Brisbane Bride

The marriage in Brisbane, Australia, of the former Judith Haywood to Sgt. Evan Robert Hughes Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hughes, Evanston, is announced by her mother, Mrs. Ina G. Haywood of Brisbane. Sgt. Hughes is program director of the army radio station WVTA on New Guinea. The bride expects to come to America soon, and she and her husband will make their home with his parents.

WOMAN'S CLUB OF ROGERS PARK WILL SEE PLAY

A one act play, "The Center Pillar of Democracy," will be given before the Woman's Neighborhood club of Rogers Park at 11 a. m. Friday in the Indian Boundary fieldhouse, 2500 Lunt av. Mrs. Walter Pratt, civics chairman, will preside.

Wilmert H. Wolf, head of the political science department of North Central college, Naperville, will lecture on international relations in the afternoon. He will be introduced by Mrs. C. V. Bates, program chairman.

WAR FUND DRIVE NEARS QUOTA IN FINAL 3 WEEKS

Two-Thirds of Money Is Already Subscribed.

With the Community and War Fund drive heading toward the final three weeks the goal of $12,980,000 for metropolitan Chicago has been more than two-thirds subscribed. The last audit reported pledges of more than $10,000,000. Reports from the north side divisions show that the lower north side and near north side sections are leading with more than $17,500 already subscribed.

John W. Cameron, 1210 Astor st., section chairman, has announced that the East Lake View district, captained by Ralph E. Jansen, 510 Wellington av., has reported a total of $1,656, or 103 per cent of its quota.

Teams Work Area.

Working in teams to arouse the competitive spirit of solicitors, the Lincoln park-near north side reported a total of $3,732 already raised. Harry Behles is captain of the winning team.

In the Fund's woman's division Mrs. Snelling Robinson, 1242 N. State st., regional chairman, said that the section including west Lake View, east Lake View, Clark-Diversey, Lincoln-Fullerton, lower north side, Lincoln park, and near north side is leading among residences. Mrs. Howard G. Earle, 739 W. Belmont av., section chairman, has led her crews of door bell pushers to net a total of $13,300.

Clark-Devon Raises $6,000.

More than $6,000 has been raised thru residential subscriptions in the Clark-Devon area, according to Mrs. A. R. Adolph, 6621 N. Ashland av., chairman. Mrs. Edward Klowden, 7200 Sheridan rd., co-chairman, is heading a team of 35 women volunteers who have so far collected in excess of $3,000.

In the Sheridan center district Mrs. Samuel D. Cates, 3916 Pine Grove av., has reported subscriptions of $7,000. One of her captains, Mrs. Robert J. Zacharias, 4300 Marine dr., has brought in more than $1,600, and Mrs. J. R. Sterling, 3750 Lake Shore dr., is responsible for more than $950 in subscriptions.

James R. Sterling, north side community chairman in the Fund's city division, has announced that $38,323 has been raised thru north side business houses.

Suburbs Go Over Top.

Nine north side suburbs have gone over the top on assigned quotas. They are Evanston, which raised $252,250 for 100 per cent of its quota; Lake Villa, $1,100 for 110 per cent; Deerfield-Bannockburn, $3,825 for 109 per cent; Lake Forest, $45,736 for 131 per cent; Glencoe, $10,000 for 100 per cent; Glenview, $4,558 for 114 per cent; Kenilworth, $12,000 for 100 per cent; Northfield, $2,756 for 138 per cent, and Winnetka, $57,500 for 100 per cent. Edward B. Sherwin is regional chairman of the suburban division.

The Community and War Fund represents the National War Fund thruout Cook, Lake, and Du Page counties, raising money for the U. S. O., U. S. O. camp shows, United Seamen's service, American Field service, War Prisoners' aid, and 17 allied relief and refugee agencies.

In Concert Tuesday

Miss Elizabeth Jeffries, daughter of Dr. Daniel W. Jeffries, 5715 Sheridan rd., will appear in a concert at Kimball hall at 8:15 p. m. Tuesday. Among her selections will be "The Bell Song" from "Lakme." Miss Jeffries has appeared as soloist in Assumption church and with the Loyola University Glee club. She is a recent graduate of Sacred Heart convent.

BIBLE COURSE TO OPEN TODAY AT ANSHE EMET

The introductory lecture of the Bible course offered at Anshe Emet synagog, Pine Grove av. at Grace st., will be given at 11:30 a. m. this morning by Rabbi Solomon Goldman. His subject will be "What Is the Bible?"

Seymour Gorschoff, legislative analyst of the Anti-Defamation league, will speak at the open meeting of the Junior synagog at 2 p. m. today. He will discuss the influence of bigotry on world events. Sarah Ellenhorn, musical dramatist, will present her own creation called "Ballad of the American Jew." A social program will follow. Service men are invited.

Fireside Group to Meet.

The first session of the Alumni Fireside Discussion group will be held at 2:30 p. m. today at the synagog. The subject selected for this season is "Looking Toward World Security."

"Yankee from Olympus," by Catherine Drinker Bowen, will be reviewed at the fourth session of the Better Book club of Anshe Emet at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow.

Honor War I. Vets.

Veterans of World War I. and parents of service men and women of Anshe Emet will be honored at the open meeting of the Men's club at 8 p. m. Wednesday. Lt. Sidney F. Friedman, veteran of 50 combat flights over enemy territory, will speak on "Navigator Over Europe." A concert by the United States Coast Guard band will complete the program. Myer N. Rosengard is president.

Registration for the Institute of Jewish Studies, conducted at Anshe Emet in conjunction with the College of Jewish Studies, still is open. Courses in the Hebrew language and literature, Bible, the history and geography of Palestine, and the Jewish community in America are offered. Sessions are held from 8 to 10 p. m. Monday.

Sisterhood Plans Sale.

The annual home products day sale, sponsored by the Temple Emanuel sisterhood, will be held at 2 p. m. this afternoon and evening at the community clubrooms, 701 Buckingham pl. The sale will offer stationery supplies, kitchenware, linens, jewelry and ornaments, foodstuffs, and wardrobe equipment at 30 booths. Mrs. Fred Wodika is chairman, and Mrs. William Steinhardt, co-chairman. Mrs. Milford Schuhofis is fund raising chairman.

The Sisterhood of Agudas Achim North Shore congregation, 5029 Kenmore av., will give a luncheon and book review at 1 p. m. tomorrow in Seig Natenberg hall of the synagog.

Dramatist to Discuss "Past Performances"

The Evanston Drama club will hear Lee Simonson, dramatist and scenic designer, in a discussion of "Past Performances" at 2 p. m. Thursday in the Evanston Woman's club. Mrs. John E. Barlow, president, will preside and Mrs. T. S. Simpson and Mrs. S. E. Gillespie are social chairmen. Simonson formerly edited Creative Art magazine and was associated with the Washington Square players.

N. SIDE WOMEN AID PLANS FOR MOOSE SESSION

The Chicago chapter, Women of the Moose, will hold its college of regents program, and celebrate its 28th anniversary at 8 p. m. Friday in Moose hall, 1016 N. Dearborn st.

Regents from each chapter of the Women of the Moose in the Chicago area will be present, including representatives from the Albany Park and Greater Chicago divisions of the north side.

Mrs. Louise Camp, 2342 Gunnison st. is arrangements chairman, and committee members include Mrs. Nell Roth, 1137 N. Franklin st.; Mrs. Eva A. McLeish, 1458 Catalpa av., and Mrs. Laura Planck, 4833 N. Claremont av.

Peter Eagle, Harpist, Symphony Hall Soloist

McDonald's "From Childhood" suite for harp and orchestra, presenting Peter Eagle as soloist, will be featured on the Symphony Hall program over W-G-N, WGNB at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday. Henry Weber will direct the W-G-N Symphony orchestra in presentations of the overture to von Weber's "Oberon," Rachmaninoff's "Vocalise," and dances from Borodin's "Prince Igor."

W-G-N Bondwagon Goes Back on Air Tomorrow

After a recess of several months, the W-G-N Bondwagon show will return to the air at 12:30 p. m. tomorrow. The half hour broadcast will be heard every Monday and Wednesday. Tomorrow's program will feature members of the barn dance cast.

Ania Dorfmann on Air.

Ania Dorfmann, pianist, will join Arturo Toscanini and the NBC Symphony orchestra in a performance of Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 1 in C major on WMAQ-NBC at 4 p. m. today.

RADIO ARTISTS TO HOLD ANTICS NEXT SATURDAY

Queen to Be Crowned at Party.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The Chicago local of the American Federation of Radio Artists will hold its annual AFRA Antics next Saturday in the grand ballroom of the Drake hotel. The party is open to the public. There will be entertainment by the stars of radio, screen and stage, and an autograph bar with every notable present taking a turn as bartender. Proceeds will go to the union's sick and benefit fund.

Chicago's radio queen will be crowned at the party. Two television queens already have been chosen. They are the Dinning Twins, Jean and Ginger, heard on W-G-N's Swing's the Thing and the National Barn Dance. They were chosen recently when one of them appeared on the Balaban and Katz radio station and her sister viewed her at a demonstration of a post-war model television and radio receiver at the Blackstone hotel. The Chicago winners will be eligible to compete for the title of American Radio queen to be held at Hollywood on Jan. 1.

News and Notes: Roy Rogers, Republic Pictures' "King of the Cowboys," will start in a show over W-G-N-Mutual at 7:30 p. m. Tuesdays, starting Nov. 21. . . . Allan Young, Blue network comic, is offering $100 awards for comedy scripts written by high school students. This sum will be paid, says Young, for every ten minute script accepted. It should revolve about a comedy situation. Compilations of gags are out.

W-G-N is presenting a new show ribbing the classics at 12:30 p. m. Thursdays. The program featuring Frank De Vol's orchestra and the Les Paul instrumental trio is aptly called the Music Depreciation Hour.

Your America in its broadcast over W-G-N at 3 p. m. today will salute Royal Arch Gunnison, Mutual war reporter, who was interned by the Japanese after Pearl Harbor and is now back with Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the Leyte area. Elden Westley will give a condensed version of Gunnison's "I Saw Our Flag Come Down."

Last week Jack Benny introduced his new singer, Larry Stevens, a young ex-soldier. And now comes Ed Gardner with the announcement that he has signed up Bob Graham, a husky baritone, for Duffy's Tavern and pictures. Graham got his first break on the Rudy Vallee hour a few weeks ago.

CHARLES BOYER HALL OF FAME VISITOR TODAY

Charles Boyer, Carole Landis, Victor Borge and Diana Lynn will appear on the Radio Hall of Fame show at 5 p. m. today over WENR-Blue. Paul Whiteman's orchestra, Nan Wynn, songstress, and the Delta Rhythm Boys will be on hand to welcome the visitors.

Boyer will take the lead role in a sketch concerning the composition, "La Marsellaise." Carole Landis is billed as guest mistress of ceremonies. Accompanied by Paul Whiteman and the orchestra, Diana Lynn, piano playing co-star of the film, "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," will play.

Quiz Kids' Parents Are Guests Tonight

Parents of Quiz Kids Patrick Conlon, Maureen Buckley, Richard Williams, Harve Fischman, and Joel Kupperman will match I. Q.'s with their youngsters on WENR-Blue at 6:30 o'clock tonight. Joe Kelly is to quiz F. Parick Conlon, an attorney, J. S. Kupperman, an engineer, Patrick Buckley, a policeman, and Mrs. Kitty Fischman and Mrs. Clara Williams, housewives.

Mother's Club Party.

The Mothers' Drama club of the Navy Pier will sponsor a benefit luncheon and party at noon tomorrow in the Home Arts guild, 205 N. Michigan av.

Television Twins

Jean and Ginger Dinning (right), identical twins who sing on W-G-N, have been named television twins for the AFRA Antics to be held at the Drake hotel next Saturday.

SOLAR HEATING WILL HELP CUT BILLS ON FUEL

Call Radiant System Coming Thing.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Solar heating is something we will see in many of our post-war homes, and because this is a supplement to furnace or boiler heating and a help in keeping down fuel bills, it is something to include in those "note books" we are keeping.

One important requisite is a great deal of glass on the south side of the house. Wide eaves also are a part of this type construction. These are designed so that they will intercept the rays of the sun in hot weather when the sun is high but will admit these same rays in cold weather when the sun is low in the sky.

Solar Method Valuable.

Since insulated glass, or glass which consists of double panes with dead air space between the panes, is a development which is here to stay, the solar method of conserving heat becomes even more practical. Insulating glass prevents heat from escaping from the house interior, yet permits it to enter.

[If this seems an anomaly it is really quite simple: the sun's rays are radiant heat and they penetrate the insulating glass, but this same glass blocks heat convection from within the house to the out-of-doors.]

Radiant Method Outlined.

Another item of interest to be included in the note book on post-war homes is the so-called panel or radiant heating. This method was well started before the war. It eliminates registers or radiators and instead uses a network of pipes laid in the walls, ceiling, or under the floor.

It is claimed that radiant heating may be used with any type of furnace or fuel. One especial advantage of this method, put forth by its advocates, is the fact that hot and cold spots in a room are eliminated because the radiating surfaces of heat are so large.

Ohio State Has Plan.

You may want to check, too, on developments of engineers at Ohio State university who have built ceramic heaters made largely of hollow tile.

Coal is reduced to coke inside these heaters before it is ignited by means of convector passages. These convector passages impart heat to the charge in the magazine.

From the University of Illinois will come a development in the form of a down draft burner for the smokeless combustion of soft coal.

Research scientists at the university state that the burner fits into the combustion chamber where it can be fired thru the door. Air is admitted which helps in the burning of gases and smoke thru a baffle door which divides the burner into two chambers.

WALLER SCHOOL TO APPEAR ON CITIZENS SHOW

Waller High school, 2039 Orchard st., will be saluted on the Citizens of Tomorrow radio programs, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE as a tribute to students of Chicago schools. The program will be recorded at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday in the school auditorium and will be broadcast at 10 a. m. Saturday over W-G-N.

Maurice C. Lipman, principal, will welcome Philip Maxwell, member of the Tribune staff, as master of ceremonies. Maxwell will speak on "Your Report Card" and will conduct a news quiz.

Honor Roll Gains Two.

Two high school seniors, whose names will be added to the program's honor roll, are William Edward Branen, 17, 2453 N. Racine av., and Marjorie Stoltz, 17, Ottumwa, Ia.

Richard Wright, 16, 428 Belden av., will sing "Boots and Saddles" by Samuels-Whitcup-Powell. A bass baritone, the Waller student won high honors in the Chicago Music Festival last August. Richard Kutz, 2452 N. Racine av., listed on the school's honor roll and member of the R. O. T. C. rifle team, will report current school events.

Chorus Will Sing.

The Waller mixed chorus will sing two numbers, directed by Margaret M. Gallagher. Wayne Dickinson and Beryl Vaughan will appear as the Jimmy and Jerry of the programs. Harry Creighton will announce the show and John Wiederhirn will be the piano accompanist. Cheer leaders will be Jerry Kovitz, Joan Mistretta, Mildred Potter, and Diane Zacharias. Morrison Wood will be the producer.

Preceding the recording Wednesday, national and school colors will be presented by Waller R. O. T. C. Cadets John Tamraz, Henry Schulthesz, Anthony Stadeker, Jack Rivers, and Howard Luce. Guests at the recording will include Mrs. Charles Stevens, Waller PTA president; Percy Baines, director of the Larrabee and North Avenue Y. M. C. A.; Joseph Clemens, president of the Lincoln Park Kiwanis club, and Howard Marquis, business man.

THEATER OF AIR WILL PRESENT 'THE NEW MOON'

"The New Moon," popular Sigmund Romberg operetta with an early New Orleans setting, will be presented on the Chicago Theater of the Air next Saturday before an audience of more than 4,000 people at Medinah temple, Wabash av. and Ohio st. in Chicago. The broadcast will be presented over W-G-N, WGNB and the coast to coast Mutual network from 9 to 10 p. m., one hour later than in other years.

Marion Claire will be featured in the role of Marianne, and Bruce Foote, baritone, will be heard opposite her as Robert Misson. The role of Phillipe will be sung by Earle Wilkie, baritone.

Musical accompaniment for the soloists will be provided by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber.

Laurette Fillbrandt will take the leading dramatic role and will be supported by a cast of leading Chicago radio actors and actresses. Jack La Frandre, writer-director of the series, will produce the show.

Mum Show Is Background for W-G-N Broadcast

With the famed Garfield Park conservatory as a background, Park Playhouse will present a human interest story in the broadcast over W-G-N from 8:30 to 9 p. m. tomorrow. The dramatization will be built around the 32d annual chrysanthemum show at the conservatory, where 14,000 plants containing approximately 500,000 blossoms will be on display. The show opened on Friday and will run until Dec. 3.

Broadcast Hockey Match.

The final period of the Chicago Blackhawks-Montreal Canadiens hockey match will be aired over WIND at 10:05 o'clock tonight.

ARMY GUIDING SOLDIERS BACK TO HAPPY LIFE

Minds, Bodies Torn by War Restored.

In army hospital centers thruout the United States and overseas physical and mental health and efficiency are being restored to wounded soldiers thru the army's reconditioning program of physiotherapy.

The program at Gardiner General hospital, 1660 Hyde Park blvd., is typical. Sick and injured men from army camps in this area who need specialized care, and battle casualties whose homes are in this area are being restored to a condition in which they either may return to active duty or to an active, wage earning civilian status.

Program in Three Aspects.

From the moment a soldier reaches the convalescent stage he engages in progressive courses under medical supervision in three main categories—physical fitness, education, and recreation.

Primarily used in orthopedic cases, physiotherapy is applied to preserve injured nerves, tissues, and muscles. By its use the number of disability cases resulting from atrophied muscles—the result of long periods of immobility while peripheral nerves healed—has been greatly lessened. One of the new medical concepts which this war has done much to develop is that while healing, the injured part should be put to use as soon as possible.

Use Special Exercises.

Included in physiotherapy treatment are whirlpool baths of air, heat, and water, each used to stimulate circulation and hasten the movement of joints. Ultra-violet ray treatments sterilize and stimulate skin growth. Massage is used after healing for stimulation of circulation.

Special exercise equipment to develop and restore particular muscles includes pullies for the development of knee and arm joints and finger ladders to limber hands. Electrotherapy provides stimulation for weak muscles and restores their use.

Apply Occupational Therapy.

Occupational therapy, which involves use of injured parts, is used widely to stimulate the development of new skills. Having the same restorative effect of physiotherapy, it is considered more beneficial because it involves more normal activity.

It has the effect of releasing tensions and stimulating interests. Those who are blind and deaf develop new skills and confidence in other senses. The bedridden are given new hope as a result of being able to do or make something useful.

Stress Normal Activities.

Altho minor crafts still are used widely in occupational therapy such normal activities as working in administrative offices, dusting, assembling small parts from war plants, and handling meat in storage rooms have become important. Other activities include carpentry, leather work, cord knotting, pottery making, wood carving, typing, use of a printing press, playing games, and using hand tools.

The physical fitness part of the program is begun while the patient is still bedfast. Inasmuch as quicker healing results when an individual's entire body is in peak condition bed patients are given limited exercises. Graded exercises are continued when the patient is permitted to leave his bed and he participates in games and sports insofar as he is able. In the final stages of convalescence patients participate in a modified army program.

Urge Self-improvement.

Patients are urged to spend at least three hours a day in self-improvement or in stimulating studies. Correspondence courses are available covering hundreds of subjects for which service men can get high school or college credit in the majority of schools in the country.

Aviation and automotive, building construction, business administration, drafting and art, education and psychology, electricity, electronics and radio, English and journalism, foreign languages, history, government and sociology, marine engineering, mathematics, mechanics and engineering, metal working, photography, plastics, railways, and transportation, and science are the general headings of the courses offered.

Offer Many Courses.

Other phases of the educational program include army orientation courses on military subjects taught by information films, news maps, lectures, and discussions to keep the soldiers in touch with the purposes and progress of the war.

Other educational offerings include 26 foreign language "quickie" courses, classes for illiterates, libraries, educational films dealing with current events, history, geography, vocational training, morals, and other specialized films, basic radio code teaching kits and phonographs for use with foreign language and radio code teaching.

Take Many Field Trips.

Recreation and entertainment is an important part of the reconditioning program. In the wards it consists of games, group singing, movies, music, hobby crafts, sound track movies, and planned radio programs. For ambulatory patients movies, game rooms, libraries, music rooms, hobby rooms, and post exchanges are available.

At Gardiner field trips are taken once a week. Recent trips have included visits to the Museum of Natural History, Shedd aquarium, Adler planetarium, Museum of Science and Industry, stock yards, police show ups, the Chrysler and Douglas plants, football games, and radio broadcasts.

Gardiner Hospital Paves Battle Scarred Vets' Road to Peace Time Health

Reconditioning and physiotherapy to help an injured or wounded soldier make as complete a recovery as possible is one phase of the program at Gardiner General hospital, 1660 Hyde Park blvd. Pvt. Henry Kwiatkowski, son of Mrs. Mary Kwiatkowski, 8340 Buffalo av., suffered a compound fracture of his right arm when he was struck by a shell fragment in Italy. Because of infection and the type of fracture the bone and nerves failed to reunite. Second Lt. Marie Hill, physiotherapist, adjusts an apparatus designed to prevent muscles from shrinking. An operation will repair the damage.

Injured parts heal more quickly if the rest of the body is in peak physical condition. Patients start limited exercising in army hospitals as soon as they start convalescing—48 to 72 hours after they have been operated on. Pvt. Joseph Jolivette Jr., whose parents live at 1314 W. 72d st., received a fractured left leg when he was struck by machine gun fire July 15 at Saint Lo, France. Watching him perform his exercises is Pvt. Robert Zimny, 3019 Cermak rd., physical education instructor in the reconditioning department.

Sgt. Walter Pelz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Pelz, 1472 N. Paulina st., suffered a fracture of both legs and his pelvic bone and internal injuries when his tank turned over during maneuvers in Louisiana and he was pinned beneath it. Miss Elizabeth W. Clark, senior occupational therapist, assists him in cutting a design in a piece of plywood on a bicycle jig saw. By operating the jig saw, Pelz exercises hip and knee muscles. The satisfaction of creating something of his own removes the tediousness of performing the exercises.

A whirlpool bath is the first step in restoring motion to ankle joints. Pvt. Thomas Byrnes, whose wife, Mary, and 2 year old daughter, Anna Marie, live at 539 W. 31st st., suffered a compound fracture of his left ankle when he was struck by a bullet July 26 at Saint Lo, France. His mother, Mrs. Mary Byrnes, lives at 535 W. 26th st. Pvt. Edward Kappa, 3002 S. Christiana av., a litter bearer in the medical corps, received a fractured right arm when he stepped on a land mine near Cassino, Italy. The movements required to operate a printing press will restore motion to his elbow. Miss Susan Weil, assistant occupational therapist, stands by in case he needs any assistance. Kappa's partner was uninjured, but the wounded man they were carrying was killed.

Three men exercise with weights which restore strength to thigh muscles and increase the range of motion in knee joints. They are, left to right, Pvt. Willard Stevenson, Rantoul, Ill., who had a dislocated knee; Sgt. Walter L. Bailey, 568 E. 51st st., who received a compound fracture of his right leg when a gun blew up at Bougainville, and Corp. Wade Shulse, whose wife, Estella, lives at 616 Barry av., who strained ligaments in his knee playing soccer. Corp. Walter W. Easley, Grensburg, La., putting additional weights on Bailey's foot, is an advanced convalescent patient. Col. John R. Hall is the commanding officer at Gardiner and Capt. Millard Marshall is in command of the physiotherapy and reconditioning program.

Tech. Sgt. Arthur Hagen, Rosholt, Wis., suffered a shattered left arm when he was struck by shrapnel last Dec. 3 on Goodenough Island in the Southwest Pacific. The bone failed to reunite and he will have to undergo an operation. Meanwhile, with his broken arm supported by a sling, he works braiding a belt which keeps his elbow motion free and the muscles in his forearm and fingers working so they won't get stiff. Staff Sgt. Morton Holleb, 5850 Kenmore av., received a fractured left leg when the truck he was on turned over during maneuvers in Massachusetts and he was pinned between it and a tree. He was in bed a year, had forgotten how to walk, and was too weak to use crutches. He is shown using a walker which orients him to the movements required in walking.

Mothers of Mount Carmel to Meet Thursday Night

The Mount Carmel Mothers' club will hold its monthly meeting at 8 p. m. Thursday in the school gymnasium, 6410 Dante av. A social hour and pantry shower for the priests will follow the business meeting. Mrs. Roy J. Kuenster, 8212 Aberdeen st., is chairman and Mrs. John J. Byrne, 1054 W. 79th st., is co-chairman.

Ray PTA Fathers' Night to Be Held Wednesday

The annual Father's night meeting of the Ray PTA will be held at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday in the school auditorium, 5631 Kimbark av. A dessert and social hour and community singing, directed by Miss Marion McCabe, will be included on the program. The school's new sound projector and films used in classroom study will be exhibited.

Academy of Our Lady Club Will Hold Dance

Academy of Our Lady Fathers' club will hold its second fathers and daughters dinner-dance Wednesday night at the Shoreland hotel. Willard M. Woll, 9320 Throop st., president, will be toastmaster and Judge Cornelius J. Harrington of the Criminal court is program chairman.

27 CADETS WIN PROMOTIONS AT DU SABLE HIGH

New ranks are held by 27 R.O.T.C. cadets at Du Sable High school. Lt. Col. Ralph H. Hines is regimental commander, Maj. Bradley Keith and Maj. Jesse L. Stampley are battalion commanders.

Company commanders are Capt. Soper A. Caldwell, Capt. George E. McBride, Capt. Earl E. Thomas, Capt. Clifton A. Waddell, and 1st Lt. Adolph D. Hicks. Staff officers are Capt. Lucien Cruce Jr. and 1st Lt. Ernest Avant. Band officers are Capt. William M. Adkins, 1st Lt. Merriel Shadlow, and 2d Lt. Leon D. Butts.

First lieutenants are Frank L. Brown, William Cousins Jr., Henry Sims, and John Washington Jr. Second lieutenants are Carl E. Hightower Jr., Cleveland D. Bedell Jr., Raymond E. Harth, William Jointer, James F. Jones, Warren B. Lowe, Leon Moore, Milton Smith, Melvin A. Thurman, and Ernest P. Wheeler.

Junior Park Manor Club to Hear City Field Nurse

Mrs. Katherine Rickan, supervising field nurse of the board of health, will speak before the Park Manor Junior Woman's club at 8 p. m. Tuesday in the club room of the Park Manor Congregational church, 7000 South Park av. She will be introduced by Mrs. R. H. Hall, chairman. Refreshments will be served by Mrs. C. A. Cheevers, Mrs. L. T. Dowd, and Mrs. L. M. Erickson.

Woodlawn Hospital Club to Hear Doll Discussion

"What People Do with Dolls" will be discussed by L. D. Crabtree before members of the Woman's Auxiliary to Woodlawn hospital at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the Plaisance hotel. He will display a collection of dolls that belonged to men. Hobbies of members will be exhibited at 11 o'clock. Mrs. Leroy B. Herbst will have charge of the exhibition while Mrs. F. A. Rancine will introduce the speaker.

With AMERICA'S FIGHTERS

Master Tech. Sgt. Justin A. Spencer, husband of Mrs. Margaret Spencer, Hammond, Ind., and ordnance chief of a marine fighter squadron, landed with his squadron on Peleliu Island 24 hours after the invasion started. A veteran of Guadalcanal, he said that the work on Peleliu was more difficult because of constant rain storms. Altho his primary duties consisted of supplying Corsair fighter planes with bombs and ammunition, he carried ammunition to the front lines for two days and assisted materially in the artillery company's rout of Jap counter-attacks.

Justin Spencer.

Pvt. George C. Gudgeon, son of Mrs. Mae Gudgeon, 8340 Indiana av., has been graduated from the air force gunnery school at Tyndall field, Panama City, Fla. He will be assigned to the combat crew of an army bomber.

James K. Lewy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard B. Lewy, 951 Hyde Park blvd., was graduated recently as honor man of his company at the Great Lakes Naval Training center. He has been recommended to attend aerographers school for further training. Prior to joining the navy he was a student at Illinois Institute of Technology.

James K. Lewy.

Pvt. Marshall Nanninga, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Nanninga, 6946 Paxton av., is a weight and balance specialist on New Caledonia in the South Pacific. A graduate of Hyde Park High school, he was attending the University of Chicago school of business administration when he entered the service in March, 1943. He has been overseas since January.

George W. Hayes, son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Hayes, 7915 Euclid av., has been graduated as a navigator and commissioned a 2d lieutenant at Ellington field, Tex. He attended Michigan State university, East Lansing, Mich., and was employed by a steel company before entering the army. His wife, Emilly, and daughter, Patricia Ann, live at 7947 Kingston av.

Lt. George Hayes.

Joseph H. Nieberding, husband of Mrs. Mildred Nieberding, 8124 Essex av., has been promoted to sergeant at Camp Reynolds, Pa. Prior to entering the service in November, 1943, he was employed by a rubber company.

Tech. Sgt. Richard J. Rappaport, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Rappaport, 6827 Merrill av., radio operator-gunner on a 15th air force Flying Fortress based in Italy, has completed 50 combat missions. His first mission was to Vienna, Austria, last June 26, and his last was was to Blechhammer, Germany, Oct. 14. He has flown over other targets in France, Italy, Germany, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Roumania, and the Balkans. Holder of the air medel with two oak leaf clusters, he was attending the University of Wisconsin when he entered the army, Feb. 1, 1943.

Sgt. Rappaport.

Isador L. Levy, husband of Mrs. Rae Levy, 5353 Ellis av., who is serving with the Coast Guard in Alaska, has been promoted to gunner's mate 1st class. Enlisting in April, 1942, he has spent 26 months in Alaska. He attended the University of Chicago law school.

Holder of the distinguished flying cross and the air medal with three oak leaf clusters, Staff Sgt. Marvin P. Smith, son of Mrs. Mary C. Smith, 6520 Blackstone av., returned home recently for a 24 day furlough. He was an aerial gunner on an 8th air force Liberator based in England. He entered the army two years ago and served overseas four months during which he completed 35 missions.

Sgt. Marvin Smith.

James J. O'Rourke Jr., whose parents reside at 7215 Coles av., was graduated recently from the naval midshipmen's school at the University of Notre Dame and commissioned an ensign.

Paragraphs About People You May Know

WHEN Thomas A. Larsen began working in the chemistry building of the University of Chicago he liked his job so well he said he would like to stay 50 years. Now the storekeeper in the laboratory supply department of the physiology building, he recently achieved that desire. His associates held a party for him and presented him with numerous gifts, including a $200 and a $25 war bond. He came to the university when William Rainey Harper was president and there were 10 buildings on the campus. Now there are nearly 80 buildings on the campus. The father of three sons and a daughter, he lives with his wife, Annie, at 7323 University av. His sons worked at the university for periods ranging from 10 to 22 years. During the years he has come to know many of the nation's leading scientists.

Thomas A. Larsen.

POLIO VICTIMS SEEK AID FOR HEALTH CAMP

Assist Others Sharing Same Handicap.

Themselves victims of crippling diseases since childhood, nine south and southwest siders are launching a campaign to raise $5,000 for the benefit of the Happy Haven camp, Plymouth, Ind., which since 1911 has been a vacation spot for crippled children from the Christopher school, 5042 S. Artesian av., and the Gompers school, 12301 State st. They are sponsoring a benefit party at 8 p. m. Thursday at 3458 63d st.

The camp was founded in 1901 by the late Mrs. Florence Prouty Robinson, one of Chicago's first public school teachers of crippled children. Originally located near Saugatuck, Mich., the camp was moved to Indiana in 1911 where more than 8,000 children have vacationed.

Offers Normal Camp Life.

The program is designed to afford the type of vacation enjoyed by well children. It includes rowing, swimming, nature study, manual training, handwork for girls, hiking, baseball games, and horseshoe tournaments.

Located on 15 acres of ground at Twin lake the camp has seven buildings, three dormitories, wood and handcraft shop, parlor playroom, offices, dining room, and kitchen. Attendants who care for the children during month periods include a physiotherapist, two play teachers, and four counselors. Edward Parkhurst, Davis school teacher, is director.

Not Run for Profit.

The camp, a nonprofit and nonsectarian charity, selects boys and girls from 7 to 14 years old on a basis of projected physical benefits. Most of them are from families with lower incomes and would be unable to go away for the summer otherwise.

Hymen Baron, 1118 E. 54th pl., is president of the Happy Haven camp committee. Because of a cardiac condition he attended special schools, visiting the camp each summer for two months, instead of the one period to which children usually are limited because of the seriousness of his condition. He now operates a shoe store.

Writer Surmounts Handicap.

Constantine Lampos, 7002 Throop st., is vice president. A victim of polio since he was 4 years old, he is paralyzed in all limbs. He attended Christopher school and studied creative writing at the University of Chicago. He has sold articles to newspapers and magazines.

Mrs. Elizabeth Schurman, 2605 58th st., is treasurer. Stricken with polio when 5, she has attended the camp for seven summers. She has been a bookkeeper and cashier for a clothing company for 17 years, during which she was absent only two days. She is one of the charter members of the Chicago Polio Swim club and holds a Red Cross life saving award.

Met Husband at School.

Her husband, Rudolph, whom she met while attending Fallon school, is corresponding secretary. A victim of polio when two, he has attended the camp six summers. He is a printer.

Another camp romance is that of Marshall Peterson and Julia Donohue who married. They met at a meeting to discuss camp problems. She was stricken with polio when two. While attending the Christopher school she started a dressmaking business which she still conducts. She is financial secretary of the committee.

Her husband is managing editor of the West Side News, a community newspaper. Stricken with polio as an infant he attended the Christopher and Spaulding schools. He was a Northwestern university scholarship student and received his master of arts degree there. He is publicity chairman of the committee. They live at 2724 65th st.

Miss Talbot Heads Board.

Miss Mae Talbot, 7821 Eberhart av., is executive chairman of the board of directors of the South Side Crippled Children's Aid, Inc., which runs the camp. A polio victim since three she attended the camp for several years as a child.

Ardys Elder McNeff and her husband, James, are another couple who became acquainted thru the camp. They met at a meeting to raise money for the camp. She contracted polio when 5. She attended Morton grammar school, high school, and junior college in Cicero. Her husband contracted polio when 6 and attended the Spaulding and Christopher schools. He is employed as a clerk with the Pennsylvania railroad.

Mary Lou Quinn Bride of Physician

Following their recent marriage, Dr. and Mrs. James Young are residing at 7127 Clyde av., while he is interning at the Little Company of Mary hospital. The bride is the former Mary Lou Quinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Quinn, 7711 Yates av. She attended Barat college, Lake Forest. Her husband, the son of Mrs. William J. Young, 7237 Merrill av., is a graduate of Loyola university medical school. Dr. Young is a navy lieutenant [j. g.] on the inactive list.

SOUTH SIDE CLUB WILL MEET FOR LECTURE ON DIET

"Diets and Nutrition" will be discussed by Miss Frances Swain, director of the bureau of household arts of the board of education, before the South Bryn Mawr Wednesday club at 12:30 p. m. Wednesday in the clubrooms, 1750 E. 78th st. A motion picture, "Science Thru Visual Education," will be presented by Joseph E. Dickman, director of the visual education bureau. Guests from the 2d district federation will include Mrs. Floyd Peckham, American home chairman, and Mrs. W. D. Meister, motion picture chairman. The program will be presented by Mrs. Jonathan Wolfe, home and education department chairman. Mrs. J. T. Enes will be luncheon hostess.

SEE PLAYGROUND FOR CHILDREN AT BRET HARTE

Children of the Bret Harte school, 1556 E. 56th st., will have a new playground in the northwest corner of Jackson park if projected plans are realized.

Plans call for surfacing of 40,000 square feet and grading of 60,000 square feet of grass as a play area. They have been approved by Mayor Kelly and George Donoghue, park district superintendent. They will be presented to the park board in December when it meets to consider next year's budget.

Started Drive in Spring.

Construction of the playground will climax a campaign launched by the PTA last spring. Mothers had been disturbed because their children had no playground and hence were in danger from passing automobiles.

Requesting the aid of Ald. Moss [5th] in the fight to obtain a play area in Jackson park, the mothers were informed that playgrounds could be installed in parks only if surrounding residents expressed a need for one. The mothers circulated a peition in the district during the summer and obtained 500 signatures.

Twelve Mothers Lend Aid.

Recently a committee of 12 mothers, led by Mrs. Jack Everett, 5526 Everett av., president, and Ald. Moss presented the petition to Mayor Kelly and gained his approval.

Others who visited the mayor were Mrs. Benjamin Davidson, 5520 Cornell av.; Mrs. John B. Fischman, 5431 Harper av.; Mrs. E. D. Salinger, 5442 Eastview park; Mrs. Henry D. Hirsch, 5420 Eastview park; Mrs. Wanda Wyatt, 5448 Cornell av.; Mrs. Harold Shellaw, 5520 Shouth Shore dr.; Mrs. Morris Cohen, 1755 E. 55th st.; Mrs. Raymond Lewis, 5461 Cornell av.; Mrs. Milton J. Weil, 5474 Hyde Park blvd., and Mrs. L. J. Breeden, 5401 Lake Park av.

White Plague Subject of Legion Post Lecture

"The Tuberculosis Problem as It Affects the Veteran of World War II," will be discussed by Dr. Beryl A. Ingalls, health officer of the village of Lyons, at 8:15 p. m. Wednesday before the Eaton Priddy Legion post, 7936 Cottage Grove av. Following her talk a motion picture, "They Do Come Back," showing how tuberculosis victims may be rehabilitated and resume their places in society, will be exhibited.

S. SIDE FIGHTER BOOSTED TWICE IN TWO MONTHS

Staff Sgt. George B. Faloona, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Faloona, 9134 Blackstone av., nose gunner on a 15th air force Liberator bomber based in Italy, has been promoted for the second time in two months.

Since arriving overseas in September he has participated in nine combat missions against enemy oil refineries, rail installations, aircraft factories, and other targets in Europe. He is a graduate of Hirsch High school and formerly was a machinist for the American Can company.

He enlisted in the army Dec. 3, 1942, completed armament training at Lowry field, Denver, Colo., and attended the gunnery school at Laredo, Tex.

LIBRARIES UNITE IN MOVEMENT TO MARK BOOK WEEK

Sketches, Reviews, and Prizes on Schedule.

Numerous programs and exhibits have been prepared at south side branch libraries to celebrate Book week, Nov. 12 to Nov. 18.

The South Shore branch, 2505 E. 73d st., will present awards to members of the children's corps who read six books during the summer at a party at 4 p. m. Wednesday. A play, "The Treasure in the Garrett," will be given Wednesday afternoon and at 10:30 a. m. Saturday by the children.

Woodlawn Observes Week.

At the Woodlawn regional library, 6247 Kimbark av., awards also will be made to members of the summer reading group and a play, "The Jester Saves the Day," written by the children, will be presented.

Members of the summer reading group of the Avalon branch, 1425 E. 81st st., will receive awards at 4 p. m. Wednesday. Mrs. Dale Pietsch, head of the visual aid department of the library, will show garden slides and prizes will be awarded to children who raised the best victory gardens at 7:30 p. m. Monday at the Chatham branch, 822 E. 79th st. Miss Agatha L. Shea, head of the children's department, will speak on "Children's Reading" before PTA presidents, library chairmen, school principals and library teachers at 10 a. m. Tuesday.

Children Review Books.

Children will present book reviews before school representatives at 4 p. m. Awards will be given to members of the summer reading group at 1:30 a. m. Saturday. Miss Adeline Katz, child librarian at the Tuley Park branch, 90th st. and St. Lawrence av., will discuss children's reading before the Red Cross at 2:30 p. m. Monday.

Lectures about new children's books and the history of Book Week will be presented at the Oakland branch, 700 Oakwood blvd., every day.

Tilden to Hear Navy's V-Mail Whistle Friday

A unit of the navy fleet postoffice will move into the lobby of Tilden High school, 4747 Union av., on Friday to show 3,000 boys how V-mail letters are processed. The public is invited.

The exhibit will simulate mail processing aboard ships and on island bases. Machines in operation will be the recorder, which photographs and condenses the letters; the viewer, which indicates whether the letter can be sent V-mail, and the machine which folds the letter, inserts it in an envelope, and seals the envelope. Souvenir films will be given away.

Lt. Robert Gargett of the fleet postoffice will be in charge of a crew of two WAVES, a marine, and a sailor who will operate the machines. They are Carolyn Hartwell and Lorraine Kwarcinski, mailmen 3d class; Corp. Thomas Burnett, and John Grant, mailman 1st class.

There are more than 13,348 mail specialists in the navy. Of these 1,070 are WAVES at continental shore bases. The mail specialists school at Sampson, N. Y., recently stopped training men as mail specialists and now exclusively trains women reserves.

As soon as possible after an invasion navy mail service is set up. Three days after the beginning of the invasion of Kwajalein and Saipan while the combined forces were still in action against the enemy, the first seaplane carrying mail arrived. The same day mail was distributed from a troop ship not far off shore to men on vessels supporting the attack. There are now 5,000 naval postal units thruout the world.

Sailor and Bride

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Dalton Jr.

Alice June Mikkelsen, daughter of Carl W. Mikkelsen, 7419 Ingleside av., is the bride of John J. Dalton Jr. of Collinsville, Ill. They met when his brother, Freeman, was courting her sister, Eleanor, whom he subsequently married. The bride, a graduate of Hirsch High school, is living with her sister at 520 E. 73d st. Mr. Dalton, a seaman 1st class in the navy, is at Charleston, S. C., awaiting reassignment. He returned recently from 16 months duty in the Atlantic. His brother is also in the navy, serving as a seaman 2d class aboard the U. S. S. Wolverine in Lake Michigan.

sions in the Balkans, northern Italy, and Germany. A graduate of Bowen High school, he worked for a steel company prior to entering the air force Feb. 26, 1943.

A gold medal has been awarded to Coast Guardsman Charles Ortega, 10810 Hoxie av., seaman 2d class, by the city of Bayonne, N. J., for his heroism and gallantry in fighting a fire aboard the munitions ship El Estero last spring. Loaded with explosives, the ship threatened to devastate Bayonne and a great portion of New York harbor. As a member of the port security force, Ortega helped to bring the blaze under control by sinking the vessel. He was the guest of the city for the day and a parade and a dinner marked the ceremonies.

Charles Ortega.

Second Lt. Louis M. Wangersheim, son of Mrs. L. M. Wangersheim, 5555 Everett av., has been assigned to an aviation truck company of the 13th air force service command in the Southwest Pacific. He entered the army in February, 1942, and has been overseas more than 18 months.

Nicklas L. Bubnovich, husband of Mrs. Mary T. Bubnovich, Whiting, Ind., a bombardier on a Liberator bomber based in Italy, has been awarded the air medal and promoted to 1st lieutenant. On his first combat mission to the Ploesti oil refineries the nose of his plane was blown off and he received flak wounds in the shoulder. He was awarded the Purple Heart.

Aviation Cadet James Lewis Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney E. Taylor, 6452 Minerva av., has completed his basic training at Merced air field, Cal., and has been assigned to Pecos, Tex., for his final training.

Staff Sgt. Neal J. McCollam, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neal McCollam, 370 E. 70th st., an aerial gunner on a 15th air force Flying Fortress based in Italy, recently returned home on a 21 day furlough after completing 50 combat missions. A graduate of De La Salle High school, he holds the air medal with 9 oak leaf clusters and a Presidential unit citation. He has two brothers in service, Donald J., a 1st class petty officer with the navy on the French coast, and Olcan J., who served 18 months overseas with the Seabees and is now studying at the University of Oklahoma under the naval V-12 program.

SOLAR HEATING WILL HELP CUT BILLS ON FUEL

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Solar heating is something we will see in many of our post-war homes, and because this is a supplement to furnace or boiler heating and a help in keeping down fuel bills, it is something to include in those "note books" we are keeping.

One important requisite is a great deal of glass on the south side of the house. Wide eaves also are a part of this type construction. These are designed so that they will intercept the rays of the sun in hot weather when the sun is high but will admit these same rays in cold weather when the sun is low in the sky.

Solar Method Valuable.

Since insulated glass, or glass which consists of double panes with dead air space between the panes, is a development which is here to stay, the solar method of conserving heat becomes even more practical. Insulating glass prevents heat from escaping from the house interior, yet permits it to enter.

[If this seems an anomaly it is really quite simple: the sun's rays are radiant heat and they penetrate the insulating glass, but this same glass blocks heat convection from within the house to the out-of-doors.]

Radiant Method Outlined.

Another item of interest to be included in the note book on post-war homes is the so-called panel or radiant heating. This method was well started before the war. It eliminates registers or radiators and instead uses a network of pipes laid in the walls, ceiling, or under the floor.

It is claimed that radiant heating may be used with any type of furnace or fuel. One especial advantage of this method, put forth by its advocates, is the fact that hot and cold spots in a room are eliminated because the radiating surfaces of heat are so large.

Ohio State Has Plan.

You may want to check, too, on developments of engineers at Ohio State university who have built ceramic heaters made largely of hollow tile.

Coal is reduced to coke inside these heaters before it is ignited by means of convector passages. These convector passages impart heat to the charge in the magazine.

From the University of Illinois will come a development in the form of a down draft burner for the smokeless combustion of soft coal.

Research scientists at the university state that the burner fits into the combustion chamber where it can be fired thru the door. Air is admitted which helps in the burning of gases and smoke thru a baffle door which divides the burner into two chambers.

Women at War

Mary L. Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Freeman, 8114 Ingleside av., is stationed at the 1st troop carrier command base, Bergstrom field, near Austin, Tex. She recently completed her basic training at the 2d WAC training center, Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

Corp. Agnes E. Eschner, daughter of Mrs. Ellen Harris, 1048 E. 72d st., has been transferred to the communications section of the 15th air force headquarters in Italy from an African base of the 12th air force. Overseas since October, 1943, she has two brothers in service, John, a captain with the engineers in the South Pacific, and Joe, a lieutenant in the navy air force in the same theater.

Kathleen T. Crowley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Crowley, 7345 Dorchester av., a seaman 2d class in the WAVES, recently completed her basic training at the naval training station, New York City. She has been ordered to the yeoman school, Cedar Falls, Ia. She attended Aquinas Dominican High school and has two brothers in service, Michael, with the navy in the South Pacific, and Maurice, with the army in France.

Pvt. Dorothy M. Bayless, daughter of Edward Bayless, 11034 Avenue L, is stationed at Fort Sumner army air field, Fort Sumner, N. M. She was a student nurse before entering the WAC.

Formerly stationed at the 3d WAC training center, Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., Pvt. Betty J. Arnholt, 6424 Cottage Grove av., will attend the dental technicians' course at Wakeman General hospital, Camp Atterbury, Ind.

The promotion to corporal of Pvt. Hazel A. Horan, 120 E. 70th st., has been announced at allied headquarters in Italy. A member of the WAC since December, 1942, she is assigned to the postal director service.

RADIO ARTISTS TO HOLD ANTICS NEXT SATURDAY

Queen to Be Crowned at Party.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The Chicago local of the American Federation of Radio Artists will hold its annual AFRA Antics next Saturday in the grand ballroom of the Drake hotel. The party is open to the public. There will be entertainment by the stars of radio, screen and stage, and an autograph bar with every notable present taking a turn as bartender. Proceeds will go to the union's sick and benefit fund.

Chicago's radio queen will be crowned at the party. Two television queens already have been chosen. They are the Dinning Twins, Jean and Ginger, heard on W-G-N's Swing's the Thing and the National Barn Dance. They were chosen recently when one of them appeared on the Balaban and Katz radio station and her sister viewed her at a demonstration of a post-war model television and radio receiver at the Blackstone hotel. The Chicago winners will be eligible to compete for the title of American Radio queen to be held at Hollywood on Jan. 1.

News and Notes: Roy Rogers, Republic Pictures' "King of the Cowboys," will start in a show over W-G-N-Mutual at 7:30 p. m. Tuesdays, starting Nov. 21. . . . Allan Young, Blue network comic, is offering $100 awards for comedy scripts written by high school students. This sum will be paid, says Young, for every ten minute script accepted. It should revolve about a comedy situation. Compilations of gags are out.

W-G-N is presenting a new show ribbing the classics at 12:30 p. m. Thursdays. The program, featuring Frank De Vol's orchestra and the Les Paul instrumental trio is aptly called the Music Depreciation Hour.

Your America in its broadcast over W-G-N at 3 p. m. today will salute Royal Arch Gunnison, Mutual war reporter, who was interned by the Japanese after Pearl Harbor and is now back with Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the Leyte area. Elden Westley will give a condensed version of Gunnison's "I Saw Our Flag Come Down."

Last week Jack Benny introduced his new singer, Larry Stevens, a young ex-soldier. And now comes Ed Gardner with the announcement that he has signed up Bob Graham, a husky baritone, for Duffy's Tavern and pictures. Graham got his first break on the Rudy Vallee hour a few weeks ago.

CHARLES BOYER HALL OF FAME VISITOR TODAY

Charles Boyer, Carole Landis, Victor Borge and Diana Lynn will appear on the Radio Hall of Fame show at 5 p. m. today over WENR-Blue. Paul Whiteman's orchestra, Nan Wynn, songstress, and the Delta Rhythm Boys will be on hand to welcome the visitors.

Boyer will take the lead role in a sketch concerning the composition, "La Marsellaise." Carole Landis is billed as guest mistress of ceremonies. Accompanied by Paul Whiteman and the orchestra, Diana Lynn, piano playing co-star of the film, "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," will play.

Jean and Ginger Dinning (right), identical twins who sing on W-G-N, have been named television twins for the AFRA Antics to be held at the Drake hotel next Saturday.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Nov. 13.

It is getting nearer real winter weather now and garden activities are confined to house plants or planning. Both are of interest to the gardener, especially planning, for on it may depend a smooth working season next year.

Some pruning can be done on nice days. All fall planted stock should be given the necessary protection, roses tucked in, cold frames banked with soil or other material, tools stored away after cleaning and oiling, garden furniture taken indoors, and lily pools prepared for winter. Water may be left in rather deep pools covered with boards and leaves, containing hardy lilies.

Tuesday, Nov. 14.

Gardeners who are planning the vegetable garden should remember that at least five hours of full sun are essential to grow high quality material. Trees rob the soil of both food and moisture and vegetables should not be planted under or near them.

Wednesday, Nov. 15.

Fruit trees can be pruned any time when they are dormant. The gardener should have a few tools to work with, such as pruning shears, saw, knife, and coal tar or old paint for painting the larger branches. Some kinds of trees require very little pruning. Dead branches, diseased branches, too low or too high branches, and water sprouts should be trimmed.

Thursday, Nov. 16.

Listed here are a few plants ideal for indoor growing where there is good light but no sun: African violet, rex begonia, Chinese evergreen, dumb cane, ferns, grape ivy, English ivy, iron plant, Norfolk island pine, palms, philodendron, screw pine, ceriman or monstera, sansevieria.

Friday, Nov. 17.

The person who delights in growing something novel will find some of the citrus plants interesting. These include the ponderosa lemon, otaheite orange [not edible], and the satsuma and kumquat orange. These require a night temperature of 45 to 50 degrees, with up to 15 degrees higher during the day. The soil should be rather coarse, rich, and well drained. The pots should be plunged to the rim in the garden during summer.

Saturday, Nov. 18.

The best plants to grow in water in the house are English ivy, philodendron, tradescantia or wandering Jew, pathos, and Chinese evergreen. The paperwhite narcissus and Chinese sacred lily also may be grown in water, anchored with pebbles. If there is sufficient light, try growing a few vines indoors, such as the morning glory.

3 JOIN FACULTY OF ART CENTER ON SOUTH SIDE

Three new teachers, Mrs. Dorothy Baylor Anderson, Cornelius W. Pierce, and Mrs. Ruth Dross, have been added to the staff of the South Side Community Art center, 3831 Michigan av.

Mrs. Anderson received her Ph. B. degree from Loyola university in 1943 and is now working for a master's degree at the Chicago Art institute. She also attended Hyde Park High school and the University of Chicago. She lives at 4167 S. Park way.

To Teach Saturday Classes.

She will have charge of the Saturday classes for grade school children and will teach drawing, painting, design, and clay modeling.

Pierce will teach drawing, water color, and oil work for upper grade school children from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

He was born at La Grange, Ga., took his early training in Austin, Tex., and was graduated from the Chicago Art Institute. He has taught art at Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., and has been given honorable mention in many Chicago Art Institute shows for his oils and water colors. He lives at 3708 Giles av.

To Teach Art Appreciation.

Mrs. Dross will teach an art appreciation class on Monday evenings. She was born and educated in Germany. After extensive European travel she came to this country and conducted an experimental class in dress construction at the Layton School of Art, Milwaukee, Wis. She lives at 6037 Woodlawn av.

THEATER OF AIR WILL PRESENT 'THE NEW MOON'

"The New Moon," popular Sigmund Romberg operetta with an early New Orleans setting, will be presented on the Chicago Theater of the Air next Saturday before an audience of more than 4,000 people at Medinah temple, Wabash av. and Ohio st. in Chicago. The broadcast will be presented over W-G-N, WGNB and the coast to coast Mutual network from 9 to 10 p. m., one hour later than in other years.

Marion Claire will be featured in the role of Marianne, and Bruce Foote, baritone, will be heard opposite her as Robert Misson. The role of Phillipe will be sung by Earle Wilkie, baritone.

Musical accompaniment for the soloists will be provided by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber.

Laurette Fillbrandt will take the leading dramatic role and will be supported by a cast of leading Chicago radio actors and actresses. Jack La Frandre, writer-director of the series, will produce the show.

Salute Waller School on Citizens Program

Waller High school will be saluted on the Citizens of Tomorrow program over W-G-N at 10 a. m. next Saturday. The program will feature Richard Wright, bass-baritone student, who won honors in the last Chicago Music festival. Principal Maurice C. Lipman will speak. Richard Kutz will report news happenings of other schools. Philip Maxwell will name to the roll of honor: William E. Branen of Waller and Marjorie Stolz, of Ottumwa, Ia.

Peter Eagle, Harpist, Symphony Hall Soloist

McDonald's "From Childhood" suite for harp and orchestra, presenting Peter Eagle as soloist, will be featured on the Symphony Hall program over W-G-N, WGNB at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday. Henry Weber will direct the W-G-N Symphony orchestra in presentations of the overture to von Weber's "Oberon," Rachmaninoff's "Vocalise," and dances from Borodin's "Prince Igor."

Broadcast Hockey Match.

The final period of the Chicago Blackhawks-Montreal Canadiens hockey match will be aired over WIND at 10:05 o'clock tonight.

W-G-N Bondwagon Goes Back on Air Tomorrow

After a recess of several months, the W-G-N Bondwagon show will return to the air at 12:30 p. m. tomorrow. The half hour broadcast will be heard every Monday and Wednesday. Tomorrow's program will feature members of the barn dance cast.

W. SIDERS PLAN OBSERVANCE OF W. E. 75TH YEAR

Hawthorne Plant to Hold 24 Parties.

With a series of 24 family parties, starting Friday, the Hawthorne works of the Western Electric company will help celebrate 75 years of progress and service by a leading producer of military and naval electronic apparatus and peace time manufacturer of Bell telephones. The parties will be held in the auditorium of Morton High school.

The main attraction of each birthday celebration will be the showing of a feature length film, "Heritage for Victory," depicting the history of the Western Electric company from its inception in 1869.

70,000 to Attend.

Dancing in the school gymnasium will follow the movie, and refreshments will be served in the cafeteria. Another feature of the party will be an exhibit dramatizing Western Electric products and their contribution to progress.

More than 70,000 persons, including Hawthorne employes and their families, are expected to attend the diamond jubilee programs.

West Siders Are Chairmen.

Twenty-two co-chairmen, predominently west siders or west suburbanites, in charge of ticket distribution for the programs are George J. Behnke, 4647 Deming pl.; Q. N. Saperston, 3326 Palmer st.; W. D. Vail, 113 N. Homan av.; Melvin J. Hughes, 6057 Melrose st.; James J. Conners, 227 N. Mason av.; Lloyd M. Thomas, Downers Grove; Alvin J. Clark, La Grange; Carl F. Morgan, 1216 N. Lombard av., Oak Park.

Charles F. Dreyer, La Grange; Roy W. MacKeen, 420 S. Welsey av., Oak Park; R. V. Jelinek, Riverside; W. E. Konold, 1119 N. Taylor av., Oak Park; Fred B. Smith, La Grange; Benjamin A. Berman, La Grange; Charles O. Carroll, 807 W. Fillmore st., Oak Park; H. S. Brown, 909 Fair Oaks av., Oak Park.

Name Alternating M. Cs.

Daniel A. Moore, 617 S. Kenilworth av., Oak Park; Edward H. Kraft, La Grange Park; Irwin L. Van Lone, Western Springs; Paul A. Gorman La Grange; George Lang, 201 N. Ridgeland av., Oak Park, and R. F. Ward, Downers Grove.

Those who will alternate as masters of ceremonies are Charles A. Meisheimer, 1127 Washington blvd., Oak Park; Albert C. Jones, La Grange; Walter G. Altpeter, La Grange; H. L. Hope, La Grange; Charles F. Scheel, La Grange.

Film Background Factual.

Ronald A. Pook, La Grange; Charles S. Kistler, La Grange; Herbert W. Witte, 806 N. East av., Oak Park; Herman H. Drewes, La Grange; William C. Chipps, La Grange; Charles D. Dugan, Hinsdale; S. T. Rockwell, La Grange; G. F. Raymond, 545 N. Pine av., and Howard C. Townsend, 744 Chicago av., Downers Grove.

Altho the plot of the film, "Heritage for Victory," to be shown at the parties, is fictional, the background is factual and gives an accurate chronology of the development of Western Electric against the history of 19th century Chicago.

Parties for this month are scheduled for Nov. 17, afternoon and evening of Nov. 19, Nov. 21 and 22, Nov. 26 afternoon and evening, and Nov. 27, 28, 29, and 30.

MILKMAN TO DO HIS NOISIEST AT DOWNERS GROVE

With 17 acts ranging from a gay '90s revue to the present day milkman and his noisy bottles, a carnival will come to Downers Grove High school Friday and Saturday nights. Funds received will help finance the school year book, the Cauldron, and other school activities.

There will be hamburger, candy and ice cream booths. To take the place of the gymnastic exhibition, the debate club has arranged a radio variety show, the Radio Fun Fest.

The faculty and student body are sponsoring the carnival.

WISCONSIN TEACHER TO LECTURE BEFORE FORUM OF EMPLOYES

Dr. Chester Verne Easum, professor of history at the University of Wisconsin, will be the speaker tomorrow night before the forum in Albright gymnasium, Cicero. The forum is an employes' discussion group of the Western Electric company's Hawthorne works. Dr. Easum's topic will be "Nationalism Versus Internationalism."

Chester V. Easum.

A native of Clayton, Ill., Dr. Easum was graduated from Knox college in 1894 and later received degrees from Oxford university and the University of Wisconsin. His studies in England were interrupted by World War I., in which he served as a lieutenant. From 1921 to 1930 he was instructor of history at Culver Military academy.

Dr. Easum in 1930 became assistant professor and later professor of history at the University of Wisconsin. During the present war he has been active in teaching special courses for the army and navy assigned to service in allied military government units.

Band Strives for Character at Siena High

We are the music makers,
And we are the dreamers of dreams.

Character building is the basis of the St. Catherine of Siena band—one of the highest ranking musical groups of the west side Catholic high schools. Thru the medium of music this educational project strives to teach the spirit of coöperation and an appreciation of good music.

The all-girl military organization is conducted by Sister Mary Monica, who also is the teacher for every instrument in the band. Under her supervision the staff officers handle all administrative, technical, and musical business of the unit.

Freshmen Join as Cadets.

"The first purpose of the band," says Sister Mary Monica, "is the development of character and spiritual welfare. Thru this group activity we attempt to teach self-reliance, responsibility, and a love of fine music."

A freshman joins the band as a cadet. As her ability and experience increase she is promoted in rank and with a clear record she may win the coveted award of Band Letter. The Siena band is a participating member of the Catholic Music Education Association of Chicago. If a girl is exceptionally proficient, she is given a tryout for the Catholic All-City Festival band chosen each spring.

Wins Many Honors in 1944.

The 1944 Siena band is a colorful group of talented musicians resplendent in military uniforms. It has won the highest commendation for its music, drill perfection, and participation in civic ceremonies.

Officers of the organization are Lorraine Lynch, captain; Mary K. Warren, 1st lieutenant; Joan O'Donnell, 2d lieutenant; Pat Kiely, commanding drum major; Virginia Del Beccaro, assistant commanding drum major; Marie Fabbiani, chief musician; Bette McKenna, drill sergeant; Joan Nelson, color sergeant; Marie Richardson, drum sergeant; Eileen Mahoney, quartermaster sergeant; Mary Ellen Holden, sergeant librarian, and Marcella Jones, staff sergeant.

Hold Three Weekly Meetings.

Band members meet once a week for a class lesson, once a week for sectional rehearsal, and once a week for a general after-school session.

WEST SUBURBS TO OPEN YOUTH CENTERS SOON

Adults Co-Operate With Work.

Youth centers are being promoted at this time in the Berwyn, Glen Ellyn, and Riverside—Brookfield communities. Locations for the recreation programs have been chosen, and student groups are given hearty approval in their efforts to provide necessary funds for conducting social activities.

Arrangements have been made by the Berwyn Community Council of Youth to open quarters Nov. 24 at 3310 Oak Park av. for a social and recreational program. Willard A. Pease is chairman of the council.

The opening event will be a dance. Tentative plans call for Friday night dances. Activities under adult supervision will include games, hobbies, dramatics, and choral singing.

Name Student Chairman.

Don Abram of Morton High school will be student chairman. The group will be representative of the young peoples' organizations in churches of the community which include students at St. Leonard's High school and parochial schools in nearby areas.

Cost of rental, direction, and incidentals at the center will be covered by a budget approved by the Berwyn Community chest. Membership fees will support the activities.

The new Glen Ellyn Youth center will be located in a part of the building which houses the DuPage Motor Sales company in the suburb. The quarters have been leased from a part of the money received from Fourth of July funds. The goal of $1,500 has been sought to finance equipment and decorating costs.

Students Pick Board.

The board of directors selected by high school students are Tom Mulligan, chairman; Helen Dugger, equipment; Barbara Tilden, finance; Joe Carleton, entertainment; Milt Rowe and Robert Woodworth, house committee; Marge Osgood and Nancy Butler, decorations; Helen Hansen, supervision, and Larry Young, maintenance.

Adult advisors are Charles Butler, chairman, and Mrs. Kenneth Carr, Mrs. Balfour Lanza, Mrs. Frank Leahy, Herbert Clough, B. R. Ryall, and Joe Hickey.

Plan Christmas Opening.

The RBHNR Youth center for high school students in the communities of Riverside, Brookfield, Hollywood, and North Riverside will open in time for the Christmas holidays, according to plans.

Idea for the center originated last July among a group of students in the summer history class taught by L. G. Thompson. William Jordan was elected temporary chairman of a committee to investigate possibilities. The Riverside recreation board was enthusiastic and the plan was discussed further at a meeting of civic organization leaders in August. Paul Mooney was elected chairman of an adult committee.

Locate Center in Riverside.

The Arcade building in Riverside was selected as the most suitable location for establishing the center. The plan is for a dance floor, a soft drink bar, and a small room for games.

Of the 950 students at Riverside-Brookfield High school, 700 expressed a desire to become charter members of the youth center organization. Temporary officers for the student group are Neil Johnson, Hollywood, president; Richard Pearson, Brookfield, vice president; Betty Love, Brookfield, secretary, and Arthur Johnson and William Jordan, Riverside, co-treasurers. Adult advisors are to be selected for each of seven proposed committees.

BLANFORD CLOCK MARKS HOURS IN AURORA MUSEUM

'Horological Monument' Took Years to Build.

BY ONEY FRED SWEET.

Visitors at the Aurora Historical museum now have an opportunity to see the Blanford astronomical clock which for many years stood in the Aurora Public library.

The clock, 9 feet high, was built by the late William Blanford, watchmaker, astronomer, and scientist, who came from England to the Elgin watch factory in 1879 and later to the Aurora watch factory. After 18,000 hours of labor, the clock was completed in 1905. The maker died in 1920.

Built in Aurora.

The entire structure was made by the inventor in his little workshop back of his home, 560 Douglas av., Aurora. At the top of the beautifully carved cabinet is a facsimile of the Forum with 14 Corinthian columns, the pediment containing a carved representation in boxwood of St. George slaying the dragon, and below an American eagle hovering over Father Time surrounded by playing children.

The upper dial accurately marks the time and is governed by an eight day movement. Above is a frame showing phases of the moon. The astronomical dial, below the time dial, shows the earth and its revolutions around the sun, signs of the zodiac, the months and days of the month.

Calendar Operates Automatically.

The calendar of the clock is arranged for 10,000 years, and the equation of time, which operates automatically, is accomplished altho astronomers had held it could not be so activated by machinery.

The astronomical dial is wound once in 68 years or 14 times in 1,000 years. During the first 1,000 years the clock is calculated to operate without impairment.

It is said of the clock that it is a universe in miniature and "stands as a horological monument to a rare soul of high ideals; to a master mind of unusual scientific knowledge and mechanical genius; to hands of extraordinary skill; and to a long life of steady toil and endeavor."

Clock Placed in Library.

The clock was placed in the Aurora library in 1920 thru efforts of the Blanford Clock association, whose members raised money for the clock's purchase. It was presented to the children of Aurora as a perpetual gift.

George Ruby, 210 Oak av., Aurora, an expert of the old school of clockmakers, has been appointed by the historical society to keep the clock in good condition.

RIVERSIDE GIVEN SCHOOLS' PLANS TO MARK D-DAY

To eliminate unnecessary confusion and misunderstanding, plans for V-day have been worked out by the Riverside public schools. The official announcement in the village will be the sounding of the fire siren. In coöperation with the community observance the school procedure will be as follows:

If announcement of victory is made:

[a] During school hours, each home room will provide immediately a short, appropriate program, and then dismiss.

Lay Plans to Close.

[b] Before 8 a. m. there will be no school that day; between noon and 1 p. m., no school that afternoon.

[c] After school, but before 6 p. m., there will be school the following day, each homeroom opening with a suitable program.

[d] After 6 p. m. on Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, or Thursday, there will be no school the following day. If it comes on Saturday, or before 6 p. m. on Sunday, school will open as usual on Monday.

To Stress War Not Over.

"It should be remembered," reads the bulletin, "that V-day only represents the end of the European phase of the war. The war by no means will be over. There will be the big job of winning the war in the Pacific. Let us make V-day a time for solemn prayer and thanksgiving."

Public school superintendents thruout Proviso township also have completed plans for V-day observance in the schools. The announcement follows:

"It is requested that parents cooperate in making this a day of serious contemplation and firm resolve in the further execution of the continuing war. Our procedure for V-day will depend upon when we receive the message that hostilities in Europe have ceased.

Must Be Day of Prayer.

"Regardless of when word comes, emphasis will be placed on the following points:

[1] Only one phase of the war is over; some of our most important battles are yet to come.

[2] While we rejoice in victory, this V-day should be a day of prayer for our boys who are still in there fighting for us.

"Since there are likely to be false reports, we shall take our cue from the loop stores. If word comes during the school day, it will be sent out at once.

[1] Immediately all students will stand at attention.

[2] A proclamation previously prepared and distributed will be read, to be followed by a moment of silent prayer and the singing of The Star Spangled Banner.

Tell of Class Schedule.

[3] School will be dismissed for the day, with students urged to go home immediately and attend services in their own churches.

[4] School to resume the next morning at the regular time. If word comes after 1:30 p. m. school will be dismissed for the following day also.

"If word comes during the evening or night, there will be no school the following day. If word comes on Friday evening or Saturday, school will be held on Monday as usual. If word comes on Sunday, there will be no school on Monday. If word comes when the students are not in school, the proclamation will be read when the students return.

St. Ignatius Principal Will Address Mothers

The St. Ignatius Mothers' club will meet at 2 p. m. Tuesday in Damen hall, 1076 Roosevelt rd. The Rev. Lawrence Barry, S. J., principal of St. Ignatius High school, will address the club and introduce faculty members. Mrs. Roger Wright, program chairman, will present Miss Lorette Campbell, who will give a dramatic reading. Mrs. Owen Cooke is president and the Rev. Bernard Foote, S. J., is moderator.

HOSPITAL LAWN AT VAUGHAN TO BE LANDSCAPED

Launch Campaign to Beautify Plot.

A project is under way to transform the grounds of the new Vaughan General hospital from a treeless expanse into a park. The 101 acres already have been graded and seeded. Funds for further developing are sought thru contributions from individuals, organizations, and business firms.

Funds for the project will be channeled thru the American Red Cross camp and hospital committee. Mrs. Joseph Cudahy of the committee has obtained the services of a landscape architect.

The plan is to plant for permanence and for year 'round effectiveness. Evergreens will be placed near the hospital entrance and there will be flowering hawthornes, crabapples, and lilacs to bloom in the spring. Elms will be planted for their shade, and vines will be permitted to climb the sides of the buildings.

West side members of the Red Cross committee sponsoring the project include Henry L. Warner, Maywood, past commander of the Cook County council of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; Mrs. Joseph Thor, Wheaton, rehabilitation chairman of the American Legion auxiliary, department of Illinois; Mrs. Mary Schaffer, 4317 McLean av., senior vice commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary, department of Illinois, and Murray Joslin, Maywood.

FATES OF WAR JOIN 3 BROTHERS IN SOUTH PACIFIC

It's a Wonderful Day After 3 Years.

How three brothers, all serving with different organizations of the United States marines, met for a reunion at Guadalcanal is told in letters recently received by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. Russell, 346 School st., Villa Park. The three boys went to school in Austin, where the family formerly resided.

Jack, 21, as an anti-aircraft gunner has seen action in the Aleutians as well as in the South Pacific. Wally, 19, is a medical aide in the hospital at Guadalcanal. Bill, 18, is in a marine division.

Makes Good on Vow.

When Bill enlisted he said he was going to find his brothers. How he did so, and how the two older brothers met was revealed in letters to the parents, excerpts from which follow:

"Oct. 15. Dear Folks: So you think Jack is in the New Hebrides. Well, I'm afraid you are wrong. Jack and I are on the same island and we sat side by side at chow yesterday. I was working in my tent when I heard some one call 'Hi, Swabby!' I just said 'Hi' back to him and went right on working. I looked out of curiosity and Jack was standing there. I nearly fell over.

"We talked about home. Every other word was Mom, Dad, Sis, and Jim. It was sure wonderful to see him after so long. It looks like we would be seeing a great deal of each other the next couple of months. Boy, he is really looking swell.

"WALLY."

"Good to See That Guy."

"Oct. 15, Dear Folks: Well, Wally and I got together and, boy, was it good to see that guy! He got the afternoon off and we went all over the island together just fooling around. Altho we are on the same island we live quite a way apart, but we'll see each other pretty regularly. JACK."

Then the postman brought a letter dated Oct. 16:

"Dear Folks: I wrote last night but something astounding has happened since then. Remember, I told you I saw Wally two days? Well, last night I got a call saying my brother was at the office. Lo and behold, it was Bill. You could have knocked me over with a feather. So we went out this morning and saw Wally, and was he surprised! Boy, we had a regular family reunion. All of us were thinking how pleased you would be when you heard we all got to see each other together. JACK."

"Gee! It Was Sure Swell."

Later in the day there was another letter:

"Hi, Folks: How's everything? Jack and Wally and I were all together for a while today. And I expect to spend two more days with Jack and will probably see Wally a time or two more. Gee! It sure is swell to see Jack after almost three years. I came over here from my own island, taking a chance on finding him. BILL."

And another:

"Dear Folks: Don't be startled because I'm writing two days in a row. Something happened that just can't wait. I was surprised when Jack walked in on me, but when he came again today with Bill it was just too much. Yes, all three of us got together on an island in the South Pacific 10,000 miles from home. All three of us meeting in an unknown place is beyond me.

"WALLY."

In a letter to Mrs. Rose Abbate, 5659 Washington blvd., the commanding officer of a medical unit lauded the heroism of her son, Pvt. Arthur Abbate, 27, a litter bearer on Saipan Island.

Pvt. Arthur Abbate.

Describing Pvt. Abbate's conduct under fire, Capt. Joseph A. Radecki wrote, "Art in many instances displayed coolness and courage which was invaluable to me in keeping the men going.

Job Not Easy.

"Your son is a litter bearer in my company, and a litter bearer's job here has not been easy. He has been forced to crawl, run, or 'drag' a heavily loaded litter while he was under nerve wracking explosives, gunfire, or grenades. Under such extreme pressure we cannot expect many men to remain 'calm and collected.'

"As I write these lines I am recalling a vivid picture of Art continuing to plug long after the usual man would drop. He must have been frightened and excited—but he did not show it! The result was that many men became brave and better from his example."

Pvt. Abbate, a graduate of Austin High school, joined the army in March, 1942, and has been stationed in the Pacific 20 months. Prior to his enlistment he was employed as a commission merchant.

Pvt. Abbate has four other brothers and a sister. They are Frank, 4710 N. Sacramento blvd.; Joseph, 1004 N. Euclid av., Oak Park; Charles, River Forest; Anthony, Fresno, Cal., and Frances Abbate, who makes her home with her mother.

Mark Western Electric's 75th Year

Loretto Hospital Group to Hold Party Tuesday

The Loretto hospital auxiliary will sponsor a party at 8 p. m. Tuesday in the hospital solarium, 645 S. Central av. Proceeds will be added to a fund for the installation of a psychiatric unit at the hospital. Mrs. Ralph Sullivan is chairman. Mrs. Frank Christenson, auxiliary president, will preside.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Nov. 13.

It is getting nearer real winter weather now and garden activities are confined to house plants or planning. Both are of interest to the gardener, especially planning, for on it may depend a smooth working season next year.

Some pruning can be done on nice days. All fall planted stock should be given the necessary protection, roses tucked in, cold frames banked with soil or other material, tools stored away after cleaning and oiling, garden furniture taken indoors, and lily pools prepared for winter. Water may be left in rather deep pools covered with boards and leaves, containing hardy lilies.

Grass will do poorly in dense shade, but some annual grasses can be grown if the gardener will top-dress the ground with rich soil and re-sow just as soon as the prevailing stand of grass begins to look poorly. Water also is essential under such conditions. Flowers and vegetables, as a general rule, never reach their maximum possibilities when grown near shrubs.

Tuesday, Nov. 14.

Gardeners who are planning the vegetable garden should remember that at least five hours of full sun are essential to grow high quality material. Trees rob the soil of both food and moisture and vegetables should not be planted under or near them.

Weak twigs should be removed, for they contribute nothing to the plant. The best practice is to give attention to all trees each year or spring so they will need little pruning.

Wednesday, Nov. 15.

Fruit trees can be pruned any time when they are dormant. The gardener should have a few tools to work with, such as pruning shears, saw, knife, and coal tar or old paint for painting the larger branches. Some kinds of trees require very little pruning. Dead branches, diseased branches, too low or too high branches, and water sprouts should be trimmed.

Plants which will grow well where there are at least two or three hours of sun include: Coleus, corn plant or Dracaena, flowering maple, fuchsia, cyclamen, peperomia or strawberry geranium, periwinkle, pothos, spider plant [chlorophytum]. Plants for full sun: Azalea, calceolaria, heliotrope, cacti, crown of thorns, clivia, Dutch bulbs, geranium, lantana, primrose, poinsettia, shrimp plant, wax plant [hoya carnosa].

Thursday, Nov. 16.

Listed here are a few plants ideal for indoor growing where there is good light but no sun: African violet, rex begonia, Chinese evergreen, dumb cane, ferns, grape ivy, English ivy, iron plant, Norfolk island pine, palms, philodendron, screw pine, ceriman or monstera, sansevieria.

They need plenty of light, and insect pests should be kept under control. The foliage of all citrus plants is richly glossy and showy in itself. Fruits are sparingly formed and sometimes drop if the soil is permitted to dry out. Keep ferns in semi-shade, for they do not like full sunlight. Keep the soil fairly moist, not too wet. Cut the runners from ferns. The soil loses its plant food if allowed to stand too long without replanting.

Friday, Nov. 17.

The person who delights in growing something novel will find some of the citrus plants interesting. These include the ponderosa lemon, otaheite orange [not edible], and the satsuma and kumquat orange. These require a night temperature of 45 to 50 degrees, with up to 15 degrees higher during the day. The soil should be rather coarse, rich, and well drained. The pots should be plunged to the rim in the garden during summer.

Saturday, Nov. 18.

The best plants to grow in water in the house are English ivy, philodendron, tradescantia or wandering Jew, pathos, and Chinese evergreen. The paperwhite narcissus and Chinese sacred lily also may be grown in water, anchored with pebbles. If there is sufficient light, try growing a few vines indoors, such as the morning glory.

Prepared in cooperation with Garfield Park conservatory.

VETERAN PLANT WORKERS FORM SERVICE GROUP

6,226 Yrs. with Firm, Record of Men.

For the purpose of providing a social group to further the bonds of friendship among its members and to emphasize the value of loyalty of the individuals to one another and to the organization of which they are a part, the Melrose Park chapter of the Naco Service society recently was organized among veteran employes of the National Malleable and Steel Castings company.

The organization dinner held at the Oak Park Arms hotel was attended by 204 workers of the Melrose Park plant, representing 6,226 years of service. Employes eligible to membership are those with 15 years and more of continuous service.

Employed 50 Years.

Joseph E. Wolf, Maywood, who came to the plant 50 years ago next December, ranks as the oldest employe. Three others in the 45 to 49 year class are William Woehler, Melrose Park; Herman Schmidt, Maywood, and G. G. Reynolds, 5515 Haddon av.

Members of the 40 to 44 year old class include Louis Wise, John Lessman, Gus Steinhebel, W. E. Watters, J. E. McCullough, and F. G. Smith, all of Maywood; Herman C. Berndt, Sam Bruzas, Julius Frillman, and August Passarella, all of Melrose Park, and Eugene Winford, 2213 Washington blvd., and Paul Hahn, 4812 Fulton st.

List Officers.

Officers are John E. McCullough, president; William Woehler, vice president, and Harry Harris, secretary-treasurer.

The Melrose Park works is one of six plants of the National Malleable and Steel Castings company, which has its home office in Cleveland, O., to organize a Naco Service society chapter.

SOLAR HEATING WILL HELP CUT BILLS ON FUEL

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Solar heating is something we will see in many of our post-war homes, and because this is a supplement to furnace or boiler heating and a help in keeping down fuel bills, it is something to include in those "note books" we are keeping.

One important requisite is a great deal of glass on the south side of the house. Wide eaves also are a part of this type construction. These are designed so that they will intercept the rays of the sun in hot weather when the sun is high but will admit these same rays in cold weather when the sun is low in the sky.

Solar Method Valuable.

Since insulated glass, or glass which consists of double panes with dead air space between the panes, is a development which is here to stay, the solar method of conserving heat becomes even more practical. Insulating glass prevents heat from escaping from the house interior, yet permits it to enter.

[If this seems an anomaly it is really quite simple: the sun's rays are radiant heat and they penetrate the insulating glass, but this same glass blocks heat convection from within the house to the out-of-doors.]

Radiant Method Outlined.

Another item of interest to be included in the note book on post-war homes is the so-called panel or radiant heating. This method was well started before the war. It eliminates registers or radiators and instead uses a network of pipes laid in the walls, ceiling, or under the floor.

It is claimed that radiant heating may be used with any type of furnace or fuel. One especial advantage of this method, put forth by its advocates, is the fact that hot and cold spots in a room are eliminated because the radiating surfaces of heat are so large.

Ohio State Has Plan.

You may want to check, too, on developments of engineers at Ohio State university who have built ceramic heaters made largely of hollow tile.

Coal is reduced to coke inside these heaters before it is ignited by means of convector passages. These convector passages impart heat to the charge in the magazine.

From the University of Illinois will come a development in the form of a down draft burner for the smokeless combustion of soft coal.

Research scientists at the university state that the burner fits into the combustion chamber where it can be fired thru the door. Air is admitted which helps in the burning of gases and smoke thru a baffle door which divides the burner into two chambers.

SAFETY COUNCIL IN PARK RIDGE TO MEET TOMORROW

The Park Ridge Safety council will meet at 8 p. m. tomorrow in the city hall, E. W. Beard, president, has announced. Speaker will be Paul Jones, director of public information for the National Safety council.

Every community organization in Park Ridge has pledged to have a representative attend. Following Jones' talk, a plan to minimize all types of accidents will be outlined.

The new program committee of the Park Ridge Safety council includes Wayne Jackson, Mrs. George Lyon, Mrs. Charles Passmore, and Roy Wright. Bellman D. Jones is chairman.

Ania Dorfmann, pianist, will join Arturo Toscanini and the NBC Symphony orchestra in a performance of Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 1 in C major on WMAQ-NBC at 4 p. m. today.

RADIO ARTISTS TO HOLD ANTICS NEXT SATURDAY

Queen to Be Crowned at Party.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The Chicago local of the American Federation of Radio Artists will hold its annual AFRA Antics next Saturday in the grand ballroom of the Drake hotel. The party is open to the public. There will be entertainment by the stars of radio, screen and stage, and an autograph bar with every notable present taking a turn as bartender. Proceeds will go to the union's sick and benefit fund.

Chicago's radio queen will be crowned at the party. Two television queens already have been chosen. They are the Dinning Twins, Jean and Ginger, heard on W-G-N's Swing's the Thing and the National Barn Dance. They were chosen recently when one of them appeared on the Balaban and Katz radio station and her sister viewed her at a demonstration of a post-war model television and radio receiver at the Blackstone hotel. The Chicago winners will be eligible to compete for the title of American Radio queen to be held at Hollywood on Jan. 1.

News and Notes: Roy Rogers, Republic Pictures' "King of the Cowboys," will start in a show over W-G-N-Mutual at 7:30 p. m. Tuesdays, starting Nov. 21. . . . Allan Young, Blue network comic, is offering $100 awards for comedy scripts written by high school students. This sum will be paid, says Young, for every ten minute script accepted. It should revolve about a comedy situation. Compilations of gags are out.

W-G-N is presenting a new show ribbing the classics at 12:30 p. m. Thursdays. The program featuring Frank De Vol's orchestra and the Les Paul instrumental trio is aptly called the Music Depreciation Hour.

Your America in its broadcast over W-G-N at 3 p. m. today will salute Royal Arch Gunnison, Mutual war reporter, who was interned by the Japanese after Pearl Harbor and is now back with Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the Leyte area. Elden Westley will give a condensed version of Gunnison's "I Saw Our Flag Come Down."

Last week Jack Benny introduced his new singer, Larry Stevens, a young ex-soldier. And now comes Ed Gardner with the announcement that he has signed up Bob Graham, a husky baritone, for Duffy's Tavern and pictures. Graham got his first break on the Rudy Vallee hour a few weeks ago.

Mum Show Is Background for W-G-N Broadcast

With the famed Garfield Park conservatory as a background, Park Playhouse will present a human interest story in the broadcast over W-G-N from 8:30 to 9 p. m. tomorrow. The dramatization will be built around the 32d annual chrysanthemum show at the conservatory, where 14,000 plants containing approximately 500,000 blossoms will be on display. The show opened on Friday and will run until Dec. 3.

Quiz Kids' Parents Are Guests Tonight

Parents of Quiz Kids Patrick Conlon, Maureen Buckley, Richard Williams, Harve Fischman, and Joel Kupperman will match I. Q.'s with their youngsters on WENR-Blue at 6::30 o'clock tonight. Joe Kelly is to quiz F. Parick Conlon, an attorney, J. S. Kupperman, an engineer, Patrick Buckley, a policeman, and Mrs. Kitty Fischman and Mrs. Clara Williams, housewives.

Dick Powell Acts in Comedy Theater Drama

Dick Powell and Victor Moore will be Harold Lloyd's guests on the Comedy Theater show over WMAQ-NBC at 9:30 o'clock tonight. They will co-star in a radio adaptation of the film "True to Life," a drama built around the adventures of two day time serial writers who pick their plots from life in a Brooklyn family circle.

Television Twins

Jean and Ginger Dinning (right), identical twins who sing on W-G-N, have been named television twins for the AFRA Antics to be held at the Drake hotel next Saturday.

CHARLES BOYER HALL OF FAME VISITOR TODAY

Charles Boyer, Carole Landis, Victor Borge and Diana Lynn will appear on the Radio Hall of Fame show at 5 p. m. today over WENR-Blue. Paul Whiteman's orchestra, Nan Wynn, songstress, and the Delta Rhythm Boys will be on hand to welcome the visitors.

Boyer will take the lead role in a sketch concerning the composition, "La Marseillaise." Carole Landis is billed as guest mistress of ceremonies. Accompanied by Paul Whiteman and the orchestra, Diana Lynn, piano playing co-star of the film, "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," will play.

Salute Waller School on Citizens Program

Waller High school will be saluted on the Citizens of Tomorrow program over W-G-N at 10 a. m. next Saturday. The program will feature Richard Wright, bass-baritone student, who won honors in the last Chicago Music festival. Principal Maurice C. Lipman will speak. Richard Kutz will report news happenings of other schools. Philip Maxwell will name to the roll of honor: William E. Branen of Waller and Marjorie Stolz, of Ottumwa, Ia.

Peter Eagle, Harpist, Symphony Hall Soloist

McDonald's "From Childhood" suite for harp and orchestra, presenting Peter Eagle as soloist, will be featured on the Symphony Hall program over W-G-N, WGNB at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday. Henry Weber will direct the W-G-N Symphony orchestra in presentations of the overture to von Weber's "Oberon," Rachmaninoff's "Vocalise," and dances from Borodin's "Prince Igor."

Diana Lynn, 18, on Information Please

Diana Lynn, 18 year old actress and star in the film, "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," will be a guest on the Information Please program over WMAQ-NBC at 8:30 p. m. tomorrow. Miss Lynn is the youngest guest ever scheduled to appear on the broadcast. Appearing with her will be Emily Kimbrough, co-author of the book from which the film was taken.

W-G-N Bondwagon Goes Back on Air Tomorrow

After a recess of several months, the W-G-N Bondwagon show will return to the air at 12:30 p. m. tomorrow. The half hour broadcast will be heard every Monday and Wednesday. Tomorrow's program will feature members of the barn dance cast.

Broadcast Hockey Match.

The final period of the Chicago Blackhawks-Montreal Canadiens hockey match will be aired over WIND at 10:05 o'clock tonight.

THEATER OF AIR WILL PRESENT 'THE NEW MOON'

"The New Moon," popular Sigmund Romberg operetta with an early New Orleans setting, will be presented on the Chicago Theater of the Air next Saturday before an audience of more than 4,000 people at Medinah temple, Wabash av. and Ohio st. in Chicago. The broadcast will be presented over W-G-N, WGNB and the coast to coast Mutual network from 9 to 10 p. m., one hour later than in other years.

Marion Claire will be featured in the role of Marianne, and Bruce Foote, baritone, will be heard opposite her as Robert Misson. The role of Phillipe will be sung by Earle Wilkie, baritone.

Musical accompaniment for the soloists will be provided by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber.

Laurette Fillbrandt will take the leading dramatic role and will be supported by a cast of leading Chicago radio actors and actresses. Jack La Frandre, writer-director of the series, will produce the show.

SCOUT MEETING IS PLANNED ON ADVANCEMENT

Various phases of the Boy Scout advancement program will be discussed at a district advancement rally at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening in the Garfield park recreation building.

Clyde Winkler of Cicero has been appointed attendance chairman. He will be assisted by Frank Mentone, 712 S. Loomis st.

The program will include an introduction by Maurice Giles, chairman of the advancement committee, and discussions by Saul Bolch, Clarence Hale, Ernest Jones, Walter Wojcik, and Morris Ruskin, committee members.

CHURCH MARKS ITS 50TH YEAR THRUOUT WEEK

Forest Glen Group to Celebrate.

The 50th anniversary of the First Congregational church of Forest Glen, Catalpa and Lawler avs., will be observed in a series of special programs opening Wednesday and continuing thru next Sunday. The Rev. John G. Craig, pastor, is serving as captain in the army chaplain's corps and his work is being carried on by the boards of deacons and trustees, aided by student pastors and substitute speakers.

Co-chairmen of the anniversary program are Kenneth Jacobs and Howard F. Stettler. Miss Martha H. MacMillan is handling publicity for the celebration and Miss Molly Hampson is corresponding with more than 50 service men from the church in regard to the anniversary. Publications, including a souvenir church history, are being arranged by Theodore H. Griesenauer.

Program Opens Wednesday.

Anniversary events will begin with a program at 8 p. m. Wednesday, at which the Rev. Albert T. Rasmussen, research director for the Chicago Congregational union, will speak. This will be followed by a dedication of the remodeled church social rooms and a reception.

Homecoming will be celebrated on Thursday at 8 p. m. with a program conducted by the Ladies' Aid society. Letters will be read from former members and from men in service. There will be a program of reminiscences and a special ceremony of cutting the birthday cake.

Committee to Report.

At the anniversary dinner at 5:30 p. m. Friday, served by members of the Forest Glen guild, a special program will include a report of the plans for the future by the building committee.

Two services will conclude the anniversary celebration. At the 11 a. m. service next Sunday the Rev. Niel E. Hansen, general director of the Chicago Congregational union, will be the speaker. The Rev. D. M. Nicol, pastor of the Watson Park Congregational church, will deliver the sermon at 8 p. m.

Plan Post-war Building.

Included in the anniversary observance will be the opening of a campaign to secure funds for the building of a new church edifice soon after the war ends.

The community of Forest Glen was once the 57 acre farm of William C. Hazelton, a cavalry captain during the Civil war. In the '80s Hazelton subdivided his land into building lots, and in 1890 the community was annexed to the city.

Residents of the community in 1894 formed the First Congregational church and erected the edifice on land donated by Hazelton. A bronze tablet was dedicated to his memory in 1933. Present for the anniversary celebration will be Capt. Hazelton's daughter, Mrs. Ellen Hazelton Nicol, Grosse Point, Mich.

WOMEN TO TAKE STAR MINSTREL ROLES AT WELLS

Something new has been added to the annual minstrel show to be given at Wells High school Wednesday and Thursday at 8 p. m. This year in addition to traditional endmen and interlocutors there will be endwomen and interlocutress.

The show, which will feature the mixed chorus plus various novelty dances and solos, is directed by Hubert Nutt, head of the music department, assisted by Doris Kraft and Bernice Stortzman, student coaches.

Endwomen will include Ruth Pelkins, Ann Baratta, Josephine Bryce, Helen Stimek, Lorraine Gerone, and Bernice Stortzman. Playing the endmen will be Vito Carbonara, Nick Kovalchukoff, Richard Snyder, Ray Koz, Ray Stellmach, Arthur Novick. ## IRVING PARK CHURCH OFFERS MIDWEEK BIBLE INSTRUCTION

The Rev. Lester R. Minion.

Spurred by the enthusiastic response received last year, the First Methodist Church of Irving Park, Keeler av. and Grace st., again is offering midweek classes in religious education for children. These classes, which meet on Wednesdays from 3:45 to 4:45 p. m., were inaugurated last year by the Rev. Lester R. Minion, pastor, to supplement Sunday school instruction.

According to the Rev. Mr. Minion, a Sunday school class once a week is not enough. "By the time prayers are said, hymns are sung, and other important business is taken care of," he said, "there is usually only about a half hour left for actual instruction."

Children are being taught Bible, Bible history, Christian church history and catechism. The study courses have been planned and graded according to the age of the child. Instruction is interdenominational.

Des Plaines Children Claim Spotlight in Mask and Wig Thriller

Caught in the act of eavesdropping when the attic door falls open is Bud, played by John Hunting; Martha, played by Margaret Shores, and (standing) Lena, as portrayed by Carol Duthie. This exciting episode happens in the first act of "Radio Rescue," a 3 act play to be given by the Des Plaines Mask and Wig club three times starting at 8 p. m. Thursday.

Hungrily casting a line for fish in a spooky old mill are Alayne Ahbe and Don Johns. They play the roles of Sparky and Jill in the play to be given in the Des Plaines Congregational church.

Harland Roden of the production crew hammers in a final nail while Director Bill Howard checks measurements. Mrs. Pearl Sloan and Edgar Meyers put finishing touches on a railroad embankment prop. The club makes all its scenery.

Mask and Wig club president, Lucille Roden tries her hand as makeup artist on Edgar Meyers. Edgar will play the part of Quinn, the detective. Harold Stangor and Mrs. Arlene Carson warm up the amateur radio outfit used in the play's dramatic rescue. Mrs. Carson is the only adult in the production. Harold will portray a crippled boy eager to help Sparky and Jill in their difficulties.

ACACIA CHURCH CORNERSTONE TO BE LAID TODAY

The cornerstone of the Acacia Presbyterian church building will be laid at 12:30 p. m. today. The building will be erected at Oriole and Cullom avs. The Rev. Roscoe J. Varble is pastor.

Participating in ceremonies will be Dr. Paul S. Johnson, and Dr. William Du Bourdieu of the Chicago Presbytery board; Dr. Bertram G. Jackson, church moderator; Mr. William A. Miller, chairman of the building committee, and Mrs. Z. Louella Butts, church treasurer.

Names of contributors, a roster of church officials, a used church Bible, a 1944 penny, a copy of the ground breaking service, and pictures of the old church before and after the fire, will be sealed in the cornerstone. This church, established about 60 years ago, was the first in Leyden township.

Woman's Service Club.

The Woman's War Service club will give a Monte Carlo festival next Sunday afternoon and evening at 5835 Irving Park rd.

FIRST LUTHERAN CHURCH TO GIVE CHORAL CONCERT

The Music guild of the First Lutheran church, 3500 Fullerton av., will present the church choir in its annual organ and choral concert at 4 p. m. today. Edgar A. Lundberg, minister of music will direct the choir.

Sara Hammerschmidt, organist and winner of the young artists' contest of the Society of American Musicians, will play a group of organ solos.

Signe Quale, dramatic soprano, will be guest soloist. The service is open to the public.

Humboldt Group to Offer Unusual Jewish Music

The Humboldt Boulevard Temple sisterhood, 1908 N. Humboldt blvd., is sponsoring a musical tonight at 8 p. m.. Unusual Jewish and classical music will be presented by Cantor Maurice Goldberg and Mrs. Ruth Skurnik accompanied by Mrs. Ann Goldberg; Joseph Golan, violinist; and Mrs. Herma Steiner, pianist. Mrs. James Eskin is chairman.

PACIFIC VETERAN SEES SHIP COME THRU BOMBINGS

Coxswain Arthur C. Carlson Jr., 5841 Manton av., was home on furlough recently. He is a veteran of 18 months sea duty in the South Pacific.

On duty on a supply ship he witnessed the invasions of Bougainville, the Bismarck archipelago, and Guam. During the Bougainville landing his ship came thru 28 bombing attacks unscathed. At Guam, he said, Jap air power faded completely.

Carlson was employed by a paper company prior to entering service in 1940. His brother, Corp. Donald, expects to go overseas as a waist gunner on a bomber.

Grandson of Clemenceau Will Speak at North Park

Pierre Clemenceau, grandson of the premier of France during World War I., and member of the supply council of the French National committee, will speak Tuesday at 8 p. m. on "France—Today and Tomorrow" at North Park college, Foster and Kedzie avs.

Children Set Fast Pace for Fighting Tars

BY MAURINE MYERS.

The last few weeks have been hectic for the Dragin boys. Alex, 20, and George, 18, declare that life in the navy is tame compared to the whirlwind they've been going thru. There are those who would think a sailor's duties on an LST [landing ship, tank] under enemy fire are anything but humdrum. But the boys are finding real excitement on their first leaves at home with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dragin, 3234 Beach st.

Alex enlisted in June, 1942, and has been overseas for 17 months. George entered the navy in December, 1942, and has been on the seas for nine months. The boys have been to England, France, Italy, and Africa, have met Nazis, and been under enemy fire. But their biggest thrill came when they unexpectedly ran into each other in Arzew, near Oran. They came back to the United States in September, on the same convoy, but in different ships.

Demand for Stories.

"The service was never like this," purrs Alex. He and George sleep until midmorning, when their indulgent mother serves breakfast in bed. Then they have a few hours with their most appreciative audience, three younger brothers and a sister.

Steve, 7, clumps around the living room in a huge pair of George's sea boots, and begs for more and more stories. Milan, 10, and Judy, 12, each with one foot thrust into a hip-deep Nazi field boot, struggle over who gets the next turn at the German automatic rifle Alex got in a trade in France. The bolt is gone, and no American bullets will fit the gun, so Mrs. Dragin lets them aim it with abandon. Jeep, the children's black mongrel dog, contributes to the general uproar by plunging madly at the Nazi boots.

Swims Ashore in Landing.

Robin, 14, wears George's blue sailor hat constantly, indoors and out, and pauses now and then to get the effect in any mirror handy. Paula, 17, and Blanche, 21, are away at their jobs during the day time, but in the evening, if the boys happen to be home, they join in the banter.

When the boys feel like talking of their experiences, they have plenty to talk about. George was in the last LST in a wave of landing boats during the invasion of southern France, and the crew of a Junkers picked his boat as the target for a bomb it launched. George was one of the survivors of the direct hit, and swam ashore with his trousers and shoes, all the possessions he had left.

Taken to Corsica with the survivors, he was given army clothing, and sent on to a rest camp at Naples for 18 days.

"That was the life," he recalls. "Eat and swim, swim and eat. That's absolutely all we did."

On Ship with Prisoners.

Later he was on the crew of a ship which carried Nazi prisoners from France to England, and came in contact with a German corporal, about 30, and a German private, 21. "The corporal was an arrogant guy. But the private was a pretty decent fellow. He said he'd just been nabbed for the service without any formalities at all, and was happy to have been captured.

"He ate like he'd never had any real food before, but he didn't quite know how to handle the grapefruit juice. He poured it over his oatmeal. He was O. K., tho; he gave us all his badges and pictures. They both asked us why we were bothering to take them to England to be shot, and why didn't we just shoot them there and be done with it?"

Alex suffered attacks of malaria, in Africa and again in Italy. For a month he was stationed ashore in Marseilles, where he watched the maquis shave the heads of feminine collaborationists. "It wasn't much excitement, tho," he says disparagingly, "nothing at all compared to Chi."

Coincidence in Furloughs.

The boys will go to Norfolk, Va., for reassignment. Their leaves, which coincided so miraculously, will end on the optimistic note that it won't be too long before they're home again—for good.

Whenever visitors come, Mrs. Dragin displays the huge Nazi flag Alex acquired in a "horse-trading" deal in Marseilles, and the Nazi helmets each boy brought home. Then she brings out the book of her poetry recently published. A regular contributor to THE TRIBUNE'S Wake of the News and White Collar Girl columns, Mrs. Dragin has had her verses printed in a little volume dedicated to "the fighting men and the women who sent them away with a smile." "Or with a sigh of relief," she adds teasingly, as she cuffs one of the boys affectionately.

"Read the last poem in the book. It's good!" Alex advises.

"What do you mean? They're all good!" Mrs. Dragin retorts.

And the Dragins are at it again.

FETE N. W. SIDE PAIR AT TWO RECEPTIONS ON GOLDEN WEDDING

A reception was given recently at the Hauge Evangelical Lutheran church honoring Mr. and Mrs. Michael Veggeberg, 2122 N. Keystone av., on their golden wedding. The Rev. Sen Carlson presided over the brief program. A second reception and a dinner for 165 friends and relatives was held later at R. H. K. hall, 1733 N. Kedvale.

Mrs. Veggeberg.

Michael Veggeberg.

Mr. Veggeberg, 73, and Mrs. Veggeberg, 70, were born in Norway. They met after coming to Chicago.

They have three daughters and a son: Mrs. Sophie V. Lund of Naperville, Mrs. Edith J. Brown of Braidwood, Mrs. Lillian Burkill of Lake Bluff, and J. Maurice Veggeberg of Chicago. There are five grandchildren.

Student Clubs Aid Red Cross at Kelvyn Park

More than half of the 1,800 students at Kelvyn Park High school, 4343 Wrightwood av., have done Junior Red Cross work thru auxiliaries formed wherever they would not interfere with studies, according to Mrs. Elida Murphy, faculty member and Junior Red Cross coördinator.

Since the war so many students have been working after school that a regular Red Cross council was impossible. It was Mrs. Murphy's idea to form auxiliaries, thus enabling students to combine class and Red Cross work.

Art Class Completes Unit.

Students in the creative art classes taught by Miss Ethel Ouda, Mrs. Victorine Rummel, and Miss Eleanore McWhinnie recently completed a unit for overseas shipment. It includes 2,245 toothpick ice cream decorations, 200 decorated nut cups, 125 Christmas carol booklets, 920 collapsible tray favors, 175 party favors, and 16 Christmas table center pieces.

Work also has been done in the industrial arts classes of Ferdinand Heimberger and Andrew McLaren. Students have been turning out handy wooden game kits, as well as toys for service men's children.

Many Girls' Groups Sewing.

Girls in the classes of Miss Camille Cepek and Miss Rachel Marshall as well as those in the Home Economics club, sponsored by Miss Gertrude Ahern, are sewing. The Red Cross has been promised 25 pairs of scuffies, 10 bedside bags, 10 hot water bottle covers, five layette blankets, five layette dresses, five layette gowns, six shoulderettes, three pairs of mittens, and 60 card table covers by Jan. 1.

Girls in the language clubs are knitting afghan squares at home under supervision of Mrs. Elma Bergstrom, Spanish teacher. The Freshman Girls' Athletic association has completed several joke and cartoon scrapbooks for hospitalized service men.

Name Area Representatives.

Junior Red Cross representatives on the northwest side include Doris J. Williams, 2755 N. Kostner av.; Kenneth Strand, 2454 N. Bernard st., and Marjorie Prokap, 2537 N. Lowell av.

The first Saturday in the month they attend a meeting at Red Cross headquarters to receive instructions for the school. All work done by students is voluntary.

SEEK FUNDS FOR LANDSCAPING AT ARMY HOSPITAL

Work is going forward by a committee of Chicagoans to raise funds for landscaping the grounds at Vaughan General hospital. The plan is to plant for permanence and year round effectiveness.

Mrs. Joseph Cudahy of the Red Cross camp and hospital committee, has obtained services of a landscape architect to aid in the project. Thru efforts of a planting committee, funds will be solicited for the work.

Northwest siders on the committee include Miss Elizabeth Howland, Barrington, and William H. Colwell, Park Ridge. The funds will be channeled thru the Red Cross.

WAR FUND TAB SHOWS DRIVE NEAR STRETCH

Raise 85 Per Cent of $12,980,000 Goal.

The Community and War Fund campaign thruout the metropolitan area has raised more than $11,058,350, or 85 per cent of the $12,980,000 goal, according to Clarence B. Randall, general chairman of the drive. The campaign began on Oct. 2, and the latest audit covers the first five weeks.

Owen L. Coon, chairman of the city division, indicated in his report that approximately $674,347 has been raised toward the division goal of $1,200,000. The women's division, led by Mrs. Bernice T. Van der Vries, has reported more than $408,228, or 68 per cent of a $600,000 quota.

Area Leader Announced.

R. E. Emanuel, regional chairman, has announced that the section including Avondale, Logan Square, Wrightwood, Milwaukee, and Humboldt Park is leading all other northwest side areas, with more than $11,000 subscribed in the campaign. Glibert Adamowski, 3045 Milwaukee av., is section chairman.

Two team captains, Carl Spahn, 1117 Euclid av., Oak Park, and J. M. Kalish, 4720 N. Kimball av., have gone "over the top" on quotas. Spahn, who handled his solicitation alone, brought in $2,350 or 181 per cent of his goal in the Cragin park district.

Raises 113 Per Cent.

The team under Kalish raised 113 per cent of its quota or $1,474. Workers on this team include Jack Puzes, 3123 Argyle st.; Jacob Goldman, 3630 Montrose av.; Clarence Ebert, 3730 Montrose av.; Walter Pries, 3916 Montrose av.; George P. Alt, 3224 Montrose av.; Mrs. Jean Stein, 4349 N. Spaulding av., and Mary Feldstein, 4419 N. Drake av.

In the women's division, Mrs. George E. Olson, regional chairman for the northwest side, announced that approximately $6,000 was collected during the first week of the residential solicitation. The section including Edison Park, Norwood Park, Edgebrook, Forest Glen, Jefferson Park, Sauganash and Mayfair currently leads in the residential appeal. This section is under the leadership of Mrs. Laura Hughes Lunde, 6708 N. Olympia av., and has reported subscriptions amounting to more than $3,600.

Show Leading Teams.

The most recent audit revealed team captains who had brought in the highest totals and the amounts collected to be as follows:

Mrs. Helen Strull, 4724 N. Lawndale av., $400; Mrs. David Rockoff, 4719 N. Lawndale av., $400; Mrs. Roy Simmons, 6139 Newberry av., $411; Mrs. Fred Wilson, 5922 Nickerson av., $379; Mrs. Ed Gordon, 1737 N. Humboldt blvd., $600, and Mrs. Jack Klein, 2003 N. Kedzie av., $300.

CHAPEL IN SOUTH PACIFIC HONORS ZIONIST FIGHTER

A memorial chapel in the South Pacific has been dedicated to Lt. Harry S. Tolen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Tolen, 3137 Lawrence av. Lt. Tolen was killed in action in that territory earlier this year.

An ardent Zionist, Lt. Tolen was executive director of Chicago Young Judaea, youth branch of the movement. At their convention today in the Morrison hotel, delegates of various Chicago Young Judaea chapters will propose a resolution to institute a perpetual Tolen memorial. This will be in the form of a book shelf in the library of the college of Jewish studies.

Prior to entering service almost two years ago, Lt. Tolen was a lawyer.

Sisterhood of Beth-El Will Meet on Tuesday

N. W. SUBURBAN ACTORS TO GIVE CHILD THRILLER

Des Plaines Show Will Open Thursday.

The Des Plaines Mask and Wig club will presents its annual children's play this week. This year's offering, "Radio Rescue," is a three act suspense drama by Charlotte Chorpenning. Performances will be given Thursday and Friday at 8 p. m. and and Saturday at 10 a. m.

Leading roles are played by Don Johns, 18, Luther Institute graduate, and Alayne Ahbe, 8th grade student at Des Plaines Junior High school. The supporting cast includes: Margaret Shores, Carol Duthie, John Hunting, Bette Samson, Phyllis Baranski, Harold Stangor, Bob Dolley, Edgar Meyers, and Arlene Carson, who is the only adult in the production.

Plenty of Thrills.

The play reportedly has as many thrills as a 5 o'clock radio serial. The suspense is climaxed with nothing less than the prevention of a train wreck in the third act.

Director Bill Howard planned the stage settings and lighting. An electrical engineer by day, he can be found almost any evening pursuing his favorite hobby, the designing and building of sets for one or another of the group's plays. According to Mrs. Pearl Sloan, production manager, "until he came along about four years ago, only simple drawing rooms plays requiring little or no scenery could be presented."

Use Three Different Sets.

"In Radio Rescue,'" she continued proudly, "a different set is used in each act . . . the most unique being a partially washed out railroad trestle for the last scene." Others on the production staff are Harland Roden, stage manager, and Arlene Carson, business manager.

Mask and Wig, now in its eighth year, presents two major productions a year. Between shows the group meets bi-monthly to study dramatics, make-up, and costuming and presents short workshop plays. The 40 members take turns playing one act skits, and the public is invited to submit suggestions and criticisms. Officers of the club are Lucille Roden, president; Bill Howard, vice president; Arlene Carson, secretary, and Sterling Blackwell, treasurer.

DINNER PLANNED FOR N. W. AREAS' SCOUT LEADERS

A dinner for the Scoutmasters, cubmasters, and their assistants of Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, and Prospect Heights, will be held Tuesday at 7 p. m. in the Lutheran school auditorium, Mount Prospect.

The Rev. John B. Hubbard of Park Ridge and Stanley Huntington, Scout executive for the northwest suburban council, will speak. Byron Bohrer, Scout from Prospect Heights, will entertain with magic and the Prospect Heights barber shop quartet will sing. Arthur Wiedeman of Des Plaines will be master of ceremonies.

Scoutmasters, cubmasters and assistants of these localities are: Des Plaines—Walter Eigenbrod, Elmer Buch, Forrest Connelly, Eric Church, Frank Krumweide, George Rudolph, Peter A. Erbach, Albert L. Baker, T. R. Smith, Edward C. Johnson, W. A. Ziebell, A. N. Wagenknight, George Kammerer, Wynn C. Howard, Hale W. Olson, Stephen Sisulak, Gordon Bichele, Robert Pelinski, Charles Mack, S. L. McNamara, and E. P. Setzer.

Arlington Heights—Martin W. Freeman, Elmer J. Thorsen Sr., William J. Freyermuth, Theodore L. Archibald, Clayton B. Jones, Frank Havranek, Elmer R. Frase, A. W. Meyer, Delmar P. Jacques, Charles B. Schumacher, and Dr. J. E. Hunsinger. Mount Prospect—John A. Cunningham, James Crawford, Lawrence Hauptly, J. B. Keithley, Norton H. Gilbert, James Wax, and M. L. Green. Prospect Heights—George J. Westerman, Robert A. Andreas, Marvin A. Vohs, Vernon E. Nelson, and Einar Larson.

St. Mary of Nazareth Unit to Meet Tuesday

The Women's Auxiliary of St. Mary of Nazareth hospital will meet at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in the hospital, 1120 N. Leavitt st. Bandage making will precede the meeting. Mrs. Bernard Kolter is president of the group.

Brothers Fond of Sailor Suits

When the Dragin boys, Alex, left, in both pictures, and George, had their pictures taken 13 years ago, their mother wasn't planning a sequence in sailor suits. But the boys recently finished their first furloughs at home, after two years' service in the navy. En route home from European waters, the boys paused long enough in New York to have another photo taken for their mother, Mrs. Paul Dragin, 3234 Beach st. Alex, at the left, is 20 now, and George is 18.

FORM TWO NEW CUB PACKS FOR NORTHWEST SIDE

C. R. Keller, chairman of the cub committee has announced the formation of two new cub packs on the northwest side. One, sponsored by the Northwestern University Settlement house, 1400 Augusta blvd., is led by Cubmaster Michael M. Rachwalski. Marion Kudlick, 1200 N. Ashland av., heads the pack as committee chairman and is assisted by Charles Blazek, 980 Milwaukee av.

Edwin Droszoz, 1346 W. Walton st., is cubmaster of the new pack sponsored by the Holy Trinity Roman Catholic church, 1118 Noble st. The Rev. J. J. Winiarski is chairman of the pack committee and is assisted by Edward Tabisz, 2028 Cortez st., and John Wopik, 1732 W. Potomac av.

Local boys are taking an interest in the new Explorer Scout program, according to Arthur H. Jones, 906 W. Winona st., senior Scout commissioner. A new post has been organized with Charles Campe Sr., 2634 W. Rice st., as post adviser and his son as explorer guide. This committee is headed by George J. Otte, 2247 Iowa st., and assisted by Joseph Olszowska, 365 W. Ohio st., and Louis Andrioni, 843 N. Maplewood av.

Labor Leader Will Speak on Forum in Wicker Park

Armin George Weng, president of the United Lutheran church, Illinois synod, will preside at the community forum today at 3:30 p. m. in the Wicker Park Lutheran church, Hoyne av. and Le Moyne st. John G. Ramsay of the United Steel Workers union will talk on "Labor and the Church."

CLUBS COMBINE TO SHOOT FILMS ON WIDER RANGE

This week will mark another milestone for the Metro Movie club, comprised of amateur movie makers from the northwest side. It will join with the South Side Cinema club and the Suburban Amateur Movie club to form the Associated Amateur Movie Club of Chicagoland, with the first joint meeting to be held at 8:15 p. m. Wednesday in River park fieldhouse, 5100 N. Francisco av.

Each club will continue to meet as a separate organization, but joint meetings will be held regularly. The amalgamation is planned to aid members in comparing experiences and thus improve technique.

Seven Form Club.

When Metro Movie club was organized in 1937, it had a nucleus of seven enthusiastic amateur movie makers. By 1941 the membership roster reached 89, and Dr. C. Enion Smith was elected president. In the three years during which Dr. Smith has served, membership increased 124.

Weekly meetings include discussion periods with members bringing questions, and each contributing from his experience in movie making. Other evenings are devoted to films taken by members, with subject matter ranging from pre-war European trips to trick photography. Occasionally a guest program will be presented, as is the plan for Wednesday night when Mrs. Erma Niedermeyer of Milwaukee will present prize winning films. At each meeting there is a five minute technical talk.

Officers include Arthur Elliott, vice president and program chairman; W. J. Wright, secretary; P. A. Sandbloom, treasurer, and Harry Clark, I. N. Bauer, H. A. Arnold, A. J. Barcal, and Morris Baker, board members. Occupations of members range from professional men to housewives.

Produce Prize Pictures.

Several prize winning films have been made by club members. Theodore Shaw's color views of Chicago and of the national corn husking contest won prizes in nation-wide competition. Curtis Talbot's color film, "Fisherman's Dream," also is a prize winner. Dr. Smith won a prize on his animated movie which took a year to complete. Thru his trick photography, flowers grow up as if by magic from empty flowerpots, and toy villages mushroom into existence. Dr. Smith accomplished this by photographing the entire plant first, then removing a few petals and rephotographing it. This process was continued until the entire plant had been worn down. Running the finished film backward, the plant appears to grow and flower rapidly.

Vacations are favorite subjects for members. Whether they go to Washington, D. C., the New England states, or the southwest, members are never without their cameras, exposure meters, filters, tripods, and auxiliary lenses. "We go on vacations and get pictures, then come home to rest and enjoy what we saw on those vacations," Dr. Smith explained.

SCHURZ LEADER WINS QUILL AND SCROLL HONORS

The Schurz Evening Leader, monthly newspaper of Schurz Evening High school, 3601 Milwaukee av., again has been awarded first place by Quill and Scroll, international honorary high school journalism society. In competition with approximately 20,000 publications, the Leader kept the award it has held for five consecutive years.

The Evening Leader is written and edited by journalism students in evening school, under guidance of Harold A. Shanafield.

OUR TOWN

MR. AND MRS. FRED STEIN, 1101 N. Keeler av., celebrated their golden wedding recently with a dinner attended by friends and relatives. Present for the occasion were Mrs. Mamie Krueger and William Dettmer who attended the wedding. Both Mr. Stein, 81, and Mrs. Stein, 78,

Fred Stein.

came to this country from Germany when young. Mr. Stein was employed as a wood finisher, and Mrs. Stein as a dressmaker, until they both retired from active business 16 years ago. Their daughter, Mrs. Selma Littwin, and their four grandchildren reside at the same address.

Annie Horan, 3074 Davlin ct., and Marion Egan, 3055 Palmer sq., recently were presented with trophies won in the national speed roller skating championships. Both girls are members of the Riverview Flashes, a skating club which meets at Riverview rink, 2500 Belmont av.

At their golden wedding recently Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Boldt, 2707 Augusta blvd., renewed their marriage vows in a ceremony before the Rev. Edward Busse of St. Matthews Evangelical and Reformed church. A surprise party was held in their honor by their two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Gentile and Mrs. Lillian Mortier. Both Mr. Boldt, 73, and Mrs. Boldt, 67, are natives of Chicago. They have two granddaughters and four great-grandchildren.

The Forest Glen guild will present Laurene Hoppe in a review of two books, "One Man's Meat" by E. B. White, and "I Never Left Home" by Bob Hope.

O, TO BE IN ITALY IN FALL, DREAMS WEARER OF D. F. C.

When Two Motors Conk, Base Looks Swell.

Sgt. Leroy T. Sanders, 2507 N. Harding av., hadn't realized that an Italian base could look so good as it did the day his Liberator limped back from an engagement with the enemy. For his part of the raid Sgt. Sanders won the distinguished flying cross.

Sgt. Leroy Sanders.

A gunner with the 15th army air force, Lt. Sanders was in a plane badly damaged by flak over Ploesti. The plane was forced to leave the formation after dropping its bombs. A few moments later the second engine went out, and the Liberator was unable to climb over the mountains of Yugoslavia.

Flies Thru Passes.

"We had to go thru the mountain passes and down twisting valleys," Sanders wrote home. "We were just praying that the navigator wouldn't miss a turn, and that the two remaining engines kept going." Sgt. Sanders, the son of Mrs. Alma Sanders, went to Italy last spring and has flown 50 combat missions. He also wears the air medal with three clusters.

Another northwest side man to receive the D. F. C. was Sgt. Sten E. Redig, 3446 Irving Park rd., who was cited for "extraordinary achievement" by Brig. Gen. William H. Tunner, commanding general of the India-China division, air transport command. Sgt. Redig has served with the division since Sept. 14, 1943. He is a radio operator on one of the giant transport planes which hauls military cargo to allied forces in China by crossing the treacherous north Burma hump of the Himalayas.

Bombs Berlin—and How!

Lt. Walter J. Sebo, 1657 N. Francisco av., co-pilot on a B-24 Liberator based in England, won the award for extraordinary achievement in aerial combat. Lt. Sebo's crew has flown 32 bombing missions over Germany and enemy occupied Europe, and has received a commendation from Lt. Gen. Doolittle for combat achievement on its first mission, the bombing of Berlin.

The flight was the longest initial mission ever flown by any unit in the European theater, and also was one of the heaviest daylight bombardments of the German capital on record. Lt. Sebo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Sebo, entered the service June 12, 1941, and holds the air medal with three clusters as well as the D. F. C.

Sgt. Harold W. Decker, 4814 Argyle st., and his troop carrier unit recently received the Presidential unit citation for performance of duty in the European invasion. Sgt. Decker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Decker.

JEWISH FORUM WILL OPEN WITH NIGHT OF MUSIC

The first session of the newly organized Lecture Forum of the North Park Shaare Tivkah, 3314 Bryn Mawr av., will be held at 8:30 p. m. tomorrow. Lectures which are scheduled for the second Monday of the month are held at the Peterson school, 5500 N. Christiana avenue.

Susie Michael, pianist and narrator, and Maurice Freidman, baritone, will be heard in Jewish music at tomorrow's meeting. Maxa Nordau, daughter of Max Nordau, Jewish philosopher, will appear on the program Dec. 11, lecturing on the "Jew's Tomorrow."

"Hitler's Last Hope" is the subject of the talk by Maurice Samuel Jan. 8. Mr. Samuel is an author, publicist, lecturer, and translator. He also is the winner of the Anisfield prize for the best book "promoting better inner cultural relations."

On Feb. 12 the forum will hear Sen. Jackson [D., Ind.] who will speak on post-war problems.

Morris Bromberg is chairman of the Lecture Forum committee assisted by the following sisterhood members: Mrs. Louis Dunn, Mrs. Leon Lowell, Mrs. Henry Spiegel, Mrs. James Bloom, Mrs. S. J. Seinfeld, and Mrs. Arthur Robinson.

Committee members of the Men's club are Sol August, Harry Lipton, Irving Gold, and Edwin Y. Ascher. Samuel Paul, Arthur Robinson, Eli Ackermann, Daniel B. Glasser, and Maurice Kilner represent the congregation. Rabbi David Graubert is spiritual head of the North Park Congregational Shaare Tikvah.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Nov. 13.

It is getting nearer real winter weather now and garden activities are confined to house plants or planning. Both are of interest to the gardener, especially planning, for on it may depend a smooth working season next year.

Some pruning can be done on nice days. All fall planted stock should be given the necessary protection, roses tucked in, cold frames banked with soil or other material, tools stored away after cleaning and oiling, garden furniture taken indoors, and lily pools prepared for winter. Water may be left in rather deep pools covered with boards and leaves, containing hardy lilies.

Grass will do poorly in dense shade, but some annual grasses can be grown if the gardener will topdress the ground with rich soil and re-sow just as soon as the prevailing stand of grass begins to look poorly. Water also is essential under such conditions. Flowers and vegetables, as a general rule, never reach their maximum possibilities when grown near shrubs.

Tuesday, Nov. 14.

Gardeners who are planning the vegetable garden should remember that at least five hours of full sun are essential to grow high quality material. Trees rob the soil of both food and moisture and vegetables should not be planted under or near them.

Weak twigs should be removed, for they contribute nothing to the plant. The best practice is to give attention to all trees each year or spring so they will need little pruning.

Wednesday, Nov. 15.

Fruit trees can be pruned any time when they are dormant. The gardener should have a few tools to work with, such as pruning shears, saw, knife, and coal tar or old paint for painting the larger branches. Some kinds of trees require very little pruning. Dead branches, diseased branches, too low or too high branches, and water sprouts should be trimmed.

Plants which will grow well where there are at least two or three hours of sun include: Coleus, corn plant or Dracaena, flowering maple, fuchsia, cyclamen, peperomia or strawberry geranium, periwinkle, pothos, spider plant [chlorophytum]. Plants for full sun: Azalea, calcolaria, heliotrope, cacti, crown of thorns, clivia, Dutch bulbs, geranium, lantana, primrose, poinsettia, shrimp plant, wax plant [hoya carnosa].

Thursday, Nov. 16.

Listed here are a few plants ideal for indoor growing where there is good light but no sun: African violet, rex begonia, Chinese evergreen, dumb cane, ferns, grape ivy, English ivy, iron plant, Norfolk island pine, palms, philodendron, screw pine, ceriman or monstera, sansevieria.

They need plenty of light, and insect pests should be kept under control. The foliage of all citrus plants is richly glossy and showy in itself. Fruits are sparingly formed and sometimes drop if the soil is permitted to dry out. Keep ferns in semi-shade, for they do not like full sunlight. Keep the soil fairly moist, not too wet. Cut the runners from ferns. The soil loses its plant food if allowed to stand too long without replanting.

Friday, Nov. 17.

The person who delights in growing something novel will find some of the citrus plants interesting. These include the ponderosa lemon, otaheite orange [not edible], and the satsuma and kumquat orange. These require a night temperature of 45 to 50 degrees, with up to 15 degrees higher during the day. The soil should be rather coarse, rich, and well drained. The pots should be plunged to the rim in the garden during summer.

Saturday, Nov. 18.

The best plants to grow in water in the house are English ivy, philodendron, tradescantia or wandering Jew, pathos, and Chinese evergreen. The paperwhite narcissus and Chinese sacred lily also may be grown in water, anchored with pebbles. If there is sufficient light, try growing a few vines indoors, such as the morning glory.

WHY Every Woman SHOULD HAVE HER OWN Personal CHECKING ACCOUNT

5¢ PER ITEM NO OTHER COST

THE HOUSEWIFE SPEAKING: "First, it's economical . . . costs only 5c a check or item of deposit. Second, a minimum balance is not required, and checks are free. Third, I must stay within my budget, and my 5c Check Account makes this easy to manage. But most of all, I like the convenience of writing a check when I make a purchase or pay a bill."

THE BUSINESS GIRL: "I'm tied down to my job and can't run out to buy money orders. And I won't risk carrying my pay in my purse or hiding it around the house. So I deposit by mail . . . Pay bills by check. And never have to worry. And, what's more, every time I write a check, I save up to 17c each on the cost of money orders."

RADIO ARTISTS TO HOLD ANTICS NEXT SATURDAY

Queen to Be Crowned at Party.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The Chicago local of the American Federation of Radio Artists will hold its annual AFRA Antics next Saturday in the grand ballroom of the Drake hotel. The party is open to the public. There will be entertainment by the stars of radio, screen and stage, and an autograph bar with every notable present taking a turn as bartender. Proceeds will go to the union's sick and benefit fund.

Chicago's radio queen will be crowned at the party. Two television queens already have been chosen. They are the Dinning Twins, Jean and Ginger, heard on W-G-N's Swing's the Thing and the National Barn Dance. They were chosen recently when one of them appeared on the Balaban and Katz radio station and her sister viewed her at a demonstration of a post-war model television and radio receiver at the Blackstone hotel. The Chicago winners will be eligible to compete for the title of American Radio queen to be held at Hollywood on Jan. 1.

News and Notes: Roy Rogers, Republic Pictures' "King of the Cowboys," will start in a show over W-G-N-Mutual at 7:30 p. m. Tuesdays, starting Nov. 21. . . . Allan Young, Blue network comic, is offering $100 awards for comedy scripts written by high school students. This sum will be paid, says Young, for every ten minute script accepted. It should revolve about a comedy situation. Compilations of gags are out.

W-G-N is presenting a new show ribbing the classics at 12:30 p. m. Thursdays. The program featuring Frank De Vol's orchestra and the Les Paul instrumental trio is aptly called the Music Depreciation Hour.

Your America in its broadcast over W-G-N at 3 p. m. today will salute Royal Arch Gunnison, Mutual war reporter, who was interned by the Japanese after Pearl Harbor and is now back with Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the Leyte area. Elden Westley will give a condensed version of Gunnison's "I Saw Our Flag Come Down."

Last week Jack Benny introduced his new singer, Larry Stevens, a young ex-soldier. And now comes Ed Gardner with the announcement that he has signed up Bob Graham, a husky baritone, for Duffy's Tavern and pictures. Graham got his first break on the Rudy Vallee hour a few weeks ago.

Peter Eagle, Harpist, Symphony Hall Soloist

McDonald's "From Childhood" suite for harp and orchestra, presenting Peter Eagle as soloist, will be featured on the Symphony Hall program over W-G-N, WGNB at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday. Henry Weber will direct the W-G-N Symphony orchestra in presentations of the overture to von Weber's "Oberon," Rachmaninoff's "Vocalise," and dances from Borodin's "Prince Igor."

W-G-N Bondwagon Goes Back on Air Tomorrow

After a recess of several months, the W-G-N Bondwagon show will return to the air at 12:30 p. m. tomorrow. The half hour broadcast will be heard every Monday and Wednesday. Tomorrow's program will feature members of the barn dance cast.

Television Twins

Jean and Ginger Dinning (right), identical twins who sing on W-G-N, have been named television twins for the AFRA Antics to be held at the Drake hotel next Saturday.

THEATER OF AIR WILL PRESENT 'THE NEW MOON'

"The New Moon," popular Sigmund Romberg operetta with an early New Orleans setting, will be presented on the Chicago Theater of the Air next Saturday before an audience of more than 4,000 people at Medinah temple, Wabash av. and Ohio st. in Chicago. The broadcast will be presented over W-G-N, WGNB and the coast to coast Mutual network from 9 to 10 p. m., one hour later than in other years.

Marion Claire will be featured in the role of Marianne, and Bruce Foote, baritone, will be heard opposite her as Robert Misson. The role of Phillipe will be sung by Earle Wilkie, baritone.

Musical accompaniment for the soloists will be provided by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber.

Laurette Fillbrandt will take the leading dramatic role and will be supported by a cast of leading Chicago radio actors and actresses. Jack La Frandre, writer-director of the series, will produce the show.

CHARLES BOYER HALL OF FAME VISITOR TODAY

Charles Boyer, Carole Landis, Victor Borge and Diana Lynn will appear on the Radio Hall of Fame show at 5 p. m. today over WENR-Blue. Paul Whiteman's orchestra, Nan Wynn, songstress, and the Delta Rhythm Boys will be on hand to welcome the visitors.

Boyer will take the lead role in a sketch concerning the composition, "La Marsellaise." Carole Landis is billed as guest mistress of ceremonies. Accompanied by Paul Whiteman and the orchestra, Diana Lynn, piano playing co-star of the film, "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," will play.

Salute Waller School on Citizens Program

Waller High school will be saluted on the Citizens of Tomorrow program over W-G-N at 10 a. m. next Saturday. The program will feature Richard Wright, bass-baritone student, who won honors in the last Chicago Music festival. Principal Maurice C. Lipman will speak. Richard Kutz will report news happenings of other schools. Philip Maxwell will name to the roll of honor: William E. Branen of Waller and Marjorie Stolz, of Ottumwa, Ia.

SOLAR HEATING WILL HELP CUT BILLS ON FUEL

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Solar heating is something we will see in many of our post-war homes, and because this is a supplement to furnace or boiler heating and a help in keeping down fuel bills, it is something to include in those "note books" we are keeping.

One important requisite is a great deal of glass on the south side of the house. Wide eaves also are a part of this type construction. These are designed so that they will intercept the rays of the sun in hot weather when the sun is high but will admit these same rays in cold weather when the sun is low in the sky.

Solar Method Valuable.

Since insulated glass, or glass which consists of double panes with dead air space between the panes, is a development which is here to stay, the solar method of conserving heat becomes even more practical. Insulating glass prevents heat from escaping from the house interior, yet permits it to enter.

[If this seems an anomaly it is really quite simple: the sun's rays are radiant heat and they penetrate the insulating glass, but this same glass blocks heat convection from within the house to the out-of-doors.]

Radiant Method Outlined.

Another item of interest to be included in the note book on post-war homes is the so-called panel or radiant heating. This method was well started before the war. It eliminates registers or radiators and instead uses a network of pipes laid in the walls, ceiling, or under the floor.

It is claimed that radiant heating may be used with any type of furnace or fuel. One especial advantage of this method, put forth by its advocates, is the fact that hot and cold spots in a room are eliminated because the radiating surfaces of heat are so large.

Ohio State Has Plan.

You may want to check, too, on developments of engineers at Ohio State university who have built ceramic heaters made largely of hollow tile.

Coal is reduced to coke inside these heaters before it is ignited by means of convector passages. These convector passages impart heat to the charge in the magazine.

From the University of Illinois will come a development in the form of a down draft burner for the smokeless combustion of soft coal.

Research scientists at the university state that the burner fits into the combustion chamber where it can be fired thru the door. Air is admitted which helps in the burning of gases and smoke thru a baffle door which divides the burner into two chambers.

Mum Show Is Background for W-G-N Broadcast

With the famed Garfield Park conservatory as a background, Park Playhouse will present a human interest story in the broadcast over W-G-N from 8:30 to 9 p. m. tomorrow. The dramatization will be built around the 32d annual chrysanthemum show at the conservatory, where 14,000 plants containing approximately 500,000 blossoms will be on display. The show opened on Friday and will run until Dec. 3.

Broadcast Hockey Match.

The final period of the Chicago Blackhawks-Montreal Canadiens hockey match will be aired over WIND at 10:05 o'clock tonight.

ARMY GUIDING SOLDIERS BACK TO HAPPY LIFE

Minds, Bodies Torn by War Restored.

In army hospital centers thruout the United States and overseas physical and mental health and efficiency are being restored to wounded soldiers thru the army's reconditioning program of physiotherapy.

The program at Gardiner General hospital, 1660 Hyde Park blvd., is typical. Sick and injured men from army camps in this area who need specialized care, and battle casualties whose homes are in this area are being restored to a condition in which they either may return to active duty or to an active, wage earning civilian status.

Program in Three Aspects.

From the moment a soldier reaches the convalescent stage he engages in progressive courses under medical supervision in three main categories—physical fitness, education, and recreation.

Primarily used in orthopedic cases, physiotherapy is applied to preserve injured nerves, tissues, and muscles. By its use the number of disability cases resulting from atrophied muscles—the result of long periods of immobility while peripheral nerves healed—has been greatly lessened. One of the new medical concepts which this war has done much to develop is that while healing, the injured part should be put to use as soon as possible.

Use Special Exercises.

Included in physiotherapy treatment are whirlpool baths of air, heat, and water, each used to stimulate circulation and hasten the movement of joints. Ultra-violet ray treatments sterilize and stimulate skin growth. Massage is used after healing for stimulation of circulation.

Special exercise equipment to develop and restore particular muscles includes pullies for the development of knee and arm joints and finger ladders to limber hands. Electrotherapy provides stimulation for weak muscles and restores their use.

Apply Occupational Therapy.

Occupational therapy, which involves use of injured parts, is used widely to stimulate the development of new skills. Having the same restorative effect of physiotherapy, it is considered more beneficial because it involves more normal activity.

It has the effect of releasing tensions and stimulating interests. Those who are blind and deaf develop new skills and confidence in other senses. The bedridden are given new hope as a result of being able to do or make something useful.

Stress Normal Activities.

Altho minor crafts still are used widely in occupational therapy such normal activities as working in administrative offices, dusting, assembling small parts from war plants, and handling meat in storage rooms have become important. Other activities include carpentry, leather work, cord knotting, pottery making, wood carving, typing, use of a printing press, playing games, and using hand tools.

The physical fitness part of the program is begun while the patient is still bedfast. Inasmuch as quicker healing results when an individual's entire body is in peak condition bed patients are given limited exercises. Graded exercises are continued when the patient is permitted to leave his bed and he participates in games and sports insofar as he is able. In the final stages of convalescence patients participate in a modified army program.

Urge Self-Improvement.

Patients are urged to spend at least three hours a day in self-improvement or in stimulating studies. Correspondence courses are available covering hundreds of subjects for which service men can get high school or college credit in the majority of schools in the country.

Aviation and automotive, building construction, business administration, drafting and art, education and psychology, electricity, electronics and radio, English and journalism, foreign languages, history, government and sociology, marine engineering, mathematics, mechanics and engineering, metal working, photography, plastics, railways, and transportation, and science are the general headings of the courses offered.

Offer Many Courses.

Other phases of the educational program include army orientation courses on military subjects taught by information films, news maps, lectures, and discussions to keep the soldiers in touch with the purposes and progress of the war.

Other educational offerings include 26 foreign language "quickie" courses, classes for illiterates, libraries, educational films dealing with current events, history, geography, vocational training, morals, and other specialized films, basic radio code teaching kits and phonographs for use with foreign language and radio code teaching.

Take Many Field Trips.

Recreation and entertainment is an important part of the reconditioning program. In the wards it consists of games, group singing, movies, music, hobby crafts, sound track movies, and planned radio programs. For ambulatory patients movies, game rooms, libraries, music rooms, hobby rooms, and post exchanges are available.

At Gardiner field trips are taken once a week. Recent trips have included visits to the Museum of Natural History, Shedd aquarium, Adler planetarium, Museum of Science and Industry, stock yards, police, show ups, the Chrysler and Douglas plants, football games, and radio broadcasts.

Gardiner Hospital Paves Battle Scarred Vets' Road to Peace Time Health

Reconditioning and physiotherapy to help an injured or wounded soldier make as complete a recovery as possible is one phase of the program at Gardiner General hospital, 1660 Hyde Park blvd. Pvt. Henry Kwiatkowski, son of Mrs. Mary Kwiatkowski, 8340 Buffalo av., suffered a compound fracture of his right arm when he was struck by a shell fragment in Italy. Because of infection and the type of fracture the bone and nerves failed to reunite. Second Lt. Marie Hill, physiotherapist, adjusts an apparatus designed to prevent muscles from shrinking. An operation will repair the damage.

Injured parts heal more quickly if the rest of the body is in peak physical condition. Patients start limited exercising in army hospitals as soon as they start convalescing—48 to 72 hours after they have been operated on. Pvt. Joseph Jolivette Jr., whose parents live at 1314 W. 72d st., received a fractured left leg when he was struck by machine gun fire July 15 at Saint Lo, France. Watching him perform his exercises is Pvt. Robert Zimny, 3019 Cermak rd., physical education instructor in the reconditioning department.

Sgt. Walter Pelz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Pelz, 1472 N. Paulina st., suffered a fracture of both legs and his pelvic bone and internal injuries when his tank turned over during maneuvers in Louisiana and he was pinned beneath it. Miss Elizabeth W. Clark, senior occupational therapist, assists him in cutting a design in a piece of plywood on a bicycle jig saw. By operating the jig saw, Pelz exercises hip and knee muscles. The satisfaction of creating something of his own removes the tediousness of performing the exercises.

A whirlpool bath is the first step in restoring motion to ankle joints. Pvt. Thomas Byrnes, whose wife, Mary, and 2 year old daughter, Anna Marie, live at 539 W. 31st st., suffered a compound fracture of his left ankle when he was struck by a bullet July 26 at Saint Lo, France. His mother, Mrs. Mary Byrnes, lives at 535 W. 26th st. Pvt. Edward Kappa, 3002 S. Christiana av., a litter bearer in the medical corps, received a fractured right arm when he stepped on a land mine near Cassino, Italy. The movements required to operate a printing press will restore motion to his elbow. Miss Susan Weil, assistant occupational therapist, stands by in case he needs any assistance. Kappa's partner was uninjured, but the wounded man they were carrying was killed.

Tech. Sgt. Arthur Hagen, Rosholt, Wis., suffered a shattered left arm when he was struck by shrapnel last Dec. 3 on Goodenough Island in the Southwest Pacific. The bone failed to reunite and he will have to undergo an operation. Meanwhile, with his broken arm supported by a sling, he works braiding a belt which keeps his elbow motion free and the muscles in his forearm and fingers working so they won't get stiff. Staff Sgt. Morton Holleb, 5850 Kenmore av., received a fractured left leg when the truck he was on turned over during maneuvers in Massachusetts and he was pinned between it and a tree. He was in bed a year, had forgotten how to walk, and was too weak to use crutches. He is shown using a walker which orients him to the movements required in walking.

Three men exercise with weights which restore strength to thigh muscles and increase the range of motion in knee joints. They are, left to right, Pvt. Willard Stevenson, Rantoul, Ill., who had a dislocated knee; Sgt. Walter L. Bailey, 568 E. 51st st., who received a compound fracture of his right leg when a gun blew up at Bougainville, and Corp. Wade Shulse, whose wife, Estella, lives at 616 Barry av., who strained ligaments in his knee playing soccer. Corp. Walter W. Easley, Grensburg, La., putting additional weights on Bailey's foot, is an advanced convalescent patient. Col. John R. Hall is the commanding officer at Gardiner and Capt. Millard Marshall is in command of the physiotherapy and reconditioning program.

Fulton PTA to Meet.

The Fulton PTA will celebrate its 10th anniversary at 1 p. m. tomorrow in the school assembly hall, 5300 S. Hermitage av.

KRIST AND TANK DROP IN ON NIPS, HE WINS MEDAL

The silver star, awarded for conspicuous heroism in battle, has been given Lt. Louis M. Krist, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Krist, 2505 W. 69th st. He is stationed with an infantry outfit in the Southwest Pacific.

During recent savage fighting his men were pinned down by heavy Japanese mortar and automatic weapons fire. Their position was perilous. Krist, amid a hail of sniper fire, ran back to get support. He returned with a tank and, fully exposed to the enemy, pointed out the Nips' positions which were blasted by the tank's heavy gun. He and his company then moved forward and captured a strategic ridge.

He also wears the Purple Heart and intends to remain in the army after the war is won. His sister, Anne, is a marine; his brother, Hubert, is in the signal corps, and another brother, Charles, is stationed in New Caledonia with the army.

Brothers Not Twins? Their Careers Are

John and Joseph Spach should have been twins.

Both have been in service eight years, both picked the army air forces, both married girls from Springfield, O., both are ground crew chiefs, both are sergeants, and both intend to stay in the army for the rest of their lives.

After a four year separation, the brothers were united recently at the home of their mother, Mrs. Rose Spach, 6954 S. Elizabeth st. During the last four years, Joseph served in the European theater and John in the Pacific, which fact is just about the only major difference in their careers. It had been 3½ years since Mrs. Spach had seen John and 2½ years since she had seen Joseph.

John to Wed Soon.

At the reunion John introduced his wife to Joseph's wife, and 14 month old Joseph Jr. Joseph met his wife in Springfield, O., while stationed at Patterson field, Dayton, O. John met his wife, who is a nurse, in Florida. The girls had never met before.

While her sons have been busy on the war fronts, Mrs. Spach has done her share on the home front. She soon will give her sixth pint of blood to the Red Cross and has purchased $2,000 worth of war bonds out of her salary as head matron at a store.

Boys Raised at Mooseheart.

Mrs. Spach went to work 25 years ago after the death of her husband. John, 2, and Joseph, 4, were sent to Mooseheart, the home 35 miles west of Chicago for dependent children of members of the Loyal Order of Moose. There they received elementary, high school, and vocational training.

Josph's army career has taken him from Chicago to Newfoundland and England. His campaign ribbons include those for the American theater, a defense ribbon with five campaign stars for foreign service before Pearl Harbor, which included anti-submarine work; participation in the pre-D-day bombings of Germany, and participation in D-day operations. His group has also received a Presidential citation.

Boys Enlisted in 1936.

The brothers enlisted on Sept. 21, 1936. Joseph's first post was Selfridge field, Mich. By 1939 he was a sergeant attending an army air force mechanics' school in Chicago. He was sent to Newfoundland, where he flew as an aerial engineer. He remembers hearing Lord Haw Haw, the Nazi radio propagandist, tell his unit the Germans knew they were in Newfoundland but that they would not be there for long. The threats were not followed by actions.

He was returned to this country in September, 1942, as a ground crew chief and worked with an anti-submarine unit operating along the Atlantic coast. Later he continued this work in England, where his unit fought enemy submarines in conjunction with the R. A. F. Joseph, now a master sergeant, is proud that none of the planes under his care has ever been lost.

John, a technical sergeant, received the same type of basic training and is also a ground crew chief. He was sent to Australia with the first fighter group in the Southwest Pacific when the Japanese were pounding Darwin daily and an invasion of Australia seemed imminent.

Remembers Quick Wing Change.

The group fought at Darwin, Buna, Papua, New Guinea, Biak, and Hollandia, and was awarded two Presidential citations. Two events that John vividly remembers are the changing of a P-40 wing in 12 hours before moving to a new base and the attack on his unit by a lone Jap pilot who killed 19 men. John protected himself during the attack by crawling under a truck. He wears the good conduct medal, theater and defense ribbons, and three campaign stars.

Neither John nor Joseph want a commission; both like the carefree life of an enlisted man. Joseph says he would "like to buy a living room suite and stay put for about five years."

As usual, his brother has the same idea.

SEVEN MILLION IS S. W. GOAL IN 6TH WAR LOAN

Campaign to Open on Nov. 20.

Twenty southwest side community civilian defense offices have been assigned a quota of $7,000,000 in the 6th war loan drive which begins Nov. 20. The quota is the same as for the 5th war loan, which was exceeded by more than one million dollars. The OCD again will conduct a house to house canvass of prospective buyers.

Frank C. Rathje, southwest side division chief and city chairman of the house to house canvass, has selected John Egan, 5908 S. Kedzie av., as chairman of the southwest side. Egan is an assistant OCD division chief, member of the state housing commission, and is active in Boy Scout activities.

Name Committee Members.

Egan's committee will include Municipal Judge O'Connell and Frank M. Covert, 1542 47th st. Both O'Connell and Covert have served as chairmen of previous drives.

The system of soliciting orders will be similar to that of previous drives. Workers will not accept cash but will accept signed orders for bonds, which will be forwarded to designated issuing agents.

Persons who buy bonds at their places of employment will sign block credit forms indicating the purchase. Thermometers again will show status of individual blocks as against quotas assigned by the community office. All residents wanting to help the drive are requested to contact the commander or bond chairman of their community.

Assist Others Sharing Same Handicap.

Themselves victims of crippling diseases since childhood, nine south and southwest siders are launching a campaign to raise $5,000 for the benefit of the Happy Haven camp, Plymouth, Ind., which since 1911 has been a vacation spot for crippled children from the Christopher school, 5042 S. Artesian av., and the Gompers school, 12301 State st. They are sponsoring a benefit party at 8 p. m. Thursday at 3458 63d st.

The camp was founded in 1901 by the late Mrs. Florence Prouty Robinson, one of Chicago's first public school teachers of crippled children. Originally located near Saugatuck, Mich., the camp was moved to Indiana in 1911 where more than 8,000 children have vacationed.

Offers Normal Camp Life.

The program is designed to afford the type of vacation enjoyed by well children. It includes rowing, swimming, nature study, manual training, handwork for girls, hiking, baseball games, and horseshoe tournaments.

Located on 15 acres of ground at Twin lake the camp has seven buildings, three dormitories, wood and handcraft shop, parlor playroom, offices, dining room, and kitchen. Attendants who care for the children during month periods include a physiotherapist, two play teachers, and four counselors. Edward Parkhurst, Davis school teacher, is director.

Not Run for Profit.

The camp, a nonprofit and nonsectarian charity, selects boys and girls from 7 to 14 years old on a basis of projected physical benefits.

Hymen Baron, 1118 E. 54th pl., is president of the Happy Haven camp committee. Because of a cardiac condition he attended special schools, visiting the camp each summer for two months, instead of the one period to which children usually are limited because of the seriousness of his condition. He now operates a shoe store.

Writer Surmounts Handicap.

Constantine Lampos, 7002 Throop st., is vice president. A victim of polio since he was 4 years old, he is paralyzed in all limbs. He attended Christopher school and studied creative writing at the University of Chicago. He has sold articles to newspapers and magazines.

Mrs. Elizabeth Schurman, 2605 58th st., is treasurer. Stricken with polio when 5, she has attended the camp for seven summers. She has been a bookkeeper and cashier for a clothing company for 17 years, during which she was absent only two days. She is one of the charter members of the Chicago Polio Swim club and holds a Red Cross life saving award.

Met Husband at School.

Her husband, Rudolph, whom she met while attending Fallon school, is corresponding secretary. A victim of polio when two, he has attended the camp six summers. He is a printer.

Another camp romance is that of Marshall Peterson and Julia Donohue who married. They met at a meeting to discuss camp problems. She was stricken with polio when two. While attending the Christopher school she started a dressmaking business which she still conducts. She is financial secretary of the committee.

Miss Talbot Heads Board.

Miss Mae Talbot, 7821 Eberhart av., is executive chairman of the board of directors of the South Side Crippled Children's Aid, Inc., which runs the camp. A polio victim since three she attended the camp for several years as a child.

Ardys Elder McNeff and her husband, James, are another couple who became acquainted thru the camp. They met at a meeting to raise money for the camp. She contracted polio when 5. She attended Morton grammar school, high school, and junior college in Cicero. Her husband contracted polio when 6 and attended the Spaulding and Christopher schools. He is employed as a clerk with the Pennsylvania railroad.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Nov. 13.

It is getting nearer real winter weather now and garden activities are confined to house plants or planning. Both are of interest to the gardener, especially planning, for on it may depend a smooth working season next year.

Some pruning can be done on nice days. All fall planted stock should be given the necessary protection, roses tucked in, cold frames banked with soil or other material, tools stored away after cleaning and oiling, garden furniture taken indoors, and lily pools prepared for winter. Water may be left in rather deep pools covered with boards and leaves, containing hardy lilies.

Grass will do poorly in dense shade, but some annual grasses can be grown if the gardener will topdress the ground with rich soil and re-sow just as soon as the prevailing stand of grass begins to look poorly. Water also is essential under such conditions. Flowers and vegetables, as a general rule, never reach their maximum possibilities when grown near shrubs.

Tuesday, Nov. 14.

Gardeners who are planning the vegetable garden should remember that at least five hours of full sun are essential to grow high quality material. Trees rob the soil of both food and moisture and vegetables should not be planted under or near them.

Weak twigs should be removed, for they contribute nothing to the plant. The best practice is to give attention to all trees each year or spring so they will need little pruning.

Wednesday, Nov. 15.

Fruit trees can be pruned any time when they are dormant. The gardener should have a few tools to work with, such as pruning shears, saw, knife, and coal tar or old paint for painting the larger branches. Some kinds of trees require very little pruning. Dead branches, diseased branches, too low or too high branches, and water sprouts should be trimmed.

Plants which will grow well where there are at least two or three hours of sun include: Coleus, corn plant or Dracaena, flowering maple, fuchsia, cyclamen, peperomia or strawberry geranium, periwinkle, pothos, spider plant [chlorophytum]. Plants for full sun: Azalea, calcolaria, heliotrope, cacti, crown of thorns, clivia, Dutch bulbs, geranium, lantana, primrose, poinsettia, shrimp plant, wax plant [hoya carnosa].

Thursday, Nov. 16.

Listed here are a few plants ideal for indoor growing where there is good light but no sun: African violet, rex begonia, Chinese evergreen, dumb cane, ferns, grape ivy, English ivy, iron plant, Norfolk island pine, palms, philodendron, screw pine, ceriman or monstera, sansevieria.

They need plenty of light, and insect pests should be kept under control. The foliage of all citrus plants is richly glossy and showy in itself. Fruits are sparingly formed and sometimes drop if the soil is permitted to dry out. Keep ferns in semi-shade, for they do not like full sunlight. Keep the soil fairly moist, not too wet. Cut the runners from ferns. The soil loses its plant food if allowed to stand too long without replanting.

Friday, Nov. 17.

The person who delights in growing something novel will find some of the citrus plants interesting. These include the ponderosa lemon, otaheite orange [not edible], and the satsuma and kumquat orange. These require a night temperature of 45 to 50 degrees, with up to 15 degrees higher during the day. The soil should be rather coarse, rich, and well drained. The pots should be plunged to the rim in the garden during summer.

Saturday, Nov. 18.

The best plants to grow in water in the house are English ivy, philodendron, tradescantia or wandering Jew, pathos, and Chinese evergreen. The paperwhite narcissus and Chinese sacred lily also may be grown in water, anchored with pebbles. If there is sufficient light, try growing a few vines indoors, such as the morning glory.

Prepared in cooperation with Garfield Park conservatory.

TILDEN TO HEAR NAVY'S V-MAIL WHISTLE FRIDAY

A unit of the navy fleet postoffice will move into the lobby of Tilden High school, 4747 Union av., on Friday to show 3,000 boys how V-mail letters are processed. The public is invited.

The exhibit will simulate mail processing aboard ships and on island bases. Machines in operation will be the recorder, which photographs and condenses the letters; the viewer, which indicates whether the letter can be sent V-mail, and the machine which folds the letter, inserts it in an envelope, and seals the envelope. Souvenir films will be given away.

Lt. Robert Gargett of the fleet postoffice will be in charge of a crew of two WAVES, a marine, and a sailor who will operate the machines. They are Carolyn Hartwell and Lorraine Kwarcinski, mailmen 3d class; Corp. Thomas Burnett, and John Grant, mailman 1st class.

There are more than 13,348 mail specialists in the navy. Of these 1,070 are WAVES at continental shore bases. The mail specialists school at Sampson, N. Y., recently stopped training men as mail specialists and now exclusively trains women reserves.

As soon as possible after an invasion navy mail service is set up. Three days after the beginning of the invasion of Kwajalein and Saipan while the combined forces were still in action against the enemy, the first seaplane carrying mail arrived. The same day mail was distributed from a troop ship not far off shore to men on vessels supporting the attack. There are now 5,000 naval postal units thruout the world.

RADIO ARTISTS TO HOLD ANTICS NEXT SATURDAY

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The Chicago local of the American Federation of Radio Artists will hold its annual AFRA Antics next Saturday in the grand ballroom of the Drake hotel. The party is open to the public. There will be entertainment by the stars of radio, screen and stage, and an autograph bar with every notable present taking a turn as bartender. Proceeds will go to the union's sick and benefit fund.

Chicago's radio queen will be crowned at the party. Two television queens already have been chosen. They are the Dinning Twins, Jean and Ginger, heard on W-G-N's Swing's the Thing and the National Barn Dance. They were chosen recently when one of them appeared on the Balaban and Katz radio station and her sister viewed her at a demonstration of a post-war model television and radio receiver at the Blackstone hotel. The Chicago winners will be eligible to compete for the title of American Radio queen to be held at Hollywood on Jan. 1.

News and Notes: Roy Rogers, Republic Pictures' "King of the Cowboys," will start in a show over W-G-N-Mutual at 7:30 p. m. Tuesdays, starting Nov. 21. . . . Allan Young, Blue network comic, is offering $100 awards for comedy scripts written by high school students. This sum will be paid, says Young, for every ten minute script accepted. It should revolve about a comedy situation. Compilations of gags are out.

W-G-N is presenting a new show ribbing the classics at 12:30 p. m. Thursdays. The program featuring Frank De Vol's orchestra and the Les Paul instrumental trio is aptly called the Music Depreciation Hour.

Your America in its broadcast over W-G-N at 3 p. m. today will salute Royal Arch Gunnison, Mutual war reporter, who was interned by the Japanese after Pearl Harbor and is now back with Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the Leyte area. Elden Westley will give a condensed version of Gunnison's "I Saw Our Flag Come Down."

Last week Jack Benny introduced his new singer, Larry Stevens, a young ex-soldier. And now comes Ed Gardner with the announcement that he has signed up Bob Graham, a husky baritone, for Duffy's Tavern and pictures. Graham got his first break on the Rudy Vallee hour a few weeks ago.

Television Twins

Jean and Ginger Dinning (right), identical twins who sing on W-G-N, have been named television twins for the AFRA Antics to be held at the Drake hotel next Saturday.

THEATER OF AIR WILL PRESENT 'THE NEW MOON'

"The New Moon," popular Sigmund Romberg operetta with an early New Orleans setting, will be presented on the Chicago Theater of the Air next Saturday before an audience of more than 4,000 people at Medinah temple, Wabash av. and Ohio st. in Chicago. The broadcast will be presented over W-G-N, WGNB and the coast to coast Mutual network from 9 to 10 p. m., one hour later than in other years.

Marion Claire will be featured in the role of Marianne, and Bruce Foote, baritone, will be heard opposite her as Robert Misson. The role of Phillipe will be sung by Earle Wilkie, baritone.

Musical accompaniment for the soloists will be provided by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber.

Laurette Fillbrandt will take the leading dramatic role and will be supported by a cast of leading Chicago radio actors and actresses. Jack La Frandre, writer-director of the series, will produce the show.

CHARLES BOYER HALL OF FAME VISITOR TODAY

Charles Boyer, Carole Landis, Victor Borge and Diana Lynn will appear on the Radio Hall of Fame show at 5 p. m. today over WENR-Blue. Paul Whiteman's orchestra, Nan Wynn, songstress, and the Delta Rhythm Boys will be on hand to welcome the visitors.

Boyer will take the lead role in a sketch concerning the composition, "La Marsellaise." Carole Landis is billed as guest mistress of ceremonies. Accompanied by Paul Whiteman and the orchestra, Diana Lynn, piano playing co-star of the film, "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," will play.

W-G-N Bondwagon Goes Back on Air Tomorrow

After a recess of several months, the W-G-N Bondwagon show will return to the air at 12:30 p. m. tomorrow. The half hour broadcast will be heard every Monday and Wednesday. Tomorrow's program will feature members of the barn dance cast.

Women at War

Book prices are slightly higher in Canada but the Club ships to Canadian members without any extra charge for duty, through Book-of-the-Month Club (Canada) Limited.

MANY BENEFITS — ONE OBLIGATION: Over 500,000 book-reading families now belong to the Book-of-the-Month Club. They do so in order to keep themselves from missing the important new books they are really interested in.

As a Club member, you receive an advance publication report about the judges' choice—and also reports about all other important coming books. If you decide you want the book-of-the-month, you let it come. If not (on a blank always provided) you can specify some other book you want or simply say: "Send me nothing."

Last year the retail value of free books given to Club members was over $7,000,000 — given, not sold! These book-dividends could be distributed free because so many subscribers ordinarily want the book-of-the-month that an enormous edition can be printed. The saving on this quantity-production enables the Club to buy the right to print other fine library volumes. These are then manufactured and distributed free among subscribers—one for every two books-of-the-month purchased.

You pay no yearly fee as a member. Your one obligation is that you must buy no fewer than four books-of-the-month in any twelve-month period. Your subscription to the Club is not for one year, but as long as you decide; you can end it at any time after taking four books-of-the-month. You pay for the books as you get them—the regular retail price (frequently less) plus a small charge to cover postage and other mailing expenses. (Prices are slightly higher in Canada.)

'Ice Follies' Combines Superb Skating and Comedy

Old Favorites Back in New Edition of Revue at Arena

By Claudia Cassidy.

It looks like the ice show has come to stay, and when it is an "Ice Follies of 1945," that's not a bad idea. To my notion, the Shipstads and Johnson turn the skating show trick with less glacial expanse of boredom than most, if not any, of their competitors. Their new edition at the Arena has some brilliant skating, some topflight comedy, and at least a couple of scenes of breathtaking beauty. That enchanted forest, for instance, at the moment when the luminous trees in lime and vermilion glimmer in the faint dusk, while tall sirens in greenish gold swish sequin trains in sound that might be mermaids cleaving the sea. Or that simplest of chic scenes with a few tall cocktail glasses and a few tall girls as setting for Roy Shipstad's solo number, which is what I would mean if I started talking about virtuoso skating.

But where this Shipstad stands [or glides] alone, it isn't so easy to check the medals in the comic line. Eddie Shipstad and Oscar Johnson have a drollery in masquerade not in the least harmed by their equipage of the old south, complete with the most sedate steed that ever turned out to be two men in a horse. Frick and Frack are superbly involved in the minuet, and Heinie Brock is Bert Williams on ice, without the apple. Newer, and shining, is Bobby Blake, the Astaire of the swing waltz long one of the show's major assets. He has begun to glitter like a drum major exploding in front of a hot band.

My favorite among the girls this time is Norah McCarthy, whose skating has taken on a lot of the lithe smoothness that is Roy Shipstad's trademark. Hazel Franklin is a darting little scherzo of a skater, and Jane Zelser moves like a budding ballerina. Some amusing conceits have crept into the show, from the horse with green spats to the vegetable crop and some beguiling rabbits, as well as the four and 20 blackbirds in that pie. I could do without the contortionist—too much like what killed vaudeville. But the precision line of girls is effective and will be more so when they learn that the shortest line to success is a straight one.

stone, and a birthday party Tuesday night when "Oklahoma!" makes it a full year at the Erlanger, with 470 performances—706 in New York. Business has been capacity right along, as you know, and is likely to stay that way until the musical closes Jan. 6 to tour the American Theater society subscription cities and make way for Helen Hayes. Mail orders are on sale thru the closing night, and some seats are available at the boxoffice for performances thru Dec. 23.

"Wallflower" in real life may be a tragedy, but on the stage it is just another name for Cinderella, who gets her glass slipper in act three. The heroine in the comedy by Mary Orr and Rginald Denham is a girl who loses all the beaux to her more glamorous half sister—until, of

THE HIDDEN TOWN

By FREDERICK R. BECHDOLT

(Copyright: 1944: By F. R. Bechdolt.)

INSTALMENT XII.

THE road wasn't bad as yet, but it was a dirt road and there were several fairly abrupt turns. Eddie was driving with the abandon of a drunken Indian. During the afternoon he had consumed a quart and a half of Escondido's whisky. It was a potent liquor, kept in stock for the vaqueros, but ordinary drinking water would have had as much effect on him as it had—until he got into that car. The wheels were lining themselves out on the road without any aid from his hand, when Nell began to realize how badly he was doing.

"Hadn't you better take it slower?" she asked. He did not answer and she glanced at him. He was staring straight ahead, his eyes were opaque and his face was deadly pale. She saw the drops of sweat on his forehead. She was about to repeat her admonition when he began talking.

"His name is Martin," Eddie said. "William Martin. Good a name as any, don't you think? And we are going to see him. We two. And you mustn't get scared because there isn't anything to get scared about. I wouldn't hurt a hair in your head."

She hadn't had a great deal of experience with drunken men, but she had seen enough to know that this wasn't an ordinary case. It was his voice, there wasn't an inflection in it. It woke her from her dream of hopes and it brought her back to the realities. She shrank into the corner of the seat and watched him. The road was growing worse now, and once a rear wheel went out over the bank. She was bracing herself for the crash when the car righted itself and sped on. Eddie looked her in the face and laughed.

The laughter was terrifying, but she found a deeper reason for terror in that moment; his coat had sagged when he turned to face her, and the side pocket nearest her had yawned and she had seen the leather blackjack by the light of the dash lamp.

"Martin Williams," Eddie said. "No, not that. William Martin. Got to get it correct." He laughed again.

She was thinking: John Yardley put that anthrax in the spring. And John Yardley talked with this creature today. Rosa told me and Rosa was afraid. Why didn't I listen to her then? Supposing Rosa was right, supposing he was the murderer of that man whose body they found in Harvey's car——

She did not reconstruct the facts. She was too badly frightened to think coherently. So badly frightened that her mind overleaped any attempt at deductions. Her fear of the Alcalde had returned, and with it, a suspicion so deep that it was a certainty. She didn't know why it was, but she did know that blackjack was in Eddie's pocket and she knew that he was insane with liquor.

She thought of Harvey then. She wondered where he was. And she wondered whether she was ever going to see him again. She pulled herself together and it was the hardest thing she had ever done.

Wait for a chance, she thought. Any chance. No matter how small it is. Watch him and wait. She sat there in silence, held her eyes on him, and she was not conscious of the house which the hill riders called the Butcher Shop, altho the car lights revealed it plainly as they passed it. Ursula was standing in the doorway watching them go by.

A few minutes later they came to the place where the road hung along the steep flank of a canyon and they headed into the first turn so fast that she was sure they were going over. Eddie shoved both feet down. She heard him saying something thru the shrieking of the brakes. By a miracle the wheels held the road. Then:

"I said," he shouted, "this is the place. This is the place. You hear me?" She nodded and the car slowed down. It came to an abrupt stop.

"And I said," Eddie's voice was shrill now. His face was the color of a blank sheet of paper. "I said that here he is. Charley Williams." He flung the door open and he was starting toward the rear of the car when she leaped out.

It was less than a foot from the outer wheels to the edge of the bank. It was a sheer bank, broken stone and a few clumps of brush clung to it. From the road to the bottom of the canyon was a good 200 feet.

She had leaped out in the dark and she had put all her strength to it. She felt herself falling thru the blackness.

Nell had heard the expression, passed out, many times. This was the first time that she had undergone the experience. The last things she remembered were darkness and falling, and the thought: what will it be like when I reach the bottom? But that sensation—whatever it might have been—had been rubbed out. When her senses came back to her she felt something touching her face ever so lightly. She raised her hand instinctively to brush it aside and her fingers felt a spray of long pine needles.

She was cradled in the lower branches of the tree, but the broken rock of the mountainside was supporting her weight; the upper boughs had broken her fall and those where she was lying had eased her down so gently, their matted needles and the network of twigs were so thick, that she was not conscious of the rocks beneath her until she started to move.

The tree had rooted in a narrow niche and it stood upright, almost parallel with the steep bank. And when stirred, the shifting of her weight released the branches; they snapped back into position. She passed her hands over her body and she moved her limbs. Apparently the only hurt that she had suffered was a long scratch from her elbow to her wrist, and that sleeve of her jacket was torn away.

During the last part of her ride she had been so intent on watching for an opportunity to escape that she had forgotten to be frightened. Now that she had escaped, fear came to her and made up for lost time. She thought for a moment that she was going to faint again, but the giddiness passed off and a feeling of utter weakness succeeded it.

She did not know how long this was. It couldn't have been more than a matter of seconds. Then her mind went back to Eddie Morton and the Alcalde. She had not the remotest idea why these two should have worked together to kill her, and she did not try to reason that out now. She did not waste time reproaching herself for failing to heed Rosa's warning, but she did feel a throb of gratitude toward this girl who had only seen her four times and tried to save her life as loyally as if they were old friends.

Her chin was twitching and she could feel her teeth hitting one another, but she could not hear the chattering. She told herself: This won't do. I've got to pull myself together. He's going to come after me——

Then she heard him.

She was lying huddled on her side, with her legs drawn up and her head uphill. The darkness was thick, and the golden pathway of the car's headlights looked very bright. It was a good 50 feet above her. The movement which she had heard was below the road. It had stopped now. She lay there listening, and once she raised her head very slowly to see better, but the limb of the pine tree checked the movement. And, as things turned out, that was to be her salvation. There was a narrow gap between the tasseled twigs which curtained her face and she was looking thru it.

Several rock fragments slid down the bank; they made a rasping noise and they were so close that she heard it plainly thru the gentle throbbing of the motor up there on the road. And after that the crunch of feet in loose rubble. The darkness wasn't as dense as it had seemed, for she saw Eddie now, a black shape moving slowly toward her thru the gray night. He halted again. He turned and a moment later he was out of sight. She was thinking: He's gone and he won't come again. The sound of his feet in the rubble grew fainter. It stopped. And in a moment it resumed. It was growing louder, and she caught sight of him once more. He must have heard her when she crashed thru the branches of the pine and he must have judged the distance, for he was evidently walking back and forth across the steep slope of the bank, trying to cover every foot of the ground within the area where he thought she would be hiding. This time he saw the tree for he was hurrying straight toward it. She watched his black shape as it approached, and she made up her mind to remain motionless until the last instant. Then, if the worst came to the worst, she would flee before he laid a hand upon her.

He vanished suddenly and she heard a dull thud; the noise of rattling rocks followed; a miniature avalanche was sliding down into the canyon. He shot into sight again as he rose from the spot where he had fallen. He ran to the tree and she could hear him breathing, he was so close to her, as he dropped on his knees. She could hear the hissing of the tasseled pine boughs just above her head as he thrust his hands among them. She held her breath. She could see the shadowed hand within a few inches of her face. She was about to spring out of her hiding place when it vanished.

The movement which she had heard had stopped . . . she lay there listening.

She did not know when it was that he gave up the search here and started off along the mountainside, but it could not have been long afterward. Her limbs were cramped, she shut her teeth to endure the pain, and just when she was sure that she couldn't stand it any longer, she saw him standing out in plain sight against the glare of the car's headlights. He was climbing toward the roadway. For some moments he stood before the car, and after that he disappeared. Presently she heard the slight noise of the wheels. The sound grew louder; there was a rush of loose rocks, a rattle of running gear.

The glare of the headlamps was sweeping straight toward her. The lights lurched drunkenly. A handful of gravel spurted into her face and the branches of the pine tree whipped back and forth, lashing her body. Almost immediately after that three crashes followed one another in swift succession, and the last of them came from the canyon bed with a terrific finality of smashed metal.

The thing which had happened seemed absolutely unreal to her. She had seen Eddie throw on the emergency brake before he had gotten out of the car, calling the name of a man who did not exist, and she knew that there was no defect in that brake. He must have released it deliberately. But why? It was several hours afterward before she learned all the facts concerning the alliance between the Alcalde and Eddie. She did not even guess at Eddie's fear of Yardley. She had no idea of the desperation which made him send the sedan over the bank to make it look as if he had carried out orders.

She lay there wondering, and with the strange way which one's thoughts have in times of stress, hers wandered from the immediate danger she was in; they went to the wrecked sedan. Tears were in her eyes and the hatred toward the man up there on the road had nothing to do with the fact that he had intended to murder her. It was because he had destroyed her car.

The realization that she was not out of danger yet returned suddenly, and with it the realization that she had already wasted precious time. He might be coming back at any minute now, or he might have given up all hope of finding her, and if the former was the case, the best thing she could do was to put as much distance as possible between them. There should be better cover down in the bed of the canyon. She crept from the shelter of the pine boughs and got to her feet. She was about to turn and begin descending, when the entire mountainside leaped into sight. It was as sudden as the switching on of an electric lamp in a dark room.

The gush of orange flame in the canyon bed was crowned by a canopy of sable smoke. Fire and smoke cloud climbed skyward in silence, and the smallest bits of rubble stood forth clearly, every one of them casting its own sharp shadow.

Excepting for the pine tree which Nell had left, there wasn't cover to conceal a prowling cat within a hundred yards of her. She was standing alone on the sheer flank of the rocky bank. She had turned her head to look downward, and even at this distance the heat of the flames was bathing her face.

It was then that Eddie caught sight of her. He was at the brink of the bank, and, like her, he was staring at the burning car. He was standing in an attitude of utter despair, with both arms flung upward. For the history of the past 30 hours had come to him as one sharp picture: the hit and run and the dead man on the highway; the murder of Anastasia Rodriguez in the olive grove; this attempt at a still graver crime. And every one of these affairs had been bungled. Three times and every time a failure. Standing there with his arms upraised and the glare of the flames upon his face he saw her.

She did not know what it was that made her turn her head then; whether it was the realization of her own exposed position, or some slight sound which she had heard when he started toward her, or mere blind instinct. But she faced around and saw him charging down upon her.

He was covering the steep slope in a series of long leaps. He was coming so swiftly that he was not more than three or four yards away when she started to flee. And that was fortunate for her. For she was dodging as a frightened rabbit does and his onset was so violent that he would have run her down with the next leap. The very violence of the leap was his undoing. It carried him on past the place where she had been standing a moment before.

She saw him start back to the mountainside and blank panic took possession of her. She whipped around and began climbing toward the road. The loose rocks tore at her thin sandals. They cut her feet, they slid away from beneath her and she fell. She was on her hands and knees and she had a glimpse of him behind her. He was breathing so heavily that she could hear the gasps thru the low hiss of the mounting flames, but the punishment of the climb did not slow him at all. He was racing up the sheer bank like a wild animal.

Her fingers closed on a triangular slab of rock; it was a heavy chunk and yet she was not conscious of its weight. She was, like most girls, unskilful when it came to throwing. But he was close by and she put her full strength to it. The rock struck him fairly in the face and his limbs collapsed under him.

She did not know how she reached the road. She only knew that she was there at last. And that he was getting to his feet. And that the darkness lay like a black curtain a hundred feet ahead of her.

Thinking over the events of that evening afterward, Nell was not able to recall how she managed to reach the spot where the darkness seemed to hang like a black curtain. It was marked by a huge rock beside the road. The boulder was the last visible object and it stood out plainly at the dividing point between the glare of the fire and the night beyond. It was as definite as the tape which a runner must break at the finish line if he is to win the race. When she stumbled past it at last, she saw that the rock was at the beginning of the hairpin turn. A moment later she was around the fold of the hill and it shut off the light behind her. The gloom was so thick that she caught herself just in time to keep from going over the outer bank. She was so certain of her safety that she could have shouted for joy. Before she had taken half a dozen steps her exultation vanished.

The thing which happened was not sudden. The first hint that she got of it was a slender ray of light which crept across the roadway and up the hill. It wavered uncertainly over a dense thicket of chamisal brush, and in the instant when it seemed about to flicker out, it brightened. A few seconds later it was bathing the entire slope, and the road was visible for a quarter of a mile. She heard the peculiar hissing sound which flames make when they travel thru the chaparral in summer time. It came from the bed of the canyon and it changed into a whistling scream as the fire leaped among the boughs of a tall pine. She glanced into the depths and saw red ranks of flame creeping up the gulch, rushing up the steep hill on the opposite side. The canopy of smoke was throbbing with red light.

She did not realize what she was doing. There was no time to plan, and if there had been she wouldn't have been able to think clearly, for every breath she took brought a stab of pain. Her climbs were weak and she was shaking with exhaustion. It was chance that offered her a hiding place: a narrow gully which winter rains had scoured into the steep slope above the road. A huge clump of toyon bushes spanned its outlet. She edged her way behind the thicket and sank down just as Eddie came around the turn of the road. He was not now the smartly dressed young lawyer with whom she had conferred in Escondido. His sport coat was smeared with dust, his slacks were stained with it and one of their legs was ripped from knee to ankle. His hat was gone and rivulets of sweat had left pale streaks in the dirt which covered his face like a gray mask. His jaw was sagged, his mouth was open and his eyes had an insane light in them. He was swinging the leather blackjack in his right hand. He trotted up the road, glancing from side to side, a sorry sight if he had not been a deadly one. She saw him plainly and his eyes seemed to meet hers when he came opposite the place where she was crouching, but he went on by, panting like a spent dog.

What Has Gone Before

Nell Huntoon writes to Edward Morton Jr. to review a murder charge against her dead father. Eddie is in financial difficulties and decides if he can incriminate Yardley, a banker known as the Alcalde, it will mean ready money. Yardley has a fear the past will catch up with him. Anthrax is prevalent in the hills. Yardley forces Ursula to get him wool from a dead sheep. At a service station Nell meets Beulah Smith; Harvey Little, son of the man her father was accused of killing, and Anastasia Rodriguez. The service station man is killed by a hit-and-run driver. Anastasia picks up something from the road. From Eddie Nell learns her father and Jim Little were partners, and the latter was killed while talking to her father. Anastasia demands $500 from Eddie for the metal hub cap from his car, and Eddie contemplates murder. Nell is prevented from drinking the poisoned spring water by Harvey, who persuades her to move to the tavern. Nell and Beulah see a prospector, with two burros, whom Beulah had grubstaked 20 years ago. After killing the Mexican with Yardley's hammer Eddie meets Nell. Eddie ties the body to one of the burros with a rope taken from Harvey's car. From his window Yardley sees Eddie and the burro pass by. Arming himself, he follows, watches Eddie stow the body in the trunk of Harvey's car. He demands the hub cap and car keys and orders Eddie to bring the hammer to him. At daybreak, after reopening the trunk and placing the keys in Harvey's car, Yardley notifies the sheriff. Pete Escobar, up in the hills, sees Yardley's strange actions. Harvey and Nell decide that together they will ferret out the truth. Pete Escobar warns Harvey and tells him there is one man who can send Yardley to the gas chamber. Harvey takes Pete's horse and heads into the hills to find the man. The Alcalde gives Eddie the option of facing a murder charge or doing away with Nell. Later he overhears Nell telling Eddie of the Alcalde's attempt to poison her. Yardley realizes he must find a way to do away with Eddie.

A TREE GROWS IN BROOKLYN

Greatest Fiction Best-Seller of all time!—Sold more copies in its first year than any other novel ever published! Now yours FREE!

JANE EYRE

One of the world's greatest stories of Romance, Passion and Mystery—the book that made the whole world gasp—now the great new motion picture that is sweeping America from coast to coast!

YES, you get BOTH these books FREE on this sensational double-gift offer. The most phenomenal novel of our day, A TREE GROWS IN BROOKLYN—and also JANE EYRE, one of the greatest novels of all time!

A Tree Grows in Brooklyn is the tough-and-tender story of life in Brooklyn's tenements that has clutched America by the heart. It is the story of Francie Nolan, and the world of Brooklyn's Williamsburg that made her. It is a story of tears and laughter, cruelty and compassion, so crowded with life and people that no other novel you have ever read has made you feel the beat of its heart so realistically!

Johnny Liked the Bottle—and Aunt Sissy Liked Men

From the moment she entered the world Francie needed to know toughness, for life in Williamsburg was lived without kid gloves. You faced up to it or went down—and Katie Nolan's children were not the kind to go down.

It was no matter if the neighbors scorned the Nolans because Johnny—Francie's singing-waiter father—was married to the bottle as well as to Katie. Or because Aunt Sissy had a habit of marrying every now and then, without the formality of divorce. Aunt Sissy was bad, but she was good, too. She was good because wherever she was there was life—fine, tender, overwhelming, fun-loving and strong-scented life. And in a different way Johnny could be just as exciting and wonderful.

But to Francie the World Could Still Be Filled With Dreams

Whatever might be said of life in the Nolan family, no one could complain that it lacked drama. With junk day coming every Saturday, when the children traded their weekly take for pennies—with the Fourth of July, Hallowe'en, Thanksgiving and Christmas bringing their special excitements once a year—with all the world that wasn't Williamsburg lying just across the bridge in Manhattan—each day was filled to bursting.

Betty Smith has caught this breathless life of childhood wonders and family crises in the most remarkable novel America has known in years. And A Tree Grows in Brooklyn is one of the few novels of our time that will be read, and laughed over, and silently wept over, for untold years to come. Because within the compass of its characters is all of humanity; the good, the bad, the pitiful and the ridiculous and those with stardust in their eyes.

Now it is yours FREE—with Jane Eyre—on this great two-book gift offer!

Orson Welles and Joan Fontaine in the 20th Century-Fox MOTION PICTURE "Jane Eyre"

Also Yours FREE JANE EYRE

JANE EYRE—the other book you get free—is one of the greatest novels of passion, hate, romance and mystery ever written—and now the 20th Century-Fox super-production starring Orson Welles and Joan Fontaine!

This famous book shocked sedate London. It was the most banned book of its time. Why did young Jane Eyre fling herself at Edward Rochester—twenty years older in age alone . . . but a thousand years older in the lore of love? And why did he forsake the arms of a French dancing girl, a Viennese milliner, a Neapolitan countess—all for her? Why were they forever stalked by the most terrible secret that ever cursed a man's love?

You will understand, when you read this story, why so many millions of readers have thrilled to its romance, shuddered at its terror. And on this sensational Double-Gift Offer you get Jane Eyre and A Tree Grows in Brooklyn—both free!

'Tosca' Added to Repertory for Final Opera Week

on the Aisle
by Claudia Cassidy

IF you ever burn the rye bread toast for Jeanette MacDonald, don't scrape it. She likes it that way, and the waiter was bland as a Hollywood butler about seeing that she got it, along with scrambled eggs that didn't cook hard on the way upstairs. I was having a salad myself, in tribute to the slimness of the girl opposite me, but of course she didn't know that. She was far too busy talking about Lotte Lehmann, whom she adores with cause, who coached her Marguerite in "Faust," and whose aura of concentration and inner honesty pervades her Juliet. [And she wasn't ignoring, either, the good news that her B-17 pilot husband had just become Maj. Gene Raymond, on the word of his commanding officer at Yuma, Ariz.]

Miss MacDonald in Opera Because She Believes in Her Talents

Juliet, tho, she coached with Leon Rothier, that silver haired patrician of opera now about to make his speaking stage début in "A Bell for Adano." Rothier told her about Bori's Juliet, and Farrar's, but like Lehmann, he made her sing her own. He ripped her French apart and put it back together in Gallic style, and he taught her Juliet so firmly, so solidly, so irrefutably that not even début nerves could tangle it up.

But don't think she didn't have nerves, just because she looked so radiantly at ease. After years of saying, "Why let it bother you so?" to Lily Pons, who has the misfortune of a temperamental stomach, she got in a tizzy of her own. The night before her début here she achieved two hours' sleep, after singing Juliet in her head all night, then raiding the icebox for cottage cheese and applesauce, and her traveling library for a book. She even broke a fingernail and had to wear an artificial one, because she felt stubby. Then she went on the stage with a brand new Romeo, the indomitable Capt. Michael Bartlett, a new stage director who moved all the business to the opposite side, and a new conductor who took the cadenzas slower than she had learned to sing them. Rothier knew his business and she knew hers, so she didn't flounder. But she was not satisfied with the performance she gave, tho most of the rest of us were agreeably surprised.

Jeanette MacDonald.

On the word of Capt. Bartlett, who likes singing with the Titian topped soprano, not a whimper came out of her when her carefully coached performance was rearranged. She knew she had two strikes on her to start, coming from Hollywood, the land where the slimmer the prima donna's figure the fatter the figures in her salary, a sense of values which somehow infuriates a great many sopranos whose careers have reversed those proportions.

Half a Moustache for La MacDonald.

Anyway, Miss MacDonald thought she got off to a bad start, and it did her no good when the audience tittered in that scene where they mistook Romeo's dark head for a cat in Juliet's lap. Neither she nor Capt. Bartlett knew what was wrong and they dwelt in actors' purgatory until the act was over. That's one place, Miss MacDonald admits, she prefers the movies, without an audience to chuckle at mishaps. Take the time, for instance, when she made "San Francisco" with Clark Gable. He wore a moustache in the picture but had shaved it off when retakes were made, so he wore a false one. At the end of an impassioned kiss with cameras clicking, the crew began to howl. Half the moustache clung to Mr. Gable, but the other half adorned the upper lip of La MacDonald.

Why, you may ask, does a movie star with a handsome home in Hollywood stick her neck out in fresh fields of concert and opera, risking rebuffs and taking potluck in war time travel conditions? Well, Miss MacDonald says she just can't help it. She can't resist a challenge. She thinks she knows her limitations, but she also believes in her talents, and she wants a chance to prove them. This has been going on since as a young girl she had standing room at the Metropolitan for Jeritza's "Tosca." She never got over it, or Muzio's "La Traviata," or Raisa's "La Juive," or the fact that the late Lynne Overman said she reminded him of Bori.

That is one reason why she tried to get Bori to coach her Juliet. Bori said she had no patience for coaching, but she recommended Rothier. And Rothier, like Lehmann, did his best to uproot the diffidence that came with MacDonald on stages where ambition had driven her. In the curious ways of things theatrical, that new confidence made its most striking effect in a new, disarmingly appealing, simplicity. A basic serenity replaced the false ingratiation of the saccharine.

Campaign for One More Marschallin.

Altho we started to talk about Miss MacDonald's possible roles in opera—Lehmann had suggested Marguerite, Mimi, Manon, and Desdemona, among others—we found ourselves sidetracked as a self-appointed committee of two to persuade Lehmann to sing her magnificent Marschallin in "Der Rosenkavalier" just once more. Lauritz Melchior is an eloquent but so far luckless emissary in this noble cause, and somehow the whole thing made me wonder how Miss MacDonald might sing Sophie, the lovely girl to whom the cavalier brings the rose as Strauss' bewitched celesta touches music with magic. I think she might be right for it.

Of course, I may be prejudiced. Miss MacDonald is red haired and Irish and the thing she likes least about opera is being called madame. She thinks Mme. MacDonald sounds revolting. So do I. But not quite as revolting as being called Mme. Cassidy, which sounds like a beldame with a shawl. Anyway, it aroused my sympathy to a point where I wanted you to know that Miss MacDonald is no dilettante for all the fact that she is an operatic débutante. She has no spurious grand manner, but the combination of humility, determination, and common sense that means the willingness to make every effort to reach a desired goal. People like that don't balk easily. You can't tell where she might go.

Vivian Della Chiesa to Sing the Title Role

The Chicago Opera company arrives at the final week of its five week season with one opera added to the season's repertory and another to be presented with an important change of cast. Puccini's "Tosca" comes up for the first and only time this season at the Saturday matinee, with Vivian Della Chiesa singing her first performance here of the title role, and with Alexander Sved as the sinister Baron Scarpia. Frederick Jagel will make his only appearance of the season in the tenor role of Cavaradossi, Algerd Brazis will be assigned his most important role to date with the company, that of the prisoner, Angelotti, and Vittorio Trevisan will offer his inimitable portrait of the sacristan. Fausto Cleva will conduct.

Jeanette MacDonald will have her second role and third appearance of the season when she sings Marguerite in Wednesday night's repetition of "Faust." The remainder of the cast will be that of the first performance: Raoul Jobin in the title role, Ezio Pinza as Mephistopheles, Francesco Valentino as Valentine, and Lucielle Browning as Siebel. Mr. Cleva will conduct.

"Rigoletto" will be repeated on Friday night with the cast of the first performance: Josephine Antoine, Jan Peerce, and Leonard Warren, with Mr. Bamboschek conducting, and the final performance of the season on Saturday night, originally announced as a popular request bill, tho no ballots were submitted to the voting public, will be "La Traviata," with Bidu Sayao singing Violetta, Nino Martini as Alfredo, and Robert Weede as the elder Germont.

The week opens with a repetition of Debussy's "Pelléas and Mélisande" on Monday night, sung by Bidu Sayao, Martial Singher, Lawrence Tibbett, Nicola Moscona, Doris Doe, Lillian Raymondi, and Alexander Kulpak, Eugene Goossens conducting.

Mischa Elman, famous Russian violinist, will appear as soloist on both the Tuesday and Thursday-Friday programs of the Chicago Symphony orchestra this week, with Désiré Defauw conducting all concerts. At the Tuesday concert Mr. Elman will play Mozart's fourth concerto for violin and orchestra, in D major, but at the Thursday-Friday concerts he will introduce that great rarity, a new violin concerto. The novelty is the composition of the noted Czech composer Bohuslav Martinu, only one of whose major compositions has been heard in Chicago previously, when his concerto for string quartet and orchestra was played at a Tuesday concert in the 48th season. The concerto was commissioned by Mr. Elman for his own use after he had heard the Boston Symphony orchestra play Martinu's first symphony. The violinist gave the work its premiere performance with the Boston Symphony under Serge Koussevitzky, on Dec. 31, 1943.

Mischa Elman.

The Thursday-Friday program will open with Hindemith's Ballet Overture, "Cupid and Psyche," introduced here last season by Hans Lange, and will conclude with Brahms' First Symphony in C minor. Orchestral works on the Tuesday program will be the Overture and Allegro from Couperin's "La Sultane" suite, orchestrated by Darius Milhaud, and Rimsky-Korsakoff's little known "Antar" symphony, heard only twice before on Chicago Symphony programs, the last time being in 1916. A hint of the symphony's contents is contained in the titles of the various movements: "Antar in the Ruins of Palmyra," "The Delights of Vengeance," "The Delights of Power," and "The Delights of Love."

The second Young People's concert will be given on Wednesday at 3:30, with Mr. Defauw conducting and André Aerne, boy soprano, as soloist. The program will be a repetition of the concert played on Nov. 1.

The Federal-Lazedef Glee clubs, under the direction of William Eugene Myricks, will be heard at Kimball hall this afternoon at 3:30. Bernice Keaton Barkesdale, mezzo-soprano, will be the soloist and Marion Geary Randall the accompanist.

Opera Schedule

The Chicago Opera company announces the following performances for its fifth and final week at the Civic Opera house:

Report Cites Financial Strain on Small Colleges

Attendance of Men Students Shows Big Dip

By The Rev. John Evans.

Altho none of the small approved colleges closed owing to decreased enrollment last year, those that did not have government contracts underwent a financial strain which is unlikely to diminish in the post-war era. This is revealed in a survey recently made of 454 approved institutions by President Raymond Walters of the University of Cincinnati.

Attendance of women students continues to be well maintained, Dr. Walters said, adding "that the great proportion of women are under age for acceptance in the auxiliary forces; and that women's colleges of the east and south are not suffering the financial worries experienced by eastern colleges for men and by co-educational institutions everywhere."

As to men students this fall, the report continues, returns show decreases from 50 to 94 per cent compared with the peace time 1939 attendance; as to veterans, it is estimated that about 5,000 are now taking courses under the provisions of the G. I. act, and all that is left of the 200,000 enlisted trainees in A. S. T. P. and A. A. F. programs are the army medical trainees in 77 colleges of medicine where 28 per cent of the classes are assigned to the army and 25 per cent to the navy, tho the navy's reserve program continues at about 130 institutions with sharp reductions in personnel.

Dr. Walters further points out that since privately supported colleges and universities normally depend upon tuition fees for at least one-half of their operating budgets—in some cases exceeding even 75 per cent—these institutions are facing a serious problem.

"Reduce yields from endowment funds," Dr. Walters said, "make the burden especially difficult. Many institutions report some savings in faculty salaries, where teachers are absent on leave, and aid to meet the urgent financial situation is being supplied to certain church related colleges thu supplementary appropriations by their sponsoring bodies; campaigns among alumni also are in progress. One midwest city university, for instance, has obtained $370,000 from local industry toward a $400,000 deficit."

Financial perplexities also extend to state universities, which derive an average of 20 per cent of their income from student fees, Dr. Walters finds.

"In some cases," the report states, "apprehension is expressed by these university administrators that the state legislatures, looking at diminished war time enrollments, may impose reductions in biennial appropriations. They hope to convince the legislatures that operational savings have been effected, and they emphasize the necessity of being well equipped and staffed when the veterans return to the campus."

course, she learns the secret of her own charms. Sonya Stokowski, daughter of Leopold Stokowski, plays the title role, with Kay Buckley as the other girl and Betty Blythe and Frank McNellis as the parents. Also on hand are Paul Marlin and Patricia Quinn O'Hara, wife of Fiske O'Hara, who used to play Irish tenor heroes. Meyer Davis, formerly an orchestra leader, is the producer.

"Star and Garter" is Michael Todd's revue revived and revised for what used to be his home town. Willie Howard and Lois Andrews are the stars, while Carrie Finnell, Georgia Sothern, Chaz Chase, the Ross Sisters, Wayne and Marlin, Jack Coyle, Al Kelly, Marilyn Myles, and the Four Melodists are in the cast, along with a group of showgirls recruited from local auditions. The original show had a lively run at New York's Music Box about two years ago, with Bobby Clark and Gypsy Rose Lee, but canceled a Chicago engagement because Mr. Todd was dissatisfied with replacements. He must be happier about them now. His plan is to add fresh material from time to time, until he has a brand new edition for Broadway.

"Ten Little Indians," the Harris' mystery comedy by Agatha Mary Clarissa Miller Christie Mallowan, who could hardly expect to get that name on a book cover or a marquee, is reported to have caught on, and will play Sunday nights, starting tonight. . . . "The Voice of the Turtle "is 50 capacity performances old at the Selwyn Tuesday, with more than 50,000 people having paid more than $120,000 to see it. Tickets thru Dec. 16 go on sale for the comedy tomorrow. . . . The Selwyn, meanwhile, adds a Thanksgiving day matinee Nov. 23, as do "Sleep No More" at the Civic and "Kiss and Tell" at the Studebaker.

Among the Excellent Books for Children in War Time

By Frances Dunlap Heron.

[Editor, Family Circle Department, the Christian Advocate.]

The war has left its mark on juvenile literature in 1944, not only in paper limitation, but in theme. With eyes on the distant places of the earth and thoughts on America's role in world history, it is not surprising that many books interpreting geography, the making of our own country, and the spirit of allied peoples should have been published for young readers.

Likewise, the fact that the tensions and uncertainties of war turn minds to the eternal may explain why a religious book, "Tell Me About God," by Mary Alice Jones [Rand, McNally, $2], with a sale of 85,000 copies became one of the year's most popular juveniles; and why the same publisher had orders for 70,000 copies of Miss Jones' "Tell Me About Jesus," when it rolled off the presses this month.

The year's juvenile output has brought, if possible, more profuse and more dazzling illustrations than ever. Frequently the art work is superior to the text.

Among the scores of excellent children's books published in 1944, the following are representative:

PICTURE STORY BOOKS.

"Everybody Has a House," by Mary McBurney Green [William R. Scott, $1]. Simple descriptions of familiar animals and their habitations, in color.

"Here Comes Daddy," by Winifred Millius [Young Scott, $1], Little boy waiting for father's homecoming sees many entertaining things.

"The Happy Little Choo-Choo," by Laura Harris [William Penn, $1]. Clever story, with animation, of the first day of a freight train's life.

ANIMALS.

"Rabbit Hill," by Robert Lawson [Viking, $2]. George Rabbit and his animal friends amusingly characterized with human foibles find that the new folks in the farm house are understanding.

"Egbert and His Marvelous Adventures," by Paul T. Gilbert [Harper, $1.50]. Boy successor to "Bertram" mixes the realistic and the fantastic in his dealings with talking elephants, porcupines, hyenas.

AMERICAN LIFE.

"The Hundred Dresses," by Eleanor Estes [Harcourt, Brace, $2.50]. Peggy and Maddie discover in a beautifully told and illustrated story that Polish-American Wanda Petronski has extraordinary talent.

"High Prairie," by Walter and Marion Havighurst [Farrar & Rinehart, $2]. Noteworthy picture of the life of a pioneer Norwegian family in Minnesota.

"Yea! Wildcats!" by John R. Tunis [Harcourt, Brace, $2]. A sport writer's basketball story for older boys and girls, emphasizing the role of small town America in building good citizenship.

HISTORY AND GEOGRAPHY.

"Pioneer Art in America," by Carolyn Sherwin Bailey [Viking, $2.50]. True stories, well told, of antiques [from wax dolls to poems] and the artists who produced them.

"Abraham Lincoln's World," by Genevieve Foster [Scribner's, $3]. An ably written and illustrated account of leaders and events in all parts of the world between 1809 and 1865.

"This Is the World," by Josephine van Dolzen Pease [Rand McNally, $2.50]. Strikingly illustrated story of the earth, its functioning, and its peoples, in children's vocabulary.

"My First Geography of the Pacific," by Arensa Sondergaard [Little, Brown, $2]. A much-discussed section of the world comes to life in vivid story and picture.

Books Available for Every Age

Elephants" [Longmans, $2] revivify the heroic deeds of free men of other days. Peoples of other lands are interpreted in such titles as William C. White's "Made in the U. S. S. R." [Knopf, $2], "China, Country of Contrasts," by Mary Nourse and Delia Goetz [Harcourt, Brace, $2], and Kay Stevens Footes' "Walkabout Down Under" [Scribner, $1.50].

Biography takes its place in preparation for the world of tomorrow. Helen Nicolay's "Invasion Chief" [Appleton Century, $2] and "Lautaro" by Fernando Alegria [Farrar and Rinehart, $2], the latter a story of a Chilean leader in the fight for freedom, are examples of a number of books which will have a permanent place on young people's shelves.

All in all, an excellent showing for young people in this war year of 1944.

AMONG THE AUTHORS

By Frederic Babcock.

SOMETHING of a departure in book reviewing is to be found in this issue. . . . One of the reviews is by a banker. . . . Monroe F. Cockrell, who wrote the critique of Col. Robert S. Henry's "'First With the Most' Forrest," is vice president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago. . . . His vocation provides him with enough funds to follow his avocation, which is an intense study of the Civil war period, with special reference to the picturesque general who, despite everything Mr. Cockrell and others can do about it, is best remembered by the misquotation, "Get thar firstest with the mostest." . . . Incidentally, Mr. Cockrell spent nearly a month in criticizing, and making suggestions regarding, the manuscript of Walter Hebert's "Fighting Joe Hooker," reviewed in this section last Sunday by Avery Craven.

"Frank Leahy and the Fighting Irish," by Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE, came off the Putnam presses last week. . . . It will be reviewed next Sunday by a man who for many years has followed the career of the famous coach at Notre Dame. . . . David O. Selznick has bought the motion picture rights to "The Scarlet Lily," by the Rev. Edward F. Murphy, S. S. J., and plans to film it in technicolor, with Ingrid Bergman as the star. . . . The novel is based on the life of Mary Magdalene. . . . It will be issued this week by the Bruce Publishing company of Milwaukee. . . . Father Murphy will discuss it at an open meeting of the Cathedral Book club Wednesday evening in the Cathedral auditorium, 19 East Chicago av. . . . Rulka Langer, author of "The Mermaid and the Messerschmidt," and Dr. Gabor de Bessenyey are to lead a panel discussion of "Russia's Frontiers and the Peace of Europe" at 3:30 p. m. today before the Charles Carroll Forum of Chicago, meeting at the Morrison hotel.

One of the coming winter's headliners promises to be Edna Ferber's newest. . . . It's entitled "Great Son," and it deals with four generations, beginning before the Civil war and carrying thru to Pearl Harbor. . . . The publisher, Doubleday, Doran, proclaims that the story is told "with the rhythm and sweep of Miss Ferber's 'Show Boat,' 'So Big,' and 'Cimarron.'" . . . Next spring Prentice-Hall will depart from its 31 year old practice of publishing only nonfiction. . . . Its first two novels are to be "September Remember," by Eliot Tainter, and "How About Tomorrow Morning?" by Helen Haberman. . . . Joseph A. Brandt, director of the University of Chicago Press, relates that his firm's new policy of bringing out books of general appeal has already borne fruit in the success of Friedrich A. Hayek's "The Road to Serfdom." . . . The treatise, which exposes the dangers of regimentation and burocracy, has gone into its third printing.

Interpreting America for Youngsters

By D. Genevieve Dixon.
[Librarian of the University of Chicago High School.]

There have always been books written about America, but today there is new impetus given to their creation because of the war. We have been hearing so much of other lands and peoples that suddenly we realize that we don't know too much about our own country, its people and problems. Young people are still avidly reading war stories, but they also have a decidedly sharper interest in books which interpret America.

Three series of books that are being published currently are excellent in showing us the various regions of our country — the American Rivers, the American Folkways, and the American Lake series. Each of the volumes in these series is written by an expert, well acquainted with the particular area described. Each tells of the history and life of the people, and makes the region a live and distinctive part of America. Most of the books are quite readable; all of them are attractive in format and illustration.

Blair's "Tall Tale America" is a definite contribution to our legendary literature. The subtitle describes it as "a legendary history of our humorous heroes." Young people have long been delighted with the stories of Johnny Appleseed, Paul Bunyan, and Pecos Bill. In "Tall Tale America" we find not only these familiar figures but also the stories of Stormalong, Jonathan Slick, Mike Fink, Mosi, Windwagon Smith, John Henry, and Joe Mazarac. The tales are well told, with emphasis on lesser known incidents in the lives of the more familiar heroes. The final chapter on present day heroes shows that America is still producing giants when men are given problems big enough to overcome — problems such as shipbuilding and transportation in war time. Today, as in the past, the thesis that hardships make big men is shown to be true.

Historical novels include Yates' "Patterns on the Wall," Forbes' "Johnny Tremain," and Medary's "Buckeye Boy." Fernald's "Jonathan's Doorstep" is particularly interesting because the main thread of the story is of modern times, with flash backs to bring in the fact that our historical heritage influences life today!. It also brings out the need for tolerance.

Frederick's "Out of the Midwest," a compilation of middle western tales, and Walker's "Winter Wheat" is a story of a Montana farm girl whose life was shared and influenced by her environment.

Problems America is facing and will face in the post-war period are important to our young people. The youngsters are alert to the idea that they will have a share in solving these problems. So we find them reading Glick's "Three Times I Bow," Embree's "13 Against Odds," Means' "Teresita of the Valley," Lippmann's "United States War Aims," and Ottley's "New World A-Coming."

Dahl's "I Wanted to See" is a challenging autobiography which tells of the struggles of an almost blind Norwegian-American teacher. It is told without emotionalism and is a splendid example of courage. It, too, is a part of Americana.

Edmonds Writes of Youthful Pioneers

"WILDERNESS CLEARING," by Walter D. Edmonds. [Dodd, Mead, $2.50.]

Again the author of "Drums Along the Mohawk" draws on his knowledge of the Mohawk valley, this time for his first full length junior novel. Some of the characters are authentic and the killing of the two Mount boys by Indians, which he uses as a climax, is an historical episode in the opening of the Revolution in northern New York. Dominating the action of this pioneer story is the author's skilful and understanding portrayal of the 16 year old hero and heroine—shy, steadfast Dick Mount and clever, imaginative Maggie Gordon.

Young People Are Informed of Democracy

Twenty "Books for Young Americans," stressing coöperation and fair play in this country, have been named by the Women of Goodwill as composing their "junior book list." The 20 are designed to inform young Americans about democracy in their own country. The Women of Goodwill make up the woman's committee of the Chicago Round Table of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

The books are of interest to every age up thru early high school years. They range from "Fair Play," by Munro Leaf, for pre-school youngsters, to Stephen Vincent Benet's "America," for high school students. Fiction, biography, and history are included. All the books are recent publications that are currently available.

Foreword was written by Angelo Patri. Mrs. S. Stuart Sherman was chairman of the junior book committee that composed the list.

The books chosen are:

FOR OLDER READERS.

"Keystone Kids," by John R. Tunis.
"Dr. George Washington Carver," by Shirley Graham and George D. Lipscomb.
"Jonathan's Doorstep," by Helen Clark Fernald.
"Men Are Brothers," by Eva Taylor.
"Teresita of the Valley," by Florence Crannell Means.
"America," by Stephen Vincent Benet.
"The Great Tradition," by Marjorie Hill Allee.
"We Live to Be Free," by Emma Gelders Sterne.
"All-American," by John R. Tunis.

FOR INTERMEDIATE READERS.

"Incident in Yorkville," by Emma Gelders Sterne.
"The Singing Tree," by Kate Seredy.
"This Is the World," by Josephine Van Dolzen Pease.
"Shark Hole," by Nora Burglon.
"The Level Land," by Dola De Jong.
"Mocha, the Djuka," by Frances Fullerton Neilson.
"On the Dark of the Moon," by Don Lang.
"George Carver: Boy Scientist," by Augusta Stevenson.

FOR VERY YOUNG READERS.

"Fair Play," by Munro Leaf.
"Tobe," by Stella Gentry Sharpe.
"The Dragon Fish," by Pearl S. Buck.

Copies of the list, with brief comments on each book, may be obtained without charge from the Chicago Round Table of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, 203 N. Wabash av., Chicago 1.

Electronics Lore for Young Readers

"ELECTRONICS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS," by Jeanne Bendick. [Whittlesey, $1.50.]

Simple line drawings by the author help the young reader to visualize how science has put electrons to work doing jobs for mankind. Nearly half the book's 148 pages are devoted to the elementary physics of the electron and the electron tube, and a sketch of electrical history. The rest, chapter by chapter, deals with the electric eye, radio, and movies, television, war devices, and such. A nine page glossary with illustrations concludes the work.

Charlie Agnew's Band Coming to Pan American Room

Hotel La Salle to Start New Policy Nov. 21

By Will Davidson.

Add Charlie Agnew's name to the list of bands headed for Chicago cafe dates in the very near future.

Charlie will preside on the Hotel La Salle's main bandstand, starting Nov. 21. This is a switch from the policy of the last few years of presenting smaller, less well known orchestras in the white and chaste Pan-American room, and should be an interesting move to watch.

The other bands headed our way are Frankie Masters, who comes to the Latin Quarter Nov. 24, with the Ritz Brothers; Tommy Tucker, who replaces Glen Gray in the Stevens Boulevard room Wednesday, and Tommy Dorsey, booked into the Sherman's College Inn for Dec. 1.

Mr. Agnew hasn't been around town for several years, so far as I can recall, so there is no telling what his band is like now, but chances are that his appearance will step up the quality of the Pan-Am's floor shows considerably. Winnie Hoveler and her amazing line of dancers have had to struggle along without proper musical background since their opening in the room. Considering the tremendous effectiveness of their performances even without show-wise accompaniment, it is easy to drool a bit over what they'll do with Agnew's band back of them.

The Latin Quarter is marking time, in a way, until that post-Thanksgiving riot when the Brothers Ritz start tearing up the joint, but its method is most diverting. For example: The Murtah sisters make hilarious hay with their unique vocal variations; the Hudson Wonders twist beautiful bodies into amazing contortions; Harold and Lola are amazingly serpentine in their specialty dance; Diosa Costello explodes all over the place with her pouting, shouting, contorted Latin energy, and Eddie Garr tells stories.

Ouriette Muriah.

The Murtahs are in their element at the Quarter, and their operatic didoes, their mugging, and their broad burlesque of singing styles is capital entertainment. Harold and Lola are really a sight to behold, and the Latin Quarter line gives them effective background. La Costello is the human proof that perpetual motion is possible, and altho her posturing at times verges on the disreputable, she is a powerful entertainer.

Eddie Garr never appeared to worse advantage than on his opening night at the Quarter. It was rather a surprise opening and he was obviously unprepared for it. In view of his usually high quality work it seems unfair to judge him too harshly on that one show—so let's charge it off to something or other and hope he's in his old stride now.

TOMMY TUCKER

Tommy Tucker brings his band into the Boulevard room of the Stevens hotel Wednesday. The current show will hold over.

The Rio Cabana shook hands with its old jinx again last week when at the last moment Frances Faye was forced to cancel her opening night appearance as the new headliner. The Za-Zu-Za girl is reported in a cast in a southwestern hospital, and at this writing her arrival at the Rio is problematical.

In the meantime Sammy Walsh, George Tapps, Enrico and Novello, Rita Oehman, and Dorothy Dorben's line carry on with a show that shouldn't hurt any one's feelings whatsoever. Mr. Tapps, of course, is superb. The boy grows and grows in ability and maturity and understanding. He's one of the real thrills of show business.

Sammy Walsh has been doing a lot of good on the G. I. circuit and on basis of reports that come back he is hereby awarded one of the king size laurels for his work. Sammy is a quiet little fellow with a twinkling sort of good humor that is infectious. He can provide the belly laughs, all right, but what you do most of the time is just sit back and grin and feel good.

If there is a band in the country that can put on a more powerfully exciting, more beautifully conceived and staged, more music wise show than Gene Krupa's, brother, lead me to it. I've seen a lot of band shows before and found them superb. Gene himself has done some excellent ones in the past. Calloway is dynamic. Ellington a music master.

But Krupa is positively volcanic. His dance music, with its nine string counterpoint for the hot brass and the racing winds is superb. And under Gene's vibrant wide-eyed direction it becomes enormously moving in the production numbers.

Those strings do a lot to make Gene's band the amazing one it is. Led by dark haired Paul Nero, the section is no long-hair concession by any means. It is an integral part of a very hot band and its muted moments serve only to highlight the piercing strength of the more orthodox swing sections. Krupa also utilizes his singers — the four G-Noters and Ginny Powell—as integral parts of the arrangements, and they add another dimension to his musical paintings.

When Krupa features his own magnificent drumming the numbers reach dramatic heights, that no band in my experience has reached before. His "Bolero in the Jungle" is percussion perfection. Crouched over his kettle drums, Gene is a Merlin of music, creating rhythms and moods and impelling crescendos that press into your very veins. His "Drum Boogie" is sheer, explosive rhythm, with every triumphant beat directed by fantastic shadows that hover over the band like jiving jinns.

Gene drops showmanship for a bit when he and Charlie Venturo, the tenor man, and Teddy Napoleon, pianist, jam up some superb jazz. It is reminiscent of the famous Benny Goodman trio, with Gene, Benny, and Teddy Wilson, and it is another superb illustration of Gene's musicianship.

I'll gladly take issue with de friends and Defauws of longhair music if they contend that jazz—or swing—approached with musicianly honesty and fervor, cannot be valid, important music. Krupa proves it.

Boswelling the Bistros:

A last minute flash tells me that the elegant dancing DiGitanos and the Harmonica Rascals will head the cast of a new show—the Holiday Revue—opening at the Palmer House on Nov. 30. Carmen Cavallaro's band will continue to be the musical magnet it always has been.

It will be Joe E. Lewis and Rose Marie at the Chez Dec. 3.

Slightly tardy congratulations to the Irv Kupcinets on their baby. . . . Le Brun and Campbell, dance team, and Frank Payne, impressionist, will join Benny Strong's band as headliners of the new Walnut room show in the Bismarck Friday. . . . In speaking of clippings I neglected to mention those proving what all Pump room habitues knew would happen—that Bert Allerton would be a hit in Minneapolis.

CHICAGO Movies SUBURBAN

Drama Notes

Reports from Dublin look black for the future of the Abbey theater, long its pride and a favorite in Chicago during several tours. According to Hugh Curran, writing from Dublin, the Abbey is threatened with extinction not only because the war ended its travels but because things at home are not good. The quality of plays and acting has fallen off, says Mr. Curran, and the directorate has been charged with incompetence and asked by a vote of 59 to 15 to resign, partly because of insistence on the use of the Irish language. Mr. Curran hopes Barry Fitzgerald can film O'Casey's "The Plough and the Stars," as Hedda Hopper recently reported he wants to, with such former Abbey colleagues as Sara Allgood, Maire O'Neill, his brother, Arthur Shields, and J. M. Kerrigan.

"Life with Father" had its fifth birthday party at the Empire theater in New York last week, and like all the other popular shows it is reflecting good business. More people are going now than in its third and fourth years. Altogether, more than 5,000,000 people have seen the play, and the total gross so far is more than $7,750,000. No movie rights have been sold.

Answering inquiries about little theater auditions, the Uptown Players, 1219 N. Clark st., hold auditions the second Sunday of each month at 4 o'clock. Applicants appear before a membership committee.

As the news reports recently stated, Brooks Atkinson, long drama critic of the New York Times, has returned from China and is ill in an eastern hospital. Lt. John Mason Brown, lecturer and critic in prewar days for the World Telegram, has been placed on the navy's inactive list. He said he planned to write, lecture, and do some radio work.

Gertrude Lawrence, back in New York for "Errands for Berenice," after entertaining soldiers in England and France, has signed with Doubleday, Doran to write what they call informal reminiscences.

Caddell Burroughs, the new Dexter in the Studebaker's "Kiss and Tell," is an Austin, Tex., boy who got his start on radio. That comedy, meanwhile, begins its 80th week, with George Abbott, the producer, reported about to start casting a Chicago company of "Snafu," his new Broadway piece in G. I. jargon, meaning "situation normal, all fouled up." The original cast holds three recruits from our "Kiss and Tell," Patricia Kirkland, Dort Clark, and Cliff Dunstan.

Victor Payne Jennings, producer of "Rebecca," has asked Judith Evelyn to play the leading role in "Guilty," a play which was known as "Therese Raquin" when Flora Robson acted it in England. Miss Evelyn, the original near-victim of "Angel Street," was in town last week, and like most visiting actors, she headed straight for "The Voice of the Turtle."

Among Eddie Dowling's projects is a play by his war correspondent son, John Graham Dowling. It hinges on an 18 page letter written from the South Pacific, which the elder Dowling wants his son to dramatize for family production.

Books For Children

News to an Editor: Kids Are Reading Worthwhile Books!

By Frederic Babcock.

As an old fashioned guy who likes to think that the books he read as a kid were pretty good literature, and who is continuously disturbed by the alleged fact that so many kids of today refuse to notice the best of the books of this and former years, I am delighted to be assured by Miss Shea, and Miss Dixon, and Mrs. Heron, and the other experts writing for this section that a sizable share of our juvenile populace actually reads the worthwhile things.

A visit to any Chicago or midwestern book shop strengthens that assurance. The book sellers tell me that this Christmas, with former staples absent from the toy and game and gewgaw departments, books for children will be in greater demand than ever before, and that in the final rush it may be difficult to find enough to go around.

The publishers this season are putting out an unprecedented number of "juveniles." Everybody seems to be trying to provide the items that will make the youngsters realize that the world of literature is full of sparkling, enthralling stories. Educators, parents, librarians, sociologists, and youth leaders thus are getting splendid coöperation from the people in the book business.

Miss Nora Beust, specialist in libraries for the United States office of education, has set forth, much better than I could, the important part books can, and should, play in the life of a child.

"Children need books," she says, "that they may master the skill of reading.

"That they may experience the joy of reading.

"That their reading tastes may continue to develop thruout life.

"That they may find that books contain information which they want.

"That they may have a share of the rich heritage in literature.

"That they may develop discrimination in the use of books.

"That their curiosity may be stimulated and satisfied.

"That they may know that books are necessary for intelligent living.

"That they may benefit thru experiencing vicariously the emotional and intellectual life of others.

"That they may develop self-reliance thru the knowledge gained from books."

On this and the following pages are reviews and discussions and listings of a large number of current offerings in the juvenile line. THE TRIBUNE presents these pages in the belief that they will be of lively interest not only to the children, but to all those who believe children should be given, and will welcome, a literary diet as beneficial as it is delectable.

New Augustus Book Is Sure Fire Hit

"AUGUSTUS FLIES," by Le Grand. [Bobbs-Merrill, $2.]

The arrival of a new Augustus book in the reviewer's household is a signal for a free-for-all skirmish for first possession, the victor hiding it when he has to take time out to eat. This latest addition to the juvenile series comes up to its predecessors in fresh humor and characterization, in suspense, and in timely tieup with the progress of the war. Augustus, aided by two new friends, Walt and Mr. Prutty, builds a glider that plays an unexpected part in capturing some spies and rescuing an inventor. It's to be hoped Augustus will carry on and help the post-war planners, too!

FRANCES DUNLAP HERON.

Children's Book Week Observed at the Library

The 26th anniversary of Children's Book week will be observed by the Chicago Public library this week in its branches and the main building. On the theme of "United Thru Books" branches will feature exhibits on current and selected titles for children, book talks, club and story hour programs.

At the main library the Thomas Hughes room for young people announces a special program on Thursday, Nov. 16, at 3 p. m. in the G. A. R. hall. Mrs. Beatrice S. Rossell, educational director of the Quarrie corporation, will speak on "Millions of Miles in Your Easy Chair," and Phyllis Whitney, author and book reviewer, will introduce Chicago authors and illustrators of 1944 children's books. Parents, teachers, and all others interested are invited to attend.

A special film program for children was given yesterday morning in the G. A. R. hall. "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer" was shown.

Splendid Books Available for Every Age, Miss Shea Relates

By Agatha L. Shea.

[Director of Young People's Work, Chicago Public Library.]

Altho war time restrictions and shortages have cut down somewhat the number of children's books in the year's output, authors, artists, and publishers can justly congratulate themselves, for, in most cases, standards have been kept high, the books are attractive, and a variety of interests for each age group is available.

"Mother Goose," by Tasha Tudor [Oxford, $2], starts off the 1944 parade of picture books, and a lovely book it is with the old favorite rhymes and charming soft colors on each page. As modern as Mother Goose is old is "Georgie," by Robert Bright [Doubleday, $1.25], for Georgie is our first little picture book ghost, and a jolly little ghost he is as he flits in and out of his attic home and over the creaky stair.

"All Aboard, We Are Off," by Nura [Studio, $2.50], is a story picture book with unusual pictures, as is "Magic Michael," by Louis Slobodkin [Macmillan, $1.50]. Both have more story than the simple picture book usually offers, as do "Apple Rush," by Katherine S. Keeler [Thomas Nelson, $2], and "Roddy Meets the Circus," by Mabel B. Hill [Lippincott-Stokes, $1.50]. The last two are stories of children's doings, apple picking and circus adventure, in which children will participate vicariously.

Rose Dobb's "No Room" [Coward-McCann, $1.50] is one of those rhythmic little tales which are always popular, and William Stone's "Pepe Was the Saddest Bird" [Knopf, $1.75] is a highly humorous tale of a bird who couldn't get rid of his halo.

Variety of reading is plentiful for the 10 to 12 year group. Katherine Pollock's "Sky Ride" [Scribner, $1.75], "Bicycle Commandos," by Wendell Farmer [Doubleday, $2], and "How Planes Get There," by Norman V. Carlisle [Harper, $1] are all timely stories of the present day interests of hero worshiping youngsters. Animal stories, always popular, are here in most attractive format. Paul Brown's "Hi Guy" [Scribner, $2], a story of a prize winning horse, is sure to be welcomed, and "Crazy Dog," by Leon Ware [Whittlesey House, $1.50] will find a place on favorite dog lists. Both have excellent illustrations. A beautiful book in this class, altho appealing to a somewhat younger audience, is Robert Lawson's "Rabbit Hill" [Viking, $2].

Factual books, too, have a place on this season's list. Latham Campbell's "The First Flying Book" [Franklin Watts, $1] and Polly Culbertson's "Peter P. T." [McKay, $0.50] are examples of timely interest books, of which there are many others.

Toy books with animated pictures which combine action and reading offer quite a choice for the toy minded child. Inez Hogan's "Twin Colts" [Dutton, $1] and Helen Hoke's "The Shaggy Pony" [Messner, $1.25] are only two of this type. Children of today and yesterday are also here—Miriam Mason's "Little Jonathan" [Macmillan, $1.50], Eleanor Estes' "The Hundred Dresses" [Harcourt, $2], Elizabeth Enright's "Then There Were Five" [Farrar and Rinehart, $2], and Robbie Trent's "Susan" [Viking, $2].

Books for the teen age group are especially significant this year, and authors and editors have taken thought of the needs of young Americans for the years that are before them.

Historical fiction such as Eugenie Stone's "Free Men Shall Stand" [Nelson, $2], Merritt Parmelee Allen's "White Feather" [Longmans, $2], and Alfred Powers' "Hannibal's

Barnyard Animals in Animated Style

"HA-HA FARM," by Thirma and Carlyle Leech. [Capitol, $1.]

For the amusement of smallest literary fans, the rooster, the duck, the donkey, and other barnyard inhabitants explain in rhyme and with animated effects their enthusiasm for living. Full page illustrations are colorful and clever.

Johnny Is Sturdy Son of Frontier

"JOHNNY PAINTER," by Anita Pettibone. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Kelsey Guilfoil.

This novel is, in a way, a somewhat remarkable achievement for a woman writer: a story primarily about a man—or rather a boy who earned his manhood the hard way, thru his own unaided efforts. He was just 15 when his father was shot down beside him at a neighborhood party and he had to assume the responsibilities of a man.

Naturally, there is a love element in the story. A novel isn't a genuine blown-in-the-glass woman's novel unless the love element is pretty prominent. But Johnny Painter's love of Nancy Fargo is something out of the usual line—there's no mushiness or Freudian complications, and Nancy, altho a designing little creature who decides at first sight that she wants Johnny, doesn't flaunt her sex too flamboyantly.

The scene of the story is Washington territory around 1870. When Johnny Painter's widowed mother leaves him alone to return to her home state of "Ioway," he counts himself a man of means because she gave him $5 out of the proceeds from the sale of their homestead.

So Johnny, already a man in stature, becomes a man in spirit, and in the rough man's world of a frontier country, works at any sort of odd job he can get, hoping some day to have enough to marry Nancy. But to her dismay, he will not even hint that he wants to marry her until he feels that he is able to support a wife.

There simply isn't space enough allotted to these reviews to tell you how the author has succeeded in picturing the life of the Pacific northwest in those days. I regret, too, that I can't tell you enough of the story to convince you that it's virile and boisterous without being profane and ugly.

One thing I can do, however. I can take back what I said in the first paragraph, and admit that "Johnny Painter" is a remarkable story for any one to have written. If you don't enjoy it, it must be that you don't care for stories that bring us the freshness of the western air, the warmth of the western sun, the all-alive spirit that pervades the old west and the new.

Southern Neighbors.

"What South Americans Think of Us" is the title of a book which has been written in collaboration by Samuel Guy Inman, Carleton Beals, Herschel Brickell, and Bryce Oliver. It will be published early next year by Robert M. McBride.

Atonement Studied by British Cleric

"THE CROSS AND THE ETERNAL ORDER," by Henry W. Clark. [Macmillan, $2.50.]

Dr. Clark, an educator, historian, and Congregational minister of England, couches in the language of the professional theologian his study of the doctrine of the atonement, viewed in [he explains] its cosmic significance. He considers the atonement not merely forgiveness but even more a dynamic corrective to faltering mankind. He projects his thought to contemplate the movement of mankind toward its destiny from the putative viewpoint of the Lord.

Are you afraid to speak your mind?

This book tells why you don't have to be!

ARE there things about your local, state or federal government that make you boil? When you sound off about them, are you risking prosecution for expressing your honest opinion? Can you be jailed for what you think and say?

You know, of course, what happened when the Nazis took over in Germany . . . what happened in each country they subdued. The first thing people lost was the right to criticize their public servants and their government. For saying what they thought men and women were whipped, jailed, deported, and executed.

$3,000,000 FIGHT

Against the possibility of just such a state of affairs, the Chicago Tribune during the past 20 years has spent some $3,000,000 fighting to preserve freedom of utterance—to prevent the setting up of legal precedents which someday might be used to compromise the rights guaranteed to every American by the first amendment to the Constitution.

Was Henry Ford's famous million-dollar libel suit against the Tribune just a squabble between a great industrialist and this newspaper? If you think so, read this book.

Was the City of Chicago's $10,000,000 libel suit against the Tribune just a fight between disgruntled politicians and this newspaper? Read this book for the real answer.

FIRST COMPLETE RECORD

Why did the Tribune finance and fight in behalf of an obscure Minnesota newspaper a three-year legal battle finally won in the U. S. Supreme Court? The explanation is set out in this book.

Did the Tribune help Louisiana newspapers defeat Huey Long's attempt to muzzle them just because the Tribune didn't like this demagog? Find out from this book.

Now, for the first time in one book, Philip Kinsley sets forth the complete record of this newspaper's aggressive action during this century to preserve freedom of utterance, not for itself alone, but for all the people—including those who attack the Tribune.

FACT-PACKED STORY

In writing this fact-packed case-by-case history, Mr. Kinsley enjoyed the advantage of having covered for the Tribune many of the court proceedings and other events which are the meat of this book.

If you believe you should have the right to speak your mind about things you don't like, you should read this book. Get your copy today. Handsomely case-bound in cloth; 108 fascinating pages. 6 x 9 inches in size. Now on sale at bookstores and Chicago Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn St. and 435 North Michigan Ave. Price, $2 each. By postpaid mail, $2.10.

The Swedish Choral club, under the direction of Harry T. Carlson, will give two performances of Handel's "Messiah" at Orchestra hall on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 17, and on Tuesday evening, Dec. 19.

Reginald and Gladys Laubin, exponents of American Indian dances, will present a program under the auspices of the Chicago Dance council, at International House, 1414 E. 59th st., next Sunday afternoon, Nov. 19, at 3:30. The public is invited.

The Appollo Musical club, under the direction of Edgar Nelson, will present Handel's "Messiah" at Orchestra hall on Tuesday, Dec. 26, at 8:15. The soloists will be Maud Nosler, soprano; Margery Mayer, contralto; Hardesty Johnson, tenor, and Reinhold Schmidt, bass-baritone. For the annual spring concert, the Appollo club will give Bach's infrequently heard "Passion Music, According to St. John," at Orchestra hall on Monday, April 19. The soloists for that performance will be Esther Hart, soprano; Ruth Slater, contralto; Charles Sears, tenor; Harry Swanson, baritone, and John Macdonald, bass-baritone.

Because of the illness of the composer, Arnold Schoenberg, who will be unable to leave California for his planned eastern trip, the University of Chicago Composers concert, which was to have been devoted to Schoenberg compositions on Dec. 8, has been canceled. In its place Joseph Szigeti, violinist, and the Pro Arte quartet will give a concert on Wednesday, Dec. 13, in Mandel hall. Mr. Szigeti will play the new Prokofieff Sonata for violin and piano.

The piano recital by Louis Crowder, chairman of the piano department of Northwestern university, has been postponed from Nov. 20 to Monday evening, Dec. 4, at Kimball hall.

The annual statement of the Ravinia Festival association reveals a total income for the 24 concerts by the Chicago Symphony orchestra and the four chamber concerts by the Budapest quartet of $97,773.91, as against total expenses of $111,464.83, leaving a deficit of $13,000, which has been the average for the nine years of the festival concerts. Of the guarantors' fund of $48,825, a refund to the guarantors of $29,295 was made, or a return of 60 per cent of his pledge to each guarantor. The largest attendance in the history of the festival was recorded, a total of 94,000 persons, an average for the orchestra concerts of 3,541 per concert. The four chamber concerts attracted a total attendance of 8,000. Necessary expenditures for the season were $18,000 in excess of last year. Contributions to the guarantee fund for next season are now being solicited and the management plans improvements to the park, which was donated to the Festival association last season by Mrs. Louis Eckstein, widow of the founder of Ravinia Opera.

Vaudeville

Oriental theater. Will Osborn and his Hollywood orchestra play the novelty arrangements which have won them fame. Featured with the orchestra are Vocalist Peggy Greer and Drummer Flip Ballotti. In addition there are the comedy singing stars, the Radio Aces, and Rochelle and Beebe, comedy acrobatic team.

Chicago theater. The Andrews Sisters are held over for a second week. The girls introduce new tunes as well as a medley review of hit songs they have recorded since 1938. Lou Breese and his band provide new musical novelties, and the bill also includes the Gaudsmith Brothers and their dogs, and Tip, Tap, and Toe, tap dance trio.

Regal theater. Georgie Auld, wizard of the hot tenor sax, heads the revue with his band. Featured in the stage show are Red and Curley, Freddie and Flo, Dynamite Jefferson, and Auld's vocalist, Patti Powers.

Photography Record.

Notes of Music and Musicians

By Albert Goldberg

Isabel Morse Jones, music critic of the Los Angeles Times, recently attended a Friday afternoon concert of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. Her comments on the occasion appeared in her Sunday column of Oct. 29: "For years the listeners have had substantial classical programs based on the fine old German school with American variations. This Chausson, d'Indy, Debussy, Ravel, and De Falla concert list was another language. It fell on this audience like so much Choctaw. Some went to sleep, others amused themselves by watching the little conductor with the beautiful head and the aureole of gray hair. . . . Defauw's airs and graces are evidently for the audience. The orchestra never, or hardly ever, looks up. . . . 'Iberia' by Debussy and de Falla's 'El Sombrero de Tres Picos' might have been cut from the same piece of cloth for any difference Defauw made in the two writers. In Debussy French emotion was submerged by heavy tone and lack of crisp, precise attack. . . . I should like to hear this orchestra under its second conductor, Hans Lange, and in the works it knows, rather than to hear it mince, limp, and roar at the command of an autocratic and seemingly humorless musical director."

Robert Casadesus, noted French pianist, will give a recital in the History and Enjoyment of Music series at the Civic Opera house this afternoon at 3:30. His program consists of Bach's "Italian" Concerto, Beethoven's "Appassionata" Sonata, a group of Chopin, and Debussy's first series of "Images."

Robert Casadesus.

The Woman's Symphony orchestra will give the second concert of the season at Orchestra hall tomorrow night under the direction of Jerzy Bojanowski. The conductor will present the first performance of his three "Indian Sketches," and the orchestra also will play a suite by Rameau, the overture to "The Bartered Bride," Franz Schrecker's suite, "The Birthday of the Infanta," and Lalo's "Norwegian Rhapsody." Jennie Tourel, mezzo-soprano, will be the soloist, singing arias from operas by Stradella, Rossini, and Tschaikowsky, and two songs by Samuel Barber.

Celius Dougherty and Vincent Ruzicka will give a recital of music for two pianos as the second in the series of chamber concerts presented by the department of music of the University of Chicago at Mandel hall on Friday at 8:30. Their program lists three first Chicago performances: Sonatas by Stravinsky and Hindemith and Rieti's "Second Avenue Waltzes." They also will play Schubert's Fantasie in F minor, Opus 103, and Carl Czerny's "Grande Fantasie Concertanté pour deux pianos sur des motifs choisis des operas classique et moderne," Opus 797, No. 2.

Elizabeth Jeffries, Chicago soprano, will give a debut recital in Kimball hall on Tuesday at 8:15. Miss Jeffries has appeared on the stage in the Chicago company of "Life with Father," and is soloist with the Loyola university glee club, and the Mater Dolorosa choir of Assumption church. Her program lists the Bell Song from "Lakme" as the principal number, among a variety of songs by Gluck, Bach, Pergolesi, Mozart, Saint-Saens, Liszt, Debussy, Rachmaninoff, and La Forge.

The Oak Park-River Forest Symphony orchestra will give its first concert of the season on Tuesday evening at the Oak Park High school, under the direction of Gladys Welge. An all Tschaikowsky program will be played, with Ruth Wilkins as soloist in the B flat minor piano concerto. Three more concerts are included in the orchestra's plans for the season. The Nineteenth Century Woman's club chorus, Helen Leefelt, director, will appear on the program of Jan. 16, Stefan Kozakevich will be the baritone soloist on March 6, and at the final concert on April 24, the soloist will be the winner of a contest to be conducted in the western suburbs.

ROMANCERS

Brian Donlevy and Ann Richards, now appearing in "An American Romance," at United Artists.

Marian Anderson, Negro contralto, will be heard in recital at the Civic Opera house next Sunday afternoon, Nov. 19, at 3:30. Her program lists an aria by Monteverde, transcribed by Respighi, "Il Lamento de Arianna"; four songs by Schubert: "Der Wegweiser," "Wohin," "Ständchen," and "Abschied"; an aria from Mozart's "Titus"; two songs by Fauré, "Automne" and "Après un Rêve"; two songs by Debussy, "La Chevelure" and "Fantoches," as well as Lia's air from "L'Enfant Prodigue"; and four Negro spirituals: "My Lord, What a Mornin'!," "Wake Up, Jacob!," "I Am Bound for the Kingdom," and "Ride on, King Jesus." Franz Rupp will be the accompanist.

Marian Anderson.

The Fine Arts Opera will present Beethoven's "Fidelio" at Curtiss hall this afternoon at 3:30, under the direction of Zerline Muhlmann Metzger.

Artur Rubinstein will give the second concert of the Winnetka Music club's 21st season of artist recitals at New Trier High school auditorium tomorrow night. The next recital will be the Trapp Family Singers on Dec. 4.

The Anshe Emet forum, Pine Grove av. and Grace st., will open its 14th season on Tuesday evening with a recital by the noted Polish violinist, Bronislaw Huberman. Huberman founded the Palestine Symphony orchestra in 1936 and returned to America to resume his concert career in 1941.

Tito Guizar, described as "the singing idol of all the Americas," will bring his Pan-American Ensemble to the Civic Opera house for a popular concert next Sunday night, Nov. 19, at 8:30. Among the members of the company are Estela and Julio, Spanish dancers; Robert McDowell, pianist, and the Spanish Sinfonietta, under the direction of Manuel Contreras.

Substituting for Joseph Lhevinne, who will be unable because of illness to open the Musical Arts Piano series in Orchestra hall on Tuesday evening, Nov. 21, Jan Smeterlin, Dutch pianist, will play an entire program of Chopin pieces.

William H. Barnes will be presented in organ recital by the combined choirs of the First Congregational Church of La Grange next Sunday afternoon, Nov. 19, at 4:30 p. m.

Harry Zelser announces two additions to his list of concerts for the season: Piano recitals by Nancy Silsbee and Mildred Freeman, in the Civic theater on the Sunday afternoons of Dec. 3 and 10, respectively, at 3:30.

"Worthy books are not companions, they are solitudes."

FATHER'S LIFE IN TUCSON

BY ROSEMARY TAYLOR

With a mind full of promotions and a thrifty wife by his side, Father set out to build up the West—and land on Easy Street. Some of his ideas panned out. Many died like the waifs they were. But all his life Father rode the rainbow, certain sure about that pot of gold.

WHITTLESEY HOUSE
McGraw-Hill Book Co.

BOOKMAN'S HOLIDAY

By Delos Avery.

WHOSE house would you choose to visit if all the gay and amusing people of all centuries and all nations invited, and if you could go by merely touching a button? Would you call on Robert Louis Stevenson at his airy home "500 feet above the sea" at Vailima? Or the New England home of the Alcotts, where "Little Women" was written? The fantastic "two houses joined," with floors at surprising levels, and with a spiral staircase, where Johann Wolfgang von Goethe was born almost two centuries ago? Or how would you like a week-end at John McCutcheon's red-roofed "Residency" on Treasure Island, with the ghosts of pirates moaning among the palms?

All these I considered gravely, but the one I chose was the "ugliest house" in the English village of Foston. I arrived there last night, which was—by my magic calendar—the night of March 20, 1814, when the Rev. Sydney Smith, greatest and kindliest wit of his time, had just moved in and lighted the fires. He had spent nine months building his house and was ready to welcome a guest. I got there by opening a book, "Sydney Smith's Wit and Wisdom," published in 1865 by Evert A. Duyckinck, with generous quotations.

"It made me a very poor man for many years," said Smith, referring to the cost of building, "but I never repented it. I turned schoolmaster, to educate my son, as I could not afford to send him to school. Mrs. Sydney turned schoolmistress, to educate my girls, as I could not afford a governess. I turned farmer, as I could not let my land. A man-servant was too expensive; so I caught up a little garden-girl, made like a milestone, christened her Bunch, put a napkin in her hand, and made her my butler. The girls taught her to read, Mrs. Sydney to wait, and I undertook her morals; Bunch became the best butler in the county.

"I had little furniture, so I bought a cart load of deals [lumber], took a carpenter with a face like a full moon into my service, established him in a barn, and said, 'Jack, furnish my house.'"

The carpenter's name was Jack Robinson and he had come to the Smiths seeking "parish relief." The job was a godsend to him, because it meant shelter, abundant food, and a pleasant life. Sometimes when the house was full of company he would help Bunch, who was only "10 or 12 years old," to serve the dinner.

The Smiths needed, of course, a carriage, because they must get about the parish over rough and muddy roads. So Smith "discovered in the back settlements of a York coachmaker an ancient green chariot. . . . I brought it home in triumph to my admiring family. . . . The village tailor lined it, the village blacksmith repaired it; nay [but for Mrs. Sydney's earnest entreaties], we believe the village painter would have exercised his genius upon the exterior; it escaped this danger, however, and the result was wonderful. Each year added to its charms: it grew younger and younger; a new wheel, a new spring; I christened it the Immortal; the village boys cheered it, and the village dogs barked at it, but 'Faber meae fortunae' was my motto, and we had no false shame."

The fame of that carriage must have eclipsed that of the "one hoss shay," which did grow old and die, you remember, while the Immortal, being fed with nothing but improvements, "grew younger and younger."

Poor as the Smiths were, they had plenty of servants, such as they were. "Out of doors reigned Molly Mills—cow, pig, poultry, garden, and postwoman; with her short red petticoat, her legs like millposts, her high cheek bones red and shriveled like winter apples."

Molly had two "fine athletic sons . . . never seen to smile . . . honest as Molly herself. And there was Annie Kay, who seems to have done all the work that none of the others did.

On a fine summer day the master of this unusual household would ring for Bunch and issue a command:

"Bunch, glorify the room."

This meant that the three venetian windows were to be flung open, "displaying the garden on every side, and letting in a blaze of sunshine and flowers."

Really, it was a pleasant house to visit.

A Technique for Producing Ideas

Where do the money-making ideas come from—those ideas that make successful novels, radio programs, moving pictures, advertising campaigns, and businesses? James Webb Young, one of the highest paid idea men in the advertising business, set out to answer this question for his students at the University of Chicago. The result is a little book that you can read in an hour but will remember the rest of your life. In the simplest and clearest of language Mr. Young has succeeded in describing the way the mind works in all creative people. He gives you the FORMULA which they consciously or unconsciously follow in producing ideas. He shows you how to train your mind so that the idea production is, as he says, "as definite as the process by which motor cars are produced." Enthusiastically endorsed by editors, college professors, poets, advertising men, salesmen, and business executives who have read it. Send for your copy of A TECHNIQUE FOR PRODUCING IDEAS now. # THE EMPEROR'S PHYSICIAN

By J. R. PERKINS

THIS is the struggle of Sergius Cumanus, a proud man reared in a tradition of cynicism, faced with the contradiction of his beliefs in the person of an itinerant Healer of mystical powers. This is the story of Mary Magdalene, the beautiful red-haired dancer whom he loved in vain, because of her devotion to this same wandering Mystic; and of Luke Galen, his friend, a great physician who also came under the spell of the Nazarene. This is a revelation of conflict and doubts overcome; of intense faith and spiritual beauty; and of the greatest and yet least-understood Personality the world has ever known—seen through the questioning eyes of a skeptic who lost his blind prejudices.

THE LITERARY SPOTLIGHT

by Fanny Butcher

MARSHALL FIELD'S book section was the scene of another Author's day recently. . . . Irving Stone, author of "Immortal Wife," was Rose Oller Harbaugh's guest for luncheon and an autographing host to the eager potential possessors of an "Immortal Wife." . . . At lunch we had an argument about Jessie Benton Fremont, whom some of us called a "drivin' woman." . . . Mr. Stone was, we decided, not an unprejudiced judge of her after he confessed that he had been in love with her for 20 years. . . . When he first met her [in the pages of history a century after she lived], he fell hopelessly in love with her, he said. . . . In her he saw his ideal of a wife, one who shared her husband's work, was the inspiration and the translator of her husband's ambition.

It was more than a pretty tribute to his wife when Mr. Stone dedicated the book to her in these words: "For Jean, in whom I found my Jessie." . . . He had, he said, hopes of his daughter's becoming a great fictional biographer to carry on in his technique [she's little more than a baby] and he thought Jessie Fremont would be a wonderful heroine for her first book when he began collecting material on the ambitious Jessie. . . . But he finally couldn't resist his beloved, and, instead of making a cache for his child of the material, he turned it into "Immortal Wife."

His mortal wife and his two children and he arrived in New York recently and quite literally walked the streets, he said, trying to find a place to lay their California heads. . . . They live in that San Fernando valley celebrated in song. . . . They finally separated into smaller units and honored friends with their presence. . . . They are now luxuriating in the permanence of their California home after the transience of travel.

I asked him what he is working on now. . . . A fictional biography of a man born in our town [no other], who, he said, must be nameless, but who had the quality that made him give to Vincent Van Gogh's story the title "Lust for Life." . . . Not an artist, but a man of temperament. . . . He wouldn't even let me guess the name.

Party Honors Authors.

A name forgotten, if it was ever known to many, was that of the obscure country school teacher in New Salem, Ill., who gave Abraham Lincoln "a college education" after he was a grown man. . . . "Mentor Graham, the Man Who Taught Lincoln," by Kunigunde Duncan and D. F. Nickols, to be published Nov. 20, tells his historic story in a book of historic importance. . . . To meet its authors and Mary Earhart, author of a stirring life of "Frances Willard, from Prayers to Politics," and Walter Johnson, author of "The Battle Against Isolation," the University of Chicago Press, [publisher of all three of these books of popular, as well as scholastic appeal] had a party last week at the University club. . . . Quite properly at a gathering at which the founder of the W. C. T. U. was present in spirit, spirits were absent. . . . But the spirits of the guests were high.

And that word high reminds us that an all time high for the motion picture rights of a novel was paid recently—$200,000—and not once but twice, for A. J. Cronin's "The Green Years" and for Kathleen Winsor's "Forever Amber." . . . There was a public hint from the Will Hays office that Amber was no motion picture lady and her life would never see the light of day as a movie. . . . Amber worked, so to speak, on the night shift in the Restoration comedy, but the 20th Century-Foxy experts feel they can fix her up so she won't faze Hays.

Castilian Chicagoese.

And speaking of the movies, Jane Mayer and Clara Spiegel [Clare Jaynes] had nothing whatever to do with the filming of "Instruct My Sorrows," called by the cinema "My Reputation." . . . They haven't even seen it, won't, until after its South American opening with a Spanish sound track. . . . Imagine Barbara Stanwyck and George Brent emoting in Castilian against [if the locale of the novel is used] our good old Chicago loop and north shore.

Gets Credit for an Assist.

And to get all of the movie news we've collected lately into your ears, Joe E. Brown, when he was here autographing his "Your Kids and Mine," told us that Gene Markey had been responsible for the book. . . . Our old friend Gene, who was Chicago's Prince of Males in the days before he proved it by going to Hollywood and marrying successively [if not successfully] Joan Bennett and Hedy Lamarr, is now Capt. Gene Markey of the United States navy. . . . Joe E. Brown met Capt. Markey in Delhi, India. . . . The captain persuaded him that it was his duty to the fathers and mothers of America to tell them what he knew about their sons. . . . Gene Markey will have a book to persuade himself to write after the war. . . . He has sailed the seven seas and visited practically every front in the pursuit of his duty.

CRONIN DRAWS SINCERE PICTURE OF A BOY

Well Worn Material Is Made Vital

"THE GREEN YEARS," by A. J. Cronin. [Little, Brown, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Richard Sullivan.

Mr. Cronin's latest novel is a warm and genuine piece of work. At the same time it is an impressive example of how material already well worn may still be wonderfully vitalized by a sincere treatment.

Many of the basic ingredients of "The Green Years" might be taken straight out of the stock of any experienced writer of popular fiction; some of the combinations are right off the sure-fire shelf. For this novel is, in a sense, nothing but the story of the orphan boy, befriended and understood only by the old man in the generally unsympathetic household, agonized in his adolescence, but achieving at last, by a surprising yet completely credible plot twist, all his ardent ambitions.

Stated that way, "The Green Years" is old stuff. But—and this is the very real accomplishment of Mr. Cronin's insight—these familiar ingredients are here lit, all the way thru, by the intense and quiet glow of a fine, penetrant understanding, of people and of events; so that, re-created, the old situations become new and fresh and satisfying.

Perhaps in the people of the book, more than in any other one element, one feels this good insight. The boy, Robie Shannon, thoughtfully, nostalgically telling his own story, as of years later, is revealed by that very device of long range, reminiscent narrative as a much more real figure, seen and placed in perspective, than nine out of every 10 first person heroes. And the boy's great-grandfather, old Dandie Gow, the venerable rip who cannot abide meanness, is a triumphant creation. When this red-nosed ancient is contrasted with his own pallid son-in-law, Papa Leckie, or when all the diverse characters of the book are considered together, one senses the range as well as the depth of Mr. Cronin's rendering.

There is, indeed, only one major character who falls flat. The boy Gavin is not so much realized as he is written up. And in the words devoted particularly to him one may notice the defect which, tho it is not constant, still runs all thru Mr. Cronin's writing.

For despite the notable effects already credited, the writing is often blurry and weak. And in work of such obvious sensitivity it is both disturbing and regrettable to find the edges often fading out in generalities, to find the phrasing often stereotyped.

Yet the rich living substance of this novel—which might conceivably be only the first of a series dealing with young Robie Shannon—always forces its way thru any barrier the words make. And perhaps the most just comment of all is this, that if there should be a sequel, any reader of "The Green Years" would very gladly come back for more.

Sketch of A. J. Cronin, whose latest novel, "The Green Years," is reviewed today by Richard Sullivan.

Closeup Study of a Daring Leader of the Confederacy

"'FIRST WITH THE MOST' FORREST," by Robert Selph Henry. [Bobbs-Merrill, $4.]

Reviewed by Monroe F. Cockrell.

The author is already widely known for his books, "The Story of the Confederacy" [1931] and "The Story of Reconstruction" [1938], books that dealt with vast panoramas of men and things. Reading his newest book, the reader discerns that Henry has now hitched his chair right up close to a single man—a valid hero—and that he has faithfully set down the story of the habitual courage and coolness in battle of the Confederate Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest, his terrifying boldness, and his effective way of utilizing every handy aid in his many forays, and big battles, too. "Old Bedford" filled several states with his deeds of daring, his midnight rides, and his successful individual encounters for four full years.

Mr. Henry was born and grew up in middle Tennessee, where the legends about Forrest have just naturally multiplied with the years. That he understands historical values is quite clear—and no wonder, for he spent 15 years in intensive and reflective study. Never does he write "in heroics," yet one cannot mistake his firm belief that he is telling about a genuine hero. He deals with Forrest as a man of everyday passions, ambitions, and prejudices, who nevertheless always employed his natural abilities with such peculiar originality as to stamp him a genius in the game of war.

Unquestionably this book will bring many readers to a surer realization that there were many front line commanders who fought in the Mississippi valley with a steady valor comparable to the best of those who served under Lee, even tho they had no V. M. I. All one needs to do is to read the chapters dealing with Shiloh, Chickamauga, and Franklin—there's blood all over those names!

And just as surely is it made clear that Forrest rose steadily to become the outstanding Confederate leader in the army of Tennessee, who was ordered so many times to distant places against opponents generally occupying entrenched positions, who were superior in number of men, and horses, and in guns, and equipment. No other general on either side was personally in the thick of as many raids and major battles; no other man personally recruited and welded into a machine four separate fearless commands.

All of this is presented in a style that cannot fail to hold interest as the story moves thru a long series of bloody engagements.

The cover drawing was completed by Col. John W. Thomason Jr. of the United States marines just before his untimely death last March.

Multitudinous documentary references reveal the amazing scope of research; the many maps are excellent and correct, and there are numerous illustrations.

There have been several excellent and dependable books written about Forrest, but Mr. Henry brings out many hitherto scarcely known items of interest, such as a history of Forrest's offhand remarks that have become famous military maxims, the indictment at Memphis for treason, the Selma-Memphis railroad enterprise, his pardon signed by Andrew Johnson, and numerous letters and manuscripts that throw much additional light upon the many-sided character of Forrest.

Public Eagerly Buys Books About Music and Musicians

By Harry Hansen.

New York.

BY Christmas this year more books about music and musicians will have been sold in the United States than passed from hand to hand in 50 years before the invention of radio. My generalization does not include textbooks used in the schools, altho that number, too, is considerably larger today than in previous years. My statement applies to books read by people who enjoy listening to music, who help swell the audiences at concerts, and who regularly listen to good programs on the air.

Books about music have never sold in large numbers, but they have been published by persevering publishers, usually men who enjoyed music themselves. Alfred A. Knopf and Blanche Knopf have been regular subscribers to Carnegie hall concerts for years and when Mr. Knopf and Harry Scherman debate the relative merits of the Philharmonic and Boston Symphony orchestras the layman leaves the fields to the experts. Richard L. Simon will argue the superiority of the concerto to the symphony with considerable erudition and his partner, Max Schuster, and Mrs. Schuster are also devotees of good music. Mr. Scherman supports the New Friends of Music, which has just opened its fall season at Town hall, altho he lets the credit go to the Book of the Month club. During the first concert he gave a brief radio address in which he praised the value of chamber music.

Radio Has Helped.

The houses of Alfred A. Knopf and W. W. Norton are probably the most conservative in publishing books on music, often appealing more directly to scholars and readers trained in music. When Knopf published biographies of Shostakovich, Tschaikovsky, and Sibelius a sale of 5,000 copies was considered good, but this year's demand will be better.

Ernest Newman's first book on Wagner found 3,200 buyers, but B. H. Haggin's "Music on Records" went to 5,600. Mr. Knopf goes right on pioneering and this fall presents Mr. Haggin's "Music for the Man Who Enjoys Hamlet," Adele T. Katz' "Challengers of Musical Tradition," and a biography of Martinu by Milos Safranek, husband of the concert pianist Germaine Leroux. W. W. Norton, on the other hand, has already sold 12,000 copies of Paul Henry Lang's "Music in Western Civilization," an encyclopedic study, and keeps 24 titles on musical appreciation, history, and biography active.

"When we began publishing books about music," said Warder Norton, "bookstores didn't want to handle them; such books were supposed to be sold by music stores. We started modestly and stuck to it and the interest has increased enormously. The growth has been especially large in the colleges, but the radio has helped materially to get the public interested in serious music."

By the Scores of Thousands.

The experience of Simon and Schuster is possibly the most interesting, for this house is publisher for Deems Taylor and has been interested in the amateur rather than the expert. Practically all of its books on music have remained in print since 1935, when it issued Artur Schnabel's book on Beethoven's sonatas, which has sold 15,000 copies. In 1937 Deems Taylor's "Of Men and Music," appeared; it has sold 40,000. His "Well-Tempered Listener" of 1940 has sold 17,500; but he made his biggest strike in 1941 when he edited "A Treasury of Gilbert and Sullivan," which has sold 63,000 copies to date in the Simon & Schuster edition. The Book of the Month club made a dividend book of it and sent it into the hundred thousands.

An indication of the place records play in the increase in musical books is provided by two books by Charles O'Connell, the "Victor Book of the Symphony," which has sold 40,000 copies, and the "Victor Book of the Opera," which has sold 59,000. More modest sales were achieved by "Men of Music," by Herbert Weinstock and Wallace Brockway, and "The Opera," by the same authors, and the "George Gershwin Song Book," published in 1942. Mr. Stokowski's book of last year, "Music for All of Us," is typical of books in which the expert speaks to the general audience; this has reached 10,000 readers.

Some Supplies Exhausted.

Henry Holt, Dutton, Arco, Harrison Smith, and a number of other houses have been publishing books about music or musicians and the list is swelling. The most encouraging report comes from the reprint house of Grosset & Dunlap, which has a number of books about operas, symphonies, and concertos, and finds it impossible to keep in stock some of the most popular numbers. One of its books on operas was written by a man named Felix Mendelssohn, no less; Paul Grabbe is the author of "Symphonic Favorites." The Metropolitan set of opera librettos is in constant demand. Here I was informed that the rising interest is not merely in books of information but of cultural subjects. All this points to a steady increase in reading about music, but while the so-called popular audience is growing most rapidly, the number of readers interested in more technical and difficult facets of music is growing, too. This also proves that publishers who encouraged authors to write about music when the rewards were not great have found their confidence in public interest realized.

Life with Milton.

"Wife to Mr. Milton," a behind the scenes view of John Milton's family life, is scheduled for publication on Nov. 22 by the Creative Age Press.

Career Reviewed.

The career of Rose Oller Harbaugh, manager of Marshall Field's book section, is the subject of a complimentary article in a recent issue of Publishers' Weekly.

"Come, and take choice of all my library."

Saroyan Tales Might Well Be Classified as Memoirs

"DEAR BABY," by William Saroyan. [Harcourt, Brace, $2.]

Reviewed by Fanny Butcher.

"Dear Baby" is a collection of the recently published writing of William Saroyan, the most prolific writer in America today. It is listed as a collection of short stories, but atho everything in the book is short, everything cannot, by the most generous use of the word, be called a story. A good deal of the contents of this fragile volume comes under the head of "Memoirs."

In one, "The Declaration of War," a barber asks the author, "What do you write?" "Memoirs," I said, confesses Mr. Saroyan, and later, "I was now satisfied that I had successfully gotten to the bottom of the man's irritation, and had obtained fresh and original material for a new memoir . . . [and modestly] I feel that I have effectively utilized the material; that I have shaped it into a work which, if anything, will enhance my already considerable fame."

William Saroyan.

In that paragraph the reader has the author's own description of this fragile volume. It contains, oddly enough, some of the author's most characteristic and unforgettable writing as well as some of his most characteristic and egotistic puffing up of an incident into "a work."

There are 20 "pieces" in this little 117 page book—the longest of them, the title story, is not in Saroyan's usual "memoir" style, but the story of a prize fighter. The hero won a bout by doing everything he shouldn't have done about his opponent because he didn't really care whether he lived or died—because the only tenderness and beauty in his life HAD died.

"The Hummingbird That Lived Through the Winter" is an enchanting little tale like "My Name Is Aram" and the gentlest parts of "The Human Comedy." It has a rich understanding of the urge for freedom in its utterly simple picture of a hummingbird warmed in the tender hands of an old and blind Armenian who, when the bird had regained its strength, insisted that it be allowed to go, even thru the window into the winter cold. As the child who tells the tale asks the old man whether the bird lived or not, the ancient says, "Look about you. Do you see hummingbirds?" When the child says, "I see humming BIRDS," the old man makes the profound observation that, "Each of them is our bird. Each of them, each of them." It is one of the most memorable of the little tales in the book.

There are a few ironic and funny ones, "The Stolen Bicycle," for instance, and "The Story of the Young Man and the Mouse." The first is about a boy who stole a bicycle and, when it was later stolen from him, bitterly and vociferously resented the theft. The second is about a drunkard who trained a mouse to steal folding money from the guests in a hotel. When the mouse was caught in a trap against all of his instructions to it about avoiding "cheese artfully attached to gadgets which appear to be perfectly static and harmless," he rescued it from the trap but could not make it live. When the mouse died, had been appropriately wrapped in white [hotel stationery] and interred in Central park, "he returned to the hotel and checked out, complaining bitterly about the type of people inhabiting the world."

Most of the other "pieces" [as Mr. Saroyan rightly names them in his acknowledgment] are of the memoir type—casual events which he records as if they were memorable in themselves but which are memorable [when they are] only for the way in which the author records them. Of that group, "How It Is to Be" is an esoteric reaction to the death of George Gershwin. "My Witness Witnesseth" is a sort of writer's confession and contains such memorable [and sure to be quoted] dicta as "Anybody can be a writer. . . . All he needs to do is work; just muddle thru."

Tribune's Great Fight for Press Freedom Related

"LIBERTY AND THE PRESS," by Philip Kinsley. [Published by The Chicago Tribune, $2.]

Reviewed by William Shinnick.

Somewhere in this scholarly and practical work by a great newspaper man a salient point is made: That freedom of the press is a dynamic thing; that it is difficult to define and still more difficult to keep within the groove of the definition; indeed, that freedom of speech is what the courts at a given time say it is.

Nearly all the factual matter in this volume relates to the legal fights THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has made, in behalf of itself and of others, to guarantee that the press freedom inherited from the founders of the republic shall not be abrogated or reduced. The never ending conflict has been expensive, but it has paid dividends in liberty. As Mr. Kinsley relates, the Daily Worker has benefited along with THE TRIBUNE—press freedom is for all.

This means the masses of the people; not publishers only. It is significant that the one country to hold war time elections is also unique in granting to all the right to comment on governmental activities. Mr. Kinsley makes it clear that destruction of that right would mean the beginning of dictatorship. The choice is between press freedom and the governmental propaganda mill, and there is no middle ground.

Couple have wild time trying to thwart murderers while hobnobbing with bearded man and chasing around with queer private detectives. | Author goes fully overboard into realm of fantastic foolishness in order to produce ludicrous excitement. Characters and episodes shaken out of a magician's hat. Story smartly written. |
| "HUE AND CRY," by Thomas B. Dewey. [Jefferson House, $2.] | Lovely young small town school teacher murdered in her hotel room. Singer Batts, eccentric owner of hotel, reluctantly takes over investigation, and with results. Suspects expertly checked, with aid of Joe Spinder, legman, include two high school cutups, traveling salesman, banker, his son, and delivery men. | Jolly style of narrative for cleverly plotted murder puzzle that blends both raw and subtle humor with excitement. Frothy imagination invented this hotel and its owner-criminologist. |
| "THE CAT'S WHISKER," by H. C. Bailey. [Doubleday, Doran, $2.] | Intricately contrived Nazi espionage conspiracy comes to head in Radbury on night girl is drowned, man dies in hayrack fire, and Germans bomb British aircraft plant. Other deaths follow while Reggie Fortune fits pieces together to outsmart archvillain. | Reggie Fortune perhaps has not put his astute reasoning powers to work on a more ingeniously set up puzzle, nor arrived more smoothly at a solution. One of Mr. Bailey's best yarns. |
| "AFFAIRS OF DESTINY," by Georges Simenon. [Harcourt, Brace, $2.] | From his signal tower, Maloin saw the murder. Later, from the dark Dieppe harbor, he recovered the suitcase filled with money. Irresistibly, ensuing reactions engulfed his life in tragedy. This is one of two translated tales of crime's unerring destiny that make up this book. | The occasional new book of Simenon's drab crime stories has come to be something to be awaited. With unmatched skill, he takes seamy lives and, with calm narration, weaves their thinking and blundering into intensely magnetic human drama. |

BOOKS ALIVE

by Vincent Starrett

ENDLESS as are the good stories about the therapeutic virtues of great books, best of all perhaps are those told about the "Pickwick Papers" and its reception in the early Victorian world. This Dickens masterpiece, as is well known, appeared first in monthly parts—the year was 1836—and after a slow start became, quite literally, a raging epidemic. There has been nothing precisely like the episode, before or since, in the history of books.

The work took England by storm. The names of the members of the Pickwick club were in everybody's mouth. "High and low, rich and poor," says an earlier commentator, "all were reading the book and talking of it. Great physicians read it in their carriages, between patient and patient; learned judges studied it on the bench, while the jury were deliberating. Pickwick chintzes figured in linen-drapers' windows, and Weller corduroys in tailors' advertisments. Boz cabs might be seen rattling down the streets and the portrait of the author was in every omnibus. Macaulay, over in India, pished and pshawed over the first number, and, surrendered unconditionally to the riotous humor of the second. Jeffrey and Sydney Smith held out somewhat longer, but ended by making almost an idol out of the author. Carlyle revelled in the work."

It was Carlyle who reported the delightful incident that is this department's favorite, in a letter to Dickens that John Forster has included in his biography of the novelist.

"An Archdeacon, with his own venerable lips, repeated to me, the other night, a strange profane story of a solemn clergyman who had been administering ghostly consolation to a sick person; having finished, satisfactorily as he thought, and got out of the room, he heard the sick person ejaculate: 'Well, thank God, Pickwick will be out in 10 days anyway!'"

If there is a better book story in the world, I haven't heard it; but a story told by Edmund Gosse, in "More Books on the Table," is apropos. Speaking of Queen Victoria and the death of Gen. Gordon, he says: "When she received the news, 'All is over and Khartoum is fallen,' she was asked what she did after her interview with Mr. Gladstone. Her stick shook a little in her hand, and then she said grimly, 'My usual remedy—I read a chapter of 'Guy Mannering.'"

Beggar by Royal Warrant.

Such stories have a bearing on that other fascinating subject, the rewards of authorship. Scott and Dickens were at the top of their profession, and they remain there; possibly they are the two most magical names, after Shakespeare, in English literature. Only scholars or curious bibliobrowsers recall the name of John Stow, the Cornhill tailor whose special greatness it was that he recorded the London that he saw about him. His "Survey of London," published in 1598, survives as a unique and invaluable source work. In the footnotes and indexes of others, his reputation is secure. But he lived and died in poverty.

A few months before his death, in 1605, his king, James I., was moved to do something to help him. So letters patent were issued setting forth that "whereas our loving subject, John Stow, hath, to his great charge and with neglect of his ordinary means of maintenance, compiled and published several books; therefore We in recompense of these painful labours, and for encouragement to the like, have been pleased." . . .

Now what do you think his Christian majesty was pleased to do? Give Stow a handsome pension for the rest of his short life? No, the antiquary's reward was permission for "him and his deputies to collect among our loving subjects their voluntary contribution and kind gratulties." He was graciously permitted to become a beggar.

Such dignities, popular as well as royal, also have been among the rewards of authorship, it is well to remember; but I have no wish to draw a moral. Except, perhaps, to suggest that the long chronicle of books is all the more interesting for its Stows, its Chattertons, its Leigh Hunts, who are as necessary to literature as its Dickenses and Balzacs.

Just Try and Stop Them.

One of the queerest things in our American life, asserts the late Stephen Leacock, in "Vogue's First Reader," now a Garden City reprint, is that national institution the "funny story." In his amusing analysis, the humorist puts an inspired finger, I think, on our most human and perhaps most dangerous weakness—the unimaginative notion that at any cost we must be comedians. It is an established convention that banquet speakers must begin their talks with a story; if the Archbishop of Canterbury were invited to address the Episcopal Church of America, says Leacock, the senior bishop would introduce him with a story about an old darky, and the archbishop would rise to reply with one about a commercial traveler.

"These stories run riot in our social life," he comments, "and often turn what might be a pleasant dinner into an agonized competition punctuated with ruminating silence."

It's Poetry That Pays.

Poetry submitted to the Neosho [Mo.] Miner and Mechanic is to be charged for at the rate of 10 cents a line, cash with order, according to the editor in a recent front page announcement. This strikes me as an admirable arrangement for poet and publisher alike; and what poet would not pay a small amount to see his stuff in print? If the idea spreads, it may be possible to keep poems within, say, 14 lines, surely a desideratum. And if the scheme can be developed so that readers can collect 10 cents a line for reading bad poetry, the millennium will be at hand.

What Were the "Lucia" Books?

I am embarrassed by the question of a reader: "What are the 'Lucia' books?" They were mentioned in this department some weeks ago; but it was G. B. Stern, not I, who named them among her favorite books. A bookseller who has received a number of calls for them, based on the recommendation, also would like to know about Lucia. So would Marcia Winn. So would I, now that the question has come up.

Here is your thought for the week: "A woman is fascinated not by art, but by the noise made by those who have to do with art." Anton Chekhov confided that to his notebook, half a century or so ago; I have just found it in the printed volume. You comment; I wouldn't dare.

Two Books Scheduled.

THE STORY OF NOTRE DAME FOOTBALL

Frank Leahy* and the FIGHTING IRISH by
ARCH WARD
Sports Editor of the Tribune

A brand new story of Notre Dame football and of Frank Leahy, who typifies the best the Fighting Irish stand for. It tells of the pre-Rockne days at Notre Dame from the 1880's on to Rockne's great teams, George Gipp, the Four Horsemen, and a host of other recent football immortals. It tells Frank Leahy's personal story as a man, a player, and a coach. The triumphs that began at Georgetown, Michigan State, Fordham, and Boston College lead back to Notre Dame, where Leahy took over the job of head coach, produced the undefeated Notre Dame team of 1941, developed the fabulous "T" formation, and carried his teams through the great seasons of 1942-1943.

THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE WASHINGTON

by Vera Bloom

WHAT is it like to live in Washington as a member of an "official" family? What do you do, what do you wear, whom do you meet and what do you say to them? What is it like to dine at the White House, to greet a Queen, serve tea to an Ambassador?

Vera Bloom, daughter of the Chairman of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, has known Washington from the inside during two Republican and three Roosevelt administrations. She knows the world where a social blunder can cause an international crisis. From the inside she writes of royal visitors and rural constituents, of the Coolidges, Roosevelts, Longworths, Ganns, of the heirs to historic names and little-known people in big jobs—a book of sparkling anecdote and information, warm, witty, human.

Thanksgiving Customs to Be Lecture Topic

By Irene Steyskal.

That first inter-race amity table at Plymouth town is the Thanksgiving picture conjured up for most Americans as the holiday nears. Familiar in every schoolroom of the land is the story of the Indian guest, resplendent in feathers and barbaric paint, rejoicing with the somberly garbed Pilgrim father at the harvest feast.

Equally cherished and a closer memory is that set in the tuneful verses that tell of a ride in a horse-drawn sleigh "over the hills and far away" to grandfather's house "thru the white and drifted snow" —memory redolent of grandmother's old fashioned kitchen and the spicy pumpkin pie.

But for the student of history, America's Thanksgiving is projected against a panoramic background of earlier centuries and other lands, and this is the picture which Mrs. Robert E. Lanestrem will unfold Wednesday morning for the Chicago Woman's club.

Mrs. Lanestrem's research for her "Thanksgiving Traditions" lecture brings out from Bible lore Israel's feast of the tabernacles, when gay booths and tents appeared in the temple courts and on the rooftops, symbolic of an exiled people's wanderings; a seven day feast, that of the tabernacles, when the fruits of the harvest were shared with "the fatherless and the widow" and "the stranger within the gate." The matrons of Greece had their Thesmophoria, and Rome of the pagan gods sang and danced for Ceres at its sumptuous festival.

In the American chapter of her Thanksgiving story, Mrs. Lanestrem will tell of the part Sarah J. Hale of Godey's Lady book took in perpetuating the holiday thru her letters to President Lincoln and the governors of all the states, and will show how the Thanksgiving proclamations of successive Presidents have threaded thru history, pointing events and revealing the character of the national leaders.

Mrs. Lanestrem is a member of the club. Professionally, she is a dramatic coach. Her talk Wednesday will be under auspices of the art and literature department of which Mrs. Harry A. Biossat is chairman.

Mrs. Fred Frizell's American speech committee has Saturday underscored on the club's calendar for a special members and guests luncheon. One of the speakers scheduled is Estelle B. Hunter, author of the study course in "Practical English and Effective Speech," and another is Herbert Brown, lecturer and critic, who is slated for a talk on "What You Say and How You Say It." A. C. Spectorsky will discuss the modern novel and its effect on American speech.

Mrs. Henry Barrett Chamberlin is president of the Chicago Woman's club.

Music Has Big Role in Lives of Chicagoans

By Thalia.

In contrast to the cacophony of the election, in which the same words were music to some ears but barbed dissonance to others, is the universal "concord of sweet sounds." Of late music has played a more than usually conspicuous part in the lives of Chicagoans. The symphony concerts are a magnet which time serves only to temper to a greater magnetism and the subscription this year was the largest for 11 years.

"Concert day," Friday, is always a popular day for luncheons. The Friday club meets and lunches every other week and moves practically en masse to Orchestra hall. Last week the Council on Foreign Relations' luncheon meeting preceded the trek to the symphony thru the first rude rain of the season, which seemed, however, to deter no one from hearing Clifton Utley, for 12 years director of the council, discuss "World Security: The Fight Ahead," nor from being present at a great occasion in the musical annals of Chicago. Yehudi Menuhin [just back from overseas] not only gave a superb performance of the D major Beethoven concerto for violin but Chicago heard on one program both the first and the second of the nine Beethoven symphonies Désiré Dufauw has promised Chicago concertgoers this winter [as Toscanini has promised his vast radio Sunday afternoon audience].

The opera has brought many personalities in the music world to Chicago, who have been responsible for sell-out performances and have given an extra dash of color to Chicago life. One of the most colorful of those personalities is Martial Singher, who sang in "Péléas and Mélisande" at the Civic Opera house on Wednesday evening and will repeat his spectacular performance tomorrow night. He made his first Chicago appearance before the members of the Arts club last Sunday evening.

The dinner and Martial Singher's recital culminated the smart club's most important week to date, the week of the annual meeting and the first exhibition opening. Of its 36 directors, which include the older and younger generations of civic and social leaders, one-third were to be chosen this year for a three year period. Twelve were reelected: John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Potte. Palmer, John T. McCutcheon, Mrs. T. W. Badger, Mrs. Jacob Baur, William B. Darrow, Woodbridge Dickinson, Mrs. Ernest A. Hamill II., Paul Schulze, Miss Laura Van Pappelendam, and Daniel Catton Rich. One new member was elected, Mrs. William Henry Wood.

The club's first exhibition lured a large group of the curious to the work of two modern painters, Hans Hofmann and Enrico Donati. Mr. Donati and his pretty French wife came out from New York for the reception. They are now living in New York after escaping from Paris and Mr. Donati is, I hear, at work on the setting for a ballet to the music of Ravel's mesmerizing "Bolero."

The club's first festive Sunday evening was a brilliant success from every point of view. Martial Singher was a delight to his audience, which included many of the city's leading musicians—like Mrs. Charles Swift, chairman of the music committee, who as Claire Dux sang Mozart as no one else could sing him, and one of her guests, Désiré Defauw, conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. In the audience was Capt. Michael Bartlett of the marines, who the afternoon before had, to a sold-out house at the opera,

Fashions and Fancy . . . . . By Judith Cass

It is the splash of color or the pert chapeau that seems to be giving the touch of individuality to severely cut frocks and tailored suits usually in predominance at day time gatherings these days. The petite Mrs. John Fennelly was an attractive picture in black and wine the other day at a luncheon meeting of the Council of Foreign Relations held in the Grand ballroom of the Palmer House. Her snugly fitting dress was of what appeared to be sheer black wool, and the unusual contrasting long tight sleeves of wine shade were matched by a tiny felt hat. Her coat, thrown across the back of her chair, was of the same lovely wine tone. Mrs. Fennelly and her husband, both of whom occupied places at the speaker's table with Clifton Utley, lecturer of the day, recently returned to Lake Forest from Washington, D. C., where Mr. Fennelly served as executive director of the committee for economic development. At the same table was Mrs. G. Corson Ellis, neatly garbed in the uniform of the Veterans Information Center of metropolitan Chicago, which was opened Nov. 1 for the convenience of returning service men, with headquarters at 105 Adams st. Seated next to Mrs. Ellis was Mrs. John Paul Welling in a striking black felt hat, with the broadest of brims turned up in pirate fashion. With her tailored gray suit, she wore a black blouse, high at the throat and given just the right touch of femininity by a strand of pearls. The statuesque Mrs. Utley wore a frock of powder blue crepe, with beaded inset at the shoulder, and a forward tilted hat of powder blue feathers. An attractive pair assisting in directing guests to their tables before the luncheon was Mrs. George Shambaugh Jr., in a cocoa brown suit and hat, softly tailored, and Mrs. H. Stanley Wanser, who wore a blue satin blouse with a black tailored suit of heavy silk. Among others seen at the gathering was Mrs. Walter Brewster, in a severely plain, becoming black cloche. Her frock was of purple, pinned high at the throat with a large old yellow gold brooch. Accenting the lovely black and red ensemble worn by Miss Eva Mahon was an unusual locket of yellow gold suspended on a long gold chain.

Mrs. James O. McKinsey sometimes wears an eye-catching suit of soft amethyst tweed lined in pink flannel which exactly matches a pink crepe blouse tied in a bow at the neckline. The high-wrapped turban of amethyst, pink, and white plaid taffeta complementing it was a forerunner of the new hat silhouettes forecast for this winter. Mrs. Homer Lange enlivens a black gown with stunning clips which are twin silver hands holding amethyst quartz tulips, and her matching bracelets repeat the same motif. When the Arts club began its exhibition season recently with the showing of the works of Hans Hofman and Enrico Donati, many of the club members hurried over from the symphony to attend the opening and have a cup of tea. Looking very much like a picture herself was Mrs. Paul Butler, who wore a simple black dress and pearls and a hat that was a creation of pastel pink feathers fashioned into a tight fitting helmet. Mrs. William Henry Wood, a newcomer to the Arts club board, had a huge white orchid pinned on her gray flannel suit as she poured tea at one end of the long tea table. Her chapeau was a fedora of matching flannel. Causing much comment among the guests was the attractive floral centerpiece of gold and russet chrysanthemums arranged by Mrs. Helen Pauling Donnelley in pieces of driftwood, which she picked up along the beach.

Fresh From the Hills . . . . . By Marge of Sunrise Mountain Farm . . . . . Horse Show

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

MOUNTAIN VIEW, MO., is slowly getting the dust out of its hair and settling back to its accustomed langourous pace. The great event of the year, the Horse Show, is over.

Since early last spring, the Horse Show has been the talk of the community. We wanted one like West Plains, Willow Springs, Cabool, and other near-by towns. A Horse Show with lights of its own, instead of the headlights of drawnup automobiles. Nothing was wrong with the ring, a smooth spot back of the schoolhouse, but, as one citizen expressed it: "Dang it, the moon ain't bright enough to light it up fr a Horse Show." Finally some one went around with a petition. And before long he had a total of $350 for the Horse Show Lights Fund. That may seem like small potatoes to cities which start with $1,000 and go on from there, but, by careful planning the $350 stretched over nine batteries of floodlights, set high on posts at the edge of the Horse Show grounds.

On the day of the show, the Jedge was in Arkansas fishing, and I had to take the cream to town. I hardly knew it. Up and down Main st. rode farmers of all ages and both sexes on horses combed and curried within an inch of their lives. One man, mounted on a handsome sorrel, led a shiny-coated donkey, equipped with small sized saddle and ridden by a 5 year old boy in a miniature army uniform. Down at the lumber yard, a spotted horse was led gently down a ramp from a truck and exercised with tender care. Pretty girls in slacks and riding pants were everywhere. And at the street intersection in front of the hotel, saddled farm horses, unaccustomed to so much traffic, stood on their hind legs and pawed the breeze. Everybody was getting ready for the 3 o'clock parade.

Remembering the work waiting for me at the farm, nobly I drove home. Just after noon, the quiet of Sunrise Mountain farm was broken by the sound of the Fritzes' automobile horn. They had come for me. Lawrence Woffard, our neighbor from across Jack's Fork, was entering his driving team in the parade and he wanted several neighbors to ride in the two-seated hack to which they would be hitched.

"Wouldn't it be funny," said Mrs. Fritz, "if we dressed in old fashioned clothes. Perhaps Aunt Lizzie would loan us some."

Aunt Lizzie would. We had a half hour of frantic dressing. Mrs. Fritz wore a 25 gored skirt [Aunt Lizzie was married in it] which swept the ground, a black cape trimmed with sequins, blue sunbonnet, high topped shoes, and carried a reticule. I wore Aunt Lizzie's good blue wool Mother Hubbard, pantalettes that flapped hand embroidery at the tops of button shoes, a white apron and purple sunbonnet. Aunt Lizzie looked very smart in blue dress, green sweater, and pink sunbonnet. We all went to town in the Fritz car, the excitement causing me to forget the meat cooking on the oil stove, but fortunately the oil burned out before the kettle melted down and only the meat was damaged.

In town, the sight of Lawrence's big bay team in ring-strung harness prancing up to us with necks bowed and tails high, made me wonder why I take my life in my hands that way. The two-seated hack looked woefully insecure, and there was surprisingly little to which a frightened passenger might cling. It was no little job to get into the thing, either, with horses skittering this way and that. But finally we made it. Aunt Lizzie sat in front with Lawrence. Mrs. Fritz and I sat in the back seat. We bounced over to get into the parade.

Arthur Duncan, auctioneer, carried a big flag and led the parade on his beautiful spotted horse, Whitey. Behind him came a big truck, carrying the school band in uniforms. Back of that, the Sharp bakery truck. Then, glorious sight, our two-seated hack and its sunbonneted load. Behind us were two more driving teams hitched to farm wagons filled with youngsters in assorted sizes. Then, for a quarter of a mile, extended a line of horses and riders that only a horse-loving country like the hills could produce. Fine saddle horses, and horses with marks of work harness on them, were mounted by men, women, and children in every one's original idea of riding clothes. Smartly jodhpured girls with feathered caps, riding in glistening English saddles followed bearded farmers in blue jeans. Small boys in clean, sun bleached overalls rode on big footed farm horses while perky little girls, with braids flapping up and down, straddled quick stepping ponies. One man, wearing denim overalls carried a musket in the crook of his arm as he rode a spotted pony. Edith Woffard, wife of our host, rode one of the Woffard saddle horses.

Up Main st., down past the lumber yard, back past the hotel, down Main st. again, out past the cheese factory, around and around we went. Then we lined up on Main st. and behold, our team won first prize in the work horse group. We were very proud.

After the excitement of the afternoon we couldn't think of missing the show at night. We drove pellmell back to our farms to feed animals and get chores done. Then Mrs. Fritz, Opal de Woody and I drove back to town. Anyway, I had to get chicken feed and coal oil.

Under the brilliant lights from the nine batteries of floodlights, the three-gaited horses were already in the ring, Jean Walker on Rex, the horse that ran away with the Jedge once upon a time. A black-braided youngster on a spotted horse, a blonde girl on a yellow horse, a boy in overalls on a long legged bay, and a couple of men [strangers] on beautiful sorrels. The black-braided youngster won first, Jean second ["I was robbed," said Jean, later.]

This was my first appearance at a horse show where every event brought human and equine friends into the ring, the first time I ever wanted to throw a pop bottle at the judges of horse flesh. There were magnificent Carnation Rex, carrying his owner, Pal Abbey [our town marshal], and Poke, the beautiful walking horse belonging to John Duncan, the undertaker.

"John looks better on a horse than a hearse," said Opal.

We were proud of Edith Woffard, riding Barney Google, her husband's fast pacer. Edith's gray-green blouse and green riding pants were even more becoming than the conventional clothes she wears to Sunday school at the Harlow schoolhouse. We cheered for Lloyd Smith, who owns a garage and a drug store and also carries the mail on our route. He was riding Nell, the handsome mare owned by Floyd Tackett, the barber. And Claude Brooks was riding Mrs. Tackett's horse because Mrs. Tackett has had to give so many permanent waves this summer she hasn't had time to ride. Our sportsmanship, even our sense of fair play, did a nose dive when any of our friends failed to get a ribbon.

At last one event brought out those snooty five-gaited horses. They were in the ring, decorously walking, trotting, cantering, when suddenly thru the momentarily unguarded gate a strawberry roan and his overalled rider shot like an arrow and went loping around the ring in the opposite direction. A city audience would probably have cheered like mad but Ozark audiences take things more calmly. However, many spectators smiled. We three from the Forks gazed at the rider, who was taking his second round with elbows flapping and heels digging into his horse's sides. We recognized his red hair and gasped. It was our neighbor, Ira Brooks.

"Trust a Jack's Forker to mess things up," moaned Mrs. Fritz.

No telling how long Ira would have stayed in the ring. He was having a wonderful time. But one of the judges spoke thru the mike:

"A gentleman in the ring is disturbing the other riders." Thereupon one yanked Ira and the strawberry roan out of the ring.

Other intruders wandered casually thru the ring. They were the hounds, collies, shepherds, and just dogs that had followed horses and masters to town. But no one minded. The dogs were used to the horses, the horses were quite accustomed to dogs being underfoot, and the owners liked them all. One brown shepherd, obviously belonging to one of the judges, went out to the flower bedecked center where the judges sat in the floral splendor of a Hollywood beauty contest. There Rube Curtiss took him and tried to make an actor of him, but the dog wasn't amused.

Rube is one of our neighbors from over by the Ferndale church. In summer he travels with a circus. Once when Grace McCormick went to a circus in Texas, to while away a few hours between trains, she got the shock of her life when a clown came up to her and said:

"Hello, Grace! What are you doing down here? Did Mac sell those heifer calves?"

It was Rube, who had been dickering for the McCormick calves when the circus season opened.

For the Horse Show, Rube had donned his whitest costume and biggest shoes and was giving us real professional clowning. When the soft drink girls carried seven bottles to the judges, after a broadcast request over the mike, he ran after them to shoo them from the ring. And between events, if riders were late, he told stories over the microphone.

In the show, as in the parade, anything in the way of costume went. In one class, a woman with dark braids wound around her head wore the last word in conventional riding clothes. A masculine rider wore blue jeans with a cowboy shirt of yellow satin with a red yoke. The third rider wore blue overalls and blue hickory shirt. The horse of the cowboy shirted rider won.

Admission was free, and there were no reserved seats. In fact no seats at all. Everybody stood, and frequently horses pushed their way thru the crowd as riders sought mothers or youngsters. No one was frightened. We all have horses of our own.

At last, near midnight, the show came to a close. We stayed until the last horse was ridden away, loaded into his swanky carrier, or hitched to a wagon for his homeward trip. Then we lingered on, looking at the lights until they were turned off. They, too, were beautiful.

Following upon the northern region institute of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, held here last week, the war service department will gather its chairmen from all member clubs in northern Illinois at a conference Friday afternoon in federation headquarters at 30 W. Washington st. The department is headed by Mrs. Charles W. Stigman of Chicago.

Among plans to be discussed are U. S. O. Christmas parties and distribution of Christmas gifts to service men. Clubs thruout the state have pledged contributions totaling $25,000 for the construction of a greenhouse at Vaughan General hospital, which is incorporated in the hospital's occupational therapy program for the rehabilitation of the men. The greenhouse will be the clubwomen's Christmas gift to the hospital, and the war service department is in charge of the project. This also will be discussed at the Friday conference.

Other activities of the department include the recruiting of volunteers for Red Cross work, and raising of funds for the Red Cross, U. S. O., and other war services; bond and stamp campaigns; the making of U. S. O. scrapbooks and filling of Christmas stockings.

November is the month for semi-annual reports at the Woman's City club and tomorrow is the day set for the midyear checkup on progress made along the club's various lines of civic activity. Mrs. Harry M. Mulberry, president, will convene the session at 2 o'clock, and will present a report on work done to bring the voting machine into use, and also on efforts to have a detailed study of election costs made. Mrs. John Gutknecht's child welfare committee has been coöperating with the Illinois child labor committee to curb illegal employment of minors, and her report will be given to special work in checking on bowling alleys.

Miss Helen M. Rathbun will have a report on long range housing plans for Chicago. Mrs. Laura Hughes Lunde's committee has been studying a recommendation of Francis D. Scully, superintendent of the Juvenile Detention home, that a Family court should replace the present Juvenile court. Mrs. Lunde will tell the club about a request made to the legislative council for a study of Family courts in other cities.

Mrs. John Sharpless Fox, chairman of the club's clean city committee will give a report on smoke and rat abatement work and will explain a new plan which Cincinnati and Miami have put into effect whereby restaurant licenses are not procurable if a building is not ratproof. Miss Bessie L. Torrey will review the new plan of evening meetings.

Ther will be an evening meeting at 7:30 o'clock in the clubrooms tomorrow at which Mrs. Edith Kelly will give a talk on the Mexican colony in Chicago.

sung Romeo to the romantically beautiful Juliet of his fellow Hollywood star, Jeannette MacDonald.

He won his first singing laurels in the Princeton Triangle club shows which Chicagoans always turned out for. Capt. Bartlett is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker, whom all of their friends were delighted to see at the Arts club, for Mrs. Meeker's health has curtailed her social life for the last year. She has only recently returned from a trip to Washington, where she combined a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Ambrose Cramer, with a consultation with a specialist. Arthur Meeker Jr. has just returned home from a long summer spent in northern Michigan, where he finished a novel, not, like "The Ivory Mischief," about 14th century France, but about early Chicago, and, I understand, his own pioneer family who sheltered one rebellious "character" in their conventional midst.

Last Sunday evening's concert at the Arts club was, except for the musical thrill, as uneventful as it was charming. But at Martial Singher's first concert in New York last February two ladies literally swooned in Town Hall and some wag labeled Singher, the "Sinatra of the Opera."

Singher is an artist in the tradition, it seemed to me, of the great French opera singers who put drama into the words they sang as well as into their voices and their movements on the stage. Sunday night he stood unmoving before the piano and yet sheer drama emanated from him. He officially ended the concert with a group of three songs by Ravel.

Ten years ago, he said, one day after luncheon, Maurice Ravel handed him some sheets of paper and said, "See what you can do with that." "These were those songs and his last work," said M. Singher. But the audience was not satisfied that they should be the last songs they heard that evening. Their applause resulted in the evening's greatest emotional thrill. M. Singher dramatically sang the song of the French Maquis and every heart in the audience echoed to its powerful courage. That song will be heard again on Tuesday afternoon when the members of France Forever meet at 5:30 in the Stevens hotel to celebrate the liberation of France.

For 10 years before the war Martial Singher was the leading baritone in the Paris opera. His being a professional singer at all was an accident, as was his chance at immediate success. He was preparing for an academic career, dreaming of becoming a professor of French literature. He sang at an Armistice day ceremony at the school where he was studying. Among the guests of honor were Paul Painleve and Edouard Herriot, then ministers of war and education. At the close of the ceremony the two statesmen rushed up to him and told him he must not teach, he must sing. Three months later he was at the Conservatoire.

During the last two of his three years there he won first prize in every subject and sang for his graduation assignment Iago's scene from the second act of "Otello." He was immediately engaged by the Paris opera. Six months later a gala performance of "Otello" was scheduled with Lauritz Melchior and Vanni-Marcoux. Three days before the performance Vanni-Marcoux was taken ill. Singher's effective singing of the Credo at his graduation was remembered and he was entrusted with the role.

"I was just about to go on the stage," he said, "when a very important looking gentleman came into my dressing room and told me not to worry about anything; that there was no danger of a riot. Vanni-Marcoux was an idol of the Paris opera audience and they had not been told beforehand that he would be absent. My visitor was the commissioner of police."

At the performance the mighty Melchior, accustomed to more sturdy partners, in the passionate scene of jealousy in the second act actually hurled the young Singher into the footlights to his own and the audience's horror. Eleven curtain calls and the next day a contract as a leading singer quickly cured his slight wounds.

After M. Singher's singing of the moving underground song one man in Sunday night's audience said "he certainly is well named for a martial singer." It's a shame to spoil the pun, but his name is pronounced San-gay. And his being a son-in-law of "the famous Busch" is misinterpreted by those to whom America's best known Busch is the frothing Annheuser. His father-in-law is the famous musical Busch—Fritz Busch, conductor.

Vanni-Marcoux, whose illness gave Martial Singher his chance, had as many friends in Chicago as any opera singer of his day, and many of those friends, including your Thalia, remember the miraculous dinners which he and Mme. Marcoux offered them in their beautiful pure Regence apartment in the Rue de Cherche-Midi. I can at this moment shut my eyes and see those unflawed gems of rooms and taste again the most delicious dinner I ever put in my mouth, each course flanked by its wedded wine. Vanni-Marcoux was an artist in life as well as in the theater and when the veil of war has been lifted many Chicagoans will seek again the happy contact with him.

Contact, personal and exciting, with the artists of the opera was made by members of the Illinois Opera Guild on Wednesday afternoon in honor of the general art director of the company, Fausto Cleva, and Mrs. Cleva, but your Thalia's badinage had to be written before those gay hours arrived.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, Nov. 13, 1896.

Dear Julia: As I went to the station this afternoon to meet Will, who had been in Michigan City on business, I found a group of Jewish ladies most of whom I knew about to take the train for New York to attend a conference of the National Council of Jewish Women to be held there next week. Some of the ladies are members of the Chicago Woman's club, as I am, and we have been very proud of Chicago's participation in this first conference of the council. Mrs. Henry Solomon, who founded it, will preside and speak. She has a great gift of oratory and we often hear her at the Chicago Woman's club, for she has been a member since 1878 and is highly regarded there. Among others I spoke with at the station were Miss Sadie American, social worker, who has been active in promoting sections of the council all over the country; Mrs. Henry Frank, sister of Mrs. Solomon; Miss Julia Felsenthal, daugther of Dr. Bernard Felsenthal, once rabbi of Sinai Temple; and Mrs. Emanuel Mandel, who is so liberal in her gifts to all good causes.

Mrs. Emanuel Mandel.

Mrs. Charles Henrotin is to address this New York conference, as is Mary Lowe Dickinson, and you will doubtless read a great deal about it in your New York papers, so I wanted you to recognize the names of our Chicago women.

Just as I began this letter, Will was called to the telephone by a Chicago friend who is quite wrought up about the question of Sunday golf, which is now agitating members of the Onwentsia club of Lake Forest.

Will has known for some time that there has been talk of permitting golf on Sunday on the grounds of this fashionable club, but it did not interest him greatly, as he never goes out on that day. The club member who has been talking to him is trying to get his influence in changing the rules to permit Sunday playing. But Will's friends in the club, for the most part, do not favor the change and Will himself would not urge it. He says that while he would have no personal feeling about it, he realizes that many Lake Forest people went out to that place just in order to have a quiet religious atmosphere in which to bring up their children. Moreover, the educational institutions want their students to have a good example before them and they will oppose what they feel is breaking the Sabbath.

There are two sides to the question, says Will. Some men can't leave their offices during the week and their only time to play now is on Saturday, when they find the golf links too crowded for pleasure. Indeed, they say, not all can play who want to.

The governors of the club are elected by the stockholders. There is a capital stock of $75,000 and those who oppose Sunday playing are in control of this, so Will thinks the matter will not even be brought up at the next meeting.

One of Will's best friends is Mr. Byron L. Smith, Chicago banker, who has said there is such a strong sentiment against changing the rules that there would be no hope of Sunday golf. Mr. Smith is not a church member, I believe, but he is a devoted friend of Dr. James G. K. McClure, minister of the Presbyterian church in Lake Forest, and he is so kindhearted that he wouldn't want to hurt him or any others in the village who feel strongly on the subject. I know, for instance, how my dear friend, Mrs. Charles B. Farwell, would regret Sunday golf playing at Onwentsia. I don't know how her daughter, Mrs. Hobart Chatfield-Taylor, stands on the subject.

I do think the observance of Sunday is a difficult matter to decide. We are commanded to keep it holy. But, Will points out, the commandment doesn't say you mustn't play on that day, only that you mustn't work. I find many questions I used to think settled are being opened, to confuse me. Much love.

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOT NOTES.

Mrs. Emanuel Mandel recently celebrated her 96th birthday at her home in Highland Park. . . . Onwentsia club did not permit Sunday golf till after the turn of the century.

Country Sayings.

"Odd as Dick's hatband" comes from Mrs. Lucia R. Cook, Chicago, "The best part of going away is coming home, says Farmer Gray" is from Mrs. Esther Lundgren. Emily Parker adds to the old saying about "All work and no play", the following: "All play and no work makes Jack a ragged shirt." Kathyrn M. Connerty offers: "Never send a boy on a man's errand," a variation of "Don't send a boy to mill."

We are printing the above, but we want more original ones. . . a wise saying of your Scotch grandmother, or your Swedish or Danish grandfather, or your Dutch uncle—something you never heard any one else say. For the best wise or amusing saying, received before Dec. 5, we offer a copy of the "Victorian Keepsake."

Victorian Keepsake.

Don't forget to provide yourself with several copies of the "Keepsake" before Christmas so you'll have something to send the friend who loves old poetry and prose. Get it at the Tribune Public Service Offices, 1 S. Dearborn st. or Tribune Tower. Price, 50 cents; by mail, 55 cents.

An Old Campaign Song.

Mrs. M. L. Keplinger, Carlinville, Ill., writes: "I have not words to tell you what your story of the Lumbards did to me. . . After reading it, I tried to think of some one I knew then, but cannot recall a soul whose elbow I can nudge and say: 'Remember?'" Mrs. Keplinger, who is 88 years old, sends words of a song of the Grant and Colfax campaigns. We offer this below as a "Poem of the Week."

Poem of the Week.

Grant's Name.

If you'd like this . . . a parody on "Camptown Races," send stamped, addressed envelope to Herma Clark, Care TRIBUNE.

Lectures Today

Mrs. Carter Harrison, "Children of the Sun," illustrated, 3:15 p. m., Fullerton hall, Art institute; 60 cents.

Paul G. Dallwig, "Those Interesting Asiatics and Pacific Islanders," dramatized lecture, 3 p. m., Chicago Natural History [formerly Field] museum; free. [Limited to adults and advanced reservations required].

Victor H. Sickinger, "The Grand Canyon Country," color films and recorded music, 3 p. m., Chicago Academy of Sciences, Lincoln park; free. [Doors open 2:15.]

Service Group Plans Meeting Next Tuesday

Several service groups that help to support hospitals and sanitariums for the treatment of tuberculosis have meetings scheduled for the week. Reports on their recent large and successful benefit fashion show will be heard by the Chicago women's division of the National Jewish hospital when members gather for luncheon at 12:30 o'clock Tuesday in the Wedgwood room at Marshall Field's. Mrs. Jack A. Diamond will preside. The hospital, founded by the B'nai B'rith lodge in 1899, is in Denver, Colo. It operates as a nonsectarian institution, giving care to persons of all faiths. In recent years the Chicago women's division has become one of the important fund-raising auxiliaries.

The Kaye E. Geman Memorial club, a unit of the Chicago Consumptive Relief Society, will install a newly elected executive committee at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Morrison hotel. Its beneficiary is the Fox River sanitarium, and the former executive treasurer, Charles E. Kaye, will give a talk on work being done at that local institution near Batavia.

Mrs. J. Meyer Friedman will open her home at 3726 Lake Shore dr. at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow to the Service club of the Fox River sanitarium for its annual membership tea. Mrs. Philip Livingston is president of this group, which maintains a milk fund for the patients, and the membership chairman is Mrs. Harry Wartell. Tuesday night the Metropolitan group will have a meeting at the Standard club, with Miss Evelyn Jaye presiding. Earl Kiddle will appear on the program.

37 Countries in Exhibit of United Nations

By Eleanor Jewett.

A magnificent exhibition opens next Thursday at the Art institute. It is the "United Nations" exhibition and masterpieces representing 37 countries will be on display against an unusual and attractive setting arranged by Gyorgy Kepes. Preceding the opening to the public on Thursday, a formal reception is planned for Wednesday evening, and a preview for the 15,000 members of the museum and their guests.

Practically each object in the exhibition is of unique origin and matchless value. For instance there is from Greece a marble relief statue of a "Horseman," by a gifted sculptor of 400 B. C. The Metropolitan Museum of New York has loaned the figure. Mexico has sent a strange and macabre figure—the "God of Death." Brazil is lending a striking modern oil by Portinari, and there is representative art work from Panama, Bolivia, Honduras, Costa Rica, Cuba, and Colombia.

Belgium is represented by a painting, "The Wedding Dance," by Bruegel, the elder, one of the most noted of Belgian artists. "The Milkmaid," by Vermeer, that great painter of simple people, introduces Holland. England has sent a glorious Turner, "The Burial of Sir David Wilkie," from the Tate Gallery. France is represented by the beautiful "Sunday Afternoon on the Grand Jatte," by Seurat, from the Art institute's permanent collection.

Australia is contributing a large painting, "Bailed Up," by Tom Roberts and New Zealand has sent a native club, beautifully designed, of whalebone. A magnificent rug is characteristic of Persia and a "Dancing Siva," a sculpture, comes from India.

The beautiful "Portrait of Mrs. Richard Yates," by Gilbert Stuart, has been selected by the Art institute to represent the United States in this unique exhibition. It is lent by the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D. C.

The exhibition will continue to Jan. 1, and is well worth seeing.

The Arts club, Wrigley Tower, is offering two modern exhibits for its first show of the season. The large gallery is hung with huge canvases by Hans Hofmann, who uses a great deal of paint to convey the minimum of information. One has to guess at the context of his compositions. Bits of this and that look familiar, but they are presented as fragments bathed in stretches of obvious color that is neither vivid nor brilliant, but inescapable. The remark one hears repeatedly and spontaneously from visitors inspecting the exhibit is "but colorful, aren't they?" If one enjoys abstract art plus more than a little primitive drawing, one may find pleasure in this show. Apparently Hofmann is well considered, for he has had his own school in Munich, taught at the University of California, at the Chouinard School of Art, Los Angeles, at the Thurn school, Gloucester, at the Arts Students' league, New York, and at present conducts his Munich school in New York.

The second exhibit at the Arts club is enchanting. Enrico Donati is a surrealist, but his surrealism has nothing to do with the horror school Dali invented. Donati paints drifting flower petals against a background of rich, sensuous, exquisite color, and mixed with the petals are suggestions of other subjects, birds sometimes, or towers, or tiny fish and coral. Poetic fantasies, subtle, alive, gracious and bewildering are the fruit of his talent.

His exhibit is filled with siren songs from which it is almost impossible to tear one's self away. "Les Cordes du Verre," "Rosée Pénombre," "Semblaient Charmes," "Reve d'une Cigale," "Petite Araignée"—as beautifully as these titles fall on the ear so beautifully do the paintings fall on the eye. They are traps to catch and hold the attention. Lovely, and still more hauntingly lovely, the paintings appear as one studies them closely and then more closely.

The pictures by Enrico Donati are by all odds some of the most beautiful we shall see this year. No one should miss them. The exhibit continues to Nov. 25.

The Palette and Chisel academy, 1012 N. Dearborn st., has opened its annual small pictures exhibition, which, as usual, will close with a bidding sale on Dec. 1. The galleries are open from 1 p. m. to 9 p. m. daily and the auction is scheduled for Friday evening, Dec. 1, at 8 o'clock. The paintings are framed, ready to hang, and represent the work of one group of well known Chicago painters. Among the artists who contribute to the current show are Othmar Hoffler, J. Jeffery Grant, Arnold Turtle, Karl C. Brandner, Leo A. Marzolo, Oscar B. Erickson, James Topping, N. P. Steinberg, and Max Herzog. The exhibition has many delightful paintings and is one not to be missed.

Local Alumnae Clubs to Meet During Week

Program interest ranges the globe this week at several college alumnae meetings. Friday evening the Woman's University Club of Chicago will hear a talk by Miss Eloise ReQua, director of the Library on International Relations.

Miss Eloise ReQua.

A Bryn Mawr alumna, Miss ReQua is a board member of the English Speaking union and of the Fortnightly, and also is on the Chicago committee of the Institute of Pacific Relations. She has traveled widely in Europe and North Africa and on this continent. The meeting, set for 7:30 o'clock in the clubrooms in the Fine Arts building, is planned as an Education week gathering and members graduated from teachers' colleges will be on hostess duty.

Also on the club's calendar this week is a 3 o'clock meeting Wednesday at which Lois Donaldson Kohler will read from Robert Nathan's narrative poem, "Morning in Iowa." Mrs. Kohler, recording secretary of the organization, was graduated from Northwestern's school of journalism. She is a free lance writer.

The Chicago College club will have Mrs. Wilma C. Fairbank, who is associated with the China section of the state department's cultural relations division, as guest speaker at a dinner-meeting Saturday evening. Mrs. Fairbank formerly was a student of Diego Rivera, the famous Mexican muralist. She was in China for several years, doing research on the Han dynasty. Her talk will be on "Our Cultural Relations with China."

Mrs. Fairbank will give her lecture under joint auspices of the club's travel group and the Society of Women Geographers. Hosts and hostesses at dinner that evening will be Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Leavens and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lemon.

The Six-to-Niners of the College club will gather Thursday for a 6 o'clock dinner for Maxine Stetson. Miss Stetson, a reader, will give a costume monolog, "Harriet," biographical play on Harriet Beecher Stowe. On the hostess committee for the party will be Mrs. Richard H. Fitch, Miss Joan Hinchliff, Miss Barbara Lewis, and Miss Dorothy Maguire.

At an open dinner-meeting Wednesday evening members of the library committee will present a program of book reviews.

The University of Wisconsin Alumnae Club of Chicago will hold a tea meeting today for all alumni, men and women, of Wisconsin, and their guests. Mrs. Hugh M. Fogo, 4154 Lake Shore dr., is opening her home from 3 to 6 o'clock for the party. Mrs. Harold F. Downing, the program chairman, has arranged for John Strohm to show his color travel pictures, "Roving the Globe." Mr. Strohm, who is particularly interested in South America, is president of the Pan-American council. He is managing editor of Prairie Farmer. The club is headed by Miss Edith Stoner.

The Chicago Mount Holyoke club's two day series of lectures and discussions, opening Friday in the Lake Shore club, brings President Roswell Gray Ham of the college to the city, and Friday the Women's College Board of Chicago will entertain him at luncheon in the College club. President Ham is to be the dinner speaker that evening at the Lake Shore and on Saturday morning will participate as faculty representative in a panel discussion on post-war education.

Mrs. E. S. Guzman Barron.

Mrs. Oscar Hayward, who heads the women's college board, will preside at the College club luncheon. Among other Mount Holyoke guests will be Miss Harriet Newhall, director of the Mount Holyoke missions, and Mrs. John M. Mills, alumnae secretary. Arrangements for the luncheon are under Mrs. Lionel Winship's direction:

Mrs. E. S. Guzman Barron, president of the Chicago Mount Holyoke club, is in charge of the series of "Mount Holyoke in Chicago" meetings at the Lake Shore. Other officers actively assisting include Mrs. W. O. Kurtz Jr., Miss Charlotte Cornish, Miss Dagny Johnson, Mrs. W. G. Barthelmez, Miss Louise Meals, Mrs. Karl D. Vittum, Mrs. Paul H. Holinger, Miss Marjorie Lasker, Mrs. Winship, Mrs. James Hastings Nichols, Mrs. C. T. Redding, Mrs. Maurice Elgutter, Mrs. James J. Forstall, Mrs. R. W. Powell, and Mrs. Roger Adams. Special committees are headed by Mrs. Myles Havlicek, Mrs. A. W. Consoer, and Mrs. G. F. Spaulding.

The Nebraska Alumnae Club of Chicago will hear a talk by Gladys Browning Haugseth on "The Art of the American Indian" at a 12:30 o'clock luncheon-meeting Saturday at the Harding restaurant in the Fair store. Mrs. Haugseth will illustrate her program with water colors and reproductions of Indian symbols. Presiding will be Miss Christine Bednar.

Pi Sigma Phi, liberal arts sorority of De Paul university, will entertain freshmen and other students of the college at a tea at 2 o'clock today in the Graemere hotel.

Pi Alpha chapter members of Phi Beta music fraternity plan to attend the "Rigoletto" performance Friday night at the Civic Opera house, preliminary to which the group will have a dinner at the Bismarck hotel. Mrs. David Donley is in charge.

Mrs. Robert G. Peterson is opening her home at 3202 N. Sheridan rd. Tuesday to Alpha Omicron Pi alumnae for a buffet supper. Mrs. Vivian Fridell Solomon, radio actress, will give a program.

Old Pueblo Is Again Locale for a Movie

TUCSON, ARIZ.

Sunshine on location is money in the bank, reports Art Black, Hollywood movie director now making another picture in the environs of the Old Pueblo.

The "shooting" titles of movies are not always the permanent titles, so next year when you go to see "Along Came Jones" you may not know it is the story being filmed near Tucson this month. The last two big pictures made here, however, were released with the shooting title on the marquees; it may be the same with this Jones item.

Earle B. Jones, secretary of the Southern Arizona Dude Ranchers' association, again is recruiting guest extras this year. His many boosters insist the film is named after him. He modestly demurs.

Director Black is shooting scenes in Texas canyon, midway between Benson and Dragoon, this week. Later the location may be moved nearer to Tucson. The film is to be a rugged western, its stars, Gary Cooper and Loretta Young, will arrive shortly to appear in several of the scenes. Local cattle and guest ranches will be used in several of the scenes, and proprietors and wranglers are scrubbing up equipment pending the arrival of Gary and Loretta.

Not content with flying a great American flag from its high domed tower, palatial El Conquistador also has demonstrated its patriotism by surrendering able Manager Charlie Doherty to the navy. Charlie is a junior grade lieutenant and is now stationed on the coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tabin of Evanston are spending an early vacation at the El Conquistador. Arthur W. Cappin of Lake Shore dr. is also at the resort hotel, enjoying daily horseback rides.

Flying V in Sabino canyon, recently opened for the season. Its first guests have arrived, among them several Chicagoans, Dr. Victor Johnson of the University of Chicago school of medicine and his wife, Dr. Adelaide Johnson, Miss Elizabeth A. Miehlke, and Miss Phoebe Nelson. Unadulterated western ranch life, heightened by the diversions made possible by the ranch's proximity to Tucson, makes the Flying V, an ever popular vacation spot. Host Lynn Gillham, a picturesque and friendly westerner, operates both the Flying V, and a summer ranch in New Mexico.

Rancho Robles in Oracle, an hour's run north of Tucson in Pinal county, also recently opened for the season. Chicagoans there include Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mangin and their son, Frank Jr. Not far from Oracle are the famous Mammoth and Tiger mines, where molybdenum currently is being extracted for the nation's war machine. Horseback trips to the mines present interesting excursion possibilities for the ranch guests.

A new feature at the Arizona inn this winter will be buffet luncheons served at tables set up around the swimming pool. Guests will be able to take morning dips, soak up the sun, and eat their midday meal in swimming suits. The water in the inn pool is thermostatically kept at a proper temperature, in the neighborhood of 75 or 80 degrees in the winter time. Regular Saturday night dances at the inn bar, on the imported tile floor, are a feature of the Arizona inn social schedule. Among early winter reservations at the inn are those of Mrs. Waite Talcott of Rockford and Mrs. John Barnes of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Greenleaf of Hinsdale have just left the Hacienda del Sol after a fortnight's vacation, representing the high point in their reunion after Mr. Greenleaf's return from Lisbon, where he was stationed for over a year in the service of the state department. Following their visit at the Hacienda, Mr. and Mrs. Greenleaf made a brief trip to Phoenix, stopping at the Westward Ho in the capital city.

At the Pioneer in downtown Tucson are Meyer Welil of Oak Park, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Marks of Chicago, Mrs. Edward Sorgatz of Oak Park, and her daughter, Miss Mildred Sorgatz. Plans are being made by the Pioneer's social director, Mrs. Lucius Edgar Wyatt Jr., for a gala round of activity for winter guests. Friday night barn dances, Mexican folk dances given by school children in Mexican dress, regular movies, and other entertainment will make up Mrs. Wyatt's calendar.

The Kenyon Ranch at Tubac has opened, with its November guest list including Raymond Koons, the James H. Paces with their niece, Miss Mildred Steelhammer, Surplus War Property Administrator William L. Clayton, and Mr. and Mrs. S. M. McAshan Jr.

Resting after a summer of hard work as ranch hand, and with the domestic problem well in hand, Mrs. Baxter McLean reports the season at Silver Bell ranch has opened auspiciously. Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. McLean, formerly of Evanston, are scheduled to visit the ranch this week. Mr. McLean is the brother-in-law of Silver Bell's efficient hostess, who bears the brunt of managerial activity at the ranch this year as her husband is in the army, stationed at a near-by base, and gets home only for weekends.

LIVING IN WEST

Mrs. Daniel I. Gibbs Jr., the former Rita Marie Dunnigan, is at home in Rio Del Mar, Cal., where Lt. (j.g.) Gibbs is stationed with the navy air corps. Their wedding took place recently in St. Edmund's church. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Dunnigan of Oak Park, and Lt. Gibbs is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs of Holyoke, Colo.

Church Women to Hold 2 Day Conclave Here

Delegates from nine middle western states will assemble here Tuesday for a quadrennial meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service. Nineteen conference societies in the north central jurisdiction of the Methodist church, having an approximate total membership of 400,000 women, will be represented.

Mrs. A. O. Aldrich.

The two-day meeting will be centered at the La Salle hotel, where all conferences will be held with the exception of the Tuesday evening assembly. That night Mrs. J. D. Bragg of St. Louis, Mo., president of the women's division of Christian service, is to speak and, with large numbers of visitors from this and nearby cities expected, the meeting will be taken to Chicago temple, Washington and Clark sts.

Each of the 19 conferences is permitted six delegates. Heading this area's Rock River delegation will be Mrs. A. O. Aldrich of Oak Park.

Two other women in addition to Mrs. Bragg who are known to Methodist church women thruout the country are to attend and take part in the proceedings. They are Mrs. W. H. C. Goode of Sidney, O., and Mrs. Thomas Nicholson of Mount Vernon, Ia., who, respectively, served for many years as presidents of the Woman's Home Missionary and the Woman's Foreign Missionary societies of the church.

Presiding will be Mrs. C. D. Laylin of Columbus, O., who will convene the meeting at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. Officers will be elected to serve for four years. Mrs. W. F. Tomlinson of Edgerton, Wis., will present, as chairman, the nominating committee's report.

One of the Wednesday speakers will be Bishop J. Ralph Magee of the Chicago area, director of the church's "Crusade for Christ." Bishop Schuyler E. Garth of the Wisconsin area will address the women at their closing session. Dr. Charles Goff, minister at Chicago temple, will conduct religious devotions at the temple meeting.

Among the women having important parts on the program either as speakers or presiding officers will be Mrs. David Shipley, Iowa City, Ia.; Mrs. O. D. Cannon, Milwaukee, Wis.; Mrs. C. M. Waggoner, Cleveland, O.; Mrs. Charles E. Wegner, St. Paul, Minn.; Mrs. W. M. Hubbard, Iowa; Mrs. S. W. Pinkerton, Minnesota, and Mrs. Erskin M. Jeffords. Mrs. Aldrich is a member of the arrangements committee.

Local Grandmothers Club Hc'd's Annual Fete Today

When the Gi[illegible]mothers club of Chicago gives its annual card party, bazar, and tea at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in the North ballroom of the Stevens hotel, Thanksgiving turkeys are to be among the many awards that will be distributed to lucky guests. Reservations may be made thru the club president, Mrs. Rose Dyvig, the social chairman; Mrs. Elizabeth Gillis, or Mrs. Mae Dopheide.

Youth Realizes a Diploma Is Key to Success

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Recently I devoted a column to the praise of those young persons who, after holding jobs and experiencing the thrill of hearing for the first time their own money jingling in their pockets, returned to high schools all over the country this year to continue their education and to obtain that important evidence of it—their diploma.

If you're a parent or are interested generally in youngsters, you might like some actual notes on what jobs our teen-age boys and girls filled and what they were paid. Before me is such a report made a year ago [when there was even more man power available than this last summer].

Ambitious youngsters from 14 to 18 relieved man power shortages in the city of New York in figures that ran into thousands. For example, nearly 50,000 part time and full time working papers were issued by the New York city department of education.

Statistics indicated that a great number of the 14 and 15 year olds worked chiefly as messengers, clerks, and delivery boys in small retail stores. A similar number worked as pinboys [bowling alleys], as beach club attendants, bell hops, and ushers. The wages for this group were in the neighborhood of $15 per week. And older children worked in more diverse fields and commanded higher wages. Among the most highly paid were those in the fur industry. Their minimum weekly wage was $25, but the average was between $30 and $40 with time and a half for overtime.

The large department stores took on many 16 and 17 year olds who averaged between $16 and $20 per week.

The postoffice employed about 200 boys and girls under 18. They worked irregularly on an hourly basis.

Also for the first time last summer between 300 and 400 17 year olds were patroling as life guards at the recreation and resort beaches and pools. The report goes on to further listing, but the above will give you some idea of the work young persons did, not mentioning specific war work, which was more highly paid.

I should add that this report did not include mention of those who worked on farms, largely from patriotic motives, nor in factories or industrial plants. The latter, of course, received higher wages than those in miscellaneous jobs or farm work.

In evaluating the [to them] unusual adventure of working for "good" or even high wages, which our children have experienced since we entered the war, we who are adults can see both good and bad results. Among the undesirable consequences were those of running wild in spending and running wild in hours and independence, in those cases where the parents either did not have [or did not choose to exercise] guidance or control.

Among the good results were the discipline and industry which are necessary to keep hours and do a job thoroly; the realization that they were doing a job which their country needed done, giving them a real sense of usefulness, and an actual gain in experience and independence.

In view of this summary it is really gratifying then, to learn from the actual figures and news reports, that a tremendous number of these teen-age boys and girls [many of whom were a bit intoxicated by their adult status of job-holding, but also many of whom kept their balance] heeded the call back to school, were able to stand side by side with their parents and teachers, and look into the future with vision.

Patricia Lange Is Bride of Pvt. Donald H. Burns

In a ceremony Oct. 7 in the Federated church, Corvallis, Ore., Miss Patricia Lange, daughter of Mrs. Gladys Wolcy Lange of Evanston, became the bride of Pvt. Donald Hugh Burns of the marine corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Burns of Chicago. The bride is a graduate of Culver-Stockton college. They are at home in Corvallis, where Pvt. Burns is attending the marine corps school of navigation.

Thru the Looking Glass

If you'd have a lovely complexion for all your tomorrows, look to its care today. And that's particularly true if you've passed the middle 20s. It's all right for young women to be a little casual about creaming and oiling the skin, but, once past the state where natural oils are abundant, it's up to the individual to take steps to preserve skin texture and beauty.

As the natural oils diminish, the skin is subject to all sorts of beauty hazards induced by dryness, and now, with the further aggravation of harsh weather, its tendency to flaking, coarsening, and developing lines or wrinkles is heightened. However, treated regularly with a rich cream, all these menaces to complexion loveliness can be combated effectively.

The cream chosen to do the lubricating job needs to be lavish with soothing, smoothing oils especially selected for their beneficent action. Such a cream is one that has been keeping women's skins lovely for years and whose following increases steadily. It's heavy and full and satisfyingly gooey. You can practically feel the skin relax and soften as it is applied, with the tense look that excessive dryness produces giving way to a pliant smoothness.

To get full benefit from the cream, it should be applied before retiring and spread rather generously over the face and neck, massaging it in a little, particularly around the eyes and over the throat. Some of the cream will disappear instantly, and the film that remains should be left on overnight to fulfill its mission of restoring the complexion to beauty. You'll be pleasantly surprised when you awaken in the morning to see how refreshed and satiny the skin looks.

If you are impressed by fancy wrappings and super-elegant fragrances in your creams, this isn't one you'll be interested in. It's simply packaged, and while it has a pleasant, faint fragrance, and a nice yellow-ivory tint, there is no pretense about it. It's a workmanlike product, compounded of fine quality ingredients, and not prohibitively priced.

If you decide to invest in the cream, use it every day and you'll go thru the winter with a comfortable, pretty skin that is nicely guarded against the toll of time and the elements.

Jewish Junior Group to Mark Its 25th Year

In commemoration of the silver anniversary of the National Council of Jewish Juniors, its many member groups thruout the country have arranged special programs for next Friday, Saturday, and Sunday. The Chicago Junior council, of which Miss Joy Hope Blossteen is president, will open its anniversary week-end with an observance of "Council Sabbath" at an 8 o'clock service Friday night in Temple Mizpah, 1615 W. Morse av., under the direction of Rabbi Jacob Singer. Miss Claire Louise Kohn will be chairman for the evening.

An all-day party for service men is scheduled for Saturday in the U. S. O. club at 203 N. Wabash av. Miss Ann Klass will be in charge of party arrangements, and hostesses will include those who joined the organization during a recent membership campaign, and their sponsors.

The celebration will be culminated with a program and social hour at 2:30 p. m. Sunday in the home of Ruth Kahn, 707 Junior terrace, which will be highlighted by presentation of a pageant titled, "A Cavalcade of Junior Council."

The group's mother organization, Chicago section of the National Council of Jewish Women, will meet at headquarters tomorrow afternoon to hear Mrs. Billie Hyman's interpretation of Howard Fast's book, "Freedom Road."

Marking the beginning of her 11th year as leader of the council's contemporary Jewish affairs group, Mrs. Felix Levy will discuss "The Plight of the European Jew in a Post-War World" at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday at the group's weekly lecture forum. Mrs. Levy also will review two books: Waldo Frank's "The Jew Looks at the World" and Maurice Samuel's "Harvest in the Desert." Mrs. Albert Specter will be the afternoon chairman.

Pvt. Carol Peterson Wed to Sgt. Raymond T. Davis

In the army post chapel in Fort Jackson, S. C., Nov. 1, Pvt. Carol L. Peterson of the WAC became the bride of Sgt. Raymond T. Davis of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Davis of Southport av. Capt. W. W. Jones, an army chaplain, performed the double ring ceremony.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Four Chicagoland WACs now on duty in Italy are among several hundred army women who moved into that country from North Africa and set about converting four large two story buildings into livable quarters and recreation rooms.

Sgt. Pearl Freund, 4222 N. Ashland av., and Corp. Nettie Kraft, 7648 Cornell av., both of Chicago; Pvt. Harriette Ryan, French Lick, Ind., and Corp. Hope Brokaw, Butler, Wis., were among the women on communications and administrative duties who had to set up housekeeping in Italy with virtually nothing to work with except ingenuity, a dispatch from allied headquarters reports.

Dividing themselves into units, the women worked during evening hours to improve each section. After kitchens were set up and mess arrangements handled adequately the WACs turned to the upper floors, which were arranged for dormitory style sleeping. In that area everything had to be 'G. I., with order, barracks bags, and foot lockers meeting army rules of uniformity.

Souvenirs of the WACs' travels had to be kept out of sight. The straw hat from Capri, the leather portfolio from Algiers, the silver candlesticks from Sorrento, the carved marble from Pompeii, the woven baskets from Naples, and the pictures from Rome were packed away.

It was in the dayrooms that the WACs expressed their homemaker's talents. Castoff lumber, salvaged balloon cloth, and paint turned a former hospital ward into a living room or lounge. Every unit had at least one artificer who could take care of minor repairs and who knew the proper handling of tools.

WACs painted interesting murals on the walls. Canvas salvaged from camouflage materials went to cover chairs and lounges. Burlap, dyed and fringed, went into draperies. Writing desks were made from ordinary packing cases.

One company has indirect lighting in its dayroom. This was achieved by covering wall lights with screening and then applying thick coats of colored paint to the screen.

Because pingpong is a favorite recreation of WACs both in the United States and overseas, the Italian contingent saw to it that each section's dayroom had facilities for the game.

It is in the dayrooms that WACs entertain. Occasional parties and dances are held. Refreshments are made with available rationed foods plus ingenious dashes of mustard and paprika. C rations furnish the sandwich makings.

A recent housewarming was planned and organized by the women of each company. Every WAC was allowed to bring one guest, and an army dance band volunteered for the three hour party. All members of the WAC unit, with the exception of those then on night duty [shifts are rotated so that night workers get day time hours periodically], were present. Section chiefs and army and WAC officers working with the group dropped in.

[This department reports on women's war activities and answers questions regarding such activities.]

Ruth Westerberg to Wed Sgt. R. H. Gale

Mrs. Andrew Westerberg of Evanston announces the engagement of her daughter, Ruth, to Sgt. Robert H. Gale of the army, son of Mrs. Burton P. Gale, also of Evanston. Miss Westerberg attended the Sherwood Music school, and Sgt. Gale studied at the University of Wisconsin and at Northwestern university. He has returned to his post in the Aleutians, following a furlough.

Electric Association Women to Meet Tuesday

A consideration of ideas as to "What to Do with Germany" will be discussed by Alvin J. Steinkopf, news analyist, when he speaks before the Women's division of the Electric association at a 6 o'clock dinner gathering Tuesday in the association dining room, 20 N. Wacker dr. Mr. Steinkopf formerly was a war correspondent in northern and central Europe, the Balkans, Norway, and Russia.

VITAL COLOR invigorates a suit wardrobe

More and more, your wardrobe becomes a collection of efficient, fashion-conscious suits. And to stimulate winter's dark days and winter's dark coats, the North Room builds one of their traditionally superb suit collections around a color story. Vibrant, uninhibited shades of azalea, chartreuse, black tulip and dahlia. So beautifully keyed to this season's belief in an extrovert flash of costume dramatics—so significantly aware of the prime importance spring will give to color.

D. A. R. Board Appoints New State Officers

Illness of the treasurer, Mrs. O. B. Pacé, has necessitated several changes in office in the state organization of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and last week Mrs. J. Deforest Richards, Illinois regent, announced the board's appointments. Mrs. Albert E. Woodruff will take Mrs. Pacés place and Mrs. Robert R. Beak, former national defense chairman of the 4th division, will succeed Mrs. Woodruff as division director. Mrs. Beck's defense committee will be placed under the chairmanship of Mrs. Len Young Smith. D. A. R. chapters of the Chicago area comprise the 4th division.

Mrs. Albert E. Woodruff. [Toloff Photo.]

Chicago chapter, with Mrs. Herbert J. Maass presiding, will meet at 8 o'clock Thursday night in the Stevens hotel. Dr. Preston Bradley, minister at the People's church, will address the group. "What Are We Thinking?" will be his theme. Tentatively scheduled is a program by the young Chicago violinist, Reynold Leiva. Leiva is 18 years old and is soon to be inducted into the service; his appearance is contingent upon the time of his call to active duty.

Education week sets the theme for Kaskaskia chapter's luncheon meeting at noon Tuesday in the Chicago Woman's clubrooms in the Fine Arts building. The Americanism committee will present Arthur F. Crabtree in a talk entitled, "Education for Citizenship." On hostess duty will be Mrs. Edward Knight, Mrs. Allen M. Clement, Mrs. Robert W. Clyne, Mrs. Fay Cooper Cole, Mrs. John H. Coulter, and Mrs. John D. De Feo.

Mrs. Edward A. Walter of Midlothian will give a book talk for Aaron Miner chapter, which meets at 2 o'clock Wednesday in the Central Eleanor club. Her program will be on Elizabeth Goudge's prize winning novel, "Green Dolphin Street." Mrs. Walter is active with the Friends of American Writers and she at one time was president of the Brainerd Woman's club here.

First Kindergarten.

The first American city to make the kindergarten an integral part of the public school system was St. Louis in 1872.

Infants' Aid to Mark 30th Year Next Wednesday

From a group of nine women to an organization of 600 is the record chalked up by the Infants' Aid during its 30 years of service to babies of the underprivileged. When members of the aid gather Wednesday night at the Standard club to celebrate the organization's anniversary, they will recall the work of the original group in making layettes and providing milk for its infant charges. They also will review the growth of the Aid, its creation and maintenance of a premature infant station at Michael Reese hospital; its distribution of baby garments to Cook County hospital; the Jewish children's bureau, and the United Charities, and other agencies, and special work at Mt. Sinai hospital for the past 25 years. Included on the evening's program, which was arranged by Mrs. I. S. Stein, will be a book review by Florence Bourke Ellis, Mrs. John Karp will preside.

At a meetng of the Junior auxiliary of the Douglas Park Day and Night Nursery, at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday night in the Standard club, Will O'Neill, Chicago newspaper reporter, will be the guest speaker. "Rehabilitation and Post War Planning for Veterans" will be his subject.

The Daughters of Jacob Nursery will have their annual linen shower tomorrow in connection with their monthly meeting in the home at 6401 S. Peoria st.

Designs for Needlework

By Ellen Bruce.

A new and fashionable bib is what the youngest member of the family is wearing these days. Crocheted of fine, white mercerized cotton, it is edged with pale pink or blue crocheted shell stitches. The band at the waist is tied at the back.

The smart new cheechia hat is crocheted in an attractive puff stitch which is simple to do. A velvet band is run thru the high crown and tied with a bow at the front.

For instructions in crocheting the infant's bib, No. 917, and the cheechia hat, No. 1257, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, FOR EACH PATTERN, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

Turkey Run in Indiana Ideal Spot for Rest

By Mildred Peterson.

MARSHALL, Ind. [Special].—One of the most popular of Indiana's state parks is Turkey Run, near here, where you may enjoy an out-of-doors vacation in some 1,500 acres of scenic beauty.

Conceived as a perpetual memorial to Indiana's first centennial of statehood, this year 'round park retains the natural scenic charm and beauty that led to its selection by Hoosiers as their first state park. One of the largest tracts of virgin timber remaining in the state is a part of its attraction.

Turkey Run is only a few hours from Chicago by car or train, and here can be found deep canyons and gorges, the work of nature in a pre-historic age. Hiking trails, winding thru rock walled canyons and virgin timber, are a constant invitation to the visitor.

You will enjoy following Sugar creek as it threads its way thru the park. An interesting suspension bridge carries you over the creek. Near-by are an old covered bridge and, hewn in the rock, the race and foundation for the grist mill operated here for many years by Salmon Lusk, whose appreciation of nature kept Turkey Run intact for our present day enjoyment.

In addition to the hiking trails, there are miles of bridle paths leading to points of scenic and historic interest. Many other forms of recreation are available, including tennis, horseshoe pitching, archery, and baseball. If rest and quiet relaxation is your goal, then enjoy a book from one of the shaded benches overlooking Sugar creek. The attractively furnished lobby and gameroom of the inn are popular places with the guests in the evenings.

The park and inn are located two miles east of United States highway 41 on state road 47. Guests from Chicago or northern Illinois who are driving should take No. 41 south to No. 47; if coming by bus get off at Turkey Run Junction or by train, at Clinton. The inn station wagon will meet you at these points if notified of the time of your arrival.

A few miles east of here, near Waveland in Montgomery county, is the Shades, a scenic park of hundreds of acres, with hotel and cottage accommodations. This can be reached by the railroad to Crawfordsville, where guests will be met.

First Coins.

The first coins minted in the United States were cent and half-cent pieces, which appeared in 1793.

ANGEL'S LANDING IN UTAH

This curious and brightly colored formation in Zion National park in southern Utah is known as Angel's Landing.

Washington Boasts 48 State Parks, 2 National

COLUMBIA, Wash. [Special].—The state of Washington, known for its scenic grandeur, embraces two major national parks, nine national forests, and 48 state parks comprising a total area of approximately 28,000 acres. A comprehensive view of western America wonderlands is no better seen than in Washington, the well named "Evergreen state."

Resorts Open for Hunting Season in Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, Pa. [Special].—Many Pennsylvania resort hotels are remaining open later this year than is customary to accommodate those who could not get away earlier in the year or who could not be cared for because of the record breaking influx of visitors last summer. Some lodges closed for a short time after the summer season are being reopened and readied for the hunting season. The small game season opened Nov. 1 and lasts for the entire month with all varieties of game reported plentiful.

Many vacationists plan long ahead to be in the mountains of Pennsylvania to hunt deer in December while for others the appeal of golf, tennis or horseback riding thru winding paths is the perfect plan for a late vacation.

Travel Officials to Meet Here This Week

The National Association of Travel Officials will hold a conference in Chicago next Wednesday and Thursday at the Hotel Sherman. Bert Vanderwarf, manager of the travel bureau of the Chicago Motor club; Valerie Kuhn, manager of the Redwood Empire association, San Francisco, Cal.; Harold Keller, department of commerce, Albany, N. Y., and other authorities on travel and vacation trends in this country will address the sessions of the conference.

Wesley Hospital Auxiliary to Hold Its Annual Bazar

Climaxing weeks of preparation, the Wesley Hospital Woman's auxiliary will hold its annual pre-Christmas bazar Thursday and Friday at Hampshire house, Wesley's new residence for nurses at 201 E. Delaware pl. Doors to the sale will be open from 10 o'clock each morning until 10 o'clock at night, and the program will include a book review at 2 o'clock each day by Mrs. Minnie Moreland Dow. Proceeds all will go for equipment and maintenance of the dietetic laboratory and library at the new nurses' home.

Handmade articles, home cooked and canned foods, baby clothes, and dolls are a few of the countless items to be displayed in the booths of "Wesley Gift Aisle," arranged under the general direction of Mrs. Charles Randolph of La Grange. Mrs. Edgar Blake Jr. will be in charge of the tea table and Mrs. Randolph will be assisted by the auxiliary president, Mrs. C. A. Bloomquist; the program chairman, Mrs. Earl Barger, and the district chairman, Mrs. Arthur U. Gerber, Mrs. Howard L. Boyland, Mrs. Edward J. Smerz, and Mrs. E. B. Rodgers.

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This Syrup, at Home

No Cooking. No Work. Real Saving.

Here's an old home mixture your mother probably used, but, for real results, it is still one of the most effective and dependable, for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble at all. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This makes a full pint of truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

And you'll say it's really amazing, for quick action. You can feel it take hold promptly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Thus it eases breathing, and lets you sleep.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

4 Beauty Extras

1. DON JUAN STAYS ON when you eat, drink, kiss, if used as directed. No greasy, smeary effect.
2. LIPS LOOK LOVELY without frequent retouching. Try today
3. NOT DRYING OR SMEARY. Imparts appealing "glamour" look. Creamy smooth—easily applied.
4. STYLE SHADES. Try Military Red, rich, glowing, admired by beauty editors. 6 other shades.

De luxe size $1. Refills 60c. Junior size 25c. Tax extra. Matching powder and rouge. Trial sizes at 10c stores.

MULTIPLE RELIEF EASES COLD MISERIES LIKE A DOCTOR'S PRESCRIPTION

Many doctors prescribe a combination of ingredients for relief of cold symptoms. Colds don't show up as a single ailment, but as a complex series of miseries. Grove's Cold Tablets are a combination of eight active medicinal ingredients. Work internally and promptly on all these symptoms: relieve headache, reduce fever, ease body aches, lessen muscular pains, ease nasal stuffiness. Take exactly as directed. Get Grove's Cold Tablets.

Patterns by Clotilde

Corp. William Blass of Fort Wayne, Ind., a soldier with creative talent, won a $50 prize in the recent 1944 American Fashions Competition, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, for the original design of this frock. Because of its originality, combined with practicality, the design was selected by us for adaptation into pattern form.

Corp. Blass' original was designed for royal blue crepe and ice cream pink wool. Following your own interest in colors, you can achieve interesting costume results with this bare-backed, short evening frock and its companion jacket.

The bare back look is managed by a combination of a low neckline in back with a halter arrangement originating in the front bodice. The skirt has moderate flares, and the belt, with a costume flower as accent, is of the dress crepe.

The jacket, with simple lapels, has unusual double pockets and straight sleeves. It's the sort of topper which may leave the frock on a hanger in the closet now and then and go out socially with other dresses.

Style No. 2572 is designed for sizes 10 to 20. Size 16 requires 2⅝ yards of 39 inch fabric for dress, 1⅛ yards of 54 inch material for jacket.

The winter edition of The Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions now is on sale at the Public Service office, 1 S. Dearborn st. and Tribune Tower lobby, for 15 cents. The cost is only 10 cents if the book is ordered with a pattern from the address in coupon.

The lithe, lovely junior miss looks utterly devastating in the new long haired fur coats. Their style is youthful perfection, and the variety of furs and treatment of same is wonderful to see. Wolf, fox, civet cat, and blond raccoon are but a few of the durable warm coats which are available at moderate prices.

A revelation in fur treatment is this luscious blond raccoon which has changed from the one time prosaic 'coon skin to a glamor fur to be worn for the most dress-up occasions. This 38 inch coat has simple lines, deep slit pockets, and a wide set-on cuff, and it is priced low enough to leave only a mild dent in the budget.

Another moderately priced and thoroly handsome model is a beautifully marked civet cat "casual" coat. It is anything but casual with its smart lines, tuxedo collar, deep cuffs, and slightly flared back. The 36 inch length makes it ideal for day time or dress wear.

Gefullte Schnecken.

One up on the popular gefüllte fisch, isn't it? I found the recipe, among many others, in a famous old cook book.

There were snails cooked and baked—schnecken pastetchen [snail patties] done in pastry shells, or served in the old Greek fashion on fresh fig leaves; snails in garlic butter, with anchovies, capers, and cream; even a snail salad from old Vienna.

Looking from the fascinating volume of exotic foods for European gourmets and gourmands of the last century to the autumn sereness of my little garden, I decided it would be futile to try to catch even one small snail to say nothing of 20 plump Weinbergs. But, if you want that "something different" for your bridge club. I'll be glad to translate the directions for you—with the aid of a Fremdwörterbuch.

Have you had your qahwah this morning? Seems that's what the Arabs call our American breakfast beverage. Joe Pete looks hopefully at the tannish brew flowing from the pot [could I have forgotten that "one for the pot"?] and remarks, to no one in particular, "The Germans introduced coffee into Europe four centuries ago; and some people can't make it right yet."

I never fight or argue before 10.

Lost Heritage.

A mist hangs over the valley,
The trees are veiled in gray,
A glow on the upland meadow
Heralds the coming day.
The low lands lie in the brooding gloom
And the farmer stirs in his cool bedroom.

This is the farm my grandsire owned,
This quarter section of fine farm land.
The papers, "To whom it may concern,"
Were signed by Andrew Jackson's hand.
He built his house on that breezy hill;
The trees he planted are standing still.

My father was born in the house he built,
And so were my sisters and so was I.
My sons knew not that house nor hill,
Nor the stream that flowed hard by.
Their rendezvous was a city street,
Their birthright, for a policeman's beat.

A mist hangs over the valley,
The trees are veiled in gray;
And far away in a strange new land
My children greet the day.
On the far horizon hangs the moon
And the farmer stirs in his cool bedroom.

Autumn Rain.

It had rained all day, the sky a steely gray save just at sunrise, when a golden glow for an almost imperceptible moment flooded the entire universe. But cloud reinforcements had rushed toward the east and the world was wrapped in deep gray mist and pouring rain.

Sometimes it came gently, accompanied by a little wind which moved the fallen leaves as if arranging them more carefully over the flower beds. Again it fell in great gusts as tho tubfuls were being tossed from a high cliff by some giant hand. It poured down the driveway, the fury of its onslaught carrying the loose gravel before it till it rolled over the garage floor.

From indoors one could hear water bubbling and whispering down the lead pipes as, black with coal dust from the roof, it scurried away to mingle with the mud and oil from streets and alleys.

A few leaves still clung apologetically to the apple tree and high on the top branch a single red apple clung stubbornly.

Between showers two squirrels appeared, gliding smoothly about searching for some tidbit, their fur coats as clean and dry as Gen. Putnam's powder; and a flock of fat, brown sparrows settled on the bare lilac that scraped the window pane, asking why they had not been fed.

Dover Road.

The sunset primrose yellow
Touched each roof and dome and spire;
The feeding sheep on the hillside
Looked up with eyes of fire.

And high o'er the gold-shot landscape
Where the sun's last rays still played
On its shining wings, came an airplane;
And no one was afraid.

For in every village and hamlet
Within sound of the sea's dull roar,
In hearts and homes is a quiet joy;
The robots come no more.

The bidding:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 club | Pass | 1 spade | Pass |
| 4 spades | Pass | 5 hearts | Pass |
| 6 clubs | Pass | 6 spades | Pass |

In slam bidding, the player must keep his eye fixed on a number of considerations. First, and foremost, obviously, is the ability of the partnership to take 12 tricks. Secondly, a satisfactory trump suit must be found, or, if none is available, then it must be determined whether the hand can play at no trump. Frequently there is a choice of contracts open to the partnership. The choice may lie between two suits or between a suit and no trump. Keen perception is frequently required in selecting the proper vehicle, because there are many instances in which a slam can be made in one suit but not in another. It is just as true that a slam can be made by one player but not by the other [nothing personal intended].

Today's hand is one in point. The North player was aware of the probability that the partnership could take 12 tricks but he lost sight of another consideration, that is, who should play this hand. North's response of one spade requires no comment. South's rebid to four spades was eminently correct.

Notice that he did not risk bidding only three spades for fear that North's hand might have been so weak that he would not carry on. If, for example, North had elected to take a sporting chance and keep the bidding open with either of the following hands:

[A]
♠ A 10 7 2
♥ J 10 4 3
♣ 8 3 2

[B]
♠ J 10 9 4 2
♥ 6 5 3
♦ Q J 7 2

he would surely not have bid again over his partner's jump to three spades, because his original takeout would then have been shaded.

When South jumped to four spades, North realized that the hand had tremendous possibilities, because his partner has said, "I expect you to have only one trick and I am guaranteeing that our partnership can take 10."

Inasmuch as North has an extra ace, the hand will surely be safe for 11 tricks; he therefore showed this ace by bidding five hearts, inviting a slam. South now realized that the only tricks that could possibly be lost were two diamonds, if North played the hand.

If he, himself, played it, however, the king of diamonds could not be led thru and he would therefore, have an opportunity to discard one diamond on the North's good spade, provided that North had a five card suit, which was very probable. He therefore, elected to bid six clubs

North, unfortunately did not stop to ask, "Why has partner suddenly decided to play this hand at clubs when we have so violently agreed upon spades?"

The answer should have been plain. "He is anxious to play the hand himself because he wants the lead to come to him. If I bid six spades, we might lose two diamond tricks. I had better let him play it at clubs."

Against the spade contract the normal lead of the jack of diamonds immediately scuttled the ship. Against the six club contract, there was nothing the opponents could do to defeat the hand.

Frothy White Dance Gowns Pure Romance

By Rea Seeger.

Dream dance dresses for the debs are super-siren affairs this year. Bouffant creations that just touch the floor or billow around the ankles come with soul satisfying width of skirt [made of various sheers not taboo by the legal rulings on yardage], a handspan waist line, and short puffed sleeves, plus the glamorous attraction of a sweetheart decolletage. They're everything that makes the ideal dance dress, the froth and foam of romance, whether of pastels, vivid colors, or ethereal all-whites.

Since the all-white gowns lead the preference lists of the men, either in or out of uniform, this winter's new collections feature snow white in profusion. Using tulle, net, stiffened sheers, and lace, with swishing white taffeta underslips or petticoats, combined with curls of white ostrich feathers, thousands of winking white paillettes or shimmering rhinestones, lace or net ruching, white flowers, velvet ribbons, ermine tails, white ermine bands, and all the other typically romantic details, the dance dress designers have scaled new heights.

Lace and silver thread embroidery is featured again and again. Sometimes it is used only in bodices, sometimes very lavishly in the skirts, and in other models it fashions the form revealing, fitted basque bodice tops and the brief sleeves. Silver ribbon is looped or garlanded around skirts or bodices, or worn little girl fashion as a sash that ties at the back.

Coquettish black velvet ribbon bows are another charmer; so are the pastel trim of bows and sashes. But the revival of all-white cabbage size roses is one of the most romantic new details. Roses of this size are strewn over the width of the skirt, tucked in under a soft fold of the sheer, pinned at the bodice vee, or attached to each sleeve.

While the extremely wide skirted dance gowns have top listing, there are plenty of slinky all-whites to satisfy the femme fatale crowd, too. Jersey, liquid in draped effect, crepes of comparable fluidity with a dull mat texture, both are used for such gowns.

Deceptively slim in silhouette, these dresses assure a surprising width because of the clever draping and shirring. Many of the slinky dresses are trimmed effectively with festive embroidery in either silver or gold thread, or sprinkled with the star dust dazzle of sequins, paillettes, or delicate bead work in all-white or pale pastels.

Designed for more sophisticated dancers are the exquisitely beautiful dinner suits of all-white, obliging twosomes of dress teamed with a suavely fitted jacket. Both pieces go dress parade with details of beading, the glint of silver or gold embroidery, or appliqued bands and scrolls. The dress is slit at the sides or front for graceful dancing, and also is cut with an evening gown decolletage. Many boast this low neckline with flattering, long fitted sleeves.

Sketched are four of the newest all-white dance dresses for the coming holiday season. They are part of a large collection to be found in a Chicago shop. For further information call Superior 0200.

Simple Tricks Make Fish Into Delicious Dish

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Many a famous chef has built his reputation on his genius for cooking fish. Restaurants in New Orleans and other seaport cities can turn the most ordinary fish into something you'll eat with blissful sighs and think about for years afterward!

Chicago has its own fish and seafood restaurants, many of them famous, too. After dining in one of these places it is impossible not to wonder what the poor housewife does to fish to make it so generally unappetizing.

Probably she has too little respect for the fish. She throws the fillets into the frying pan or broils or bakes the fish without thinking very much about culinary tricks which can make ordinary pike or herring delectable. Right now is a good time for homemakers to experiment with fish recipes, for relatively the fish supply is greater than the meat supply.

Fresh water fish most generally available in midwestern markets are blue pike, lake herring, whitefish. Salt water varieties include mackerel, cod, and rosefish [ocean perch] fillets.

Many of the finest fish dishes start with cooking in "court bouillon." Lean fish are preferred for this kind of preparation.. Whiting, cod, and rosefish are lean. Lake herring and blue pike are moderately low in fat and may be prepared this way, too. Whitefish and mackerel are oily, and better baked or broiled.

Fish in Court Bouillon.

Lean fish
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped carrot
½ cup chopped celery
6 sprigs parsley
2 tablespoons fat
2 quarts water
½ cup vinegar, lemon juice or sliced lemon
2 tablespoons salt
4 whole cloves
6 whole black peppers
¼ teaspoon dried thyme or basil
1 bay leaf

Brown vegetables very lightly in fat, add water, and other seasonings and bring to boiling point. Boil for a few minutes; then immerse fish in a basket or tied in a cheesecloth, and simmer until fish flakes. Lift cooked fish from liquid, strain broth, and use in a sauce for fish, or place in a glass jar, cover, and refrigerate for later use.

Fish simmered in court bouillon may be served plain, with lemon juice or tartar sauce, or may be made into any of a number of fine dishes. The court bouillon, by the way, may be seasoned with other vegetables and herbs than the ones suggested. An old French custom is to use wine in the bouillon, white wine, of course. Some French recipes forget about the bouillon and "poach" the fish in wine alone, after which the wine is thickened and seasoned into a sauce to accompany the simmered fish.

An excellent way to serve simmered fish is in a sauce made like a white sauce, with the court bouillon serving as a part of the liquid in the recipe. The fish meat may be flaked and placed in a casserole or individual baking dishes with the sauce, sprinkled with grated cheese, and browned under a broiling unit.

I have some fine recipes for the preparation of fish and sea food which I shall be glad to send to any reader who sends the required stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Peter Pan Recipe Book . . . Free!

For a baker's dozen succulent muffins . . . I recommend this famous PETER PAN recipe!

Cream half a cup of PETER PAN Peanut Butter with 3 tablespoons shortening. 1½ teaspoons of salt and 3 tablespoons of sugar. Combine 1 egg and 1½ cups of milk. Add alternately with 2 cups flour, sifted with 3 teaspoons baking powder. Mix quickly and lightly but do not overbeat. Fill greased muffin tins two-thirds full and bake in hot oven (400° F.) 20 to 25 minutes.

And why not write for a whole PETER PAN recipe book? Send for "Peter Pan Peanut Butter in Your Daily Diet" FREE. Just send name and address to Nancy Sasser, 271 Madison Ave., New York 16, New York.

Tut, tut, lady! Those blushes and that embarrassed stutter aren't necessary at all . . . your explanations about "hard-to-get-help" won't excuse you, either! The plain truth is that when friends embarrass you by discovering stains in toilet bowls in your home, YOU are at fault! You can only blame yourself for carelessness . . . for SANI-FLUSH works chemically to remove stains and discolorations in toilet bowls (caused by the hard water in your community) with no bother of scrubbing or rubbing on your part. All you have to do is use it twice a week as directed on the can . . . and see how quickly and easily SANI-FLUSH rewards with sparklingly clean toilet bowls! SANI-FLUSH removes the invisible and recurring film where toilet germs and a cause of toilet odors lie. Ask for SANI-FLUSH!

"ALL-FAVORITE" BREAD

Getting ready for Thanksgiving and Christmas in wartime days requires a lot of "doing" . . . and it's a lot easier if you can shift some usual household tasks. So why not let RY-KRISP take over your bread worries? It's an all-family-favorite-bread, you know . . . for youngsters love it with a glass of milk, grown-ups like its hearty rye flavor and tempting crispness with meals, or for "snacking." And YOU don't have to do a thing about it except to keep the famous RY-KRISP checker-board package handy on the kitchen shelf! This crisp, unleavened bread that's made from a balanced blend of two types of rye, salt and water, supplies valuable minerals and about ALL the Vitamin B-1 of whole rye. It supplies necessary bulk for regularity, too! Ask your Grocer for RY-KRISP!

Look Alive!

Since "muted" colors are playing so important a role in the winter fashion picture, it's absolutely essential that you bring vibrant "color-light" into your cheeks! With grays, those charming winter gray-greens, with those frosted fruit pastels and the half-shadowed browns it's vitally necessary to have an ALIVE look in your face! So away with face powder shades that leave you pasty-faced . . . come, face your world with those lovely shades YARDLEY offers to "color-light" your face! There's Zinnia, English Peach and Rose Rachel, color blends that bring a look of joyful excitement and tender exhilaration into your face. The same look you have when you hear radiant news,—the same flush you carry when you hear from your love overseas! Ask for YARDLEY'S English Complexion Powder at finer shops everywhere . . . $1 a box!

Readers' Corner

Again I'm going to let you hear what BUY-LINES' readers say about WELCH'S Marmalade . . . testimony of how the Man of the House feels about this new treat made from FRESH oranges!

"My husband, who is a precision machinist at a government arsenal, making powerful guns, fell in love with WELCH'S Orange Marmalade . . . DEMANDS it on at least one sandwich in his lunch each day! For the first time in his life, he has chosen a FAVORITE spread . . . !"

Hope this lady introduces her husband to WELCH'S Grapelade, too . . . for I see him choosing ANOTHER favorite! The smooth, "spreading" texture of WELCH'S Grapelade is delicious . . . pure grape GOODNESS! Ask for these "sweet-treats" made by the makers of WELCH'S Grape Juice.

Mature figures can be lovely in this Fall's popular two-toned fashions . . . but protruding tummies are tabu! So get rid of yours with the P.N. PRACTICAL FRONT CORSET I've recommended to you before. It CAN flatten that bulge! P.N.'s uplifting inner-vest re-shapes and flattens you COMFORTABLY . . . easing surplus flesh gently into chic lines. For gentler stomach support, smoother hips and permanent figure flattery ask for a P.N. PRACTICAL FRONT CORSET at your favorite shop or write Nancy Sasser, 271 Madison Ave., New York 16, N. Y., as to where you can find one. Streamline YOUR silhouette into smarter, trimmer lines with one of these beautifully designed and modern garments for the mature figure. Ask to see a P.N. CORSET.

SAVE PAPER
No. 1 Critical War Material

Paper is used to wrap almost everything going overseas to our fighting men—

- their weapons and ammunition,
- the food they live on,
- precious blood plasma and medicine.

Paper—unbelievable quantities of it—is also required in war production.

It all adds up to this—Uncle Sam wants us to save 1,000,000 tons of paper here at home.

You can help . . . one easy way is to get along with fewer bags and wrappings when you shop. Another is to save paper for your local paper salvage campaign. Remember . . .

for your own Fireside

Warm, brilliant, exciting clothes...that become the hostess who shares the intimate luxury of her own hearth. That make the most of a man-less Sunday soiree. Like the hug of a bright wool top that snuggles into trim trousers. Like colossal wool shawls...witty vests...lounge-able knitted dresses. And the woodsy tang of Faberge's "Woodhue", cheerful as your warm welcome on these cold winter's nights
